Tam High Buses Accord Reached For The Moment

Bridge District Agrees To Deliver Students Until Solution Is Found

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A threatened halt to bus service for about 550 Tamalpais High School District students starting next Thursday has been averted, at least temporarily.

Officials of the Golden Gate Bridge, Marin County Transit and Tamalpais High School districts failed yesterday to resolve their dispute over which one should pay for the service, but the bridge district will provide the same school service as last semester until the issue is settled.

No solution was found, however, on how to bus some 65 students to Tamalpais High School from Bolinas, Stinson Beach and Muir Beach. The high school district paid a private company $23,000 last year to transport these students, but decided it could not afford to renew the contract.

The bridge district's staff added a new surprise to the dispute by doubling its estimate made only Tuesday that the deficit for the bus service this fiscal year will be $70,000. The director of planning and re-

A New Unity Of Colleges, Labor Asked

Ford Wants Practical, Productive Education

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — President Ford, citing China as an example and a challenge, called today for a new partnership of labor and educators to make American schools more practical and industry more productive.

Ford, addressing an applauding crowd at the summer commencement exercises of Ohio State University, spoke in philosophical terms of the proposed alliance and provided few details.

But he suggested that the universities open their doors to working people, not only as students but as teachers, and said: "Practical problem solvers can contribute much to education, whether or not they hold degrees."

He said he has asked the cabinet secretaries of labor and of health, education and welfare to report to him on ways "to bring the world of work and institutions of education closer together."

Ford recalled visiting the People's Republic of China in 1972, and he said that nation's productivity is gaining momentum and China is making significant technological progress.

"The majority of Chinese are young people, highly motivated and extremely well disciplined," he said.

In contrast, the President said, American youths generally are getting too much or too little training for their careers, inflation is creating anxiety, and industrial productivity is slipping.

"As fellow human beings, we celebrate the rising capacities of the Chinese nation, a people with a firm belief in their own destiny," Ford told the 2,540 OSU graduates and a crowd that nearly filled the school's 13,400-seat athletic arena.

"However, as Americans motivated by free competition, we see a distinct challenge. And I believe all Americans welcome that challenge."

At the same time, he said, American education is being strangled by academic degrees. He added:

"I want to see labor open its ranks to the researchers and problem solvers of academia whose research can give better tools and methods to the workman. I want to see a two-way street speeding the traffic of scientific development, speeding the creation of new jobs, speeding the day of selfsufficiency in energy, and speeding an era of increased production for America and the world.

"What good is training if it is not applied to jobs? What good

Fairs Headline Labor Day Fare

The three-day holiday weekend offers many major events for those who do not like to travel far for entertainment.

The Marin County Fair which opened yesterday at the Civic Center continues throughout the weekend from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

It offers the usual displays of vegetables and flowers, plus such other things as a film festival. The carnival rides and other entertainment bid to keep young and old alike entertained.

A few miles to the north, the Renaissance Pleasure Faire, built around an Elizabethan England theme, offers entertainment, refreshment and wares in the Black Point area of Novato from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow, Sunday and Monday.

Scots from Northern California will gather Saturday and Sunday at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Santa Rosa as the 109th annual Scottish Gathering and Games are held starting at 9 a.m. each day.

Those more artistically inclined will be drawn to the 23rd

$2,000 Reward Set For Leads On Slayer

A $2,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the slayer of Lucy Ann Gilbride was offered today through the Independent-Journal's "Secret Witness" program.

In offering the reward, publisher Wishard A. Brown cited success of the program in solving a hit-run death in San Anselmo earlier this year, and expressed hope it will prove equally successful in leading to the slayer of Mrs. Gilbride, wife of Robert J. Gilbride, head counselor at Terra Linda High School.

San Rafael Police Chief Lawrence R. Kelly, endorsing the offer, said: "We're requesting anyone who has information on the slaying to contact either Inspector Bart Stinson of our department or the 'Secret Witness' program."

The body of Mrs. Gilbride, her throat cut and her skull fractured, was found late Tuesday in the family home at 36 Golden Hinde Boulevard.

The "Secret Witness" program makes it possible for anyone having information that may lead to solution of a crime to offer it without identifying himself or herself.

Here is how it works:

The possessor of information writes the information on a sheet of paper, and places the same five-digit number in both lower corners of the sheet. He then tears off and keeps one corner containing the number, and mails the rest of the sheet to Secret Witness, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael 94902.

The information is turned over to police, but the communication itself is held until the crime is solved. If the information provided leads to solution of the crime, that fact is publicized and the person who gave the information may collect the reward by presenting the torn-off bit of paper containing the number to someone designated by mutual agreement with police and/or the Independent-Journal publisher. His identity need never become known.

A $2,000 reward was paid to the "Secret Witness" who provided information that led to the conviction in May of Woodrow Wilson Fitzsimmons of Fairfax in the hit-run traffic death last Nov. 23 of Harmen Evers, San Anselmo bank official.

Another 2,000 reward offer is still outstanding in the murder of Nina Fischer last Nov. 15 in her Point San Pedro home on the edge of San Rafael.

TAKE ME DOWN TO THE FAIR

For those who don't have time to spend tramping around the highways and byways of the Marin County Fair, it's always possible to see the entire show at one time and save hours of walking. Photographer Alfred Arn took a plane ride to capture this panoramic "fair view" yesterday, a kaleidoscope of people, places and activities. (For other fair pictures and stories, see Page 25.)

Firms Set Closings For Labor Day

Banks, post offices, libraries, school offices and most stores in Marin and Southern Sonoma will be closed Monday in observance of Labor Day.

City, county, state and federal offices and facilities in the two counties also will be closed because of the national holiday.

Parking meter regulations will not be enforced in cities in Marin and Southern Sonoma, except in Sausalito where meters will be wanted.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual.

Many public bodies which normally would meet Monday have changed their meeting dates. The new meeting times are:

San Rafael City Council, 8 p.m. Tuesday, city hall.

Fare Hikes Proposed For Sausalito Ferry

A one-third hike in midday and weekend fares aboard the Sausalito ferry was proposed today by the president of the Golden Gate Bridge District.

Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco made the proposal for the $1 fare in the wake of a suggestion of Legislative Analyst Alan A. Post that the fares be increased for all riders except commuters. Post, however, suggested tourists pay up to double the present fare of 75 cents.

Leonoudakis's proposal would retain the 75-cent fare for commuters using books of tickets. His proposal was referred to the finance and auditing committee, which meets on Sept. 13.

Leonoudakis estimated that the increase would bring in an additional $250,000 a year.

A No-Fault Conference Is Favored

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy said today he favored sending the legislature's major no-fault car insurance bill to a two-house conference committee.

The measure by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, was scheduled for an Assembly floor vote today—one day before the legislature was slated to end its two-year session.

"I want to see a no-fault bill this year," McCarthy told newsmen but added he has talked to his Assembly colleagues and detected a "certain fluidity" in their thinking about what should go into the measure.

The San Francisco Democrat said the measure should be rejected by the Assembly and

INFLATION OUTLOOK

Saving Seen As Key For Economy's Ills

By MARY LEYDECKER

(First of two articles)

"We're all going to have to pay the piper."

"I think the American public is willing to help solve the problem if they know what the problem is."

"The American consumer is his own best safety valve."

Although three San Rafael men, all leaders in the financial world, agreed that inflation is the "number one danger facing our country," each expressed strong confidence that America will weather the present economic crisis.

They also were pretty much in agreement about the causes, results and ways to cure the predicament.

The three interviewed by the Independent-Journal are Richard M. Davis, chairman of the San Francisco stock brokerage firm, Davis, Skaggs and Co.; Kenneth V. Larkin, the Bank of America vice president in charge of consumer loans and BankAmericard, and Dale E. Walter, president of Redwood Bank.

Although the picture they painted was a pretty gloomy one, with Americans facing a "different kind of a country," in Davis's words, the financial leaders indicated a solid faith in the American public's ability to cope.

He and the other men agreed that slumping productivity, a floundering stock market, unbalanced governmental budgets and the energy crisis all have played their part in the present crisis.

Davis traced the history of the country's economic predicament, blaming it on a number of factors starting with years of an unbalanced federal budget.

"The ultimate obscenity," he said, was the Vietnam War, "with life as usual at home," and billions spent abroad.

"Too many dollars went abroad; there was too much debt at home, and the pressure built up on the production system" in the United States, Davis continued.

Walter agreed. The Vietnam war taught the lesson, he said, "that we can't have butter and

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

India Seeks A Hold On Sikkim

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is attempting to strengthen her nation's hold on the tiny kingdom of Sikkim, the strategic mountaintop buffer between India and China.

Gandhi

At a cabinet meeting chaired by Mrs. Gandhi yesterday, an amendment to the Indian constitution was drafted granting representation in both houses of the New Delhi parliament to the Sikkimese.

The tiny kingdom of 200,000 persons is crucial to India because it lies on the border with Chinese Tibet and commands strategic passes through the Himalayan Mountains.

Government sources said the draft amendment will be presented to parliament for discussion next Tuesday.

According to government sources, several opposition leaders expressed concern over international reaction to the move. Legal experts argue the amendment would effectively bind Sikkim to India.

Crisis Cooled

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Iceland's new conservative government has cooled a crisis with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but has threatened to touch off a new dispute with Europe's major fishing nations.

Prime Minister Geir Hallgrimson told the nation yesterday Iceland would stay in the NATO military alliance and allow 3,700 U.S. servicemen based in Iceland to remain on the island.

The announcement cooled a dispute that had been touched off when Iceland's former left-wing government threatened to pull out of NATO and close the sprawling U.S. air base at Keflavik.

Hallgrimson, however, also announced that his government intended to extend Iceland's 50-mile fishing limit to 200 miles by next year, raising the possibility of a new dispute with major maritime powers such as Britain.

Tennessee Blast

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — A witness to the mysterious blast that shattered a downtown block of taverns, apartments and businesses says more than 100 persons would have been killed had it happened on a weekend night.

As it was, the early morning blast yesterday killed one man and injured 13 others.

Police have been unable to pinpoint a cause for the blast, which inflicted damage estimated at $10 million, but Police and Fire Commissioner Gene Roberts said "preliminary indications are that it was something other than a bomb."

The explosion shot flames 200 feet in the air and shattered windows three blocks away.

Dangerous Spill

INWOOD, W.Va. (UPI) — A Union Carbide tanker laden with 3,500 gallons of hexanal ran off Interstate 81 and rolled over on its side late yesterday, spilling some of the highly flammable liquid across the highway, State Police said.

"If you dropped a cigarette butt in it, you'd lose half of south Berkeley County," Trooper W. F. Sankbeil said.

The tanker was headed north from Union Carbide's plant in South Charleston when the accident occurred about three miles north of here.

The driver, Kenneth Henson, 45, Chesapeake, Ohio, was admitted to Kings Daughters Hospital in Martinsburg in fair condition with facial and scalp lacerations. A co-driver in the truck did not require hospital treatment.

Space Problem

HOUSTON (UPI) — The director of life sciences at NASA said yesterday that more needs to be known about weightlessness before the United States can think of going ahead with a manned mission to Mars.

Dr. David L. Winters said even the 84 days of data from Skylab 3 is not enough to predict man's response to the 18-month to three-year flight to the red planet.

"In order to commit man to very long flights such as Mars, some intermediate duration flights of at least a year are needed," Winter said.

Viet Offensive

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces attacked government positions in all four of South Vietnam's military regions, apparently beginning an expected nationwide offensive, the Saigon command said today.

North Vietnam's official newspaper said "a new situation" was developing on the battlefield and promised "constant attacks and new victories."

Heavy Viet Cong and North Vietnamese assaults were reported yesterday near Da Nang and Saigon as well as in the Central Highlands and the Mekong Delta, the command said.

Communist gunners fired more than 1,300 artillery, rocket and mortar shells Thursday into government positions guarding Duc Duc, a district capital 25 miles southwest of Da Nang.

Pledge To Arabia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign Minister Umar al-Saqqaf of Saudi Arabia met with President Ford yesterday then was honored at a stag dinner hosted by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger said the current two-day discussions on the Middle East would "lead to a new chapter of relations between all Arab peoples and the Americans.

A White House spokesman said Ford reaffirmed a U.S. commitment during a 40-minute meeting with Saqqaf "to remain actively involved in maintaining momentum toward the achievement of a just and last peace."

Ford invited Saudi Arabian King Faisal to visit the United States.

Kissinger and Saqqaf discussed various technological, economic and social matters during the minister's visit.

Sulphur Blaze

OLRA, Tex. (UPI) — Thirty-eight cars carrying liquid sulphur to New Mexico derailed yesterday causing a "volcano" of fire that spread a half mile long and 100 yards wide.

The cars were part of a 73-car train carrying the sulphur from the Duval Sulphur plant 10 miles southwest of Orla to Carlsbad, N.M. The train derailed eight miles from the plant in a sparsely populated area of West Texas.

Wreckage was strewn along a half mile section of the tracks.

One firefighter was bitten by a rattlesnake, but was not seriously hurt. No one else was injured, though some firemen became ill from the sulphur fumes.

Relations Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and East Germany will establish diplomatic relations next week, a major step in winding down 29 years of cold war signaling further improvement in East-West relations.

State Department sources also said President Ford is expected to name John Sherman Cooper, former Reupblican senator from Kentucky and a veteran diplomat, as the first U.S. ambassador to the communist German Democratic Republic.

Establishment of full and formal relations will come next Wednesday when representatives of both countries will sign an agreement here. Each country now has found a suitable embassy building in the capital of the other.

Storm Hits Korea

SEOUL (UPI) — A sudden tropical storm accompanied by 56-mile-an-hour winds pounded South Korea's southern coast yesterday, causing heavy casualties and property damage, the Central Anti-Disaster Command said.

Adviser To Makarios Is Ambushed

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Vassos Lyssarides, a leftist politician and adviser-physician to exiled President Makarios, was shot and slightly wounded today in Nicosia by gunmen who killed his bodyguard-driver and wounded the driver's American wife and two bystanders.

Lyssarides blamed the shooting on EOKA guerrillas fighting to unite Cyprus with Greece and on the American Central Intelligence Agency.

Twenty-six bullets riddled his blue Japanese-made sedan in downtown Nicosia, killing Doros Loizou, the driver, and wounding the driver's wife, who acted as Lyssarides' secretary.

A police spokesman said Lyssarides dropped to the floor of the car when the gunmen opened up with submachine guns. He was was cut on the head by glass splinters.

Lyssarides told newsmen after he left the hospital where he was treated that Loizou, the dead driver, had studied at Boston University and his wife is an American now living in Cyprus. Lyssarides's own wife is American journalist Barbara Cornwall.

Lyssarides is the head of the Cyprus Social Democratic party and an outspoken opponent of EOKA.

"EOKA is responsible for the attempt on my life," he told newsmen. "Those led by the CIA had something to do with it. The whole conspiracy against Cyprus has been hatched by the CIA, and by this I mean the coup against Makarios and the Turkish invasion that followed."

Lyssarides said four gunmen in a French-built car were waiting for him at an intersection as he was driving to his clinic. He said he thought only one of them fired.

"I heard a burst of automatic gunfire," he said. "The windows were smashed. I felt I had been hit. After the second burst, which apparently killed my friend (the driver) the automobile came to a stop."

Cyprus president Glafkos Clerides visited Lyssarides at Nicosia General Hospital before he was released and Makarios telephoned him from London.

As Lyssarides walked out of the hospital a crowd shouted "Down with the fascists. The (Greek military) junta will pay for this." In Nicosia rumors spread that Turkish forces that invaded the island July 20 were taking up positions for a new thrust.

The assassination attempt marked the second political shooting in Cyprus in less than two weeks.

Gunmen firing into the covered windows of the U.S. Embassy killed Ambassador Rodger B. Davies during an anti-American demonstration Aug. 19.

At the United Nations, the Security Council planned to appeal to Greece and Turkey today for help in easing the plight of tens of thousands of refugees forced from their homes on Cyprus.

Haig Denies Ford-Nixon Staff Rift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig has denied reports of friction between President Ford's top staff and the Nixon administration holdovers in the White House.

"I don't sense any mood to throw the Nixon gang out," Haig said yesterday in an interview with UPI. "I've been somewhat appalled at the ripple of dope stories to the effect that there has been friction and a lack of cooperation during the transition period. It is precisely the opposite."

Haig said there has always been a "cooperative spirit" between Nixon staffers and Ford staffers. He expressed his "highest regard...for the group of men Ford has around him."

There has been talk in Washington that some of Ford's top aides are afraid that Haig's close association with Nixon during the Watergate crisis might damage Ford's image.

Firefighters Battle To Contain Arson-Caused Blaze In Forest

HEMET (UPI) — Anarmy of 2,200 men and 20 planes today fought a $10 million, arson-caused blaze that has consumed 17,500 acres of brush and timber in the San Bernardino National Forest.

The U.S. Forest Service predicted the fire would be contained by 6 p.m. tonight and would be brought under control tomorrow.

Gov. Ronald Reagan offered a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the arsonist who set the blaze, the worst in California so far this year, Tuesday on the Soboba Indian Reservation.

The fire in the San Jacinto Mountains about 75 miles east of Los Angeles drove out more than a thousand campers, vacationers and residents of the mountain hamlet of Pine Cove, which was evacuated but saved by helicopter-borne firefighters who halted the blaze three miles away.

Residents were allowed to return yesterday.

Heavy smoke clouds rolled over the posh desert resort of Palm Springs, 20 miles to the east, earlier during the blaze, and a powdering of light grey ash floated down on homes and the city's many swimming pools.

A wind shift cleared the skies over the resort Thursday but "this is going to be a real boom to swimming pool cleaners," said a resident, Tim Nugent.

The city has thousands of pools, believed to be the greatest concentration per capita in the nation.

Fourteen tanker planes and five helicopters dropped liquid fire retardant on the blaze yesterday.

An experimental helicopter equipped with night-vision devices developed for combat use in Vietnam made 60 bombing runs during the night.

It was one of the first uses of the specially equipped chopper against a forest fire, a Forest service spokesman said, "and it was a real success, it made a real difference holding back the flames during the night."

The fire burned around a 34-mile perimeter, 70 per cent of which had been surrounded with fire lines by this morning.

The Forest Service said the cost would be "close to $10 million," including $3.5 million worth of timber destroyed and $1.5 million in firefighting expenses.

A NEW BICYCLE — Jimmy Connor, 10, of Collinsville, Ill. wanted a new bike with the money he found in a paper bag near his home. But in the end, he decided he was glad the money had been returned to its rightful owners, a young couple who needed it for medical expenses.

COUPLE'S SAVINGS

Boy Is Happy He Gave Money Back

COLLINSVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Ten-year-old Jimmy Conner would have liked to use the $13,000 he found to buy a new bicycle, but he's glad he gave the money back to its rightful owners.

"I would have liked to have bought a new bike 'cause the brakes locked up on mine, but they needed the money more 'cause their baby couldn't talk," Jimmy said.

Jimmy, a blond-haired fifth grader, is used to finding things along the road.

"He's always finding things," his mother, Mrs. Jeanine Conner, said. "He keeps his eyes down. He likes to collect things."

Tuesday, Jimmy found a brown paper bag and and a box of disposable diapers. The bag contained $13,000 in cash.

"I looked in the bag and saw a whole bunch of money. thought it was play money," he recalled. "I brought it home and dumped it on the floor to look at it."

But when he looked at it, he ran to his mother

"We're rich, mom, we're rich," he shouted.

"I was absolutely stunned," she said. "The money was $10s and $20s wrapped in plastic with masking tape around it with thousands marked on it."

She immediately telephoned police.

"I figured it had to be stolen. It couldn't be honest money," she said.

State police were questioning persons at a motel across from the Conners' home, near where Jimmy had found the money, when a young couple drove up and began searching frantically through trash containers.

Police then questioned the man, Jose Gandaria of Mathis, Tex.

He told police he and his wife had sold their two trucks and, with the $13,000 that was their life savings in a brown bag, headed for a Chicago children's hospital for neurological treatments for their 17-month old son.

The Gandarias, who spent the night at the motel, placed the diapers and the bag containing the money on top of their car while packing to leave. The diapers and money dropped onto the highway as they pulled away.

After restoring the money to the Gandarias, police took them to a bank where they exchanged the cash for a certified check.

Man Is Injured In Cycle Wreck

A 29-year-old Seattle man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken ankle suffered yesterday in a motorcycle accident on Shoreline Highway near Point Reyes Station.

The Highway Patrol said Thomas Wilson was southbound on the highway about 4:30 p.m. when the cycle went out of control on a curve and ran off the road.

Pair Beat Sea, But Lose Money

HONOLULU (UPI) — Two Navy reservists who conquered the Pacific Ocean in a rubber raft are now stranded in Hawaii without enough money to return home.

Charles Gore and George Sigler, both from Alameda, Calif., completed their voyage from San Francisco Wednesday. It took them 56 days, but on the second day a wave cartwheeled their 16-foot craft and dumped them into the water. They lost clothes, equipment, most of their supplies and money.

"We got here the cheapest way anybody ever made the trip," Sigler, 29, said, "but all our money and clothes are at the bottom of the Pacific along with $2,300 worth of survival equipment we were testing to prove the voyage could be made."

The pair who took no food or water for their voyage, dreamed nightly of food, particularly mountains of pancakes oozing syrup. Their first breakfast at Tripler Army Hospital was the dream come true—stacks of pancakes.

A Tripler spokesman said the two men would remain at the hospital for "a day or two" to complete the tests and examination to determine what effect, if any, their 40 pound weight loss had on them. The tests are part of the survival program being tested by the two who commercially produce survival kits.

The point of the journey was to test the 15-pound survival kit made by Sigler Enterprises. The Navy later decided to conduct follow-up examinations to determine the physical effects of such a daring voyage.

Sigler's wife and Gore's girlfriend flew into Hawaii Thursday, and Hawaiian Holidays gave the penniless tourists free accommodations.

For the first 40 days of their voyage, the two men existed on 456 calories a day, taken in the form of three small candies and one vitamin C pill. Each contained 114 calories.

From the 40th to the 54th day they existed only on water produced by their solar still. On the 55th day, a few hours before they were spotted by a Coast Guard plane, they caught their first fish—five mahi mahi (dolphin). The Coast Guard picked them up about 125 miles from Hawaii.

"We were going to go on," Sigler said, "as we wanted to make a landfall. Since we had caught the fish we felt ecstatic and were fully prepared to continue, but we understood why the Navy wanted us to come immediately to Tripler, and we wanted to come too, as we were interested in knowing what had happened to our bodies on the trip. But with that additional food supply we were prepared to continue on to Kauai."

A hospital attendant who witnessed their breakfast said he was certain of one thing— "The trip certainly didn't hurt their appetites."

Immunity Given In Civil Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California's Supreme Court has ruled that witnesses in civil law suits may be granted immunity from criminal prosecution.

The ruling, made Tuesday, concerned a Los Angeles consumer fraud case where a man charged with misleading advertising refused questions on the grounds that the answers might incriminate him.

The trial judge had refused the attorney general's request that the man be granted immunity.

Sinatra Misses Lawyer Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Frank Sinatra was to give a deposition today for a $2.5 million lawsuit filed against him by a businessman who said the entertainer beat him up in a Palm Springs, Calif., bar.

Sinatra had been scheduled to appear at the office of Marvin Lewis, the lawyer for Frank J. Weinstock, Salt Lake City, yesterday, but he failed to keep the appointment so it was delayed a day.

Sinatra said his private jet had landing gear problems in Southern California.

Novato Flood Control Ultimatum Planned

The Army Corps of Engineers is to be told to decide by Jan. 1 what it is going to do about flood control on Novato Creek or face cancellation of the project.

Lewis R. Fredericksson, assistant flood control engineer for the Novato Flood Control Zone Advisory Board, said the board, angered by a letter from the corps district engineer, Col. James L. Lammie, accused the corps of dragging its feet and issued the ultimatum.

The vote was 3-0, with William Wright, Thomas Nolan and J. Dietrich Stroeh present.

"Lammie said it would take another seven months to make their report and get an environmental impact report to see if the project is feasible," Frederickson reported. That would prevent the project going to Congress for approval before 1976, assuming a favorable report by the corps, he said.

Frederickson said the board complained that the corps has studied the project since 1942 and "still they drag their feet and do not come up with any definite answers."

Voters in Novato approved a $4.5 million flood control bond issue in November, 1973, for a flood control project on Novato Creek. One stipulation on the bond issue was that it be used in connection with the Corps of Engineers, Lewis said.

"If there is no project approved by the Corps, then the bonds cannot be sold," he said.

"I am very pessimistic today. It looks like any flood control work done in Novato will have to be done with just local funds," Frederickson said.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Legal Services Can Help You

"Charley, p isn't working. Why don't we just get a decent civilized divorce?"

Make-shift, or do-it-yourself remedies can make the problem a lot worse than it is already. But, you say, to have a lawyer do it costs a lot of money. Right. And also wrong!

Conventional private attorneys, like physicians, have only so many working hours a day, and whopping big overheads to meet. So if your funds are very low, you may find the cost of a marriage dissolution, a bankruptcy, or a landlord beef beyond your means.

But there are other good, professional legal services open, or soon to be open, to you:

LEGAL AID... Available throughout California to people with very low incomes. Legal Aid (sometimes called Legal Services) attorneys will help with consumer cases, bankruptcy, divorce, landlord-tenant, and other civil cases.

GROUP LEGAL SERVICES... There are now more than 450 services set up in California by unions, associations, cooperatives, and trade groups. These groups have arrangements with certain lawyers to handle cases for members at a reduced cost. For information about these lawyers, contact the officers or staff of your union or other group.

PREPAID LEGAL SERVICES... If you belong to a group that has signed up for this kind of law service, you may see your lawyer by flashing your card. Just as you do for your physician, hospital, or dentist. One private insurance company has already set up just such a plan, and the State Bar's California Lawyers Service will open for business soon.

LAWYER REFERENCE SERVICE... A very practical solution for many people with legal problems, these services are well established throughout the State. If your case is a marriage dissolution, say, contact the Lawyer Reference Service in your area, which will refer you to a lawyer who handles such cases. Your fee is usually not more than $10 for a half hour consultation. If it's a simple, uncomplicated matter, chances are he can tell you how to handle it yourself. He'll answer your questions, point out some problems you may not have realized, and suggest the best way of solving them. He'll give you an estimate of what any further work will cost. Then you can have him do it — or, if you prefer — some other attorney. Or even go ahead by yourself, as some people do.

FORD

are factories if they are shut down? What good is business and industry without those who solve their problems, perform their jobs and spend their pay checks?"

Ford, who accepted the speaking invitation while he was still the vice president, flew to Columbus from Washington early Friday morning and returned directly to the White House for some afternoon meetings after conferring at the airport with Ohio Republican leaders.

At the school, he was warmly received —drawing standing ovations at the start and end of his 20-minute speech and laughter as he stood, in black gown, joking about his football playing days at the University of Michigan, arch rival of Ohio State.

Red Tide Found Off Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A "red tide" has discolored areas of the ocean off the Golden Gate, fishermen reported yesterday.

The "tide," formed by millions of tiny marine organisms called "dinoflagellates," can absorb so much oxygen that other sea creatures, including fish, suffocate.

Fishing industry spokesmen said fishermen have noticed streaking in the water for the past several days, but high winds last night seemed to dissipate it and improve fishing close to shore.

Ships Safely Pass Ice Pack

BARROW, Alaska (UPI) — The last two vessels in a flotilla of 26 Arctic marine freighter tugs and barges carrying cargo for the trans-Alaska pipeline have safely passed the ice fields off Point Barrow.

Officials said the two vessels were headed for Seattle, Wash., after unloading more than 60,000 tons of equipment and supplies for crews at Prudhoe Bay. The pipeline will extend from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska.

The timing for departure from the ice fields is critical because, if the weather takes an unexpected dip, the ice closes, trapping any ships there until the next summer's thaw.

Nuclear Device Fired In Nevada

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI) — An underground nuclear device was triggered today at the bottom of a 2,195-foot shaft drilled in the desert floor of the Nevada test site.

The 8 a.m. blast was felt as a slight tremor in high-rise gambling casinos in Las Vegas some 80 miles to the south.

The Atomic Energy Commission had cleared personnel from much of the sprawling test site that occupies hundreds of square miles of Nevada.

The test was code named "Portmanteau" and was the sixth announced test this year and the 263rd since the ban on atmospheric testing in 1963.

BUSES

search, Jerome M. Kuykendall, said the estimate had been very rough, while the new figure results from detailed calculations.

The service to Bolinas, he said, would mean an additional deficit of $21,000 for the two semesters.

Officials of both the high school and county transit districts said they could not afford to pay for the bus service, while bridge district officials said both federal and state law blocked them from providing it unless one of the other two districts paid for it.

The bridge district's transportation committee, which debated the matter for almost two hours, scheduled another look at it at 10 a.m. next Thursday, again in toll plaza offices. This is the same morning classes start at Redwood High School. Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake high schools start Sept. 10.

The county's transit district board also will take up the issue at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in the supervisors chambers in the Marin Civic Center.

The dispute was triggered last March when the county transit board voted unanimously to protest the bridge district's $40,000 bill for the bus service. The protest, however, was made only to the bridge district, and no attempt was made to notify the high school district.

The assistant general manager of the county transit district, Robert Harrison, said the protest had "no official connection with the Tam district." He conceded to the Independent-Journal, however, that it would have been "helpful" if his office had at least sent the high school district a carbon of his board's protest to the bridge district.

As a result of the failure to do so, the high school district learned of the problem only last week.

Bette Wallace, chairman of the high school district board of trustees, said the Bolinas-Stinson School District had offered a bus to carry the students back to West Marin at 3 p.m., but no way has been found to get them to school. Synanon will be asked to help, she said.

An audience of about 30 persons, many of them West Marin parents, attended the session. Their spokesman, Max Crosley of Bolinas, said they had no other way to get the students to school.

Mrs. Wallace suggested the bridge district directors "may be indifferent to the transportation needs and concerns of Marin citizens, unless they can move them to San Francisco with our tax dollars." Pointing to increasingly tight state controls on school spending, she said that "if we help pay for one $26,000 bus driver we may have to fire two $15,000 high school teachers." (District drivers average about $23,000 a year with overtime and fringe benefits.)

The cost of transporting the West Marin students, she said, was consuming 20 per cent of the money available for their education. Mrs. Wallace predicted that all school districts in the county will be "in the same sinking boat" within five years.

Six Wives Get Him Two Years

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Wendell Wayne Houchens, 42, of Sacramento, yesterday was sentenced to two years in prison on a bigamy charge after marrying six women.

Houchen had pleaded guilty to marrying five women between May 1972 and February 1974 in addition to a 1953 marriage.

Court officials said Houchen explained his absences to his wives by saying he had to leave town on business.

He married a cocktail waitress in Elko, a Reno woman in Carson City, a Texas woman in Winnemucca, a Sacramento woman in Reno and a San Francisco woman in Reno. He was also engaged to a woman from Washington, D.C.

State To Return Oil Price Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state will return $1.3 million to oil companies pending disposition of a U.S. Supreme Court case challenging California's right to increase crude oil prices.

The state Lands Commissin yesterday announced the companies would be refunded about half the money they had paid under protest since the state laste last year raised the price of oil derived from state leased lands.

But if the state wins its case in the high court, the companies will return the money plus about 9 per cent interest, said Allen Willard, the commission's top mineral resource engineer.

Antismog Showdown Is Looming

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill rolling back a program requiring 3.8 million California motorists to install $35 antismog devices on 1966-70 cars was set for a showdown vote today on the Assembly floor.

The bill (SB2471) by Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Oakland, would require installation of the devices in the South Coast Air Basin for all cars during the next year. Motorists in other portions of the state would have to buy the devices only on change of ownership.

The measure was designed to roll back statewide requirements imposed by the State Air Resources Board that all eligible 1966-70 model cars be equipped with the devices during the next year. Motorists would be required to install the devices on a month-by-month basis, depending on the last digit of the car's license plate.

Passage of the bill was stymied last night when a dispute erupted over how much the program should be cut back.

On a 32-40 vote, the Assembly rejected amendments proposed by Assemblyman Bill Bond, R-Long Beach, requiring installation of the nitrogen oxide devices only upon change of ownership in all areas of California.

Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, last night urged defeat of the bill so that the devices could help cut air pollution in California.

He noted the legislature overwhelmingly approved the program to reduce nitrogen oxides in 1971, adding "now that the heat is on a little bit and some people are complaining, the legislature wants to turn tail and run."

Percy Returning Campaign Gifts

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Charles Percy says he will give the money back to those who contributed to his campaign for the 1976 GOP presidential nomination.

An aide said Percy sent a letter to 200 fundraisers saying, "If you feel any of the contributors to the exploratory committee should have a refund, I will be happy to reimburse them personally."

Percy said in the letter he has suspended his campaign for now because it appears that President Ford will seek the GOP nomination in 1976 "and there is every reason for him to expect approval and the nomination if he wants it."

Bradley Girl Is Guilty Of Charge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In her second court appearance in three days, Mayor Tom Bradley's daughter, Phyllis, 29, pleaded no contest yesterday to a charge of resisting arrest in a brawl with police in June.

Miss Bradley was fined $140 and put on two years probation. Police said she kicked and punched officers who chased her through the city when she sped away from a motorcycle patrolman trying to stop her for a traffic violation.

Tuesday, she was ordered to stand trial for possession of marijuana and conspiracy to deal in cocaine. She has been convicted in the past on marijuana and theft charges.

Wartime French Newspaper Dies

PARIS (UPI) — Combat, a newspaper born in the French Resistance to Nazi occupation which once carried bylines of writers like Albert Camus and Jean-Paul Sartre, will cease publishing after today's edition.

"You get the impression that most of the best writers and journalists have done work at one time or another for Combat," Jacques Sallebert, director of the French Radio-Television state monopoly, said in a radio newscast.

Sallebert worked as a war correspondent in Indochina for Combat after World War II.

Increase Asked By Dairy Group

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Northern California Dairy Association is asking a 1.7 cents a quart increase in the price of milk sold wholesale.

The request was made yesterday at a public hearing held by the state Bureau of Milk Stabilization.

If granted, it would affect Alameda, San Francisco, Contra Costa, Monterey, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties.

NO-FAULT

sent to the Senate-Assembly Conference committee to resolve differences over its provisions.

McCarthy's chief lieutenant is Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, author of a rival no-fault measure which was defeated by the Senate Wednesday on a 16-19 vote. But supporters were given permission for another try for approval later.

The California Trial Lawyers Association bitterly opposes the Fenton bill, which won Senate passage Wednesday, and supports the Fenton measure (AB801).

The Fenton bill, backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and the insurance industry, was designed to reduce insurance prices and bring about quick settlement of claims. It contained these provisions:

Immediate payment of up to $55,000 per person in the cost of related benefits from a motorist's own insurance company regardless of who is at fault in an accident.

A mandatory reduction of at least 15 per cent in the cost of personal injury insurance policies for a minimum of one year.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM M. CANN

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — Police Chief William M. Cann of Union City died yesterday at a Hayward hospital from wounds suffered in June when shot by a sniper while at a police and community relations meeting. He was 32.

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., Cann was a patrolman on the San Anselmo police force from June, 1963, to November, 1964, when he became a sergeant with the Novato police department. He left the Novato force in 1969 for San Bruno, to become second in command, and took the Union City chief's position 15 months ago.

He was a member of several police associations, drug abuse and crime prevention committees in Alameda County, St. Anne's Catholic Church in Union City and Union City Lions Club.

Cann is survived by his wife, Elizabeth J. Cann, three children, Christopher, Timothy and Veronica Cann; and his mother, Marie C. Cann, all of Union City.

Mass of Christian Burial will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Anne's Catholic Church in Union City. Burial will be at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Hayward. Recitation of the Rosary will be held at 7 p.m. Monday at the church.

JUNE LINSCOTT

Funeral for June A. Linscott, longtime Marin resident, was held today in San Rafael.

Mrs. Linscott, 87, died Tuesday at her Corte Madera home after a long illness.

She was born in San Diego but reared in San Francisco where she attended and graduated from Polytechnic High School. She had lived in Marin 40 years, most of that time in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Linscott is survived only by her daughter, Betty J. Holloway of Corte Madera, one of two children by her first husband, the late R. E. Holloway. He was one of the first automobile dealers in San Francisco, having opened an agency there in the early 1900s.

Tahoe Agency Votes Delay On Tax Position

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (UPI) — The Tahoe Regional Planning Agency has delayed until after the November election any discussion of a report on how local governments in the Tahoe basin might raise more tax money.

The consulting firm of McDonald and Smart of San Francisco presented its study yesterday which suggested several methods to get added money for local governments to put the general zoning plan into effect.

One suggestion would be to sell a use permit to tourists similar to ones purchased for entry to national parks.

The TRPA held off discussion until November saying it was a hot political issue and should come after the election.

Sentence Passed On Copter Pilot

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI) — A 20-year-old private who landed a stolen army helicopter on the White House lawn last February faces six months at hard labor and forfeiture of $2,400 in pay over the next year.

A jury of four officers and four enlisted men deliberated for nearly eight hours Wednesday and yesterday before ordering Pfc. Robert K. Preston, Panama City, Fla., to spend one year at hard labor and forfeit $200 a month, more than half his monthly salary, estimated at $375.

In a move unprecedented in military justice, Judge Kenneth Howard, Chief judge for the U.S. Army Judiciary, dropped six months from the sentence for time Preston spent in maximum security in the stockade at Ft. Meade, Md.

Ex-Ambassador Girffis Is Dead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former ambassador Stanton Griffis, 87, burned in a hotel fire earlier this month, died in a hospital late last night.

Griffis' career as a diplomat, investment banker, author and business executive spanned nearly half a century.

He had been hospitalized Aug. 13 suffering from smoke inhalation and burns from an early morning fire in his room at New York's Hotel Pierre.

From 1947 to 1952 Griffis served as U.S. ambassador to Poland, Egypt, Argentina and Spain.

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Richard H. Moran, 31, and Adrienne L. Fritz, 26, both of Sausalito.

LOVE AFFAIR — A pair of battered sneakers, paint-splotched and dirty, can still be the best friend a fellow's feet ever had. And the worse they get the stronger the owner's attachment becomes. (Ty Barbour Photo)

IN POETRY CONTEST

Young Writers Sing Praise Of Sneakers

NEW YORK (UPI) — To a youngster, a pair of sneakers is a most prized possession — magical footwear, old friends worth perserving for posterity which can turn the slowest child into a winged Mercury.

The "Jive to My Sneakers" Poetry contest Wednesday bestowed laurels and U.S. savings bonds, totaling $2,200, to 36 young writers from the New York metropolitan area who paid poetic tributes and complaints to their sneakers.

The contest, sponsored by the city's Department of Recreation in conjunction with a sneaker manufacturer, brought the young poets together for an informal breakfast and reading of the winning poems at the Central Park Zoo cafeteria.

First place winner Thomas Rommell, 14, a student at Brooklyn Technical High School, received $250 in U.S. Savings Bonds for his verse titled, "Poem to My 'Dogs',"

Rommell described his sneakers as "a pair of dejected rejects," who "wherever one goes, the other follows, one step behind."

Alex Hyatt, 13, a Bronx High School of Science student, wrote: "Why do I love thee? Let me count the ways. I love thee for protecting my feet against the harsh and menacing ground."

For this love verse, Hyatt received second place prize of $150 savings bond.

Third place winner Jessica Wolin, of the Long Island suburb of Roslyn received a $100 savings bond for her poem, "The Soft and Gentle Sneaker," which tells why she'd "rather wear a sneaker than a shoe."

Park officials said a panel of professional poets and writers selected the winners — who range in age from 8 to 18 and represent the five boroughs, parts of Nassau County and New Jersey.

Youngsters were told their poems could be funny or serious, long or short and they could enter "Jive to My Sneakers" contest as an individual or in teams.

Cousins Deidre and Bette Sullivan, both 10 and students at P.S. 98 Queens, won first prize in the combined entry category and received $125 each in a savings bond.

The cousins wrote: "I sometimes wonder how sneakers came to be. Did Washington wear them? Did General Lee?"

Ronald Lenefsky, 8, of Long Island's New Hyde Park, received honorable mention and a $50 savings bond for his letter to his sneakers which read:

"Dear Sneakers,
I'm very sorry to say,
Mom told me to throw you away.
But I will hide you in my closet today.
I cannot wear you because you're torn.
Your tips are shabby and old and worn.
I guess I'll have to buy another pair.
But I won't forget the fun we did share.
Your pal, Ronnie."

A Hard Look At Health Services

By JEFF GREER

Charges that Marin County may have lost up to $560,000 in state and federal funds because the county is leaving mental health staff slots unfilled and because state and federal agencies think badly of Marin's mental health administration and financial policies, have been made by a Marin fiscal specialist.

Frank E. Bigley of Corte Madera — acting as a private citizen rather than as that town's finance officer — had written the board of supervisors about his findings on the woes of mental health.

Bigley told the Independent-Journal yesterday that he cleared his letter with the Marin County Mental Health Association and with Dr. Robert L. Taylor, community mental health program chief before sending it to the board.

The letter was a follow-up of claims Bigley first made July 30 at a supervisors' hearing. The crowded, lengthy hearing was only the latest of many debates by the board over reorganizing the county's mental health administration.

The supervisors vetoed reorganization by a 3-to-2 vote, but county administrator John F. Barrows asked Bigley to substantiate his claims.

Bigley's reply stresses three points:

1. That during fiscal 1973-74, nine full-time and three part-time mental health jobs went unfilled for periods of two months to a full year. Salary and benefit pay budgeted for the jobs totaled $103,780, Bigley reported. Marin would have been eligible for state and federal reimbursement of 90 per cent on the outlay and citizens would have received more mental health service, Bigley said.

2. That the state Department of Health refused to approve Short-Doyle/Medi-Cal grants for the Psychiatric Day Center and Marin Lodge, two private mental health facilities, because Marin supposedly cannot administer the programs properly. Bigley said the state did allocate $56,000 to Marin for other programs, mainly children's mental health services, during the year, but the county never claimed $43,000 of the grants because the programs couldn't be set in motion through administrative difficulties.

3. That the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare on Aug. 2 turned down a requested grant of $420,260 for new or expanded mental health services in Marin because federal officials reported "the review committee expressed concern over unsettled issues relative to organizational and administrative structures" of both the community mental health center "and the overall place of mental health services in the county health and human services agency."

Bigley backed up his report with copies of several state and federal letters criticizing Marin.

One letter written May 29 by James Allen, assistant coordinator of the state medical assistance division, noted that Short-Doyle/Medi-Cal approval was denied to the county's application for Marin Lodge because the state believed it would only add to the problems the state already had with Marin until the county "stabilizes" and "is willing and able in a timely manner" to pay mental health contractors for their services.

Barrows told the I-J that he has instructed his staff to confer with Donald M. Sanford, acting chief of Marin's health and human services department, to verify or disprove the charges Bigley sent to the supervisors.

Mental health staff vacancies are difficult to fill, Barrows said, because the agencies want very specialized qualifications that the county personnel department has trouble obtaining in recruits. As a result, Barrows said, many of the agency officials fill the seemingly vacant spots with qualified professionals who are willing to work for the county on a part-time, hourly pay basis rather than as full-time employees.

Coloradan Named Teen-Age Miss

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Debbie Maly, 17-year-old brunette from Denver, Colo., yesterday won the 15th annual Miss Teen-Age America Pageant.

Miss Arizona, Tony Abranovic, 16, Scottsdale, Ariz., was first runnerup.

Unconditional Amnesty Is Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the Ford administration nearing a decision on what to do about war resisters, an antiwar group presented a petition to the White House today asking "universal and unconditional amnesty" for deserters and draft evaders.

It appeared, however, that the plan to be presented to President Ford tomorrow by Attorney General William B. Saxbe and Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger would fall short of blanket forgiveness.

"We have a pretty definite plan," Saxbe said after meeting for more than an hour yesterday with Schlesinger. "We narrowed it down somewhat today."

A White House spokesman said today both Saxbe and Schlesinger will meet with Ford tomorrow morning.

The petition today was presented to Dr. Theodore Marrs, a special assistant to Ford, outside a White House gate by Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, former president of the World Council of Churches. Ford was in Columbus, Ohio, at the time, but a White House official said the petition would be brought to the President's attention.

Don Luce, executive director of Clergy and Laity Concerned, a national interfaith religious organization based in New York, said the petition contained about 52,000 signatures.

It asked for blanket amnesty for war resisters plus leniency for ex-servicemen with dishonorable discharges so they could become eligible for veterans benefits.

The petition marked the second major lobbying effort in two days for blanket amnesty. Yesterday a group of parents of war resisters were in Washington to ask that no conditions be applied.

Ten of them met with Martin Hoffman, the Pentagon's general counsel. He was quoted by a lawyer for the relatives as saying: "You cannot realistically expect the United States to admit, as a nation, it was wrong in Vietnam".

Earlier in the day, Saxbe said any draft evader willing to make an "act of contrition" would be welcomed, but he said many of them "don't want to have to come back and say 'We were wrong.'

"As a result, I don't think we are going to see a great many of them coming back under any amnesty programs even though the President is determined to ... open the door to them. They are not going to be welcomed back as heroes and this is very disappointing to them."

"The nation will continue to be divided for years to come" unless the fugitives are granted blanket amnesty, said Wilbur Bowles, a World War II veteran.

"I think the boys have had a lot more suffering than Richard Nixon did," said Mrs. Virginia Jones of Wilkesboro, N.C.

Cotati Council Candidates Explain All Their Viewpoints

By ERNEST MURPHY

More than 100 Cotati residents turned out last night to learn the viewpoints of applicants for two city council seats.

On hand were 11 applicants — William A. Payne, Donna L. Piotrkowski, Joseph E. Turner, Beverly Carrillo, John Darragh, Robert E. Davis, Robert J. (Karl) Davis, Carole Glass, August Konrad, Jon Lyon and David A. Oliva.

Three others, Anthony Tusler and former councilmen Frank J. Dolinsek and Alfred Falletti, were absent, and applicant Michael W. Clemmons withdrew his candidacy before the meeting.

At stake are council seats vacated Aug. 7 by Stephen Laughlin and Annette Lombardi after they were arrested on suspicion of taking marijuana plants from the city police department.

Laughlin and Miss Lombardi, along with mayor Geoffrey Dunham, had joined the council with the support of the city's younger population, consisting mainly of Sonoma State College students and hip nonstudents. The young residents had been unhappy with the middle-aged viewpoint of the city's leaders.

The entrenched leadership attempted to recall the young councilmen last year but without success, and the two remaining older Cotatians on the council, Dolinsek and Herbert Winter, resigned in protest shortly thereafter.

The most recent resignations left the council with a bare quorum consisting of Dunham and Allen Standbury and Harry Fassio, two moderates elected to replace Dolinsek and Winter.

These three, at next Tuesday's council meeting, will choose two councilmen from the 14 applicants.

The 11 who spoke last night universally expressed the desire of maintaining Cotati's rural village atmosphere, and to a man they talked of healing the rift between the young and the old. They also all favored permitting more musical events in the city plaza.

But beyond that, their ideas were generally diverse.

Payne, a Sonoma State College anthropology professor, said he wanted to sit on the governing body so Cotati could continue to be a place "where it is possible to do things not in the old way," where citizens can "find new ways of relating to each other and to their institutions."

Miss Piotrkowski, 27, a former College of Marin student body president, and McGovern delegate to the 1972 Democratic national convention, described herself as a "Mexican-Irish-Jew" and promised to work for "architectural free zones," areas where citizens could experiment with building inexpensive but innovational homes. She pledged to seek the restoration of what she called a "dying dream," the often fragile sense of community among the city's different inhabitants.

Turner, vice chairman of the city's parks and recreation commission and a management student at Sonoma State College, said he wanted to keep Cotati different from his hometown, Richmond — "controlled by big business and big industry." The best way residents can control their community, he said, is to learn to participate in its affairs.

Beverly Carrillo, a young woman in a long dress, said she is a six-year resident and property owner and is deeply committed to the city. She believes, she said, she could do "a very good job representing a large portion of the people who live here."

Darragh, 28, who works as a leather salesman in San Francisco and was active in the recall campaign, vowed to represent residents of the Holiday Park subdivision, where he lives, Cotati's only tract housing project. He charged that although a third of the city's voters live there, the neighborhood is not represented in city affairs.

He accused the city of foot-dragging on Kotate Park, an open space parcel in his area which is subject of a long-standing dispute between the city and a real estate company. The park is an eyesore and is dangerous to children because of its rubbish, he said, and should be cleaned up immediately. Darragh said he favors controlled growth.

Robert E. Davis, 39, a snack bar and swimming pool operator and retired Naval officer, commented that his age, veteran's status and beard made it impossible for him to fit neatly into Cotati's factionalized politics. He said that, through his involvement with the yearly Cotati Days Festival, he has found that young and old residents can work together for the city's betterment. Cooperation is the key, he said, to preservation of Cotati's uniqueness.

Robert J. (Karl) Davis, a former parks and recreation commissioner, said he is also known as "Crazy Robert" because "I'm not a radical — I want to make that clear — I'm a freak." He explained that he is a descendant of 18th Century Italian stonecutters who came to Washington, D.C., to build monuments.

He serves now as an idea man for the city, he revealed, by hypothesizing locations for stop signs and children's swings.

If appointed, Davis said, he would investigate what he termed instances of brutality by city policemen. He also said there are too many policemen on whom too much money — $100,000 in this year's budget — is spent.

Davis wound up his oration by pledging to work for a return of rock concerts to the city plaza (they are now restricted by an ordinance and have become rare) and by announcing plans to keep dogs from soiling city parks.

Carole Glass, 31, a Sonoma State senior and Peace and Freedom Party State Assembly candidate, supported implementation of the city general plan with provisions for rerouting traffic around instead of through the plaza, upgrading commercial areas and building more recreational facilities.

Konrad, a parks and recreation commissioner, said Cotati's town-gown, young-old friction is symbolic of similar disputes in many places.

The problem, he said, stems from "basic misunderstandings — if we can trust each other more — after all, we all want to see this town make it —there can be a blending, a communication, and it can happen here in Cotati."

Lyon a 21-year-old political science student at Sonoma State College, said he was seeking the council post to "realize some personal dreams I have" and to encourage "a new type of attitude" among residents. He called for upgrading the entire city's appearance, expansion of proposed bicycle paths onto both sides of roads rather than only along one, less use of computers to handle city affairs and a new city hall to replace the one-time schoolhouse now used.

Oliva, a San Anselmo Police Sergeant, said he is a fiscal conservative and a growth control proponent because "having lived in Marin most of my life, I've seen what uncontrolled growth can do to an area which was once a fine place to live." He commended the records of the recently resigned councilmen and said he would represent both Holiday Park and the whole city in a "positive" way.

Officer Indicted In Payoff Probe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A veteran police sergeant with five captain's commendations has been indicted in the continuing federal inquiry into possible payoffs to officers.

Sgt. William Sisack, 47, on the force since 1949, was charged with five counts of perjury. The U.S. District Court Grand Jury handed up the indictment as a result of an investigation by the Justice Department's Organized Crime Strike Force.

Deputy Police Chief William Keays said Sisack has been suspended pending the outcome of the case.

County To Get Idea Of Emergency Phone

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will be asked Tuesday to give the go-ahead for planning a single public center for answering all "911" emergency calls throughout the county when the special telephone service eventually goes into operation.

Thomas Moyer, county communications director, will report to the supervisors that spokesmen for all police, fire and other public safety agencies in Marin approved the single-center idea at a meeting Wednesday.

The single center, to be reached by dialing 911, would be able to send emergency help anywhere in the county from the nearest source and should be located in the county communications facility at the Marin County Civic Center, the group agreed.

Moyer's report, on the supervisors' agenda for action, points out that formal joint powers agreements will be needed with all cities and public safety-providing districts. Under state law, each such public safety agency must plan for a "911" answering service and submit its tentative plans to Sacramento by Jan. 31, 1975. The deadline for actual operation of the system is in the 1980s. Planning for a single answering center in Marin could relieve the 11 cities, fire districts and other agencies of having to submit separate plans.

Under the single-center scheme, a so-called "public service answering point" would be manned by specially trained staff able to find out what kind of emergency is occurring, and send help from the closest point regardless of political jurisdiction.

Moyer earlier reported that the system is working in other areas, and has been very effective.

The supervisors will meet only in the morning Tuesday, with a light agenda. A scheduled 3 p.m. hearing on an appeal on the tentative subdivision map for Marin Cove Condominium in the Santa Venetia area, will be continued to Sept. 10.

The Marin County Transit District board will meet at 8:30 a.m. in the supervisors' chambers, followed by the board meeting at 9:30 a.m.

ITT's Geneen Will Retain His Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harold S. Geneen, chairman and chief executive of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., will retain both posts, the company said yesterday.

The action by the board of directors dispelled rumors that the 64-year-old Geneen would not be rehired.

BOUNTY FOR WEAPONS

Baltimore police information officer Bryn Joyce holds a submachine gun which is one of some 2,000 weapons turned in since the city started offering a $50 bounty for each usable firearm. The program went into effect last Friday and so far $100,000 has been paid out for the weapons which will be destroyed. (UPI Telephoto)

Ford Reminded Of Grid Debacle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — President Ford's visit to Ohio State University today reminded him of one of his most humiliating defeats in college football, suffered here 40 years ago when his team, Michigan University, lost to Ohio State by the lopsided score of 34 to 0.

"What really hurt was when they voted me their most valuable player," he said ruefully. "I didn't know whether to smile or sue."

Ford addressed the summer commencement exercises at the school which is the Wolverines' traditional arch rival. He made the most of the football jokes, as the friendly crowd laughed and cheered.

He paid tribute to Ohio State's almost legendary football coach, Woody Hayes, who was among those in the greeting party when Ford arrived for his speech in St. John Arena, adjacent to Ohio Stadium.

"It's a great honor to be here at Ohio State University today —sometimes known as the Land of the Free and the Home of Woody Hayes," Ford joked.

"Woody Hayes is so popular here in Ohio, it's unbelievable. We just had our picture taken together and when that picture appears in today's Dispatch (the Columbus afternoon newspaper), I'm pretty sure what the caption will say: Woody Hayes—and friend," Ford said.

At the end of his appearance, Ford was presented with two tickets to this year's Ohio State-Michigan football game, which will be played Nov. 23.

He told the audience he found out about the gift tickets yesterday while winding up a foreign policy discussion with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Ford said when he suggested that Kissinger might like to come along he saw "the light in his eye." Since then, he said, Ohio State President Harold L. Enarson has promised "he would try to scrounge up a couple of extra tickets for Kissinger."

Having Kissinger attend the game might bring "an extra dividend," Ford joked, because "if Henry Kissinger can negotiate the long standing hostility between Israel and the Arab nations, he might have a chance to do it between Woody Hayes and (Michigan coach) Bo Schembechier."

Bill Signed To Withhold Sexual Facts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan signed into law today legislation sparing rape victims from embarrassing questions about their prior sexual encounters.

Designed to encourage more women to report rapes, the bill (SB1678) by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-Van Nuys, was signed in a morning ceremony in Reagan's Capitol office.

Calling it "a piece of landmark legislation long needed," Reagan said, "I'm very happy with it."

The law, which takes effect Jan. 1, limits court questioning of victims' sexual history only after a hearing away from the jury.

Supporters of the legislation said court questioning about the rape victim's sex life usually is irrelevant and causes her mental anguish. They contended most rapes go unreported to authorities because of embarrassment victims must endure in police and court questioning.

But critics contended that past sexual behavior often is relevant and to deny its admission in court would deprive defendants of the right to a fair trial.

Mill Valley Groups Asks Music Ban

The Save Mill Valley Association wants the city to outlaw all nighttime live music near residential areas except for that produced by unamplified voices and guitars.

Chairman Marilyn Raack said that the association voted to advocate that policy Wednesday and will present its stand to the city council Tuesday.

The council then will discuss whether or not to grant a live music permit to the Old Mill bar. Mrs. Raack said the group also will ask the council not to grant the permit.

Other resolutions passed by the newly formed group Wednesday specified that:

The city should allow use of obstacles such as bumper strips to slow traffic on some streets.

An interim noise ordinance should be adopted while the city awaits completion of the noise element of its general plan. That ordinance should be modeled after ones already adopted in Fountain Valley, Orange County, and Palo Alto, said the association.

When a use permit is applied for, the planning department should notify residents living within 250 yards of the location of the use change instead of just those within 250 feet as is now the case.

Newsmen Get Coverage Spots

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Land Board agreed yesterday to allow a limited number of newsmen access to state land adjacent to where Evel Knievel is to touch down in his Sept. 8 Snake River Canyon skycicle jump.

The board said the area on the north rim of the canyon would be open to 35 members of the press accredited by the Idaho Press Club which had requested access.

The board further said those allowed in the area would have to waive all liability against the state and would have to enter as a group. Idaho newsmen will be given first preference.

Reduction In Donated Kidneys

CHICAGO (UPI) — Reduced highway fatalities in 1974 have brought about a reduction in donated kidneys available for transplants, according to Dr. J. Laurence Hill, a University of Chicago transplant surgeon.

Hill said that while there were 22 per cent fewer traffic deaths in the first seven months of this year compared to the same period a year ago, there were only 38 kidney donors in Illinois compared to 43 in the same period last year.

Hill ascribed the reduced availability of kidneys for transplant to reduced traffic deaths, noting that a substabtial number of donated kidneys have come from auto accident victims.

Agnew Claims Press Has Harassed Him

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew wrote the Washington Post today to complain that he has been "harassed by the news media" since leaving office.

His comments, appearing in today's editions, contested an Aug. 23 article in the Post headlined: "Agnew Case 'Leniency' Effect Eyed."

"Leniency in my case?," wrote Agnew. "That is to laugh.

"The whole story will be told later; meanwhile, please bear in mind that the bribery and extortion charges against me are unproved, that I denied them on national television and that I continue to deny them.

"For my decision not to contest a single tax charge, I have lost the right to practice my profession, lost a substantial pension, temporarily lost my right to vote, and have won the right to be harassed by the news media and be constantly referred to as a convicted felon who has admitted to all the facts I have specifically denied."

In an editor's note, the newspaper said it had not suggested Agnew had admitted to any criminal acts other than the tax charge.

Bill Would Raise Pay For Hollis

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill now on the governor's desk will increase the salary of Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, by $2,438.31 per year.

The measure, SB 2027 by Sen. Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, passed the Assembly this week without a dissenting vote. It earlier had cleared the Senate with only one vote in opposition.

It raises salaries of all county superintendents in California by recognizing an increase in the average teacher salary on which they are based. Counties are divided into eight classes, with Marin falling in Class 4.

The measure will increase Hollis's pay from $27,536.47 to $29,974.78 per year. This is 2.483 times the statewide average teacher salary, computed at $12,072. The previous pay for superintendents was based on an average teacher salary of $11,090.

King Slayer Wanted To Be Whites' Hero

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — James Earl Ray thought the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. would make him the "champion of the white race" according to the confessed assassin's former attorney.

Percy Foreman, of Houston, Tex., who negotiated Ray's guilty plea into a 99-year prison sentence, made the statement in a deposition printed in a copyrighted story yesterday in the Memphis Press-Scimitar.

The deposition was given to an assistant state attorney general, Henry Haile, earlier this year and will be presented as evidence in a federal court hearing Oct. 22 to determine if Ray is entitled to a new trial.

Foreman said Ray was convinced he would not be convicted by a local jury.

"He thought everybody was like him. That isn't unusual for people. He thought everybody thought like he thought and he thought the killing of Martin Luther King would make him the champion of the white race, that he would be the most popular man in America," Foreman said.

"He was a racist —he is a racist and had been one all of his life. He could not think of anybody not being a racist if they were white."

"Did he ever protest his innocence to you?" Haile asked.

"He never even intimated that he expected anybody to believe he was innocent," the attorney replied.

Seven Killed In Japanese Bomb Blast

TOKYO (UPI) — A massive explosion following a telephoned bomb threat ripped through a downtown alley crowded with lunchtime strollers at the headquarters of the giant Mitsubishi company Friday, killing seven persons and injuring nearly 300.

The thunderous blast shortly after noon near the main entrance of the 10-story Mitsubishi Industrial Group building shattered windows for blocks around. Most of the victims were slashed by deadly slivers of flying glass.

Police said a telephone operator in the building, Yoshie Koshimi, received a call from a man four minutes before the blast warning: "I want you to take shelter immediately because we have planted two time bombs in front of Mitsubishi Heavy Industries. This is no joke."

Kuniko Yamaoika, a 22-year-old student passing by the office, said, "Suddenly a terrific explosion occurred. When I looked back, pieces of broken glass fell like rain."

A cloud of smoke towered over the building and glass covered the sidewalks like snow. Firemen pushed back the crowds and screamed, "Kyukyusha, kyukyusha!" (ambulance) over and over.

Police said that after the explosion a caller who identified himself as "Suzuki," one of the most common surnames in Japan, telephoned the office and said, "We shall stage a class struggle in Osaka tomorrow as we did in Tokyo today."

Police increased security around the Mitsubishi office in Osaka, Japan's second largest city, 300 miles west of Tokyo.

Investigators said they found pieces of a clock and a dry cell battery at the scene of the blast, apparently remnants of a time bomb trigger mechanism. They said the explosive might have been dynamite.

Police said they have not determined whether the explosion was the work of a maniac or a group of extremists. Leftists have accused Mitsubishi of producing and exporting lethal weapons.

Mitsubishi Heavy Industries is one of 45 companies that make up the Mitsubishi Group, one of the most powerful conglomerates in Japan.

One of its many activities is shipbuilding and it specializes in supertankers. Its best known product in America and Europe is the Colt automobile, manufactured in collaboration with America's Chrysler Corp.

Police quoted an unidentified vistor at the building as saying he saw two brown paper packages about 12 by 16 inches near the main entrance. They said they were hunting a young man who fled the scene in a car soon after the blast, ignoring a police order to halt.

New Position On Bon Air Road

By MARY LEYDECKER

Marin Hospital District officials today indicated they would withdraw a lawsuit against the county of Marin if county supervisors will agree to go ahead with the realignment of Bon Air Road next year.

The offer came during a meeting at Marin General Hospital of two supervisors and two representatives of the hospital board.

The hospital board has sued the county for failing to honor a 1968 agreement to move Bon Air Road west of its present location, thus making the hospital parking lot contiguous to the main hospital grounds.

In June, supervisors deleted $340,000 from the county budget for the project, saying the realignment had low priority for limited budget funds until hospital district voters approve funds for expansion of Marin General Hospital.

Michael Wornu, chairman of the board of supervisors, today said he still didn't think spending $340,000 for realigning the road was justified if the expansion does not take place.

"There are other roads with bigger problems," agreed supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere.

Hospital district board members Thomas K. Procter and George H. Folsom argued, however, that the realignment is needed so that pedestrians need not cross Bon Air Road to get to the hospital from the parking lot and to cut down noise from traffic for hospital patients.

Lawrence Loder, assistant director of the county public works department, said that safety hazards on Bon Air Road were not considered serious enough by his department to put the realignment "at the top of the priority list" for funds.

"We have culverts in the county with bottoms out," he said.

Loder also said he did not think traffic lights for the pedestrian crossing to the hospital were necessary, but the hospital officials said they will install them themselves if the county doesn't provide the safety measures.

Loder agreed with the hospital officials, however, that flooding on Bon Air Road needs to be remedied.

At the end of the session, Roumiguiere and Wornum agreed to try to work out some sort of a compromise so that the law suit can be dropped.

Wornum said, however, that he wanted "a good argument" from the hospital that other considerations than expansion merit the expense of realigning the road.

The hospital's attorney, Richard Riede, said his board would accept a "stipulated nonappealable judgment" that the board be built next year with bids being let in July and construction started in August.

The matter is to be discussed again by the board of supervisors on Sept. 10 and by representatives of the two boards on Sept. 11.

AC Transit Drivers Voting On Contract

OAKLAND (UPI) — Union members cast their final ballots on a new contract today while AC Transit supervisors prepared for a hoped-for resumption of service Sunday.

Ed Cordeiro, president of the Amalgamated Transit Union Division 192, predicted the union rank and file would approve the contract to end the 61-day strike.

AC Transit negotiators have already tentatively approved the agreement, with formal ratification expected at 7 o'clock tonight.

Mechanics and maintenance employees are due to return to work Saturday to prepare the 800-bus fleet for service. The first driver will wheel his bus on a run to downtown Oakland Sunday, leaving the Seminary Division yard at 12:08 a.m., according to AC Transit officials.

The system serviced 200,000 passengers in the East Bay and across the Bay Bridge to San Francisco before the strike.

Union members had rejected the company's initial contract proposal twice. The second proposal boosted the hourly wage by 12 cents. By the end of the three-year contract period, employes will be earning $7.27 per hour, 65 cents more than they earn now.

AC Transit was operating in the red before the strike and it is uncertain how much the new wage and cost-of-living adjustments will add to the deficit and cost the taxpayers.

One of the transit district's seven directors, William E. Berk, had proposed that resumption of service be delayed until Tuesday. The savings in Labor Day overtime pay would have amounted to $200,000, he said.

FBI Chief Feels Wire Tap Need

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — FBI chief Clarence Kelley says the case of Patricia Hearst and the Symbionese Liberation Army is an example of why the FBI should be allowed wire taps in domestic security cases.

His agency has been authorized to make wire taps in some criminal cases, he said, "and they have been very useful."

He said he would like to see legislation extending wire tapping authority to revolutionaries.

"For example, in the SLA, we cannot put a wire tap on them because they are a domestic security matter," he said.

Kaiser Drops Smelter Plans

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Co. has decided not to participate in the building of an aluminum smelter on Northern Sumatra in Indonesia.

A company spokesman said the firm had for about a year studied a proposal put forward by five Japanese firms to build the smelter.

However, he said Kaiser would reconsider if "more favorable conditions develop in the future."

The Japanese companies include Sumitomo Chemical and Nippon Light Metal.

OVERPASS — Construction workers park their cars in the shade of the already completed Rowland Boulevard overpass of the Novato freeway bypass. Work on the overpass has been completed and the off-ramps and onramps have already been paved waiting for the Oct. 1 date for opening the northbound lanes. This will be the first Novato exit in the bypass for northbound traffic.

NORTHBOUND LANES NEARING COMPLETION

Graders and earth moving equipment prepare the roadbed for the new northbound lanes of the Novato freeway bypass between Highway 37 (top) and Rowland Boulevard. Existing freeway (right) shared by north and southbound traffic will be exclusively for the southbound when the bypass is finished. Northbound lanes are due for completion about Oct. 1. Southbound lanes, which must be brought up to freeway standards, will not be completed until about Nov. 1. In the intervening month southbound traffic will continue to have the use of only two lanes at a time. (Photos by Ty Barbour)

EROSION PREVENTION — Construction workers smooth out concrete to prevent erosion on the DeLong Avenue overpass of the Novato freeway bypass. This type of concrete apron under the overpasses prevents erosion on the cuts and fills of the bypass. When completed, this overpass is to be the main entrance to downtown Novato.

Tax Rate Effects To Be Varied

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The $3.02 county tax rate set by Sonoma supervisors this week will have varying effects on homeowners in Southern Sonoma County, according to figures compiled by the county assessor's office.

The tax rate, though down 33 cents from last year's $3.35, won't mean smaller tax payments for most homeowners because their property has increased in value during the last year.

Property values in Cotati and Rohnert Park went up an average of 55 per cent in the last year, county officials calculated, while Petaluma's went up 10 per cent on the average.

For the Southern Sonoman whose home was assigned a $25,000 market value last year for tax purposes, the county portion of his tax bill will go from last year's average of $150.75 to $238.58 if he lives in Cotati or Rohnert Park. If he lives in Petaluma he'll pay a county tax of about $154.

These figures are based on the assumption that each homeowner will claim the $1,750 homeowner's tax exemption allowed under state law.

This year's Sonoma County budget of $71.5 million, also adopted this week, represents an increase of about $750,000 over last year's.

CAMPAIGNS '74

Reception Is Set For GOP Hopefuls

A free champagne and punch reception for seven Republican candidates on the November ballot will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Sunday at party headquarters, 915 Lootens Place, San Rafael.

Reservations are being handled by the headquarters staff. A spokesman said attendance is supposed to be limited to registered Republicans.

Candidates to appear are A. Alan Hill in the Ninth Assembly District, Sen. Peter H. Behr in the Second Senatorial District, Tally Mastrangelo in the Board of Equalization's Third District, Thomas O. Caylor in the Fifth Congressional District, John T. Kehoe for state treasurer, Brian Van Camp for secretary of state, and Evelle J. Younger for attorney general.

BOXER — Attorney Stewart N. Boxer of Greenbrae has been elected Marin chairman of the new Fifth Congressional District Caucus Steering Committee. His wife, Barbara, is an aide to the Democratic nominee in the district, Rep. John L. Burton of San Francisco.

CROSBY — William M. Crosby of Larkspur, an attorney, has been named Marin campaign chairman for Sen. John L. Harmer of Glendale, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor.

SMALLEST FRONT YARD IN NOVATO

This house at 857 DeLong Avenue in Novato boasts the smallest front yard in the city. The City of Novato purchased the right-of-way from Louise L. Malfanti in 1969 for $7,500 when plans were made for widening DeLong Avenue. Now with the state completing its off-ramp in the distance, the city has taken all but three feet of the front yard of the house. Although the house is zoned single-family residential which requires a 25-foot front yard setback, planning director Brian W. Mattson said that the city did not need a variance, as would any resident, to create the nonconforming setback.

A $26 Million Tab For Marin Transit

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — More than $26 million in transit improvements in Marin County over the next decade have been incorporated into the Metropolitan Transportation Commission's master plan for the Bay Area.

New taxes probably will be needed to finance the vasstly expanded facilities, according to the revisions to the commission's 1973 regional transportation plan adopted Wednesday.

The plan, however, is silent on how to impose such taxes pending completion in November of a study of legislation to finance transit facilities.

The proposed improvements would be in addition to almost $21 million to be spent on new buses and ferries by the Golden Gate Bridge District. The revisions call for spending $2.5 million a year for the next three fiscal years, and then $7.5 million through 1984, all on improved transit service within the county.

The revisions also propose that $10 million be spent between 1978 and 1984 to expand express bus service across the Golden Gate to San Francisco, and $400,000 this year for bus service across the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge. (A private company started such a service in July.)

The commission has called for an additional sales tax to finance transit, and suggested consideration of increased gasoline, property and income taxes, and higher tolls and transit fares.

Sailing Voyage Turns Out Badly

LONDON (UPI) — Patrick Halliday's plan to sail around the world with his family hit a few snags, his wife told a London court.

A trial voyage in their second-hand catamaran covered 160 miles in three weeks. The boat was such a mess at the end of the trial that Halliday docked it on England's south coast and took off for Spain, alone.

His wife sued him for divorce.

Wednesday she went to court to prevent him selling the catamaran.

Mrs. Halliday, 30, said her husband planned to sail the family to New Zealand and settle there.

"I'm not against that, but I just had no confidence we would ever get there," she said. "I'm no sailor, and my husband knows nothing about navigation."

One Meeting Per Month Scheduled

The Tiburon Fire District board has decided to hold only one meeting per month from now on, the second Wednesday of the month at 8 p.m. at district station No. 1, 1679 Tiburon Boulevard.

Chief Franklin J. Buscher said that the change was agreed to Wednesday. Previously, the board had two monthly meetings.

New College Of California Bids For Parcel Of Waterfront Land

New College of California has joined the City of Sausalito and the Golden Gate Bridge District in the scramble for a parcel of surplus federal land on the Sausalito waterfront.

All three have applied to the federal government to acquire the property, which includes a pier, three acres of land and nine underwater acres at the Army Corps of Engineers headquarters.

The federal General Services Administration, which ultimately will decide who will get the property, has suggested that the three groups work out a plan for sharing it.

The College currently operates out of rented quarters in the Schoonmaker building and in a small L structure on Marinship Way, both in Sausalito.

In meetings with city officials this week, New College president John Leary asked for two of the three dry land acres on which to build the three-year-old school's first permanent building. "They were asking for too much," according to Sausalito planning director Herb Case, who suggested that college officials scale down their plans and come back later to discuss the matter again.

According to Case, the city and the bridge district feel they can share use of the property. The city wants it for recreation, a public fishing pier, which would require some of the dry land for parking. The bridge district needs space for auto parking and a portion of the pier to dock ferries when not in service. But there isn't much left for a college campus.

"I'd rather not make it a battle," Leary said. "I have discussed this with our architect and I think we can cut down our plans to less than two acres."

Case believes it may be possible to accomodate the school if its planned 14,000-square-foot building is constructed on two stories and won't require much parking. "But it's up to them (the college) to show us how we can fit them in," Case said.

Women Hold Up Man In Miami

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Michael Mellitt, 29, told police yesterday that he was held up by two women muggers at the Tangier Motel as he returned from an early morning dip in the pool.

He said one hit him with a club and the other grabbed his trousers, which held his wallet.

INFLATION — Graphs released this week by the U.S. Department of Commerce tell the story of the inflation crisis as money and accompanying demand outpace supply. While personal income (left) rises with inflation, the country's industrial production is slumping (second graph) because of a lack of money for investment. High interest rates for the money available for lending has brought the housing industry to a sharp decline (third graph), while consumers, forced to spend more and more money on necessities, are postponing buying new cars, causing a slump in the auto industry (right).

Saving Seen As The Cure For Nation's Economic Ills

guns," without paying the price of inflation.

Since the Vietnam War, the government has continued spending millions for social programs, which Walter called "better than killing people," but of no benefit to the economy.

On top of "too much debt and an unbalanced budget," came the Arabs, "who really cut the head off the whole thing," Davis said. "When the Arabs raised the price of oil, that capped the situation."

Meanwhile, Davis said, "Nixon wasn't paying much attention (to the economic situation) and Congress was paying very little."

Piled onto an already quivering economy were new programs to cure pollution, build transit sytems and cure other social ills.

"I'm not saying these programs are not good," Walter said, "but the American people must realize the price. And the price is 10 to 12 per cent inflation."

With production going down, the stock market a shambles and a competition increasing for the available loan money, prices continue to rise.

With corporations unable to raise money through stock issue for capital investment, they began competing with everyone else for the available loan money. "We've (banks) tried to ration loans by price," Walter said, "and that hasn't worked very well."

He also said that "in retrospect, wage and price controls didn't work very well."

He cited whole industries, like the housing, where high interest rates and stringent down payment requirements have brought business virtually to a halt.

Walter, whose young bank specializes in serving small and middle-sized businesses, said his customers are "beginning to pull in their horns." Like large enterprises, they are stopped from making improvements that would mean more productivity because of the high interest rate.

Walter also said he does not expect long-term interest rates to drop soon "because there is too much backed-up demand" for long-term money, but he thinks short-term interest rates should start to go down.

"It hasn't hit the consumer yet; it hit the corporate level and the real estate field first," Larkin said.

Bank of America, he said, is still keeping consumer lending at a high level because of the "great liquidity and turnover" in that type of loan, which gets paid off in as little as a year's time.

Adding to the lack of money available in this country for much needed investment in industry, is the amount of American money going overseas, particularly to Arab countries.

The Arabs do not want to invest those dollars in this country, Davis said, "because they don't want to fall into the same trap as the little old ladies who bought government bonds," only to have them paid back in deflated dollars.

A balanced federal budget would cure this problem, Davis said.

Furthermore, a balanced budget would be an example of "belt tightening" for the American people, Larkin said. "You can't ask the people to cut back if the government won't."

He and the other two men were in agreement as to what Americans will have to do to help reduce inflation.

"Stop spending. Start saving," Larkin expressed it.

(Tomorrow: The "belt tightening" American must practice to recover.)

Echeverria Refuses Any Bargain With Father-In-Law's Kidnapers

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — President Luis Echeverria stuck to his refusal to deal with the kidnapers of his aged and ailing father-in-law today and police searched for three suspects believed to have entered the country secretly from Cuba.

Police sources said all three suspects had been released from Mexican prisons last year as ranson for kidnaped U.S. Consul General Terence Leonardy and had been sent to Cuba.

Though the three suspects, described as the "brains" of the kidnaping, remained at large, up to 20 persons were reported taken into custody for questioning, including three known terrorists. One of them was described as a former chauffeur and household employee of the victim's family.

The self-styled Revolutionary Armed Front of the People claimed responsibility for kidnaping Jose Guadalupe Zuno Hernandez, 83, and a kingmaker in Mexican politics for the past half century, in Guadalajara on Wednesday.

A Mexico City radio station said the Front was demanding a $1.6 million ransom and release of 100 political prisoners.

Police sources said two of the three men suspected of taking part in the Zuno abduction held up a Guadalajara bank three months ago for $40,000.

TURN LEFT AT THE LIGHTHOUSE

The 126-foot Silverado, billed as the largest fiberglass boat ever built, halted traffic on the Coast Highway temporarily Wednesday as it crossed the Arches Bridge nearing the end of a five-mile journey from Costa Mesa to Newport Beach. The $1.7 million vessel was commissioned by candy magnate Harry See, and is supposed to be docked somewhere in the Bay Area.

Accused Prelate Faces Indictment

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israel's prosecutor announced today he would order an indictment handed up against Archbishop Hilarion Capucci, a Christian prelate arrested on charges of smuggling weapons to Arab guerrillas.

Prosecutor Gabriel Bach said he received Capucci's file Wednesday and would hand up the indictment to Jerusalem District Court. He declined to comment on what charges would be brought against Capucci.

In Nablus, on the Israeli occupied banks of the Jordan river, an Arab hurled a grenade at a passing police car. There was no damage or major injuries reported.

In Damascus, President Hafez Assad has ordered premier Mahmoud Ayyoubi to reshuffle his cabinet. The move comes two weeks after a similar reshuffle of the Syrian Army high command.

Police arrested the Syrian-born Capucci, 52, on Aug. 18, several days after a weapons cache was found in his limousine at the Israeli-Lebanese frontier. Capucci is an archbishop of the Melkite church.

They said the weapons were brought from Beirut and intended for guerrillas operating in Israeli-occupied territories.

The court ordered Capucci to serve 15 days in jail to permit an investigation. The 15 days expires Sunday but can be renewed by law for another 15 days.

"It's a question of a few days," Bach said of the forthcoming indictment. "We are studying his file, and it's very likely this will happen."

Bach's statement apparently ruled out the possibility that Israel would release Capucci to church authorities or immediately deport him. Capucci has been in East Jerusalem, captured from Jordan in 1967, since 1965.

Police Minister Shlomo Hillel said Capucci "acted against the church and, therefore, he will be judged in an Israeli court and punished accordingly if he is found guilty.

Bach said the cabinet would not intervene in the case. "It's a question for the legal authorities," he said. "Nothing has been discussed about deportation."

A suspected Arab guerrilla hurled a grenade at a passing police vehicle, causing neither casualties nor damage, police said. They said they detained several suspects for questioning.

Editor's Abductor Gets 40-Year Term

ATLANTA (UPI) — William A. H. Williams was sentenced to 40 years in federal prison today for extorting $700,000 ransom in the kidnaping of Atlanta Constitution editor Reg Murphy.

U.S. District Judge William C. O'Kelley imposed the maximum of 20 years for extortion and added two additional terms of 10 years each for using the mails to transmit a ransom demand and for using a gun in commission of a felony.

Williams, a subcontractor from nearby Lilburn, Ga., confessed kidnaping Murphy last Feb. 23. The newspaper editor was released unharmed after a 49-hour ordeal which ended with payment of the ransom.

Often sobbing before sentence was imposed, Williams said in a 30-minute statement that he considered himself a political prisoner whose martyrdom would draw attention to political corruption.

Williams told Murphy at the time of the abduction that he was kidnaping him to focus attention on what he felt were liberal leanings of the news media.

"I go out the door with my head high with the realization that what I've done in my opinion —bizarre as it may have been —was the only thing I could do," he said today.

"I've given no quarter and I've asked no quarter. I bid farewell to my wife and children but I ask no mercy."

Murphy and his wife were in the courtroom as the sentence was imposed.

O'Kelley recommended but did not order that the U.S. Bureau of Prisons give Williams a psychiatric examination.

Williams' wife Betty Ruth, who was charged with knowing about her husband's crime and not reporting it, was expected to enter a plea in the case later today.

Canada Seeks Return Of Deserter Held By U.S.

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada has formally requested the United States to return a U.S. Army deserter living in British Columbia allegedly arrested on Canadian soil and taken into the United States by force.

A Canadian government spokesman said last night U.S. Customs officials had admitted they arrested Ronald Anderson, 31, last Saturday "a few yards" into Canada at a border crossing.

They said Anderson was crossing into the United States to visit his family when a customs check disclosed he was a deserter. He broke away and sprinted back to the Canadian side of the line, but customs officials pursued him and arrested him.

"We have requested his return and the ball is now in their court," the Canadian spokesman said.

The State Department had no immediate response.

Anderson, who has the status of a landed immigrant in Canada, was being held in the stockade at Fort Lewis, Wash. He has been listed as absent without leave since Nov. 18, 1968 when he left the Army because of his opposition to the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Anderson, his wife, Marion, and their 10-month-old son were on their way into Washington State when a customs officer made a license check on their car.

A check by a National Crime Information Center computer identified Anderson as a deserter.

Anderson's mother, Mrs. Betty Peterson, Poulsbo, Wash., said she believes her telephone may have been tapped when her son called her last week to say he was coming down for a visit.

"He had made at least a half dozen trips down here since he left the Army unit at Ft. Lewis," she said. "He was never hassled at the border any of those times although I always feared something like this might happen."

Meany Issues A Gloomy Note For Labor Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said today American working men and women have abandoned the dream of improving their lot and are now merely struggling to survive.

"While we have hope, we have no assurance that the end to the economic mess is in Americans."

"One of the articles of faith of the 'trickle-down' theorists is reduced government spending," Meany said. "And, so, they propose to cut school lunch programs, reduce veterans disability pensions, increase the amounts that senior citizens must pay for their medical care. All of these are wrong."

The AFL-CIO, in a separate Labor Day weekend statement issued by Lane Kirkland, secretary-treasurer, said organized labor wants legislation that will provide "quality health care as a matter of right for all Americans."

JACK KIRKWOOD

Disc Jockey Digs Trivia

By KAREN PETERSON

"It'll never last," groaned parents. "It's here to stay," sang the chorus of teen-agers.

The debate was centered on a new sound, music that shook the Top Ten from head to foot — rock and roll.

Way back in the 50's a group called Bill Haley and the Comets released a tune called "Rock Around the Clock." To the 50's generation, that was a call to arms.

TODAY, television shows, motion pictures and musicians are all reaching back to snatch a little something from the oldies but goodies. And with this revival, nostalgia fans are joining the ranks of trivia freaks; trying to outdo one another when it comes to answering such questions as "How many freckles were on Howdy Doody's face?"

The 50's ushered in an era of cruising in souped-up Nomad wagons and sipping cherry sodas at the corner drive-in. Teenagers were going to sock hops in their rolled up jeans and pedal pushers, exchanging ID bracelets and swooning to the strains of "our song."

THERE WAS, and is, Jerry Lee Lewis, who in his early years wore his hair bleached white and thrilled his screaming audience by playing the piano with his feet.

Along came Elvis and parents were shaking their heads as he shook and shimmied to the cacophony of female squeals.

Amidst a repertoire of such greats as "Teen-Age Prayer," "Chantilly Lace," and "Primrose Lane," KTIM disc jockey Jack Kirkwood smiles and says, those were really "good times."

KIRKWOOD is both a 50-s music buff and a trivia freak, and to the delight of his radio audience, donates much of his airtime to those relics of the past. (Kirkwood is on the air weekdays from 1 to 6 p.m. and Saturdays from noon to 4 p.m.)

Bill Haley and the Comets "kicked off rock and roll" when Kirkwood was an "early teenager" in Colorado. "I enjoyed the music; loved it."

The music of the 50's had a "good solid beat," said Kirkwood, and the "lyrics made sense. They told a story. . .(there was) a tremendous amount of love songs."

THE MOOD of the 50's was "uptempo," people were getting "fun out of life and enjoying it," he said, breaking into laughter at the mention of such songs as "Little Nash Rambler."

He also laughs at the gimmicks of the 50's, when disc jockeys were "broadcasting from beneath the pool at Marineland or seeing who could stay on the air the longest." And there were fan clubs for uprising young stars such as Fabian.

But there were also tragedies in the rock world, notably the deaths of Buddy Holly and Richie Valens. That had a great "impact on the music business," said Kirkwood. "They were very, very popular."

"THE WHOLE music thing does a complete turn-around every 10 years," he related. Next it may be the "40's, possibly the 30's." It "revives itself," he added, pointing to the success of singers Bette Midler and the Pointer Sisters who are trademarked by their use of yesteryear song and dress.

When Kirkwood talks about the "fond memories" of the 50's, it's a cue to start a round of trivia. Trivia, described by Kirkwood as "a remembrance of things past," is an upcoming indoor sport, gaining heavily in popularity just this year.

Books are published and contests are held for trivia people. In February, Kirkwood started playing trivia on his show, drawing an "unbelievable response" from adults and children of all ages.

HE STARTED gradually, but now as the five phone lines light up as soon as he throws out a question, Kirkwood wonders if he "created a monster."

His trivia questions are taken from radio and television shows and motion pictures as well as sports, music and a sampling of politics.

He also plays a trivia game called "Wahoo Hangman," a takeoff of the old hangman game where people guess a number of letters and win if they can guess the whole word.

"That's the heaviest part of the day," said Kirkwood of the 3 p.m. game.

"I can rmember (a) trivia (answer), but I can't tell you what I had for lunch yesterday," he laughed as he picked up his volumes of nostalgia books and left to open another show.

(Next Friday — Tamalpais High School; how it was in the '40s).

TRIVIA TEST

Can you top Kirkwood at his own game? Here are a few trivia questions he volunteered. (Answers on next page.)

Who was the announcer on the long-running television program, the "Art Linkletter Show?"

Who played Mike Barnett in the television series, "Man Against Crime?"

Who was the singing master of ceremonies on the television show, "Stop the Music?"

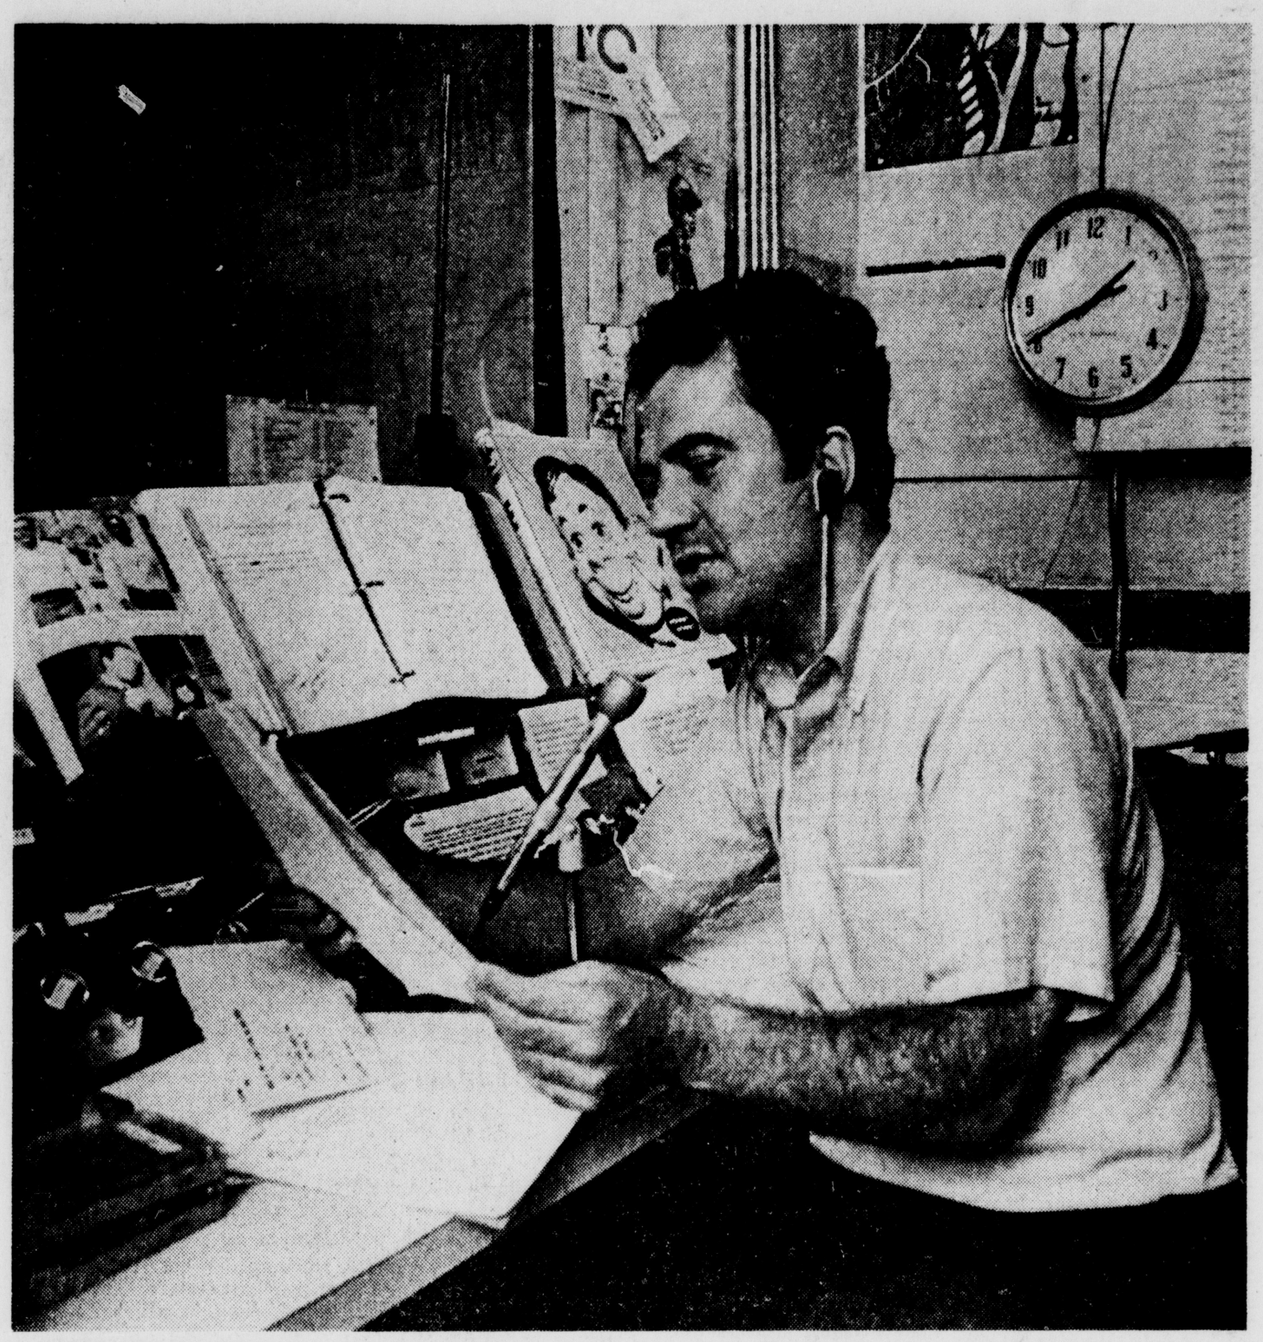
What was Edmund Gwen's crime in the 1950's motion picture, "Mr. 880?"

Name five motion picture stars of the '50s, whose first and last names begin with the letter D.

In the 50's motion picture, "Blackboard Jungle," what was the opening hit song?

In the 50's motion picture, "High School Confidential," starring Mamie Van Doren and Paul Anka, singer Jerry Lee Lewis is seen playing what song in the opening scene?

"Ah, yes," joked Kirkwood, "where are they today?"



FIFTIES TRIVIA — "In the 1950 movie . . .," begins KTIM-AM disc jockey Jack Kirkwood as he introduces a trivia question on his afternoon show which features music of the 50s.

WORKSHOPS

Onetime only workshops in crewel embroidery, picture framing and silk-screening will be offered this fall by the YWCA of Marin.

Students are asked to bring a piece of material, hoop, thimble, needle and crewel thread to the embroidery workshop at 10 a.m. Monday Sept. 9 at the YWCA office, 1618 Mission Street, San Rafael. Six basic crewel stitches, a history of crewel embroidery, an equipment list and list of local suppliers will be covered. The workshop is free.

Ginny Schweiger will teach picture framing at a three-hour clinic at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 2 at the Fairfax Lumber Company in Fairfax. The fee is $5, materials will be supplied to frame whatever art work the student brings.

Joyce Gregg is the instructor for the silk-screen workshop scheduled Saturday, Sept. 14 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the YWCA office. Seven dollars pays for the fee, with an additional $1 for materials.

Parents-To-Be Instruction Set

Expectant parents are invited to enroll in the Education for Childbirth Program, a series of eight weekly meetings of exercises, relaxing and breathing techniques, posture training and exercises for post-natal recovery.

The classes will begin Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the physical therapy office of Gunhild Brown in Greenbrae. Betty Cahill, a registered nurse, will be the instructor.

Information may be obtained from the Education for Childbirth office, 1300 S. Eliseo Drive, Suite 102, Greenbrae.

A Second Chance For Women GIs

Many women veterans who did not use their GI Bill after the Korean conflict now have a second chance under a new law.

Eligibility for veteran's benefits was recently extended two years for veterans discharged after Jan. Deadline for completion of training is now May 31, 1976, or 10 years from the veteran's date of discharge, whichever is later.

Of the some 160,000 women veterans eligible for current G.I. Bill school benefits, about 54,000 have trained under this program.

This spring nearly 21,000 were in training, mostly in college. Only 209 were on-the-job trainees.

Below college level training is available in a wide range of occupations such as hotel or motel manager, specialty shop or store manager and hairdresser, plus other programs also open to men.

Women veterans of the Air Force lead in GI Bill training, with 15,672 having been trained. The Army is second with 15,361.

Benefit Will Aid Marin Animals

A country fair to raise funds for charity medical care for Marin animals is scheduled for the weekend of Sept. 21 and 22 at the Horsemen's Grounds of the San Geronimo Valley Horsemen's Association. The event will be called The Animal Fair.

Sponsor of the fair, which will offer arts and crafts exhibits, homemade goods and bazaar items, children's games and continuous entertainment, is the Animal Medical Care Foundation of Marin.

This all-volunteer organization was founded two years ago to offer low-cost spay-neutering service to animals in Marin, to give medical services to injured wildlife and to help persons in financial need pay for medical treatment for their pets.

A maximum of 200 booths will be leased to artists who wish to exhibit, or to churches and community groups for sale of home-made foods, homewares, toys, clothing plants or flea market items, according to fair chairman Anne Rogers.

The foundation will reap its profits from the rental of space, allowing the lessee to profit from the sale of goods. Proceeds from the nominal admission charge will also go to the foundation, as will profits from sale of cotton candy, soft drinks, hot dogs and other pick-up foods.

Among entertainments to be offered are a western horse show and an English horse show, performance by Jack Nunn of Woodacre and his trained horse, belly dancer Stassa of San Anselmo, several bands, strolling musicians and horse rides for children.

Serving on the fair committee are Carole Steele and Mrs. Rogers of San Rafael in charge of arts and crafts booths; Gina Westcott of Novato, beverages; Bette Roberts of Ross and Jackie Chandler of Novato, children's games; Rebecca Paschal of Novato, entertainment; Judy Jones of Ignacio, face painting; Herminia Kleiber of San Rafael, flea market; Jan Johnston and Dottie Westcott of Novato, food; Michael Steele of San Rafael, finances, Jean Paschal of Novato, sweets; Harry Rogers of San Rafael, security.

Other workers include Kathy Ford of Greenbrae; Margaret Glassmaker, Reggie Weiner Marge Rediske, Margareta Akesson and Fran Putnam of Novato; Chic de Cazessus and Toby Atterbury of Mill Valley; Nancy Linebarger of Larkspur; Helen Curry of San Anselmo; Bernice May, Thelma Peetz, Jean Hardcastle, Jane Ellis, Rose Upper, Judi Anson, and Karen Cosgrove of San Rafael; Jane Davison, Sue Dreitzler and Kristin Clifton of Marinwood and Jan Cherrstrom of Terra Linda.

Michael Steele, president of the Animal Medical Care Foundation, said Marin veterinarians had contributed more than $50,000 in services and monies since the group was funded two years ago.

Persons interested in leasing far space should telephone chairman Rogers at her home, 184 Bret Harte Road.

Word 'Aged' Is Strongly Opposed

CHICAGO (UPI) — The term "aged" ought to be abolished, says Dr. William Gellman, research director of the Easter Seals Society.

Age 60 to 70 should be referred to as "late middle age," he said, and beyond 70 as "maturity."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Sexual Counseling Is Much More Than Dirty Pictures And Orgies

DEAR HELEN:

My wife and I fight about almost everything. We don't get along in bed or out of it. But — When I'm away from her I'm not happy, and she feels the same. We still love each other, but we need lessons in how to get with it.

Would sex therapy help? Please convince my wife it isn't just a bunch of sex orgies with dirty pictures. — STEVE AND VIRGINIA

DEAR STEVE:

No, Virginia, sex therapy — the legitimate kind — is not a bunch of orgies with dirty pictures. But because anyone can become a "sex doctor" (the profession is so new there are no licensing procedures, as yet), watch out for the zanies, the kinkies and the price-gougers. Ask your local family service agency or Mental Health Association for a referral, and be sure the counselor you choose has qualified professional background.

Would sex therapy help? Probably, but your letter indicates you also need a total marriage appraisal. Constant fighting produces poor sex, no matter how great the techniques, for you're bound to carry resentments with you into the bedroom.

These days, many marriage counselors offer a sex course as part of the package. Others refer their clients to trained local therapists, and still others recommend sex education classes at nearby colleges, or books, such as "The Joy of Sex" by Alex Comfort, or the several discussions of the Masters and Johnson treatment for sexual dysfunction.

What does a sex therapy course offer? A lot of talk and a lot of private homework. Couples learn to communicate their feelings and desires to one another; to view sex as good, happy sharing, which needn't always end with intercourse; to correct faults or failures and increase enjoyment — and that the only four-letter word in sex relationships is "fast."

Sex therapy usually lasts 10 or 12 sessions, although intensive weekend encounters are becoming popular. Costs vary in different areas, but average around $25 or $30 per hour.

My advice, Steve and Virginia: find a well-recommended marriage-and-sex counselor. Good luck! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 62 and have never been married. Several months ago, I met a wonderful man three years my senior. We love each other very much. He, too, has never been married.

He thinks we should have a "white wedding," because "every woman deserves the thrill of her beautiful bridal gown." But, Helen, I am not a virgin and I'm afraid he thinks I am. Years ago, I had a brief affair I don't regret.

Should I confess I'm not pure, or just go ahead with the white dress and be a liar? I'm afraid to risk our love with the truth.

— LATE IN LOVE

DEAR LATE:

(Now I've heard everything!)

I doubt that a 65-year-old man would be very shocked to learn his 62-year-old bride isn't a virgin, but if he's not curious, why mention the subject?

For your information, white does not signify virginity. I'd say you were 99.44 per cent purer than most other women your age, so stop worrying. — H.

Hospital Sets Course In Sanitation

A course in sanitation to help nursing home cooks or kitchen employees meet requirements of a new federal law will be offered in Marin beginning Sept. 12 at Novato General Hospital.

The law now requires licensed nursing homes to have a certified food service supervisor on their dietary staffs. A prerequisite for the required dietetic supervisor course is the class in sanitation, safety and equipment.

The class, offering three college credits, is being offered in Marin by Santa Rosa Junior College. It will be given from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursdays; registration will be held at the opening class Sept. 12. Fee is $3.50.

Further information may be obtained from the Marin County Department of Health Services, office of the nutritionist.

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN F. CUTLER III
Ceremony in the redwoods

Old Mill Park Is Scene Of Cutler, Gale Rites

Old Mill Park in Mill Valley was the setting for the wedding Aug. 17 of Kirsten Gale of Berkeley and Edwin F. Cutler III of Novato.

A reception was held in San Rafael, after which the young couple departed for a trip to Mexico City.

Laura Goodman of Cranston, R.I. was maid of honor, with the bride's sister Kathy Gale and the bridegroom's sister Suzanne Cutler as flower girls.

The groom's father, Edwin F. Cutler Jr. of San Rafael, served as best man.

The bride's other sister, Karen Gale, and two of her friends, Annette Hoystrup and Mary Mansfield, played a Vivaldi composition for bassoon, flute and violin, and Dave Zoellner played solo music on the guitar.

Kirsten is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Gale of Berkeley.

She was graduated from Anna Head School in Berkeley, attended International People's College in Denmark, and received a B.A. degree in anthropology and Scandinavian literature from University of California at Berkeley. She will attend California State University, San Jose, this fall, working toward a librarian's credential.

She is the granddaughter of Dagmar Gale in Fredensborg, Denmark and Else Skeby of Roskilde, also Denmark.

Edwin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cutler of San Rafael. He is the brother of Suzanne of San Rafael and Greg Cutler of Nome, Alaska. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cutler Sr. of Sonoma and Bernice Walters of Kansas.

He was graduated from Terra Linda High School and attended University of California at San Diego. He will be a student at University of California at Berkeley in the fall. He is employed at PG&E in San Rafael.

The couple will live in Berkeley.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Novato

Linda Higashi and Terry Miller of Novato were married at All Saints Lutheran Church in Novato on Saturday, Aug. 24.

Linda is the daughter of Mrs. Fumiko Higashi of Novato and Haruo Higashi of Highlands. Terry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Miller of Novato.

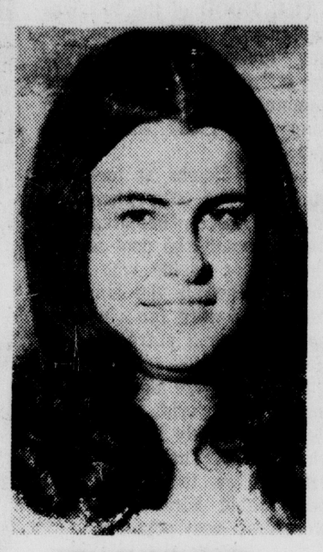
Linda chose as her maid of honor Faye Malone of Novato, Maureen Heyman of Chico, Jill Miller of Novato, the bridegroom's sister, and Sandy Nakamine of South Lake Tahoe.

Kerry Atkinson of Cotati was best man for the bridegroom and ushers were Bill Roscoe of Rohnert Park, Mark Brown of Novato, Scott Lemon of San Rafael, and Lester Higashi, of Novato, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the Non-Commissioned Officer's Club at Hamilton Air Force Base. The couple will live in Rohnert Park.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and California State University, Fresno, with a bachelor of science in therapeutic recreation. She is employed at the Novato Parks and Recreation Department. She is also the sister of Mrs. Miyoko Gibson of Novato and the granddaughter of Mrs. Harumi Higashi of Los Angeles.

The bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is a carpenter in Marin County. He is also the brother of Kent, Randy and Scott Miller of Novato and the grandson of Mrs. Iola Blouin of Stanton, Clifford Blouin of Albuquerque and Mrs. Harry Miller of Minneapolis.



NINA MARIE WARD
Planning to marry

Nina Ward Engagement Announced

The engagement of Nina Marie Ward to James Terryl Rutledge has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Ward of Mill Valley.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Rutledge of Mill Valley, the grandson of Mrs. W. E. Rutledge of Laguna Beach, and the brother of Mrs. James Powers and Deena Rutledge of Mill Valley.

Nina is the sister of Neil Ward of Mill Valley, Mrs. Gail Walker of Pocasset, Mass., Lee Ward of Cotati, and Kevin Ward of Corte Madera.

Both Nina and James are graduates of Tamalpais High School. She attended the College of Marin for one year, and is now studying at California State University, Chico. The future bridegroom is in his senior year at the University of California at Davis.

Plans are being made for a wedding in June, 1975.

FREE * EAR PIERCING
WHAT DOES FREE EAR PIERCING MEAN?
Beadazzled charges only for the gold earrings, $9.95. If you were to purchase the earrings without having your ears pierced, the price would be the same. Therefore, the piercing is free.
HOW ARE EARS PIERCED AT BEADAZZLED?
Ear lobes and earrings are cleaned with alcohol and the piercing spot on the ear lobe marked with a surgical pencil. The earring is inserted into a piercing instrument which injects it into the lobe quickly and painlessly with pin-point accuracy. Each piercing is done with brand new earrings which were received in sealed containers.
WHAT ARE THE PIERCING EARRINGS?
The piercing earrings are ball post earrings but are unique because they are 24 carat gold applied to surgical steel. This is usually safe even for people with metal sensitivities.
The piercing earrings make good-sized, straight holes so it is possible to wear all types of earrings. (Home piercing methods often produce crooked holes that are too small for posts.)

Final Erhlichman Delay Try

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John D. Ehrlichman has lined up a star defense witness —former President Nixon —but is still battling to stall the Watergate cover-up trial until next year while publicity over Nixon's resignation dies down.

Apparently undaunted by earlier rebuffs from two federal courts and from the chief justice himself, Ehrlichman's lawyers yesterday filed a last-ditch emergency appeal seeking to keep the case from going to trial Sept. 30 as scheduled.

The petition, directed to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, was filed within hours after federal marshals served an Ehrlichman subpoena on Nixon at San Clemente, Calif., commanding him to testify.

The only way Nixon could now avoid appearing at the trial of Ehrlichman and five other former aides would be to persuade Judge John J. Sirica to quash the subpoena. Some sources close to the case believe he could do so only if he states that he would claim Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination if called to the stand.

Nixon has been named an unindicted co-conspirator in the cover-up plot, and Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski is weighing whether to seek his indictment now that Nixon is a private citizen.

Ehrlichman, once Nixon's No. 2 aide, is seeking to stall the cover-up trial at least until January, contending the massive publicity surrounding Nixon's admission of complicity and subsequent resignation makes a fair trial impossible at this time.

The trial was originally scheduled to start Sept. 9. Sirica rejected pleas from Ehrlichman and three other defendants to stall it until next year, and the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia likewise refused to order a lengthy delay.

But the appeals court did "suggest" a brief postponement and Sirica consented. Ehrlichman then appealed to Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, but Burger Wednesday refused to tamper with the new trial date.

Ehrlichman turned finally to Douglas, who has supervisory control over federal courts in Ehrlichman's home state of Washington. The appeal apparently was an attempt to have Douglas refer the issue to the entire nine-man court, now in recess until Oct. 1. Should Douglas do so, it would have the effect of stalling the trial at least until late October.

Douglas was vacationing at his retreat in Goose Prairie, Wash. A decision was expected in a few days.

There were these other developments:

Nixon also was served with a subpoena to make a sworn statement next month in a civil suit by persons who claim they were barred illegally from Nixon's appearance at a 1971 Billy Graham rally in Charlotte, N.C.

Sirica finished listening to 55 Watergate tapes Nixon was forced to surrender by a July 24 Supreme Court order and forwarded the last of them on to Jaworski after screening out material protected by executive privilege. He also sent the prosecutors a batch of notes taken by Ehrlichman, H.R. Haldeman and Charles W. Colson during taped meetings with Nixon.

The White House said it has asked Attorney General William B. Saxbe for a ruling on who has legal custody of Nixon's remaining tapes still locked in a White House vault, a ruling made necessary because subpoenas are still arriving and it is unclear to whom the tapes belong.

Population Guidelines Laid Down

BUCHAREST (UPI) — The World Population Conference today approved a plan of action laying down the first international guidelines for limiting the earth's population.

The plan called for a reduction in world birth rates by 1985. It also asked countries to provide family planning information and services to all who want them and promised greater assistance to poorer countries.

The plan, adopted at the final session of the U.N.-sponsored conference, also guaranteed the equality and status of women.

Delegates to the 149-nation talks said approval of the plan was a formality because no block of countries could command the two thirds majority needed to change the text of the statement drawn up by a working group in the past eight days.

Parker Mauldin, an American population expert, said the document reflected a Third World backlash against Western predictions of overpopulation doom.

He said, however, the talks would likely increase requests from developing nations interested in keeping their population growth under control.

Politicians at the conference hailed the document as an important first step, but population experts said the plan was too limited and short-sighted.

"It will be said that this conference met on the eve of the greatest famine in the world and this conference did not recognize this," French agronomist Rene Dumont said.

The head of the U.S. delegation, Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of healh, education and welfare, said the plan was strengthened by an American move to incorporate a section on the status of women.

Anthropologist Margaret Mead said, however, the document was full of "compromises, euphemisms and circumlocutory arrangements" and "women are hardly in there at all."

U.N. population specialist Leon Tabah complained that all concrete targets in the original text had been replaced by vague statements about a "new international economic order."

Delegates described the final version as a victory for Third World nations in favor of raising living standards through economic development rather than population control.

What He Wouldn't Do For Wood

ANTIQUE TYPE — E. H. Henry, a printer from McKinney, Tex., who gave up his trade two years ago, has amassed what he believes is the world's largest collection of antique wood newspaper type in the United States.

(UPI Telephoto)

McKINNEY, Tex. (UPI) — In a week's time E.H. Henry, a printer who gave up his trade two years ago, is as likely to do business with customers from West Germany or Northern Ireland as he is with one of his Collin County neighbors or a shopper from Dallas.

The slim man from Missouri and his wife of 35 years labor in a dusty building a block off the town square. A sign over the front door gives only Henry's name. There is no flashing neon nor any need for it.

But despite the obscure surroundings Henry's antique wood type collection is the largest and among the most valuable in the United States.

"If what I have stored here burned, then all the money of Howard Hughes couldn't replace it because it just isn't there to replace anymore," Henry said as he surveyed stacks of century-old type trays and one-of-a-kind handcarved pieces of wooden type.

A week earlier Henry, 63, drove to Colorado in search of the type. The week before that he traveled to Kansas and he plans to search in Pennsylvania. He has bought old type in 42 states but more and more there is less and less available for purchase.

"For a while I used to get 10 replies a week to the advertisement I run in trade publications," he said. "Now I'm lucky to average one every two weeks.

"I traveled 50,000 miles a year but it is going to be a lot less now because it (antique wood type) is just not there."

When the wood type is gone —to antique collectors, museums or housewives who just want to make an attractive collage —there won't be any replacements.

"From about 1828 to 1900 it was used extensively," Henry said. "But offset (cold type) replaced it in 95 per cent of the weekly newspapers across the country. There won't be anymore. It can't be reproduced, it's too expensive. It was handrouted (carved)."

Henry finds his wooden type in small town print shops and rural newspapers primarily. Many have closed through the years and unloaded the type inexpensively before it became a popular decorating trend.

He can get a better price from dealers or print shop owners who think of the merchandise in terms of its old use rather than as an "antique" commodity.

"I have approximately 1,200 to 1,500 drawers of wood type and about 9,000 copper coated cuts and 3,000 type trays."

In his travels Henry has acquired priceless cuts he has no plans to sell including an American flag with 33 stars and a political advertisement cut for William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

For the nation's bicentennial celebration Henry has put together three collages, each of which sold immediately. An advertising salesman once bought up several large wooden pieces of type and put together a collage of mostly block letters which a paper manufacturer used to photograph and reproduce on decorative Kleenex boxes.

Henry said his claim of largest stock in the United States was challenged only once by a fellow dealer from Ohio. But when Henry suggested they match stock with the loser giving his collection to the winner, the challenger backed down.

One Motorist Learns Lesson

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A woman hitchhiker put the double cross twice on William J. Nocetti, 34, a federal bank examiner.

Nocetti was driving her home yesterday when she said an earring dropped out the window. He stopped the car, got out and began to look for the bauble.

The woman sped off, leaving him in exhaust fumes.

Nocetti grabbed for his wallet to obtain cab fare only to find that she had taken that, too.

Nocetti thumbed a ride home in a police car.

Soldiers Leaving

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Another 2,000 American troops left Thailand during August, reducing the United States forces to about 28,000 men, military spokesmen said today. Another thousand are to leave by the end of the year.

Hillcrest Hospital Raising Room Rates

Room rates at Petaluma's Hillcrest Hospital will increase on Oct. 1 because of a decision by directors Wednesday to make them comparable to those in other area facilities.

Charles E. Cowen, administrator, said the new rates will be $95 a day for a private room, $90 for a two-patient room, $85 for a ward bed, $175 for the intensive care unit and $180 for the coronary care unit.

Ten area hospitals, including Marin General, were surveyed by Hillcrest directors, Cowen said, and the new rates reflect the average of the rates charted at the other facilities. Old rates ranged from $84.50 for a private room to $141.50 for the coronary care unit.

Cowen said the rate increase is necessitated by inflation, which has increased the costs of goods and services used by hospitals.

The higher rates, he said, will also help pay the 6 per cent salary increases given to most employees by the directors during their special meeting this week.

Cowen said the new pay schedule was also formulated after a survey of area hospitals, and he said Hillcrest's salaries will now be comparable to the average of salaries paid elsewhere in the Northern Bay Area.

No Soyuz Trouble

MOSCOW (AP) — The head of Soviet Cosmonaut training indicated today that the night landing made by the Soyuz 15 spacecraft was part of the advance flight plan and not an emergency measure because something went wrong in the flight, as some Western experts believe.

Woman Denies Murder Charge

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Carol Campbell, 27, pleaded innocent yesterday to the murders of Hillsborough socialite Louis Jean McNamara and a discharged sailor.

Her boyfriend, Barry Brown, also appeared on the same murder charges before San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Gerald Ragan, but his plea was delayed until September 18.

The couple were accused of killing Mrs. McNamara and dumping her body near Half Moon Bay. They were also accused of killing discharged sailor Stephen Russell, 22, who disappeared while hitchhiking in the same area.

They are also under indictment for the Santa Cruz murder of Richard Pipes, 29, a grocery clerk.

MAE'S EPITAPH — This gravestone-shaped painting by Demetrie Kabbaz is titled "Mae Day," and presents the legendary sex-symbol, Mae West, in various attitudes. It is included in the Marin County Fair Art Show now at the Veterans Memorial Building.

ART REVIEW

Exhibit At County Fair Reflects Many Thoughts

By ADA GARFINKEL

Art relates to life and reflects its many vagaries. Nowhere is this more evident than in the paintings, drawings and prints in the Marin County Fair Art Show in the Veterans Memorial Building. The exhibit will continue through Monday.

Works that are garish, violent and crude hang alongside others which are poetic, whimsical, primitive, nostalgic and surreal.

But how can we account for those best described as "my 6-year-old-kid can do better." We can only note that the jurors "liked them," considered them "honest" and "cute."

Contrasted with the simplistic naivete of these and their casual, anti-art manner of execution and framing, are many marvels of meticulously-detailed precision. One example is Elise Leptich's "The Exulting," an oil painting with the look of needlepoint. Another is William Campbell's huge horizontal ink drawing "Welcome to Wildaltercaland," with its explosive "comic book" imagery.

Precision is also evident in Felice Shatz' "The Guardian," a watercolor and acrylic work which reproduces the fur of a mother leopard and her cub with startling realism.

Nostalgic realism is evident in Wally Hedrick's large oil titled "Heidelberg Electric Belt" in which he reproduces word-for-word, the text and illustrations from a page of an old mail-order catalog.

Another kind of reality is inherent in James Dowlen's "Breadline," an enlarged facsimile of a dollar bill framed as a memento, and in C.M. Gurfisen's painting of five bound prisoners.

Other realities are seen in the strange vision of Birgitta Svenson's painting "From Dust to Dust;" in Gregg Cassel's untitled ink drawing of mythological figures in a primal setting; in Chester Arnold's "Five O'Clock," a crowded nightmare of traffic and humans, and in Ray Ragle's "Self-portrait XXI," a black-and-white woodcut exemplifying today's "thinking man."

Especially interesting works include: Gary Carlson's airbrushed "Transitions;" Bob Johnson's "Light Box," an activated plexiglass sculpture; James Neiswender's symbolic etching, "Bonecut;" Kristen Fenstermaker's "Two Toy Dolls"; Jon Maxedon's torso-landscape sculpture; Arthur Lutz' gigantic "Finger Ring" of wood and aluminum; John Wise's "Untitled No. 2" an energized color-field of textural layers of chalk over watercolor, and John Shaughnessy's drawing, "Lathe of Heaven" — an occupational and architectural melange.

Other notable works are Brent Bushnell's "The Labyrinth," a five-part conceptual sculpture of an environmental event, recorded photographically, and Sharon Schwartzmann's all black painting with evenly-spaced white chalk chevrons creating a rhythmic in-and-out movement.

Viewing hours are from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

New Joe's Has Good Food With Fair Prices And Wide Appeal

A restaurant cannot be all things to all people, and I believe it is a mistake for one to even try.

But this is not to say it shouldn't make an attempt to appeal to a wide range of diners-out, for there are profits in extra numbers. And people still do come in assorted styles and personalities and with many varying tastes and food preferences.

Generally they tend to meld together in a place that is "comfortable," and quite possibly this is the best word to describe a restaurant like New Joe's in Corte Madera. It makes no pretense to be anything than what it is. But even then it has a lot going for it — a dining room with a pretty view of the Edgewater Inn gardens and pool, for relaxation; a coffee shop for more informal eating or fast service; a bar and lounge for more relaxation; and banquet areas big enough to throw a good sized party or small enough for a more cozy group.

It is centrally located, there's good parking and the menu is varied enough to satisfy big eaters, small eaters, groups, couples and families.

That last can be very important, for it doesn't always work out to leave the kids with a baby sitter. In this case if there is a place to go where it doesn't cost too much to feed them it's better to take them along. And if it also doesn't cost too much to feed papa and mama, there's an extra incentive.

New Joe's dinners are from $3.95 up to about twice that, with plenty of selections in the $4.25 - $5.95 range. The policy here on youngsters under 12 has been to charge two-thirds of the entree price, though consideration is being given to making up a special child's menu.

Very popular now as a rider on the dinner menu is the $3.95 full course dinner, with minnestrone, salad, choice of Italian baked chicken or pot roast, a choice of French fries, spaghetti, ravioli or vegetable, along with ice cream or sherbet and beverage. It's available every night of the week, I'm told. There are also other daily features rotated through the week at $3.95 and an osso buco special (with risotto) at $4.95 on Tuesday nights.

From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sundays there's an excellent champagne brunch along with some $1.45 specials for the youngsters.

The management team here works like a well oiled unit. It should — Jim Pius and his assistant Mario Brenta have been associated in other restaurant ventures and are long time friends. You'll usually find Jim on duty during the day and Mario at night, except when they may be spelling each other on times off.

Mondays through Thursdays the lounge has a "Golly Whopper Hour (actually two and a half hours long from 4 to 6:30, when tall-size glasses go for the price of singles. And Wednesday through Saturday nights there is piano entertainment in the lounge by Frank Elliott.

MRS. YVONNE DUQUESNE, who as hostess at Le Camembert in Tamalpais Valley, is as much a part of this restaurant's operation as her son Gilbert and his partner Guy Francoz, has done it again.

She has taken another second national prize in her native Normand's La Tripiere d'Or Confrerie Gastronome annual food competition. This is her fourth award. She took a second place prize in 1966 and again in 1967 and a first in 1968. Needless to say you'll see this one on prominent display at Le Camembert.

THERE WILL BE a new chef and co-owner coming in next Tuesday at Le Chateau at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road, San Rafael. He is none other than Roger Braun, who has been head chef for several years at the Seven Seas in Sausalito. He was also several years at the Red Knight in San Francisco and has an excellent reputation.

Roger, who is replacing Florian Begg as partner to Joseph Lauper, undoubtedly will go over the menu carefully and probably come up with some changes. Incidentally, his wife Marian is also working there as waitress.

No doubt Paul De Moss down at the Seven Seas will regret losing Roger, but he has had a fine second chef in Carl Scheurman, who will now be moved up to the top spot.

STARTING NEXT TUESDAY, Sept. 3, The Normandie on the San Rafael Miracle Mile will close briefly - vacation time. That is, partners Michel Braud and Roger Minhondo are planning on getting away for a few days, but this is also their annual refurbishing period, so they'll be working at least part time.

Look for some new touches in the decor when they reopen — that will be on Friday, Sept. 20.

WATERSIDE VIEWS seem to go well with lunches and brunches, and a nice place to enjoy both is on the deck at Dominic's in San Rafael overlooking the canal.

If you don't take off for the hills this Labor Day weekend, why not make it to Dominic's for brunch tomorrow, Sunday or Monday. It's not far to drive and there's plenty of parking space when you get there.

IT'S ALWAYS ENCOURAGING to find a new restaurant making good — and apparently the new Velvet Turtle at 4020 Civic Center Drive, San Rafael is doing just that. In fact you may have to be patient in waiting for a table. If you are planning on going there for dinner it might be wise to phone ahead and check out the traffic situation and make a reservation if you can. This applies both to the middle of the week and on weekends.

It is open for lunches now on Saturdays from 11 a.m. as well as during the rest of the week.

MOST OF US living in Marin have visited at least a few of the wineries to the north of us in Sonoma and Napa counties. But now there's a chance to make a regular travel tour of it.

Wine Tours International, 1035 Bell Lane, Napa, is offering a trip of three days and two nights, taking in six different wineries in the Napa Valley — Berringer, Sterling, Charles Krug, Inglenook, Robert Mondavi and Christian Brothers, doing some wine tasting and learning the various techniques.

The tour includes two nights at the Silverado Resort and Country Club, guide service, transportation to the wineries, private tours around the grounds, tastings, gourmet dinner at Silverado, two picnic lunches, a funicular ride from the Robert Mondavi Winery in the valley floor over lake and treetops to the Sterling Winery perched on a high knoll — and several other benefits.

Write direct to Wine Tours International for information and rates.

Women Protest GM Seniority

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A group of women has filed a federal court suit protesting the seniority system used by General Motors Corp. in laying off employees at its Fremont plant.

The eight said they were among the 495 women laid off at the plant because they lacked seniority.

They held that the seniority provisions in GM's labor contract with the United Auto Workers means de facto discrimination against women.

Their suit asked that the firm hire more women. It also asks that those laid off be reinstated with back pay.

All the women belong to the Coalition of Labor Union Women.

GOOD PLACE TO TAKE CHILDREN — A typical family group at New Joe's in Corte Madera is given special attention by longtime waitress Ina Balushin and night manager Mario Brenta. Mrs. Baiushin has been at the restaurant since the days it was operated as Bob's of Marin.

There's a smile on the way.

We have a very special restaurant. It's very beautiful, without sideshows. And very delicious, without bills that give you the feeling you also bought dinner for the people at the next table. Your drink is made the way you'd make it yourself. Your waitress is unusually courteous. And your steak tastes as if the chef overheard the exact way you said "medium rare." Enjoy superb steaks and beef recipes. Or fine seafoods like Medallions of Lobster en Brochette (tiny "slipper" lobster tails skewered and lightly breaded) served with mushroom buttons and drawn butter, or tender Abalone delicately sauteed in butter and crowned with toasted almonds.

Drink and dine on couches and chairs so relaxing you'll think you're dining in a comfortable living room. In fact, the only thing that may remind you that you're not in a fine home is the bill. But it's a very gentle reminder.

Make tonight an evening worth smiling about, at The Velvet Turtle.

HOLD IT, GODIVA! — A London policeman yesterday put a stop to actress Fiona Richmond's Lady Godiva-style ride through Picadilly by placing her under arrest. The stunt was designed to publicize an erotic play in which Miss Richmond appears. She was charged with "insulting behavior" and fined $48. (UPI Telephoto)

A Nude's Cheeky Bit Of Show-Biz

LONDON (UPI) — Lady Godiva did it in the crowded streets of Coventry 900 years ago to protest oppressive taxes imposed by her husband. Actress Fiona Richmond did it in the busy streets of Soho in a cheeky bit of show-biz promotion.

Legend says only "Peeping Tom" sneaked a look at Lady Godiva in her bareback ride which resulted in her husband, Leoforic of Mercia, lifting taxes.

Throngs of shoppers and photographers carefully positioned in advance—and a policeman—caught Miss Richmond's act, which ended with a $48 fine.

Miss Richmond, who stars in a theater production opening Monday, managed to ride one block on a docile brown nag before the policeman tossed his cape around her bare shoulders.

She wore knee-length, red, sequinned boots, a matching wide-brimmed hat, a quite inadequate two-gun belt and a long blonde wig which wasn't long enough.

"So her hair, although long, wasn't as long as Lady Godiva's?" asked Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Sir Frank Milton when Miss Richmond appeared in Bow Street court.

"No, my lord," said Inspector Tony Gooding.

"I'd rather you did your publicity a little more discreetly," the magistrate told Miss Richmond.

Then he fined her for "using insulting behavior likely to cause a breach of the peace."

"I thought the magistrate was rather sweet about it all," Miss Richmond said after leaving the court.

Miss Richmond previously starred in an all-nude revue, "Pyjama Tops," and writes explicit first person accounts of romantic liaisons for "Men Only" magazine.

The magazine is published by Paul Raymond who also owns the Windmill theater, which will show Miss Richmond's new play.

Budget Vote Set

The Fairfax Town Council will approve a budget for 1974-75 and adopt a tax rate when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Fairfax Women's Club.

No New Sea Law From Conference

CARACAS (UPI) — Delegates to the Third United Nations Sea Law conference headed home today, disappointed at the slow pace of treaty negotiations governing the world's oceans.

Conference president Hamilton S. Amerasinghe, optimistic during the early stages of the 148-nation gathering, said it appeared doubtful if the 17th Century sea code would be replaced before 1976.

After a seven-month recess, the conference will reconvene in Geneva March 17 for six weeks. Then, according to a program approved earlier this week, the conference will shift back to Venezuela for a three week meeting.

"I am convinced, given the best will in the world, it will be physically impossible for us to finish the drafting of the treaty by the end of the spring session in 1975," the Ceylon delegate told a press conference after yesterday's closing.

Peru's Alfonso Arias Schreiber said the final treaty might be two years away.

Arias said he thought more progress would have been made if the major powers had reacted more favorably on the developing countries requests for a 200-mile sea.

The session ended in a deadlock between the industrialized nations and the poorer, developing ones on four key issues: territorial sea limits, deep sea mining, pollution control and passage of ships through the world's straits.

"We certainly didn't come to Caracas expecting to go back with a signed treaty," said Tanzania's J.S. Warioba.

Mine Leader Hopeful Of End To 'Death Traps'

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The head of the United Mine Workers Union sees an agreement to end a bitter 13-month Kentucky coal mining dispute as an end to "death-trap mines, starvation wages and meager benefits in return for their labor."

Elsewhere, a union boss of striking United Parcel Service employees in New York charged police used "violence and brutality" against strikers; and in Los Angeles, the Rapid Transit District took out seven-column newspaper ads to explain their position in an 18-day-old dispute which has sent 650,000 persons looking for other means of travel.

The Labor Department said strikes caused more man-days of idleness during the first seven months of 1974 than during all of 1972 or 1973.

United Mine Workers and the Eastover Mining Co. reached agreement early yesterday to end a violence-ridden, 13-month strike in Harlan County, Kentucky, during which one miner died of gunshot wounds.

The agreement gave the UMW the right to represent striking miners at the Brookside mine.

"This contract is a message to every non-union coal operator in the land that coal mining families have had their fill of death-trap mines, starvation wages and meager benefits in return for their labor," said UMW president Arnold Miller.

In New York, some 4,000 striking United Parcel employes marched against a UPS office on West 43rd Street.

"They were really quick on the stick," said Ronald Carey, president of Teamsters Local 804.

He said police moved in when the company started to move out trucks and strikers objected.

"They used violence and brutality. They hurt those guys. One had to be taken to a hospital. It was sickening," he said.

Police denied the charge and said there were no reports of injuries and no arests.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers prepared to hold ratification votes on a tentative contract for some 60,000 employes at strike-bound Western Electric, the manufacturing arm of the national Bell Telephone system.

Bulgaria Finds A Gold Statue

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — The forequarters of a solid gold statue of Pegasus, the flying horse of mythology, was dug up recently in Bulgaria, "Sofia News" reported here.

The report said the statue weighted 417 grams 15 ounces and "was a unique find for Bulgaria."

Some Gems Among Fair's Films

By GEORGE NEVIN

Take courage, film fans — American cinema is in good hands, judging from the entries in this year's Marin County Fair film competition.

Sure, there is the usual assortment of meaningless trash among the 29 movies selected for showing. But there are gems, too, that for their sheer inventiveness and impact put most Hollywood efforts to shame.

If the film industry gets lucky and manages to hold on to some of the better artists represented at the fair, and others of their creative ability, moviegoers will have a lot of sensory delights ahead of them.

For consistent excellence, student-made films seem to tower above independent offerings this year, though there are winners in both categories.

Three student entries in particular, all made by Southern California artists, demonstrate the power that short films can display.

The best is "Tomorrow is Only Tuesday," produced by Elodie Keene of Santa Monica and an all-woman production crew.

This black-and-white offering presents a day in the life of a young woman who works at the archetype of an impersonal American corporation, something called Systems Development Corp.

The protagonist no sooner gets to work on Monday morning than she is called on the carpet by the accountant for neglecting to punch her time card.

Her boss complains about her messy desk, and tells her, "Do you think you might wage your battle against the establishment some other place?"

Naturally, nothing can go right on a day that begins like that, and Miss Worker has to spend much of the rest of the 17-minute film trying to locate a lost file.

She barely evades the clutches of the office lecher, who tells her, "I'm not as good as I once was but I'm as good once as I ever was."

Then it's advice time from an older woman, who tells her, "Don't ever do anything to discredit a superior, because he's going to fire you someday."

The film contains all the gritty reality of the day-in, day-out struggle for a living. Any wage earner can see himself in her.

The film won a second prize and $200 for Miss Keene.

Also excellent is "Writer's Cramp," an honorable mention winner by Howard Brock of North Hollywood.

The movie, written in autobiographical style, follows the struggles of a young man determined to be a writer.

He is discouraged by his parents, who give him a sporty car a la "The Graduate" ("It was a plot — they were setting me up for a comfortable lifestyle"), dropped by his girlfriend and frustrated in his writing attempts.

But after a series of false starts (he gets nowhere in writing "The Origin of the Feces"), he finally comes up with a winner, and the camera pans in on him as he types it out — "Writer's Cramp."

Success at last.

Another honorable mention winner, Barbara Nobles' "Disorder," chronicles a young girl who drifts through her early 20s looking for herself.

In only 24 minutes, "Disorder" gives a down-to-earth portrayal of alienation. It's 10 times more effective than just about anything on that theme produced in Hollywood in the last decade.

The first prize winners — "The Story of a Craftsman," by S. M. Tapper and Karl Dempwolf of Woodland Hills, and "Room and Board," by Randy Cartwright of Fullerton — are well done, but somehow lack the impact of the other three.

"Room and Board" is an animated cartoon that won $300 for its maker. Its ironic ending got a laugh from just about everybody in the sparse audience at yesterday's opening.

And "The Story of a Craftsman" is a solid and satisfying film, but hardly a trailblazer.

It shows how a marvelous old Italian man, Domenick Cacallcchio of Hollywood, still makes trumpets by hand. He's the last craftsman of his kind in this country, and the film won $500 for Tapper and Dempwolf.

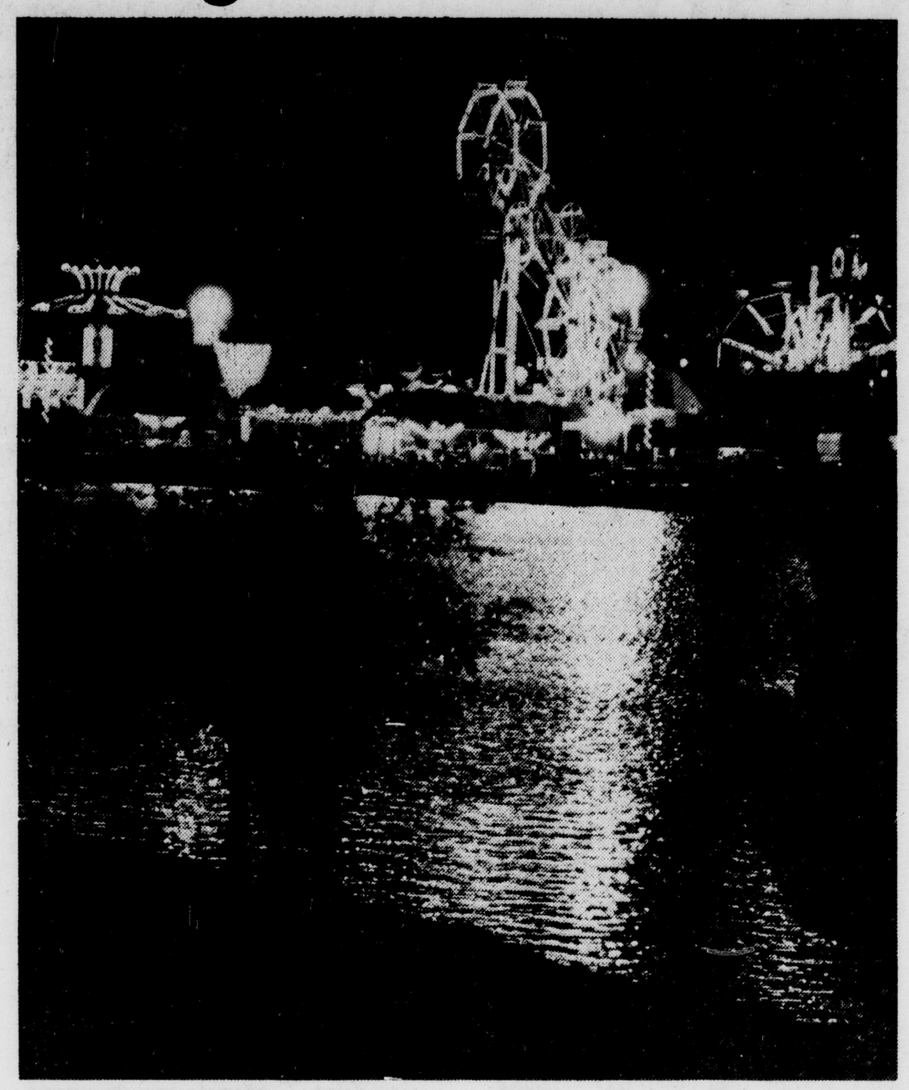
For a competition that attracted entries from all over America, the Bay Area is well represented in the winning entries, culled from 147 films.

But only one Marin man, Paul Giovannoni of Larkspur, was tapped, though his "Moods of a City" won no prize. Also selected was "Wings" by Phillip Schuman of Petaluma, a seven-minute exploration of the sport of hang gliding.

Disappointing were "Moving, Still," a confusing tale of a confused woman who spends most of the film running; "Mandalas," which makes the point that India isn't like America, and "The Shape of Change," which may appeal to sculptors, for that is what it is about, but has little to say to the layman.

Film programs, groupings of between three and six, are scheduled at the Veterans Memorial Building at 11 a.m., noon, 1:30, 3, 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. tomorrow and Sunday, and at 11 a.m., noon, 1:30 and 3 p.m. Monday.

A special showing of the six award winners is set for 6 p.m. Monday.



WORLD OF LIGHT — Shimmering in the distance, the Marin County Fair's buildings, booths and rides hover over the Civic Center lagoon like an enchanted city. The fair was awash with lights — blue, green, red and gold — last night when photographer Alfred Arn captured its magic look. (For another photo see Page 1.)

VAROOM — When one is very young, like 18-month-old Shelley Hall of Novato, a merry-go-round motorcycle ride has all the challenge of the real thing. Her face is a study in concentration and anxiety as she hangs tightly to the bars, probably very grateful to be accompanied by an "older person," Gail Burden, 9, also of Novato.

Wonder Woman To The Rescue

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wonder Woman saved an innocent female passerby from the wolf-whistles of an amorous construction worker yesterday, but it was only show biz.

The rescue was a skit staged by the National Organization of Women to kick off a campaign against verbal harassment of women in the streets.

As the "innocent passerby," played by Anita Murray, vice president of the New York City chapter of NOW, passed by the construction site on Fifth Avenue, the "construction worker," played by Stew Sutherland, whistled, grabbed at her and finally latched on to her hair.

Enter "Wonder Woman," alias Viv Sutherland, who whisked Sutherland off to a police station.

The point of the skit, according to a spokeswoman, was to show that harassment in the streets is actually against New York state law.

Third Panelist For Pay Policy To Be Considered

Appointment of a third member to a "fact finding" panel on teachers' salary requests will be considered by Marin Community College District trustees when they meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 101 of the College of Marin Science Center.

Both trustees and teachers have named their representative to the panel but the two men have been unable to agree on a third person. College policy requires that the selection of the third member be turned over to county Supt. Virgil S. Hollis if the two sides can't agree.

Teachers last month declared an impasse in salary negotiations. Trustees had offered an 8.1 per cent raise and teachers were asking 12 per cent when negotiations broke off.

Other fringe benefits and issues which remain unresolved are teachers requests for medical benefits for retired faculty members, salary increases for teachers who complete additional college courses and raises in the pay scale for parttime and summer school teachers.

Sausalito School Schedule Is Set

The Sausalito School District Administration has announced the following class schedule for the first two weeks of school beginning Sept. 10:

Bayside School: kindergarten, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.; first, second and third grades, 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Martin Luther King School: fourth, fifth grades, 8:30 a.m. to 2:40 p.m.; sixth, seventh and eighth grades, 9:10 a.m. to 3:20 p.m.

Staggered sessions for kindergarten through third grade students and other changes will be begun after Sept. 23, according to Supt. Donald W. Johnson. The district will notify parents of the changes prior to that date.

School Tax Rates Are Not As Shown

The property tax rate for the Fairfax School District, published in Wednesday's Independent-Journal, actually is that of the Kentfield School District. The Fairfax rate, inadvertently omitted, totals $3.525 this year compared to $4.208 last year, a decrease of 68.3 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The Kentfield rate is $3.311 this year compared to $2.974, and increase of 33.7 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District rate is down one cent from last year, not higher as listed in the county table.

Ross General Hospital Planning A New Home

A new facility to replace Ross General Hospital is being planned, a spokesman for the hospital said today.

Raymond C. Webb Jr., hospital administrator, said Hospital Corp. of America which owns it has approved plans to replace the 193-bed hospital elsewhere in Marin.

Webb said the age of the hospital, first built in 1907, and design problems which cause inefficiencies have necessitated the change.

"The age of the facility is one thing. And this hospital was put together in a piecemeal fashion," he said.

"We kind of go up and down the mountain side," Webb said in describing how the present hospital evolved as more space was added over the years.

"Sir Francis Drake is bad in terms of traffic," he said of the present location at 1150 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. "Although it is easy to get into the hospital, it is difficult to get out on Sir Francis Drake at times. And we lack ample parking."

Several representatives from the hospital corporation's Nashville headquarters will be in Marin next month to begin a feasibility study on the relocation and to study possible sites, Webb said. Following the feasibility study, the relocation plans will go before the Marin Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

Webb noted that the new facility will have a bed capacity no larger than the present 193.

Following all the necessary state and local approvals, final construction will take between 18 months and two years, he said.

Center Plans To Be Council Topic

The San Rafael City Council will consider preliminary plans for the city's community recreation center when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday in city hall.

The council will also consider appointments to two vacancies on the parks and recreation commission, and boosting fees for dog licenses.

The council is expected to postpone for two months consideration of the proposed Santa Margarita Open Space Assessment District, in light of a request by local homeowners that the matter be put over pending adoption of the city general plan.

Marin Fair Opens, Crowds Are Smaller

As summer clouds breezed across the sky and children shrieked with excitement, the Marin County Fair hummed with life yesterday.

A total of 4,523 persons visited the fair on its first day, wandering through the exhibits, enjoying the carnival and its rides and pausing to watch the various entertainments.

Attendance was down almost 1,000 from last year when 5,537 fairgoers passed through the gates on the first day.

The fair will continue through Monday at the Civic Center Fairgrounds.

The daily schedule of entertainment is:

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources.

FORECASTS

San Francisco Bay Area: Low overcast and fog along the coast spreading inland nights and mornings but mostly sunny inland areas tomorrow afternoon; little temperature change; highs in low 60s along the coast and the 70s inland; lows tonight in the 50s; westerly wind 10 to 20 mph afternoons; small craft advisory Suisun Bay and west Delta for southwesterly winds to 30 mph.

Sierra Nevada: Mostly fair through tomorrow but some cloudiness with chance of isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers; little temperature change.

Napa and Sonoma valleys and Santa Rosa Plain: Night and morning low clouds and fog but fair otherwise through tomorrow; little temperature change; low tonight and high tomorrow at Santa Rosa 52-83; southerly winds 5 to 15 mph afternoons.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Euthanasia Can Occur In Many Different Death Situations

Jim was a wonderful and kind man who committed suicide recently for a most unusual reason. He had suspected that he had cancer, but by the time he consulted his physician, it was too late. His doctor gave him six months to live. He was very close to his two sisters, and they did everything possible to keep him cheerful.

One week before he took his life, he gave both sisters instructions concerning his affairs. Although the meeting was quite emotional, they had no idea that he planned to commit suicide. The next morning, his body was found on the bathroom floor. His note said: "I killed the cancer, not myself because I could not bear to have you both go through the agony of watching me die . . ."

Legally this is suicide, but it is also a form of euthanasia. It is distantly related to passive euthanasia, a situation in which the physician leaves a bottle of potent and fatal pills within reach of his patient.

IN SWITZERLAND, the law allows physicians to give their patients lethal medication so they may commit suicide. My colleagues tell me that few patients take the medication, even though they are in severe pain. They may welcome death when it comes, but will not die at their own hands.

Mercy killing is an illegal type of euthanasia, in which the doctor presumably has permission to inject a fatal substance or withhold a necessary medication that, at best, will only keep the sufferer comfortable. A more common form of euthanasia is disconnecting a life-saving device such as the artificial respirator. Often, the only thing these extraordinary devices do is prolong death.

HIGHWAY HYPERTENSIVE

F.O. writes: If a man has hypertension, can he drive his car? He takes medication for the high blood pressure.

REPLY

Yes, provided he has not developed complications such as stroke, uremia or heart attack. If the medication he is taking causes blurred vision or dizziness, he should not drive.

SKIN REACTION

I.W. writes: Do drugs that lower the cholesterol level in the blood cause baldness:

REPLY

Some users of Atromid-S and Choloxin have noted slight hair loss, but not enough to cause concern.

DROOLS A LOT

A reader writes: My 73-year-old sister, who just spent a month with us, seems to drool a lot. Is this serious?

REPLY

Not necessarily since the drooling may be due to relaxation of the muscles of the mouth or ill-fitting dentures.

LVOING PINCH

H.J.B. writes: When I give my wife a loving pinch, she gets very upset. Someone told her that pinching causes cancer. Does it?

REPLY

The cause of cancer is not known, but ther is some evidence that repeated injury may be followed by a tumor. Why not give her a loving pat? After all, no one likes to be pinched.

BLOCKED ARTERY

A reader writes: According to my wife's death certificate, she died of an occlusive coronary. Is this the same as coronary thrombosis?

REPLY

Yes. The coronary artery to the heart was occluded, or blocked by a thrombus (clot).

CHICKEN BONES

B. N. writes: My husband thinks it is perfectly safe to eat small chicken bones. Is it?

REPLY

No. Chicken bones are sharp and if they perforate the gastrointestinal tract, infection, abscess or peritonitis may develop.

KIDNEY STONE DISSOLVER

N. E. writes: Is there a prescription medicine I can buy to dissolve a kidney stone?

REPLY

Medical textbooks on ophthalmology devote entire chapters to this subject. The individual may need glasses, the eyes straightened or the circulation improved. Toxins (such as alcohol) and increased tension within the eyeball (glaucoma) also interfere with sight.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Assembly Votes Expansion Of Law Giving Newsmen Protection

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has voted to expand California's "shield law" for newsmen to prevent them from being forced to divulge their notes, recordings or film.

The bill (SB1858) by Sen. Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, was passed yesterday on a 51-16 vote and returned to the Senate for concurrence in Assembly amendments.

The current shield law protects reporters from being subject to contempt penalties for refusing to disclose sources of information before courts or administrative and legislative bodies.

Song's bill would extend the protection to include notes and other information not actually published or broadcast.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, floor manager of the bill, said the measure would remove the "chilling effect" that the threat of contempt sentences has on newsmen trying to gather stories based on confidential sources.

ALIMONY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Divorcees who live together with new partners as if married would be cut off from alimony under a controversial bill which has narrowly cleared the Assembly.

Opponents charged the bill was "antifemale" and would result in "bedroom checks" to determine who was sleeping with whom.

The bill (SB2392) by Sen. James E. Whetmore, R-Buena Park, was passed and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan on a 44-22 vote last night.

Whetmore said in an interview the measure was aimed at preventing divorcees "from getting the benefits of marriage and requiring their ex-spouse to support them."

The bill provides that alimony must be halted by a judge if the support-paying spouse can prove his ex-partner was living with a new mate and "holding himself or herself out as the spouse of the person for a total of 30 days or more."

PRIMARY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill eliminating California's winner-take-all presidential primary election for the Democratic party has been unanimously passed by the Assembly.

The measure (SB116) by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, was approved yesterday on a 68-0 vote and returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

The bill would create a new system for selecting delegates to the Democratic National Convention on a proportional basis, based on the number of votes won by each candidate. The delegates would be chosen on a local district basis.

GAME FEES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill increasing hunting and fishing license fees to bail out the financially troubled state Fish and Game Department has won Assembly approval.

The bill (SB1650) by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, was passed yesterday on a 54-6 vote, the minimum two-thirds margin required from $6 to $10. But the current $2 pheasant stamp would be eliminated.

California anglers would still pay $4 for a license but the inland water fishing stamp would be increased $2 from $1 and the trout stamp would go to $3 from $2.

MARIJUANA

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill abolishing the mandatory 90-day jail sentence for persons arrested and convicted of being under the influence of marijuana passed the Senate yesterday on a 23-7 vote.

The bill (AB725) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, would give judges the discretion of whether to allow marijuana users to go free on probation or impose varying sentences up to one year in jail.

Currently, marijuana is lumped with other controlled drugs, which bring the mandatory 90-day sentence for illegal use. Sieroty's bill separates marijuana from the other category.

The bill was returned to the Assembly for acceptance of amendments. There was no debate.

RIGHT OF PRIVACY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation designed to regulate the inspection of personal financial records by police and other government officials has been passed by the Senate.

The bill (SB1609) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, was returned to the Assembly yesterday on a 23-6 vote for consideration of Senate amendments.

It would require government officials and agencies to go through legal channels before investigating a citizen's bank, insurance or other financial records. It provides that citizens be alerted when their records are probed.

ANTISMOG BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An antismog bill designed to ban the internal combustion engine in California by 1977 was defeated yesterday by the Assembly.

The measure would have required that all new cars sold in California by 1977 be "virtually 100 per cent pollution free" and burn fuel three times as efficiently as now. It would have the effect of banning the internal combustion engine, sponsors have said.

The bill (SB1938) by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, was rejected on a 18-44 vote.

PROTECTION

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation providing additional state protection for gorillas, ocelots and other exotic creatures passed the Assembly last night on a 49-12 vote.

The measure (SB1766) by Sen. Peter Behr, R-San Rafael, was returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments. There was no debate.

It adds numerous new animals to the list regulated by the state for commercial ownership, transportation and importation. It also assures that the "welfare" of the animal is to be considered before pet fanciers can be granted ownership permits from the Department of Fish and Game.

Public and private zoos are exempt from the measure.

Saxbe Will Put Belief To A Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe plans to spend $3 million to test his belief that "the best place for a criminal is in jail," a Justice Department spokesman said today.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration will use the money for grants to help 10 major cities to ferret out and speedily prosecute known crime "repeaters." The cities will be announced later.

When the intensive investigations have turned up sufficient evidence, prosecutors will focus on giving the defendants speedy trials by "leapfrogging" their cases over others backed up in court calendars, the spokesman said.

As a preliminary step, he said, Justice Department attorneys looked into the question of whether such special treatment might violate the civil rights of the defendants and concluded that it would not.

Saxbe spelled out his belief in using speedy detection and speedy trials instead of "gimmicks" to deter crime in a televised interview yesterday on the NBC-TV Today Show.

"I think we have to go back to the old concept that society doesn't cause crime, criminals cause crime," Saxbe said in that interview.

"The repeat offender is the one who terrorizes the city," Saxbe added.

"The best thing we can do for him is to catch him, prosecute him, and put him in jail. Quit this bunk of trying to divert him for every little reason you can and put him back on the street where he commits another crime."

In addressing police chiefs of major U.S. cities at a crime conference in Chicago last Tuesday Saxbe said one thing is certain —the war on crime has been "a failure of substantial dimension —harsh, bitter and dismaying."

Victim Of Holdup Is A Fighter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two bandits stole $440 in cash from three employees at public relations office yesterday but fled in a hurry when one of the victims, a 62-year-old man, stole one of the robbers' guns and started blasting away.

Police said the armed bandits entered public relations specialst Saul Richman's seventh-floor offices and ordered three employees to empty their pockets and lie on a bathroom floor.

Two complied but one, Richard Falk, 62, went down on one knee. When one of the gunmen put his revolver on the toilet tank and knelt down to tie the hands of one of the workers, Falk snatched his pistol and fired three times.

The first shot misfired, but the next two crashed through the bathroom.

The now unarmed bandit ran out of the bathroom with Falk in hot pursuit.

The second gunman stuck his head out of the door to see what was happening, and Falk fired two shots at him.

The two bandits then fled, both apparently uninjured.

Corte Madera Will Examine Town Plan

The Corte Madera Town Council will hold a public hearing on the introduction and housing elements of the town's proposed general plan on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in town hall.

The council will also consider a request from Survival Inc. for $500 to establish a recycling depot in Corte Madera.

Alimony — Cuts off alimony for divorcees who live together with new partners as if married. (SB2392-Whetmore, R-Buena Park. 44-22. To Governor.)

Price Increases On Pasta Halted

ROME (UPI) — The Italian government stepped in today to block price increases planned by major pasta producers and approved by local price authorities.

The increases would have raised pasta prices from 58 cents to 84 cents for 2.2 pounds.

Pasta manufacturers contended that increased costs of production, transport and grain warranted the price increases.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Marin County Planning Commission will hold a public hearing to consider a proposed amendment to Title 22 (Zoning) of the Marin County Code. Said amendments would recind the existing S-1 and S-2 Zones in the unincorporated areas surrounding Hamilton Air Force Base and replace them with designated Clear Zone, Accident Potential Zone I and II which will place restrictions upon permitted land use, person density and structure height within these designated overlay zones. The purpose of these designated zones is to provide more sophisticated safety areas at the ends of Hamilton Air Force Base runways. A map is available at the Marin County Planning Department showing these designated areas.
NOTICE IS HEREBY FURTHER GIVEN that said hearing will be held during the regular meeting of the Marin County Planning Commission on Monday, September 16, 1974, in the Planning Commission Hearing Room, Civic Center, San Rafael, California, which meeting commences at 9:00 a.m. Those wishing to attend said hearing may call the Planning Department at 479-1100, Extension 2526, on Friday, September 13, 1974, in order to be informed of the place on the agenda and the approximate time of the hearing.

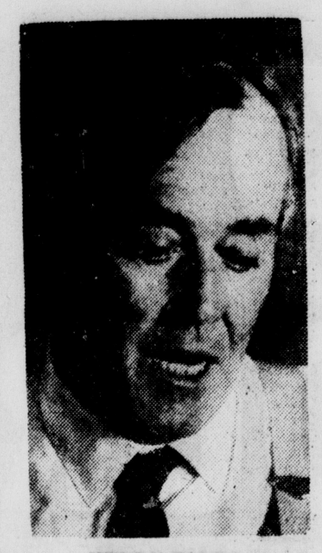
Fonda Is Darrow In TV Play



HENRY FONDA
One-man play

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How do you spend 90 minutes playing to an empty chair?

Henry Fonda does it splendidly in the television version of his one-man stage play, "Clarence Darrow," airing next Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

Unlike Hal Holbrook's Mark Twain and James Whitmore's Will Rogers, both played directly to the audience, Fonda carries on imaginary conversations and courtroom interrogations as famed lawyer Clarance Darrow.

"I had some trepidation about directing it," said John Rich, who until recently produced and directed "All in the Family."

"How do you put one man on for 90 minutes in a play? Holbrook and Whitmore talked directly to the audience. This is truly a play. Hank plays it internally. He really plays to an empty chair, but magically that person in the chair appears."

Rich said the first question everyone asked, including Fonda, was what to do about the empty chair in the courtroom.

"They wanted to know if I would put someone in that chair," he said. "I said it works in the theater and it will play on television with an empty chair."

The play, cut down 22 minutes from the stage version, is a tour de force for Fonda. It was written from Irving Stone's biography.

As television fare, it takes on a life of its own through close-ups and dramatic lighting.

Fonda did not play to the various cameras, as in a normal television play. Instead, the cameras were placed unobtrusively off stage and were cued by Rich on the basis of Fonda's known movements about the stage during the course of the play.

Fonda, who performed the role on Broadway and across the country, said the role is difficult — and not just for the task of memorizing 95 pages of script.

"You can't let up your concentration for a spli second," Fonda said. "You're not cued by another actor. You have to rely on memory. You're cued by your position on stage."

The preseason special is a pilot for a possible mini-series of famous Darrow trials. Such as his defense of Socialist Eugene Debs in 1894, Loeb and Leopold in the 1924 Bobby Franks murder and John T Scopes in the 1925 'monkey trial."

If the negotiations go through, Fonda said he expects to make one Darrow movie a month.

Fonda, 69, spoke in the Spanish-style house in Bel Air he shares with his fifth wife, Shirlee Adams. Several of his paintings hung on a stair landing, executed in the same precise, exacting manner he brings to his acting.

Fonda said he did not go through extensive makeup to make himself look like Darrow, "although I did convince myself I looked like him."

His gray hair was combed down over one eye, padding was added to his waist and he wore a loose-fitting suit.

The idea of the Darrow movies appeals to Fonda, but he said he is not anxious to return in another series after two unpleasant encounters with "The Deputy" and "The Smith Family."

"I don't mind the work," he said. "But I sure hate fighting the producers."

His most recent series, "The Smith Family," left Fonda with a bitter taste in his mouth.

"The idea was to show a cop as a real human being. I thought it was a good idea.

"What I didn't realize was this was being done by the men who had done 'Family Affair' and 'My Three Sons.' When I saw the first script I went into a state of shock.

"I left a movie location in Oregon to fly down to talk to the producers. I thought they got the message, but they never did."

What Fonda had believed was to be a realistic series turned into a maudlin mess.

Next May, he hopes to work in a film for the first time with his daughter Jane and son Peter.

Jane has been working with a historian for the past year on a story of the American Revolution.

"It'll be a saga and it'll be expensive," he said. "but Jane is smart enough to know if she can persuade Henry and Peter she can raise the money."

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

ABC Executive Giving Awards Show Some Class

NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC News is making a concerted effort to take show business hoopla out of next week's Emmy awards for news and documentaries.

There won't be any sequined starlets or acceptance speeches buttered with ham. And if the network is lucky, the 90-minute show will have all the decorum of the "ABC Evening News."

"The Emmys for entertainment have a gaudy, low-cut gown and powerful show business atmosphere about them," said Howard Enders, the man in charge of taking the tinsel out of the next Wednesday's show. "Ours tends to reflect a sober side of televison for the most part. We want to show broadcast journalism in the best possible light."

Enders' duties will not be easy. The upcoming awards will deal with many tragic events during the past 15 months: the Middle East war, the oil crisis and Watergate to name only a few.

In all, there are 40 nominations for awards for news and documentary and news broadcaster. There are 64 nominations for craft, religious and children's programing for the period March 19, 1973 to June 30, 1974.

Among those nominated are ABC anchorman Harry Reasoner, CBS' "60 Minutes" and NBC's "Nightly News."

Enders has a problem. He must present a dignified show that is also entertaining. So he must walk a sort of tightrope. On one side is show business, the other news. If he leans in one direction, he risks being thought of as "M. Box Office." If he leans the other way, the show could become too pompous.

Therefore he will set the stage with a few laughs, namely with Dick Cavett, perhaps the classiest comic in the business. He went to Yale. Oddly enough Cavett was an Emmy winner during the last round of awards, but refused to accept it because his name was not announced on the air.

"Cavett's bright and charming," said Enders, "and he understands news and news people. I think he has the intelligence to deal with the world of entertainment with dignity.

"He's not a comic in the Hollywood tradition. He's not Johnny Carson!"

Cavett will do several monologues to keep the show from becoming too ponderous. But the highlight of the show will be a series of fast-paced mini documentaries that will capsulize each category of the awards.

"This isn't just a news show," said Enders, who also is the producer-director of "Americans All." "It's all the parts of television. We are going to be entertaining for 90 minutes.

"But there will be no acceptance speeches."

Mexicali Valley Suffers Under Hot Sun, Colorado River Salt

MEXICALI, Mexico (AP) — The Mexicali Valley is a hot, dusty place where only snakes and other desert creatures can survive without water brought in by canal from the Colorado River.

It takes a hardy person to withstand the frequent 130-degree temperatures, swirling dust and winds coming off the Sonora Desert that kick up stinging sand and leave lips dry and cracked.

Juan Virreal, 44, is one of perhaps 200,000 peasants living in the triangular-shaped valley whose base hugs the California border and whose apex to the south touches the Gulf of California.

Virreal leaned against a tree, closed his eyes against the dazzling brightness of the sun and wondered if he could wait three or four more years for the wonderful fruit of diplomacy to blossom.

The United States has agreed to build a $67-million desalting plant in Arizona to prevent U.S. salt contamination of the Colorado river from further injuring Mexicali Valley fields and pastures.

The plant will not be finished at least until 1980. The United States, in the meantime, is sending low salinity water to the Mexicali Valley from U.S. water storage areas.

But Mexican authorities say it will be at least three or four years before good water will be able to cleanse the valley of the salt, which is visible up to six inches deep in the earth.

"Three or four years is a long time to wait when your belly is rumbling from hunger and you're having to borrow money from the bank just to buy the family some beans," Virreal said.

"What can we do but wait. Sometimes the families here eat only one meal a day. We were not poor before the salt came. We ate three good meals a day. Now the children sometimes cry because there is not enough to eat.

"If it were not for the government banks we would be finished. They at least loan us money for seeds and to buy beans and tortillas to keep us alive."

Virreal, like most of the other farmers in the Mexicali Valley, lives on a government-awarded collective farm, called an ejido, on which each family uses up to 44 acres.

Government officials and businessmen say the Mexicali Valley's farmers once did well by Mexican standards.

"It wasn't unusual for a family to make more than $8,000 a year and to buy a new car every four or five years," said one official. "Many of them would have refrigerators and television, but now they owe a lot of money to the banks and can't even get money to put a new roof on the house."

Government officials say that insects and poor prices for crops have also meant economic hardship to the valley's farmers.

The salt problem began in 1961 when crops started failing, officials say. The neat rows of cotton were interrupted by grayish areas where nothing would grow. The barren spots grew larger the next year, and the cotton did not grow as tall as before.

Government chemists were called in to test the soil. They found a high concentration of salt.

Tests of the water in the canals coming from the Colorado River showed salinity had increased from the normal 850 parts per million to about 3,000 parts per million. Sea water is about 35,000 parts per million.

The United States was drawing water from the Colorado River to wash salt from the Wellton-Mohawk Valley in southern Arizona. The highly saline drainoff was being returned to the Colorado just before it crossed into Mexico.

The salt was swept into the Mexicali Valley's canals and spread over the valley's fields.

The United States responded to initial complaints by the Mexicans by saying that there was no real proof that salinity had increased.

The United States also claimed that poor farming practices by the Mexicans — slash and burn tactics, overuse of the land — were hurting the farmer's incomes more than anything.

Tiny Tot Instructor Wanted In Novato

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department is seeking an instructor for its tiny tot program, according to recreation supervisor Bonnie Kehoe.

The part-time job, 24 to 30 hours a week, pays $2.60 an hour and the department is seeking someone more than 18 years of age who has experience working with pre-school children, she said. Those interested must apply at the department office, 917 Sherman Avenue by next Friday.

TONIGHT'S TELEVISION

Unusual on television tonight:

KPIX (5), 10 p.m. — "The Frightening Feeling You're Going to Die," a documentary drama based on the lives of three heart disease victims who are unsuspecting of their disease problems — a socially active woman, a business executive and a transportation superintendent.

KTVU (2), 11 p.m. — "The Miss Peace International Pageant 1974," will be the first of three outstanding special events to be televised during the three day Labor Day holiday. The pageant will feature 60 international contestants who will be introduced by Lee Majors and Elke Sommer.

Press Code Of Conduct Under Study

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A proposed code of conduct to prevent the type of "carnival" that occurred last month when police thought they had missing heiress Patricia Hearst surrounded will be released Sept. 15 instead of today, it has been reported.

President John Babcock of the Radio and Television News Association, which has been studying the voluntary code for television and radio journalists, said the RTNA's board of directors is still studying a number of proposals.

He said a ratification meeting will be held the second week in September.

"We are moving slowly but deliberately on the issues because the guidelines have aroused interest from organizations such as the National Press Council, the Overseas Press Club and the Department of Justice in Washington," Babcock said.

"Since there is evidence that our voluntary guidelines may wind up as a litmus test to be studied and adopted by others across the nation, we want to be sure that we deliberate and distill these guidelines into workable and meaningful form before presenting them publicly."

He said the guidelines will encompass such areas as news embargoes, news coverage of police stakeouts and how reporters and camera crews should conduct themselves at the scenes of breaking news stories.

The move for a set of guidelines followed a police stakeout in North Hollywood on July 24 when police believed for a time they had cornered Miss Hearst who was kidnaped nearly seven months ago by the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army and later joined its ranks.

The stakeout was described by a police spokesman as a "carnival" scene in which newsmen and camera crews became involved in the coverage.

Young Suicides Called Epidemic

BERKELEY (UPI) — Suicide among young Americans is increasing by almost epidemic proportions and the illegal use of drugs is mostly to blame, a University of California behavioral scientist has reported.

And, Richard Seiden of the UC School of Public Health, said "factors such as excessive violence in films and television should not be casually dismissed."

Seiden said that from 1945 to 1969 an average of 4.8 out of every 100,000 young persons took their lives. But, he said, from 1970 to 1972 the rate jumped 92 per cent — to 9.2 out of every 100,000 persons.

He said the current trend was part of "a tragic and unchecked epidemic of violent deaths."

And The 'Corpse' Answered Back

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP — Four homicide detectives and six patrolmen were sent to investigate a train dispatcher's report of a body lying on a flatcar.

"A lieutenant who climbed aboard the flatcar turned white as a ghost when the man's head rose and the 'corpse' asked, 'Where am I?'" a detective said.

The man, very much alive, had been drinking in Erie, Pa., and had jumped on the flatcar to sleep it off, police said.

EXPLAINS HAZARD — Richard Simpson, chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, demonstrates the soft, flexible plastic cover of an electric light socket assembly which the commission says is potentially dangerous and could cause fatal electrical shock. A federal judge in Washington, D.C., yesterday called in the news media for publicity to warn the public about the troubled light.

(UPI Telephoto)

A Joint Effort To Tell Light Hazard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge, a government commission, a manufacturer and a number of distributors joined today in a novel effort to warn the public against a household light that can give potentially fatal electric shocks.

The warning was being made in a news conference —with a visual demonstration for television — ordered yesterday by Chief Judge George L. Hart Jr. of the U.S. District Court.

Hart authorized a statement in his name pointing out the "extraordinary hazard" involved and personally called the news vice presidents of the three networks as well as news directors in Washington bureaus to request publicity for the problem.

In so doing he deferred action on a request from the Consumer Product Safety Commission that the distributors be forced to buy time on network television and in most of the nation's newspapers to run ads outlining the hazard.

Hart told a court hearing yesterday that that approach might take too much time. He recessed the case until next Tuesday to determine if today's publicity effort will be sufficient.

The commission's lawyers told Hart that previous tries at publicity by the defendants — A.K. Electronics of Brooklyn, the manufacturer, and scores of retailers —resulted in only spotty coverage.

The public relations firm hired by those involved claimed there had been virtual saturation coverage.

At one point during the hearing Hart held one of the lights up and called it a "death trap."

An estimated 186,000 of the lights are on the market or already sold, and anyone who has one should return it to the store where it was bought.

The light retailed for about $1.50 and was sold nationwide by such stores as E.J. Korvette, Woolco, Zayre and J.J. Newberry before a previous court order from Hart halted all sales.

It has a soft plastic handle which when grasped firmly allows the user's fingers to come into contact with live wires. One fatality has been associated with it.

Resort Developers Beat Coastal Permit Procedure

UKIAH (UPI) — The developers of a motel-restaurant in Mendocino have challenged successfully the state coastal commission's permit procedure in a landmark case on the regional level.

Superior Court Judge Tim O'Brien ruled that the commission's denial of a building permit in the case was "without due process of law, invalid and unconstitutional."

In responding to Wednesday's court decision, Commission Chairman Melvin Lane said yesterday that the ruling was significant on the regional level, if not statewide.

Lane said builders have challenged the commission's "quasi-legislative" handling of permit matters, arguing that they warrant more substantial hearings.

In Wednesday's decision, O'Brien noted that the developers of the Coach House, Monte and Barbara Reed, were allowed only 10 minutes to present their case.

The Reeds acquired a nine-acre parcel on a coastal strip in 1972. The Northcoast Regional Commission granted a building permit after an extended hearing.

Moses Malone Can't Be Blamed For Turning Pro

Academia Abandoned By Youth

NEW YORK (UPI) — Moses Malone, a 6-foot-11 youth noted for his quickness, took the money and ran.

He hardly could have been expected to do otherwise.

So yesterday afternoon Malone abandoned academia for the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association and an unspecified amount of money. Although the specific sum was a tightly-guarded secret, the guessing starts at $1 million and works its way up.

For a 19-year-old whose mother has struggled to eke out a meager living for the two of them in Petersburg, Va., there was no way to turn down that kind of money.

Mrs. Mary Malone, Moses' petite (approximately 5-foot-2) mother, for years had earned an annual income estimated around $3,500 working as a night attendant at an old folks home.

The family income had increased to slightly more than $5,000, though, when she began working at the check-out counter of a local supermarket.

It is not easy to feed and clothe a growing boy on that kind of salary, especially when he keeps growing ... and growing ... and growing.

But the Stars will foot those bills from now on and they started with Malone's arrival here for the signing at a news conference.

Malone arrived in his customary basketball sneakers and the Stars took him out to buy a pair of dress black shoes.

It was an amusing anecdote but Mrs. Malone resented insinuations Moses' sneakers were his only pair of shoes.

"I always kept shoes on his feet and clothes on his back," Mrs. Malone said proudly.

Malone had been scheduled to begin classes at the University of Maryland last Wednesday. But the Stars made their big offer last week and Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell futilely attempted to dissuade Malone from turning pro.

Driesell did prevail upon Malone to seek a lawyer's counsel on the Stars' offer and the Washington, D.C., law firm of Dell, Craighill and Fentress advised him without charge.

Lee Fentress said his initial advise was to go to Maryland for a year, experiencing college life and basketball for a year before becoming eligible for the NBA hardship draft.

But after a couple of days negotiations, Fentress said, "The contract came to the point where it was a very difficult decision." It was a decision Malone made on his own.

He was strongly influenced by a five-year desire to become the first modern day player to go straight from high school to the pros. The only other player to make the jump was Joe Graboski of the old National Basketball Association Indianapolis Olympians in the early Fifties.

Malone's contract includes a house or apartment for his mother.

As for his own plans, Malone said he had no definite plans for his new-found wealth.

"I just want to be happy," Malone said. Asked what makes him happy, Malone replied, "Doin' things."

Now he can afford to do a lot of things, just about anything.

Walsh Vs. King Today In Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Sharon Walsh of San Rafael coasted to victory in the opening round of the U.S. Open tennis championships, but today's match promised to be more challenging for her.

After defeating Robin Tenney of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-3, Miss Walsh was to meet three-time Forest Hills champion and pro star Billie Jean King.

Mrs. King, the driving force behind World Team Tennis in its first year and a rare visitor to the tournament circuit this season, beat Isabel Fernandez of Columbia, 6-2, 6-2.

Two other Marin County players, Bob Lutz of Tiburon and Rosemary Casals of Sausalito, won first round matches. Lutz beat Ray Ruffels of Australia, 6-7, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 and Miss Casals dropped Barbara Downs of Alama, Ca., 6-2, 6-2.

Bjorn Borg, the nerveless Swedish child prodigy of world tennis whose good looks and shot-making have melted many a female heart, defeated Victor Amaya in four erratic sets in the first round.

A record second day crowd of 13,128 fans came out, hoping to see the first act of the "Chris and Jimmy show," but rain upset the script and kept Jimmy Connors in the locker room, so he should be well recovered from his stomach trouble when he takes the court Friday against Jeff Borowiak.

Borg, at 18 the youngest winner of the U.S. pro title, beat Amaya of Holland, Mich., 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 in a match interrupted 50 minutes by rain. Bjorn's form was erratic as he attempted to adjust to the fast grass.

Chris Evert, who forgot her tennis dress, and Evonne Goolagong, who was just happy to be out in the open air again, both scored comfortable matches.

Chris, winner at Wimbledon, France and Italy this year, had little trouble in defeating Gail Chanfreau of France 6-1, 6-1, for her 52nd straight victory, while Evonne, her main rival among the new generation of players, beat Jeannie Evert 6-3, 6-0.

PUTTING OUT THE FIRE

Mark Kellar of the Chicago Fire (31), went down in the arms of Birmingham's Dick Trower after taking a handoff in the second quarter last night in Chicago. The Americans won their eighth straight World Football League game, 22-8.

Kingman Willing To Let Bygones Be Bygones Now

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dave Kingman is willing to let bygones be bygones and think instead of the present and the future.

Kingman has had his hitting difficulties since coming up to the major leagues with the San Francisco Giants three seasons ago. He's been able to hit home runs but hardly anything else. That has stopped his progress, plus a strong case of stubbornness.

Dave showed the "new" Kingman to the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday when he drove in two of his team's three runs, one on a long homer and the other on a solid single, in a 3-2 victory in 11 innings.

The three hits gave him eight in his last 13 at-bats and brought a smile to Manager Wes Westrum's face.

"If he just makes contact with the ball," Westrum said, "he is going to hit his share of homers. Up until now, though, we've had a hard time trying to convince him to cut back on his swing. Now, though, he seems to have come around and if he keeps on going the way he is, I think I've found myself a first baseman for next year."

Kingman agreed with Westrum about his changed swing.

"I'm not pulling the trigger as fast," he said, "and maybe this way I'll get a few more hits. I know now I'll still hit my share of homers. As for my past problems, I don't want to talk about them. I'm only interested in what's left of this season and the one ahead."

Ron Bryant pitched seven-plus strong innings yesterday before being replaced by Elias Sosa, who gave up the tying run in the ninth on Willie Stargell's 21st homer.

The Giants then won it in the 11th on a single by Gary Matthews, a sacrifice, an intentional walk and Kingman's line drive single to left.

Randy Moffitt, who retired one batter in the top of the 11th, was the winner and Dave Giusti lost for Pittsburgh.

The Pirates are in Los Angeles tonight for the start of a weekend series while the Giants host St. Louis.

J.C. Snead Ties Atlanta Golf Record Despite 'Stupid Shot'

ATLANTA (UPI) — J.C. Snead now shares the course record at the Atlanta County Club, but if he hadn't missed a "stupid" putt, he would hold the record outright.

In a round twice interrupted by rain, Snead shot an eight-under-par 64 yesterday for the first day lead in the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Championship (TPC).

After bogeying the first hole he played, Snead ran off five consecutive birdies, parred his seventh hole, and then birdied the next two for a score of 30 on the first nine. He picked up three birdies and a bogey coming back, playing the first nine holes of the course.

Action ended for the day because of a thunderstorm just after Snead's finish, and approximately 45 players start at 8 a.m. today, to finish their first round. The only player who appeared to have a chance to catch Snead was Charles Coody, who was five under par with four holes remaining in his first round.

Playing with intermittent showers and thunder rolling in the distance, Snead tried to rush an 18-inch putt as play was halting on his next-to-last hole.

"It cost me a shot," he said. "There is no excuse to ever miss a foot-and-a-half putt, especially when it's up a slope without a break."

Tom Evans, the Louisiana State student who will be 26 Monday, was a surprise starter but shot a 65 for second place.

GETTING EVEN — After sinking a long chip shot from a bunker, Lee Trevino stuck out his tongue at a spectator who had teased him before the shot during yesterday's first round of the Tournament Players Championship in Atlanta.

Setback Is Seen For America's Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Gale warnings on the seas off Newport were expected to cancel today's trials between Intrepid and Courageous as the two yachts fight for the nomination to defend the U.S.'s America's Cup title.

Intrepid, successful defender of the cup in 1967 and 1970, won her third consecutive race over Courageous yesterday knotting the series between the two at four wins each.

The closeness of the series has made the selection of a U.S. representative a difficult decision, according to New York Yacht Club officials, who must chose a U.S. representative by Tuesday.

In yesterday's race, Courageous crossed the starting line 24 seconds ahead of Intrepid, but ran into soft wind 10 tacks into the opening leg and fell behind.

Intrepid rounded the first marker 1:01 ahead of the aluminum-hulled challenger aand maintained the lead about two-thirds of the way through the second leg. The wind then shifted about 15 degrees to the north, and Courageous switched to another spinnaker and managed to pick up two seconds.

Intrepid increased its lead to 2:02 on the second leg and maintained it until the fourth leg, the second windward run, when Courageous picked up 26 seconds, to trail by 1:26.

The two boats then sailed straight down the wind, with Intrepid increasing its lead again, this time to 1:48.

Courageous used another 20-degree wind shift to the north to cut 56 seconds from Intrepid's lead on the final leg.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

A Plan In Works To Benefit Otter

The Department of Fish and Game has announced details of a proposed sea otter research and management plan that would restrict the otters' range in California and provide for live-trapping and translocating animals found outside the prescribed limits.

Other elements of the plan submitted for approval to the Department of the Interior include consideration of the reintroduction of otters into areas outside of the recommended range, their placement in scientific institutions for research, studies of the impact of human activity on otter and strict enforcement of federal law protecting the animals.

DETAILS OF the plan are contained in a formal proposal submitted to federal authorities requesting apermit for the work and 50 percent funding of project costs that would run to more than $100,000 for the first year.

The Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 placed sea otters under the jurisdiction of the U.S. government — thus the need for the federal permit.

The suggested area to which the otters would be restricted is about 150 miles of coastline between Seaside, Monterey County, and Cayucos, San Luis Obispo County, where virtually all of the state's estimated 1,600 to 1,800 otter now range.

ABOUT 150 otters that are known to be outside of the suggested range now would be trapped and translocated. There would be follow-up trapping of the estimated 50 animals that stray from the area each year.

Department of Fish and Game Director Ray Arnett said that the management proposal recognizes the importance of the sea otter to California. Otters were nearly extinct along the coast at the turn of the century when they came under state protection.

The proposal emphasizes the department's intention to "continue to maintain and protect a viable population" of sea otters in central California coastal waters.

"IT IS ALSO our intention to protect the sport and commercial shellfisheries that will be lost by the foraging of an uncontrolled sea otter population," the proposal states.

Already the otter range beyond the recommended limits, and the range is expanding each year.

The porposal to restrict the range originated in a recently released Department of Fish and Game report on a five-year study that was aimed at providing some relief to the commercial abalone fishery in the Cambria-Point Estero area north of Morro Bay, San Luis Obispo County.

THIS FISHERY subsequently collapsed along with other commercial and sport abalone and sport crab fisheries throughout the range of the otter because of continued otter foraging.

The recommended range was selected because it prime sea otter habitat — broad, shallow bottom areas with extensive kelp beds and a rugged shoreline with coves, points and projecting rocks and reefs. The water quality is good, and there are areas of protection for the ottter during storms. This area also has little boat traffic, a major cause of otter deaths in the northern part of the range.

As part of the management plan, the Fish and Game will evaluate areas outside of the recommended range as relocation sites.

HIGHEST priority will be given to the reintroduction of sea otter onto their original range, second priority to their placement with educational and scientific institutions for study and last priority to placement for public display.

The proposed first year budget for implementing the recommendations lists elements of law enforcement, containment and research, and public information. Marine wardens would spend an estimated 100 hours monthly on the project, and the equivalent of three persons would be assigned to research and containment work.

Salaries and benefits would cost an estimated $70,397, operational expenses would come to $22,644 and equipment would cost $4,000. An overhead item of $12,130 is included in the $109,171 projected total cost of the program for the first year.

THINGS ARE looking up for the local bass trollers. Sam Knoles, along with Rex and Chick Morgan and John Fracchia landed eight stripers, six to 14 pounds, trolling the incoming tide off California City on Tuesday.

After a slow three or four weeks, fishing has erupted on San Pablo Bay. Both drifters and trollers have been having success landing five to 15-pounders. Drifting at buoys near the Brothers has been especially good.

Strike Issues Unresolved

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Football League strike, or non-strike, is nearly two months old, the start of the regular season is just over two weeks away, and some very key issues are far from settled.

Foremost is the Rozelle Rule: when a player plays out his option to become a free agent and signs with another club, if the two teams cannot agree on compensation, the decision is up to Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, reiterated the owners' opposition to elimination of the Rozelle Rule at a press conference yesterday.

"The Rozelle Rule is very closely tied to our system," said Thompson, "and we are asking the players to accept our system. We will modify it, but we will not eliminate it."

The players, however, say this inhibits their freedom to negotiate and that clubs are wary of signing free agents because they do not know what Rozelle will make them give up as compensation.

Thompson, meanwhile, called the offer which the NFLMC submitted to the players Tuesday, and which was rejected by the NFL Players Association, "very close to a bottom-line offer."

That offer included modification — but not elimination — of the Rozelle Rule.

Besides that disagreement, Thompson indicated that the length of the contract has become another major stumbling block.

"We need a four-year contract," said Thompson, "but the players want one or two years."

More than a few veterans have expressed disappointment at the way their union has handled the dispute, particularly the "cooling-off period" originally called Aug. 14 and extended earlier this week.

Meanwhile, there was no indication when union and management might return to the bargaining table. Chief federal mediator W. J. Usery Jr. presently is involved in a mining dispute and unavailable for an indefinite period.

In the games tonight, Green Bay is at Miami, Detroit is at Buffalo, and Pittsburgh meets Washington.

Tomorrow, Philadelphia will face the New York Giants at Princeton, N.J.; Denver will meet New England at Spokane, Wash.; Baltimore will be at Atlanta; Minnesota at St. Louis; Kansas City at Dallas; the New York Jets at New Orleans; Los Angeles at San Diego, and Chicago at Houston.

Cincinnati and Cleveland will play at Columbus, Ohio, on Sunday and Oakland will be at San Francisco in a nationally televised game Monday night.

Spirits Of St. Louis Gain ABA Rights To Robertson

Combined AP & UPI

ST. LOUIS — The Spirits of St. Louis of the American Basketball Association have obtained the negotiating rights to Oscar Robertson.

Robertson, a 36-year-old veteran of 14 seasons in the National Basketball Association, became a free agent Aug. 1 when the Milwaukee Bucks failed to offer him a contract for the coming season. If signed by the Spirits, he could play this season.

The Bucks are still negotiating with Robertson but reportedly don't want to give him a no-cut, no-trade contract and the salary he is demanding. His last contract called for $250,000 a season.

More Basketball

INDIANAPOLIS — The Indiana Pacers and George McGinnis yesterday came to an agreement on a new two-year contract, ending speculation that the American Basketball Association superstar would sit out his option year and sign with a National Basketball Association team.

BUFFALO, N.Y. — The Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association yesterday acquired center Dale Schlueter from the Atlanta Hawks in a straight cash deal.

Football

CHICAGO — Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, the onetime Chicago Bear center who made it to the football Hall of Fame, was in serious condition yesterday following what doctors said was a possible stroke. Turner, 55, collapsed Wednesday night in the lobby of the Landers Hyatt Chalet Hotel in suburban Elk Grove Village. He was taken by ambulance to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, Ill., where he was placed in intensive care.

CARLISLE, Pa. — Washington Redskins' coach George Allen met with running back Duane Thomas for several hours yesterday in the aftermath of Thomas' release from the club Monday night.

Hockey

NEW YORK — The New York Rangers yesterday acquired veteran left winger Greg Polis from the St. Louis Blues for defenseman Larry Sacharuk and a first-round selection in the 1976 or 1977 National Hockey League draft.

Track-Field

ROME — The International Amateur Athletics Federation today voted to continue its ban on South African track and field athletes competing in major competition.

Auto Racing

PARIS — The International Automobile Racing Commission said today the Formula Two Race at Estoril, Portugal, will be run Oct. 27. The race, counting toward the European formula two championship, was due to be held March 10, but it was put off because of the energy crisis.

A'S WANT ANOTHER LOOK AT EAST TEAM

DETROIT (UPI) — The schedule says that Oakland's three-game series opening tonight at Detroit is their last look at Eastern Division opponents. But the A's hope the schedule is wrong.

That's because the A's, who lead Kansas City by 5½, would like to face the East's best in the American League playoffs.

But their regular schedule matches them with Western Division foes over their final 28 games, including five with the Royals.

Ken Holtzman, who has won three straight, will be looking for win No. 16 tonight against Lerrin LaGrow (8-14). The A's have Vida Blue and Catfish Hunter ready to go for the Weekend matchups with the Tigers. The A's have won four of their last five. They were idle yesterday.

Winning Is Priority For Curtis

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

For John Curtis it's a question of priorities; for the St. Louis Cardinals it's a question of survival.

Curtis, six outs away from a perfect game, settled for a one-hitter last night and pinch-hitter Jim Dwyer's two out single in the ninth inning broke a 1-1 tie as the Cardinals beat the San Diego Padres 3-1.

The victory moved the Cards to within a half game of the Pittsburgh Pirates who dropped a 3-2, 11-inning decision to the San Francisco Giants.

Curtis, 8-12, set down the first 21 batters without the semblance of a hit before he walked Dave Winfield leading off the eighth. After Clarence Gaston sacrificed Winfield to second, Derrel Thomas walked. Dave Hilton flied deep to right, Winfield going to third after the catch, and he scored on Fred Kendall's single to tie the game at 1-1.

Curtis, who came to St. Louis from Boston in an off-season deal, was not overly concerned that he had lost his no-hit bid.

"I had a ball game to win, not a no-hitter to pitch," said Curtis. "I wasn't too let down."

Actually, this season has been a big disappointment for Curtis, who was demoted to the bullpen in mid-season. "When you're 8-12 you can't be too selective of your victories," Curtis added.

Curtis tried to pitch around Winfield in the eighth and it cost him. But the walk, which broke up his bid for a perfect game, didn't seem to matter to Curtis either.

"Maybe I was a bit too careful," he said. "It didn't bother me too much." Winfield had beaten Curtis with a homer in San Diego's 1-0 victory on June 7.

In the ninth, Larry Hardy, who had taken over at the start of the inning for Randy Jones, retired the first two batters. He then gave up successive singles to Bake McBride, Ken Reitz, Dwyer and Mike Tyson to account for the final St. Louis runs.

In other National League games Los Angeles trimmed Chicago 3-1, New York blanked Houston 7-0, San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 3-2 in 11 innings and Atlanta tripped Montreal 7-2. In the American League Boston edged Chicago 3-2 and Baltimore whipped Texas 6-2.

Dodgers 3, Cubs 1

Andy Messersmith and Mike Marshall combined for a three-hit victory and Los Angeles became the first club in the major league's this season to pass the two million mark in attendance as the Dodgers topped Chicago for their fifth victory in a row.

The Dodgers pulled 3 ½ games ahead of idle Cincinnati. Ground outs by Steve Garvey and Steve Yeager brought the first two runs home and then Bill Buckner scored in the third on a single by Garvey and an error by second baseman Rob Sperring on a cutoff play.

Mets 7, Astros 0

The Mets gave Tom Seaver a run in the first when Bud Harrelson led off with a double, went to third on Felix Millan's perfect bunt single and scored as Ted Martinez bounced into a force play.

The Mets added three more runs in the third inning off loser Dave Roberts, 9-11, when Harrelson walked and Millan and Martinez followed with consecutive triples. Rusty Staub drove in the final run of the inning with a sacrifice fly.

Braves 7, Expos 2

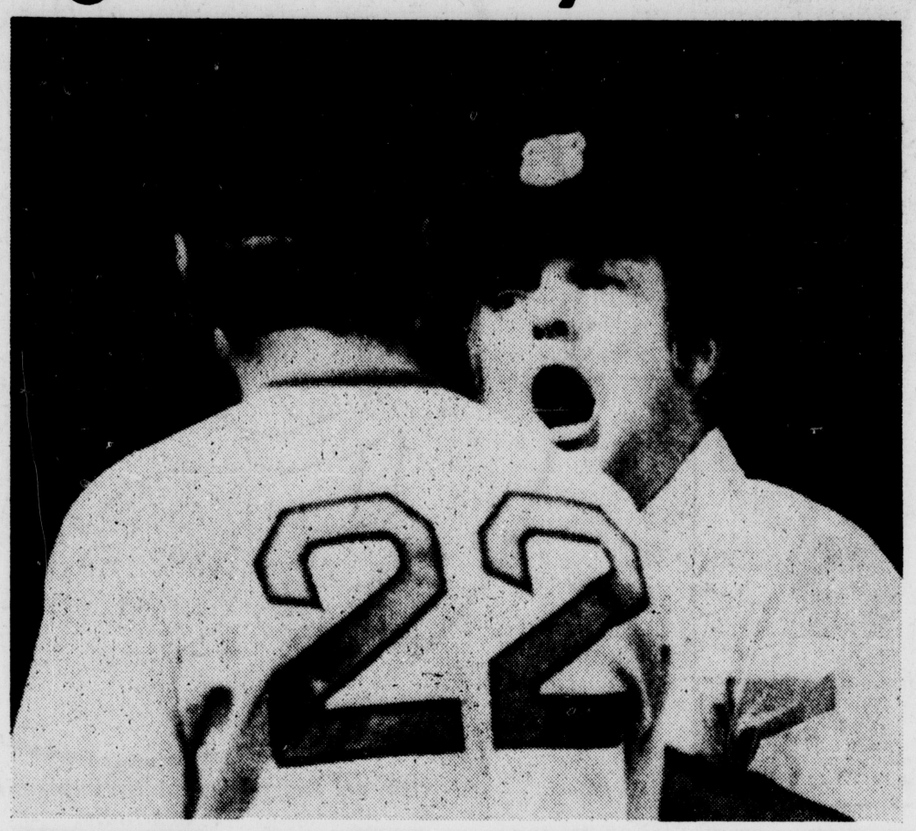
Ralph Garr's three-run homer in the third helped power the Braves over Montreal.

Red Sox 3, White Sox 2

Relief specialist Diego Segui choked off Chicago rallies in the seventh and eighth innings as the Red Sox beat White Sox ace Wilbur Wood.

Orioles 6, Rangers 2

Tommy Davis drove in three runs and scored another to help the Orioles break a four-game losing streak with a win over Texas.



EXPLANATION — Empire Hank Morgenweck voiced his side of the story in an argument with Red Sox manager Darrell Johnson in the seventh inning last night in Chicago. Morgenweck ruled Boston outfielder Dwight Evans dropped Pat Kelly's fly ball for a two base error. The decision held, but Boston won, 3-2.

Status For Cunningham Is Unclear

GOLETA, Calif. (UPI) — San Francisco 49er running back Doug Cunningham won't know until next week just how serious a back injury he sustained in a collision with Willie Lanier of Kansas City last Saturday night.

One doctor told him he had a compressed vertebrae and should wear a brace, the veteran from Mississippi said, but team physician Lloyd Milburn wants to study the X-rays next week.

"I saw Lanier coming," Cunningham recalled. "I thought I'd hit him, I'd run right over him. Anyway, I hit him. My rear end ended up over my head and I folded up like an accordian."

He said he knew the injury was serious when he was unable to move faster than a walk in practice the next day. Now he admits that the injury could force him out for the season, which might mean an end to his career.

Coach Dick Nolan said that rookie Delvin Williams from Kansas will replace Cunningham next Monday against Oakland. Larry Schreiber will open at fullback and Steve Spurrier at quarterback with Gene Washington and Danny Abramowitz at wide receivers.

WORKING OUT TOGETHER

Jerry West, who will soon be starting his 15th season with the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association, worked out recently with his son Mark at the UCLA track in Westwood. Pauley Pavilion, home of the UCLA basketball team, is in the background. (UPI Telephoto)

Swim Fans To Find Out How Much East Germans Improved

CONCORD, Calif. (UPI) — As recently as a year ago, when an American team showed up for an international swimming meet, there was no doubt who would wind up with the most gold medals.

But this is 1974 and no longer is the United States head and shoulders above the pack. In fact, it is barely better, and some think it isn't at all, than East Germany, a country on the rise in the pool sport.

Everyone finds out for sure this weekend at the Concord Community Park Pool, a facility that helped produce eight world records in the U.S. Nationals last weekend, when the United States hosts East Germany in a return dual meet.

The Germans come to the meet off a very strong showing in the 1973 World Championships at Belgrade and a sweeping, record-busting triumph in the 1974 European Championships at Vienna last week.

Whether by design or simply because they take a more realistic view, the East Germans say they will not beat the Americans this weekend, but they promise a fine show anyway.

"We are not yet ready to beat the United States in a dual meet," says East German Coach Kark Schramme. "We will give them a close fight but they will wind up beating us."

U.S. coach Flip Darr, who showed his concern and respect for the East Germans during last weekend's Nationals, isn't making any predictions.

"It should be a fine competitive show," says Darr. "I don't know who will win and neither do I care to make any predictions. It's up to our kids whether we win or not. There is little I can do to make it come out either way."

Since there are only 12 men and 12 women on each side for the 29 events (exclusive of diving), how each coach lines up his talent will play a major part in the eventual outcome. There will be four swimmers in each of the individual events, two from each side.

The coaches have until two events before each actual race to name their entries. That means there will be a lot of juggling and maneuvering to keep the other side from guessing who the No. 2 swimmer will be.

The two countries held their first dual meet in 1971 at Leipzig, and in that one the United States won 25 of 29 events for a 221-123 victory.

There are only two returnees from that team on the U.S. side this year—world 200 and 400 meter freestyle record holder Shirley Babashoff of Mission Viejo, Calif., and American 100 meter freestyle record holder Kim Peyton of Portland, Ore.

The East Germans have five returnees — Rosemarie Kother, the world record holder in the 100 meter butterfly, Renate Vogel, who held the world record in the 100 meter breaststroke for a couple of days last week, Gudrun Wegner, Wolfram Sperling and diver Falk Hoffmann.

The U.S., led by Tim Shaw and Steve Furniss of Long Beach, Calif., John Hencken of Santa Clara, Calif., and John Naber of Menlo Park, Calif., is expected to dominate the men's competition, while the East Germans should win the majority of titles in the women's events, or so it would appear at the moment.

Matuszak Case Gets Court Date

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Texans, giving up legal efforts to allow former National Football League defensive tackle John Matuszak to play against Hawaii this weekend, are concentrating on a courtroom showdown one day before Houston plays Memphis next Saturday.

Attorneys for Matuszak, the second-year Houston Oiler until he jumped his five-year contract to sign with the World Football League Texans, will go to start district court Friday, Sept. 5, to argue their right to the 6-foot-8, 282-pound star.

"Our argument is based on an interpretation of his Oiler contract," Texans' owner Steve Arnold said yesterday. "Should the court decide that our interpretation is invalid, meaning his contract is binding, we certainly intend for him to honor it."

Judge George Miller will preside at the hearing called to decide whether to make permanent a temporary restraining order handed Matuszak on the Texans' bench earlier this week.

Matuszak, the No. 1 draft choice out of Tampa University in 1973, flew with the Texan team to Hawaii yesterday. Before departing he sounded pessimistic about his future.

"I hope this thing isn't settled in court," he said. "I don't know if I'll go back to the Oilers, even if that's the only team I'm told I can play for."

The temporary court order filed by Houston Oilers Inc. was in effect until Sept. 5. Presumably until then Matuszak will continue to practice with the Texans.

Oiler Coach Sid Gillman, whose strict training camp was apparently one reason Matuszak left, said every day Matuszak was away from the Huntsville, Tex., camp it was costing him.

"All I intend to do is punch the cash register and add $500 to Matuszak's fines each time he misses a meeting or a practice," Gillman said. The total was $3,000 through yesterday.

Oiler owner K.S. "Bud" Adams said when Matuszak returned to Huntsville—and Adams had no doubt he would—Matuszak might not be the only one to pay.

"I'm glad he wasn't injured, Adams said of the Wednesday night game where Matuszak played five snaps. "Besides being a good player, our organization has a lot of money invested in John. I'd hate to ask for damages if he got hurt."

Although reaction from some Oiler players was approving, Matuszak's move for a bigger salary—the Texans gave him $1 million over six years—drew some head shaking.

"I don't think he'll get away with it," Oiler standout defensive end Elvin Bethea said.

Equally as puzzled was Matuszak's attorney, Bob Woolf, who was not informed of the jump. It was "agent" Gary Kaposta who represented Matuszak when the announcement came Wednesday.

Adams answered charges yesterday the contract was faulty.

"I understand John said the Oilers hadn't lived up to the contract," Adams said. "Mr. Woolf is John's attorney and he disagrees with that. He told me the Oilers had fully honored John's contract."

Mill Valley Cricket Star In Lineup

Richard Webb of Mill Valley, a former Cambridge cricket player, will be in the lineup over the weekend when the United States meets Canada in this year's renewal of their 130-year-old series.

The three-day match (game) will be played at Stanford University in Palo Alto tomorrow at 1 p.m. and Sunday and Monday at 11 a.m. Each day's play will last until 7 p.m.

Webb is considered an outstanding bowler and a quick fielder in the "slips" position, near the batsman.

In connection with the U.S.-Canada match, the Marin Cricket Club will meet Hollywood of Los Angeles in an abbreviated, one-day contest Sunday at 11 a.m. on another field at Stanford.

The Marinites also will play tomorrow at 12:30 p.m. against Corinthians of Los Angeles at White Hill School in Fairfax.

2 Amarillo Giants Wounded In Texas Nightclub Incident

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Outfielder Richard Guerra and pitcher David Heaverlo of the Amarillo Giants were wounded and Guerra's older brother shot and killed today in a nightclub incident. Their assailant was sought by police.

John Louis Guerra, 26, died of gunshot wounds to the chest and stomach. He was a local accountant and former all-state baseball player who also coached a women's softball team composed of employees of the nightclub where the shooting occurred.

Richard Guerra, 23, was shot in the left shoulder and doctors said they were having difficulty removing the bullet which jeopardized his baseball career.

Heaverlo, 24, of Moses Lake, Wash., was treated and released for a gunshot wound to the left hand. He is a righthanded pitcher.

Authorities said the shooting occurred a few minutes after the elder Guerra and another man had been involved in an argument and fight inside the club. After the fight ended the other man allegedly went outside the club and began firing through its open front door at the Guerras and Heaverlo.

The Amarillo team was in San Antonio for a Texas League game against the San Antonio Brewers but the game was rained out last night.

Ford Picks Wage-Price Panel Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has named businessman-diplomat Kenneth Rush to head his new antiinflation team and, to no one's surprise, has ruled out a tax increase this year.

Having asked for and received from Congress, authority to set up a relatively powerless Council on Wage and Price Stabiity to monitor inflation, Ford yesterday installed Rush as chairman and filled the remaining seven seats with Cabinet secretaries and top Whie House aides.

The new council has authority to seek out and publicize inflationary wage and price increases, but it can only urge voluntary restraint on the part of business and labor. It cannot order rollbacks as its now-defunct predecessor the Cost of Living Council

Rush, former chairman of Union Carbide Corp., U.S. ambassador to West Germany, and a top State and Defense department official, joined the White House staff in the final months of the Nixon administration as coordinator of economic policy. He continues to hold that assignment for Ford.

On another economic topic, Ford's press secretary J. F. terHorst told reporters yesterday that talk of a tax increase this year was "very unrealistic." With less than six weeks left in the current congressional term, with Chairman Wilbur Mills of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee opposed to the idea and with administration already following a tight fiscal policy, there are "pragmatic reasons" why Ford would not move in this direction now, terHorst said.

While adding that it was "premature" to look to the future, terHorst did not rule out the tax increase option for 1975. "Its the kind of issue a President always has to have before him," he said.

The press aide noted that the State of the Union speech next January would be a logical platform from which Ford could put forward his tax ideas.

United Autoworkers president Leonard Woodcock, after meeting with Ford for 30-minutes yesterday, told reporters he favored a tax boost for wealthy Americans coupled with tax cuts for poor folks and elimination of some business tax benefits. He said Ford listened to his ideas without comment.

Today is Friday, Aug. 30, the 242nd day of 1974 with 123 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury and Mars.

American actors Fred MacMurray and Raymond Massey were born on August 30, the former in 1908 and the latter in 1896.

On this day in history:

In 30 B.C., Cleopatra committed suicide by permitting an asp to bite her.

In 1780, Revolutionary Army Gen. Benedict Arnold betrayed his young country when he promised secretly to surrender the American fort at West Point to the British army. A British spy subsequently was hanged but Arnold escaped.

In 1862, the Union Army commanded by Maj. Gen. John Pope was defeated by Confederate troops in the second Battle of Bull Run.

A thought for the day: American poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said, "Music is the universal language of mankind... poetry their universal pastime and delight."

Shrewd Play Brings About Difficult Slam In Hearts

How would you play today's hand at six spades? "Under an assumed name," you may wish to reply. It's a risky slam, to be sure, but the chances are that we've all been in worse contracts. This sort of hand is often made — if played shrewdly.

Opening lead — ♠ 8

West opened the eight of spades, and South won with the king. South would have traded dummy's red picture cards for the kings of clubs, but something told him that the opponents wouldn't agree to the trade.

How was he to proceed?

Most players would draw the rest of the trumps. This would allow East to signal with a high diamond to show his strength in that suit. The opponents would eventually take the king of clubs and the ace of diamonds.

The actual declarer saw that he had no chance for the slam unless the clubs broke evenly. The only real hope was that the player who took the club trick wouldn't know which red suit to lead.

South therefore led the ace of clubs at the second trick and led a low club at the third trick. This gave the opponents no chance to signal.

West took the king of clubs and had to guess. Which should he lead, a diamond or a heart?

West had left his crystal ball at home, so he had no way of knowing which suit to lead. As it happened, he led a heart, and South made the slam. Declarer won the ace of hearts, drew the rest of the trumps and ran the clubs to discard his losing diamond.

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠-8 7 5 2
♥-J 9 4 2
♦-K 6 5
♣-K 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

The hand is strong enough for a response, and it would be awkward to bid one no-trump since it would be difficult to find a fit in hearts or spades. If partner raises to two hearts with weak three-card support, you will have a difficult hand to play but you won't be very high. If partner jumps in hearts he will have good four-card support.

Beefed-Up Keogh Plan More Palatable

By ROGER E. SPEAR AND DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. Are the annual retirement installments under a Keogh Plan tax deductible? Are the income and capital gains also tax-free? G.A.

A. The annual contributions for self-employed people —as well as the dividends and capital gains received on the investments — are accumulated free of tax until they are distributed at retirement. You enter your Keogh contributions as a business deduction from gross income. Assume a $2,500 contribution, if you are in a 39 per cent tax bracket the actual cost to you is only $1,525. One of the biggest attractions of Keogh is dollar averaging, with a compounding of dividends and capital gains tax-free.

A new pension reform bill has been under active consideration in Congress and latest reports are that it is nearing enactment, probably this month. Keogh-type contributions would be increased from 10 per cent to 15 per cent of net earnings, with the maximum contribution being raised from $2,500 to $7,500 per year. Moreover, it would allow a tax free set-aside of 15 per cent of earnings up to $1,500 for anybody who is not now covered by a formal pension plan — not just the self-employed.

Q. I have some shares of McCulloch Oil (ASE). Would you recommend holding? E.M.

A. Although some of the negatives that pushed the share price to this low ebb are behind, others remain, keeping potential investors on the sidelines. A huge debt burden (75 per cent of capitalization), an earnings credibility gap, the slump in housing, and proposed changes in tax laws affecting the oil industry are some of the depressive factors restricting McCulloch.

On the positive side, six-month sales were up 6 per cent, despite an 8.5 per cent decline in the first quarter. Earnings of 26 cents a share (versus two cents in the 1973 first half) included a 14 cents a share gain from prepayment of land contracts and five cents a share from a debenture exchange, leaving seven cents in operating profits. This meets company projections of doubling or tripling 1973 operating income. Shares may be held for speculation.

SWAN, New Woman's Dress Shop, To Open Sept. 9 In San Anselmo

A new women's clothing store called SWAN, featuring sports and evening wear including originals created by the owners themselves, will open at The Hub in San Anselmo on Sept. 9.

It will be located at 2 Greenfield Avenue, around the corner from Tamalpais Theater, in space vacated by Old Time Antiques.

The Swan dress shop will be operated by Carol Rucker and Caroline Ciancutti, both of San Anselmo, who will design their own originals. They will also buy from manufacturers in San Francisco, Southern California and New York. The Swan will carry sports and evening apparel, primarily sizes 8 through 14. It will be open Tuesday through Saturday, and closed on Sunday and Monday. "We plan to use Mondays for sewing and buying," said Mrs. Rucker.

Mrs. Rucker is a former educator who taught at Redwood High School for the past two and one-half years, at San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow for a year, and worked at Bullock's in Los Angeles for two years. She studied design at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Tex., and has design experience.

Mrs. Ciancutti was a research assistant in history at Stanford University for the past two years.

BERNITA BUCKWALTER of Novato has been appointed assistant vice president in Wells Fargo Bank's Trust Division, San Francisco.

Mrs. Buckwalter, formerly operations officer, joined Wells Fargo in 1956 in the data processing division and was assigned to the trust division in 1973.

Stitt

JAMES STITT & Company, advertising designers, has moved to new offices atop the Thomas Lile Building at 145 Natoma Street, San Francisco. The company is headed by James Stitt of Tiburon.

The company's work includes packaging, label design and corporate graphics. Stitt is presently working on advertising and graphic assignments for Sun Resorts Co. of Sun Valley, Idaho, and is working with Steam Beer Brewing Company in San Francisco and with Sonoma Vineyards.

NOVATO ART CENTER, which has been operating at 808 Grant Avenue in Oldtown Novato for seven years, will move next week to its new location in Del Prado Square at 500 Alameda del Prado, Ignacio.

Opening in conjunction with the new Novato Art Center is the Old California Gallery and custom frame shop.

Owners of the Novato Art Center and the Old California Gallery, Shannon and Barbara Murphy, announced that the new location doubles their floor space and allows for increased art inventory and a separate teaching room.

Featured works for September include ceramics by Robert Richards, photography by Ron Munden, etching by Cynthia Klein, and watercolors by Barbara Murphy.

An open house is planned for Sept. 15 from 5 to 9 p.m., with an 8 p.m. program to include discussions by Don Pierce on the "Restoration of Painting" and by Shannon Murphy on "Purchasing Original Art."

Sonoma State Extension offers three evening classes at the new art center on watercolor, etching and oil painting. A full schedule of daytime classes are offered in oil, sketching, watercolor, print making, figure painting sculpture, and several afternoon children's art classes.

ALVINA BURKHARDT of San Rafael, who has been a secretary in the San Francisco offices of Eastman Kodak sinee 1930, retires today after 44 years of continuous service.

ALVINA BURKHARDT
44 Years With Kodak

She served as secretary to a succession of Kodak executives who have gone on to bigger assignments, including Gerald B. Zornow, now board chairman at the company's headquarters in Rochester, N.Y. She also served as secretary to Wylie B. Robson, executive vice president and general manager of the International Photographic Division of Eastman Kodak; and Frederick S. Welsh, vice president and director of corporate relations.

Miss Burkhardt is a past president of the Executive Secretaries of San Francisco.

BELLA BOUTIQUE, women's dress shop at 3320 Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, will close by the end of September.

The store, operated by Sarah Firpo of Peacock Gap for almost six years, is in the midst of a close-out sale, which started yesterday. "Everything must go, including the fixtures," said Mrs. Firpo. The inventory includes dresses, slacks and other apparel, plus jewelry and handbags.

Mrs. Firpo said she is closing the store because "a beautiful opportunity opened up for me, and it coincides with the expiration of the lease on Oct. 1." She said she cannot disclose her future plans as yet except that she and her husband will continue to live in Peacock Gap.

CONTINENTAL PACIFIC Hotels, a San Francisco-based company headed by president Thomas C. Marshall of Kent Woodlands, has acquired Rossmore House Hotel in Los Angeles.

The acquisition marks the entry by Continental into the luxury retirement hotel field. Continental operates the Continental, Lombard and Victorian hotels in San Francisco.

SNAZELLE FILMS in San Francisco, headed by E. E. Gregg Snazelle of Sausalito, won two medals at the Atlanta International Film Festival this month.

It won a gold medal for "Hospital," a comedy spot produced for the San Francisco Chronicle, and a bronze for "What's Up," an animated commercial for Connie Shoe division of Wohl Shoe Co., St. Louis.

Both commercials were directed and produced by Gregg Snazelle.

What Lies Behind Increase In Crime?

San Rafael residents are taking greater care to lock their doors because of the brutal slaying of Lucy Ann Gilbride, wife of the head counselor of Terra Linda High School, in her home on Tuesday.

Such a crime inevitably produces an atmosphere of fear, most markedly in the neighborhood where it occurs and to lessening degree throughout the city and its surroundings.

It serves to remind us, far more forcefully than the home burglaries which have become so common, that we live in an unsafe society — unsafe even in our own homes, unless the doors and windows are firmly secured.

THERE HAVE always been such crimes. But, until recently, their occurrence was so rare that in communities such as San Rafael, little thought was given to them.

It is only a few years since most of us left our doors unlocked — as Mrs. Gilbride, a friendly, unsuspicious person, reportedly still did. But our society has deteriorated. Home burglaries have become common. And crimes of violence by intruders into homes are much more frequent than a few years ago.

The killing of Mrs. Gilbride recalled that of Nina Fischer at the opposite end of San Rafael last November — a crime that remains unsolved.

It was the third murder in Marin County since July 1. On July 5, James Michael Torry was stabbed to death beside the swimming pool of his Forest Knolls home. On Aug. 25, the body of Gary A. Kirstine, his head crushed, was found beside Fairfax-Bolinas Road above the Meadow Club.

The number appears small compared with the toll of homicides in nearby cities. There were 79 murders in San Francisco in the first seven months of this year. There were 54 in Oakland from Jan. 1 through Aug. 23.

But suburban and rural communities no longer are the havens from crime that they were long considered. And they are becoming less so. The U.S. Department of Justice reports that crime in suburbs and rural areas increased 29 per cent in the second quarter of this year, compared to a 15 per cent increase in large cities.

Such rapid increases are shocking.

THE EXPLANATION is not easy to find. Undoubtedly, the increase in crime stems at least in part from a general breakdown of moral values, from lack of teaching our young to differentiate between right and wrong.

In California, at least, there may be an additional explanation — one offered by a police officer with whom we discussed the Gilbride killing.

He suggested that two state policies contribute to the rise in crime: Placing the mentally unbalanced in outpatient care of community mental health centers instead of in state mental hospitals, and subsidizing counties for placing felons on probation rather than sending them to prison. These policies turn more criminals and unbalanced potential criminals loose on the community.

These policies deserve reexamination.

To Make A Pound Of Honey

We all know honey is a simple product. Beekeepers take it from the hives and it's sold in most Marin and Sonoma markets.

But did you know it takes 80,000 bees to collect the nectar for one pound of honey? And that the total distance these bees would travel to collect the nectar for this pound equals three trips around the world?

Not so simple, after all.

State Seeks To Protect Buyers Of Condominiums

By EARL G. WATERS

What risks are Californians running when they buy a condominium? Recent stories across the nation indicate that many seeking the carefree living promised by the condominium concept have been rudely awakened from their dreams by unexpected and excessive costs.

The idea of buying an apartment or town house in a complex, which provides for all exterior maintenance and recreational facilities at a minimum assessment cost, has intrigued many into giving up their homes to escape the burden of upkeep of yards and swimming pools.

But many have underestimated maintenance fees that they must pay in addition to their initial purchase costs. In some instances they find they have agreed to lease a $25,000 swimming pool for 50 years at a rate which will bring the developer a cool million dollars from the tenants over the period of the lease.

THE EXCESSIVE maintenance charges and slick lease-back deals for recreational facilities which have been reported are the results of unwarranted developer control over projects.

Despite the intent in the condominium concept that the project will be controlled through an association formed by the resident owners, the developer gains long-term control by leasing the recreational facilities and through "locked-in" management contracts.

Other abuses have been underestimating by the developer of the assessments to be paid by the residents; structural deficiencies and shoddy construction; unfilled promises to provide recreational or other facilities, and misuse of purchaser's payments.

But these are things which mostly have occurred outside of California, according to State Real Estate Commissioner Robert W. Karpe.

CONCEDING THAT California is not trouble-free of condominium problems, Karpe says that regulations of his department protect against most of the major complaints which are plaguing the market across the country.

He said regulations require that buyers of such units receive a common interest in the overall development and that long-term management or service agreements are prohibited.

Estimated assessments for maintenance and other operating costs must be approved by the state before sales can be made. And, by bond or otherwise, a developer must show financial arrangements to assure completion of a development. Also purchasers' funds must be impounded until title is conveyed free of encumbrances.

BUT DESPITE THESE protections, there are still risks. Shoddy construction is one, but that is present in any home purchase. More to the point in connection with condominiums is that the owners are governed by an association. If the majority decides to build tennis courts and you don't play tennis, you are still going to get stuck for the construction and maintenance costs. The majority can also vote to incure other costs which would raise substantially the original estimates of what an owner must pay for maintenance.

And, if the majority decides to ban pets from the project, you can either kiss Fido goodbye or start making plans to move out.

Although the state regulations ban the obvious excesses used by some developers in other states, it is still a wise course to have a good attorney review the entire transaction before you leap.

Another View

"It's not much, Mr. President, and we hope it's only temporary."

"And, of course, we're eager for your contributions in the economic area — like paying off this year's deficit, for instance."

Fire Department Prompt In Emergency

Recently, the San Rafael Fire Department was called to give me aid when I lost consciousness. Their prompt response made us realize that we have a prompt, efficient service in our city for an emergency such as this. They certainly have my thanks and my family's too.

No High Opinion Of Consultant Reports

I am very interested in the board of supervisors' analysis of the Peat Marwick Mitchell consultants' report because in another case I dealt closely with Peat Marwick Mitchell people in the process of their preparation of a report for another government agency. My opinion of their work on that report is much more eloquently stated by the board of supervisors when they question the consultants' expertise. It is unfortunate that there is no way for government agencies who have been "burned" this way to pass the word so that others can beware of hiring the same firm.

In general, and despite popular (and apparently, grand jury) opinion, government employees have considerable ability, and given the time the consultants are allowed, can produce a superior product.

Wall Street Journal, People's World Agree

Is it perchance newsworthy when both a Wall Street Journal editorial writer and the perennial presidential candidate of the Communist Party of the United States see eye to eye about our need for a special national presidential election?

On page one of the Communist Party's People's World (Aug. 10) with New York dateline:

"Communist Party General Secretary Gus Hall called on Aug. 6 for the setting of new elections to replace the sinking Republican administration.

"'It is now clear,' said Hall in a telephone interview, 'that the 1972 election will go down in history as the greatest electoral fraud of all time. Anything less than calling for new, immediate elections is a cover-up for this fraud.'"

On the editorial page of the Wall Street Journal (Aug. 27) contributing editor Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Albert Schweitzer professor of humanities and winner of Pulitizer prizes in history and biography, wrote:

"If we had followed the original idea of the Constitution, we would not have as president and vice president today two men whose names had never been submitted to the national electorate. Indeed, we would not have a vice president at all. Instead, we would, like the French, have a new presidential election. This would only be an election to fill out a term and would not require the electorate foreplay of the quadrennial orgy. The national committees, which have become increasingly representative bodies under the new party rules, could canvass opinion and make the nominations. Candidates can be established with astonishing speed in the electronic age. Short campaigns, federally financed, would be a blessing infinitely appreciated by the electorate. Perhaps their brevity and their economy might have a salutary impact on the quadrennial campaigns, which in recent years have stretched out to intolerable length and swelled to intolerable expense. . .It is surely time to take a critical look at Section 2 of the 25th Amendment so that the republic will never again have as its top officials persons who received office and power through appointment rather than election."

County Open Space District Opens Way For Abuses

I would like to talk to you about several things tonight, but first the matter of acquiring open space with money from the County-wide Open Space District fund.

There is great danger in what has happened in respect to this $100,000 purchase of property on top of Kent Woodlands. I'm speaking now primarily of the county-wide open space purchases, not of those individual districts that ought to have certain open space remain in their particular district and bond themselves for it. That's their business.

However, cases have come to my attention where people have formed special assessment districts without requiring a vote of the people but by simply going to the board of supervisors to have it OK'd for them and many people did not have the opportunity to speak for or against it, etc., and may not benefit in any way, shape or form with the acquisition which is to be purchased as open space. They probably can't see it and in every aspect it appears to be in constitutional violation. The whole transaction then becomes an assessment on their property and a lien on their property. When it is based on an ad valorem tax, people with $30,000 to $40,000 homes who may not benefit at all by the open space purchase, it is a gross miscarriage of justice. There is no question about that.

GETTING BACK to those areas that are being purchased by the County-wide Open Space District: This sort of thing of paying $100,000 on property the assessor shows worth $55,000 is bad. No matter how you look at it, the public is entitled to a complete and full explanation of why and how that was done. But the point I want to make is it could happen again and again and again because it is done without the decision of the people directly involved. It is done entirely by the five-man board of supervisors, acting as directors of the Open-Space District. There is no check on 'em. I repeat that: There is no check on them and all sorts of things could enter into that are unsavory. I don't say that there have been, but there could be, no matter what board.

It is certainly up to the public in general to change that or they are going to be taxed with no opportunity to know about it or be heard.

When this Open Space District was voted in there was an overall misrepresentation. The picture was never clearly presented. You don't see the people or hear the people who were behind it and pushing it. It seemed more of a game and a contest whether they could put it over, rather than a presentation of real need.

SOME WEEKS ago, I told you that a group of concerned citizens were researching the methods of bringing about an initiative on a county ordinance. Here are a few excerpts of their findings:

. . ."If the initiative petition is signed by 20 per cent or more of the entire vote cast within a county for all candidates for governor at the last gubernatorial election, and contains a request that the ordinance be submitted immediately to a vote of the people at a special election, the board of supervisors must either (1) pass the ordinance without alteration at the regular meeting at which it is presented and within 10 days after it is presented, or (2) immediately call a special election, at which ordinance without alteration is to be submitted to a vote of the voters of the county. . .

"If a petition protesting the adoption of a new ordinance is presented to the board of supervisors prior to the effective date of the ordinance, the ordinance must be suspended, and the supervisors must reconsider the ordinance. The petition must be signed by voters of the county equal in number to at least 10 per cent of the entire vote cast within the county for all candidates for governor at the last gubernatorial election."

Sound Reasons Why Congress And Ford Should Cooperate

WASHINGTON — Most commentators are offering the opinion that President Ford and Congress won't be able to achieve any bipartisan consensus on crucial legislation.

Their view seems to be:

1 — That the political honeymoon will be so short-lived as to be meaningless.

2 — That under the best of circumstances a liberal Democratic Congress and a conservative Republican president cannot work together productively and that any hope to the contrary is just wishful.

The skeptics naturally want to guard against overoptimism. That's fine, but it doesn't mean they are necessarily right in this instance.

WHY SHOULDN'T it work? It worked under Presidents Dwight Eisenhower and Lyndon Johnson because they both tried. It didn't work under President Nixon because he didn't try very much to make it work. Conciliation and compromise can be made to work under President Ford and the congressional Democratic leaders, Sen. Mike Mansfield and Speaker of the House Carl Albert, because there is good reason to believe they want to make it work.

There are a number of solid reasons to expect some useful actions from the climate of good will which prevails today.

Further drift and stalemate are a visible peril to the country.

Congress knows it. The president knows it. The voters know it.

WHICHEVER BRANCH of government — Congress or the president — causes further stalemate at this time will risk the wrath of the American people.

Voters at this point want and expect government to begin to govern again. "Don't wallow in Watergate" was once empty, partisan rhetoric. Today it is the public's plain warning that now is the time to end inertia, put past controversies behind us, and get on with the public business.

I suggest that the fate of incumbent congressmen will be considerably determined by how reasonable co-operative they are with President Ford during the next two and a half months. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

THE SENATE is showing a willingness to compromise with President Ford in ways it was not willing to compromise with former President Nixon. One example is the vitally important foreign trade bill. The Jackson amendment has blocked this measure for months because of controversy over the treatment of Russian Jews. Now that issue is being resolved, and President Ford is being given discretion to determine when the conditions of the Jackson amendment have been met.

The White House and Congress are also much nearer together on a workable national health care bill than at any time during the past year. It is moving toward enactment this year or early next.

The toughest piece of conciliation is still ahead — a coherent, bipartisan anti-inflation program. Even the big spenders in Congress are becoming more economy-minded because they are hearing from the voters back home.

The message is: the war on inflation comes ahead of everything else.

It will be bad politics to stand in the way of major budget-cutting which is the essential first thrust in the anti-inflation battle. It will be good politics to support it.

While National Leaders Row, Doers Attack Food Crisis

WOODS HOLE, Mass. — There are worriers, and then there are doers.

Public officials assembled in Bucharest this month for history's largest official worrying session about world population. They knew before they arrived that they were going to disagree about the long-range perils of the situation, what should be done about them, and who should do it. As they head home they remain in disagreement, only more so.

Delegates from the underdeveloped nations (the "third world") have been joined by Communist representatives in insisting that the United States and other western industrial countries consume too much. U.S. advice urging the third world to cut back its birthrate as we have done is received as racist propaganda. The two sides come together on only one thing: As things are proceeding, there is not going to be enough food to go around.

AT THE RATE world population is still increasing, food supplies in 1980 will have to be one-third greater than in 1965; by 2000 approximately double 1965. Because of their rapidly booming populations, merely to prevent a decline in existing nutrition levels in developing regions will demand more than 40 per cent more production in 1980 than in 1965; and by 2000 almost 120 per cent more than 1965.

The critical demand for more foostufff is driven not only by the growth in population as such. It curves upward even more sharply because of rising affluence, which means rising expectations for better food — specifically more proteins, more meat for nations that historically have existed on low-nutrition diets. The portent of this change is clear in the fact that it takes seven pounds of grain to produce one pound of beef; four of grain for one of pork; three of grain for one of poultry.

Optimistic experts maintain that traditional farming methods can meet these demands if pushed hard enough. But hard enough means plowing up so much of the land that all those extra people will be crowded even closer than otherwise. It means the damming of streams for irrigation to an extent dangerous to the health of whole national populations. It means the use of fertilizer so intensively as to become counterproductive when the runoff from these chemicals kills masses of the fish on which other national populations rely so heavily.

THAT BRINGS US to non-traditional food production, which switches us from the worriers to the doers, and thus we arrive here at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution. It is not the only research agency trying to maximize protein output by recycling what man already uses. Aquaculture, growing crops in water, is a commercial reality in some areas. But Dr. John Ryther is turning one thrust of population — pollution — back against another — the food shortage.

His scheme, growing in scale over four years, is to use treated sewage as a nutrient for an algae farm and the algae as food for shellfish. Its potential is illustrated by Japanese success at growing oysters artificially from rafts in the Inland Sea. A single raft produces about four tons of oyster meat a year, which is the highest rate of output of animal protein per unit anywhere on earth.

Beyond the experimental level Dr. Ryther's project would grow into a combined sewage treatment-aquaculture complex, concentrating two necessary functions of the coastal zone into one area and leaving nearby waters free for other uses. By his figures a community of 11,000 people would produce sewage nutrition for a 50-acre algae farm which in turn would feed a one-acre shellfish facility for an annual crop of a million pounds of protein-rich meat. The extension of these figures to larger cities and regions involves vast amounts of critically needed food, especially for countries with already high populations and long coastlines, and that includes some of the hungriest.

The direct line between what Dr. Ryther is doing at the Environmental Systems Laboratory and what the gentlemen from Ulan Bator and Foggy Bottom have been debating at Bucharest is clear to any fourth grader. But neither Dr. Ryther nor I suggest that his project is the single answer to the problem of world hunger. It is, however, one of many examples of innovative action which had better replace the purely nationalistic worrying at Bucharest if man is to prevent his own fertility from making him extinct.

Size Of Mill Valley Reserve Fund Raises Some Eyebrows

Before getting nervous over the fact that bids for building the new Mill Valley public safety complex were higher than expected, residents should note that by the end of fiscal 1975 the city will have reserves of about $1.5 million.

In this civic savings account, more than $800,000 will be in the general fund and could be used for almost anything the city council wants.

City Mgr. Ronald L. Usher noted that the reserves "are extremely healthy related to the total city budget" of $3 million.

Usher, who came to the city last January, said that most of the responsibility for the reserves' size belongs to his predecessor, William Cunningham, who apparently was skillful at salting away funds for the city.

Even some councilmen expressed surprise to find out how big the reserve was when Usher prepared the budget this spring.

IN VIEW of the size of the reserve, one might ask, why should the city worry about the extra $300,000 needed for the public safety building? Why can't the money come out of general fund reserves — still leaving $500,000 for emergencies?

At a meeting last week, the council noted that it probably will have to do just that. But the council also seems intent on putting the money used back in the reserve fund by making the tax rate a little higher than is needed for the rest of the budget. A tax rate of $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation was set — five cents higher than originally was estimated as needed.

The idea is, the council said at the time, to replace what's taken out of the reserve fund for the public safety building in small amounts over the next several years. The extra nickel will bring the city an added $31,000 this year.

GRANTED A CITY always needs reserves handy for emergencies. But why is $800,000 to $1 million in a general fund needed for in a city the size of Mill Valley? Has the council got some other space purchases in mind, for example?

Before voters approve any more bond issues in Mill Valley, they might insist on finding out how much the city actually needs in reserves. Can't special purchases sometimes be funded out of a city's nest egg instead of our of additional taxation?

Land Board Approves Drill Lease

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Lands Commission agreed today to authorize a lease for natural gas drilling on some 3,000 acres on West Sherman Island in the Sacramento River.

The exact terms of the lease were not announced.

A staff recommendation said the lease would not "interfere with the developed riverbank or shoreline, residential or recreational areas." The land is near Rio Vista.

In other action, the commission delayed consideration of an application for a right-of-way for a replacement for the Dumbarton Bridge, connecting San Mateo and Alameda counties. The commission must give permission for the use of some 70 submerged acres for the proposed replacement span.

A three-year permit was granted to Gibson-Pierson Ship Salvors, Inc. to recover the cargo and hull of a sunken 400-year-old Spanish sailing ship near San Miguel Island in Santa Barbara County.

Nixon Asks $240,000 For Office

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon has asked for $244,000 to set up his office in San Clemente, Calif. and the government has okayed the request subject to a congressional appropriation, the White House said yesterday.

The $244,000 request was part of an $850,000 fund which President Ford asked Congress to appropriate for "presidential transition expenses and allowances for former Presidents."

The General Services Administration, which serves as the government's housekeeping agency, negotiated the $244,000 with Nixon and submitted it to Ford, White House press aide John Carlson said.

He said the figure was "roughly the same" as the amount provided former President Lyndon B. Johnson to set up an office in Texas after his term expired.

Johnson's is the only president since the law which authorized such expenditures not enacted until 1963.

Ford requested $450,000 to be available from Aug. 9, when Nixon left office, until the current fiscal year ends next June 30, for transition expenses.

Another $400,000 would be allocated under separate legislation to cover Nixon's pension, his office staff, travel and furnishings for his office, Carlson said.

He said that $400,000 breaks down this way: $96,000 to pay his staff, $60,000 for Nixon's pension, $40,000 for travel, $5,000 for office supplies, $65,000 for furnishings, $21,000 for communications, $10,000 for printing and $100,000 for miscellaneous expenses.

Carlson said Nixon would be within the law if he used some of $96,000 for staff to pay his lawyers but he may not pay additional legal fees out of the $100,000 miscellaneous fund.

As a practical matter, he said, there would not be much in the $96,000 for paying lawyers since his personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, receives $50,000 and he employs three secretaries to help with the mail.

The GSA must approve expenditures from the $100,000 miscellaneous account as provided by law, Carlson said.

Carlson said Nixon is entitled to the pension and the staff allowance under law but Congress could refuse to appropriate the additional $244,000 which the GSA proposed if it chose to do so.

Seoul's New Subway Eases Traffic Jams

SEOUL (UPI) — The tracks run less than six miles, but the new Seoul subway eased some traffic jams for the city's six million residents.

The South Korean capital opened the first portion of the subway network Aug. 15. The 5.9 miles of track connect the central railroad station with Chongryangri in the city's eastern suburbs.

The subway tracks are hooked up with electric train routes, enabling passengers to travel to Inchon, 21 miles west of Seoul, and Suwon, 25 miles to the south, without changing cars.

Subway construction began with a ground breaking ceremony on April 12, 1971. More than $80 million including $23.4 million in foreign loans have been spent on the project.

City authorities hope to expand the initial line into a network of at least three routes although detailed plans — including financing — have not yet been worked out.

Kim Myung-nyon, the 42-year-old director of subway construction, predicts traffic problems in Seoul will ease to a considerable extent.

"Shuttling 120 times a day between the terminals, the subway is expected to take care of some 560,000 persons daily, about 23 per cent of Seoul's traffic volume," he says.

The subways start running at 4:30 a.m. and stop at 11:30 p.m. During morning and afternoon rush hours, trains run at five-minute intervals. During the rest of the day they operate every 7.5 minutes.

Kim is proud that the subway system was planned and completed by an all-Korean technical staff without participation of foreign engineers.

"We were at a loss when we had the plan before us for the first time," he said. "Where there was a will there was a way. We threw in all our passion. We inspected subway systems in other countries and now feel that we are experts."

Each subway train has six cars with a total capacity of 2,000 passengers and runs at top speeds of 43.5 miles per hour.

The fare ranges from $0.07 to $0.20 in Seoul proper, but travelers on connecting electric train routes pay according to the distance.

Malfunction Cuts Short Plane Flight

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — The experimental X24B, a delta-shaped aircraft, made its 15th flight yesterday but an engine malfunction kept it from its planned maximum speed of 1,100 miles an hour.

With the regular pilot, John A. Manke, at the controls, the rocket-powered aircraft was launched from a B52 bomber at an elevation of 45,000 near Lancaster. With all four chambers of the rocket engine ignited, Manke took the X24B to a peak altitude of 73,500 feet and a speed of 760 m.p.h., or mach 1.15, before a malfunction shut the engine down prematurely.

Manke maneuvered the X24B to a glide landing on a dry lake bed at the Flight Research Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The flight lasted seven minutes and 48 seconds.

The X24B is the latest in a series of small rocket-powered experimental aircraft that is being flown to demonstrate man's ability to maneuver and safely land vehicles with shapes that have been designed solely for re-entry from space flights. It is a possible forerunner of future manned aircraft that would be able to cruise at hypersonic speeds.

Solar Energy To Heat Big Pool

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — County supervisors have authorized the experimental use of solar energy to heat the 180,000-gallon Salazar swimming pool in East Los Angeles.

Supervisor James Hayes, the county's energy chairman, said the plan was an extension of a test which involved the use of solar energy at a small pool at the county mechanical headquarters.

The test involved solar energy panels which are placed on the rooftop of the building, and the heat absorbed in them used to warm a small test pool.

Hayes voiced hope that all of the county's 35 pools could be heated by the sun some day, and eventually an entire building powered by solar energy.

Joyride Tests Tester's Nerves

SHELTON, Wash. (UPI) — State Motor Vehicle Licensing Examiner John Perry gave Homer Painter, 82, a driving test. It turned out to be a test of Perry's nerves.

Police said Painter narrowly missed a parked car at the start of the test. Then, officers said, the candidate ran over a sidewalk divider and hit another parked auto.

Perry suffered a couple of bruises. Painter came out without a scratch.

The state Department of Motor Vehicles declined to say whether Painter flunked the test.

Annual Yearbook Party Is Thursday

Tam High Buses Accord Reached For The Moment

Bridge District Agrees To Deliver Students Until Solution Is Found

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A threatened halt to bus service for about 550 Tamalpais High School District students starting next Thursday has been averted, at least temporarily.

Officials of the Golden Gate Bridge, Marin County Transit and Tamalpais High School districts failed yesterday to resolve their dispute over which one should pay for the service, but the bridge district will provide the same school service as last semester until the issue is settled.

No solution was found, however, on how to bus some 65 students to Tamalpais High School from Bolinas, Stinson Beach and Muir Beach. The high school district paid a private company $23,000 last year to transport these students, but decided it could not afford to renew the contract.

The bridge district's staff added a new surprise to the dispute by doubling its estimate made only Tuesday that the deficit for the bus service this fiscal year will be $70,000. The director of planning and re-

A New Unity Of Colleges, Labor Asked

Ford Wants Practical, Productive Education

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — President Ford, citing China as an example and a challenge, called today for a new partnership of labor and educators to make American schools more practical and industry more productive.

Ford, addressing an applauding crowd at the summer commencement exercises of Ohio State University, spoke in philosophical terms of the proposed alliance and provided few details.

But he suggested that the universities open their doors to working people, not only as students but as teachers, and said: "Practical problem solvers can contribute much to education, whether or not they hold degrees."

He said he has asked the cabinet secretaries of labor and of health, education and welfare to report to him on ways "to bring the world of work and institutions of education closer together."

Ford recalled visiting the People's Republic of China in 1972, and he said that nation's productivity is gaining momentum and China is making significant technological progress.

"The majority of Chinese are young people, highly motivated and extremely well disciplined," he said.

In contrast, the President said, American youths generally are getting too much or too little training for their careers, inflation is creating anxiety, and industrial productivity is slipping.

"As fellow human beings, we celebrate the rising capacities of the Chinese nation, a people with a firm belief in their own destiny," Ford told the 2,540 OSU graduates and a crowd that nearly filled the school's 13,400-seat athletic arena.

"However, as Americans motivated by free competition, we see a distinct challenge. And I believe all Americans welcome that challenge."

At the same time, he said, American education is being strangled by academic degrees. He added:

"I want to see labor open its ranks to the researchers and problem solvers of academia whose research can give better tools and methods to the workman. I want to see a two-way street speeding the traffic of scientific development, speeding the creation of new jobs, speeding the day of selfsufficiency in energy, and speeding an era of increased production for America and the world.

"What good is training if it is not applied to jobs? What good

Fairs Headline Labor Day Fare

The three-day holiday weekend offers many major events for those who do not like to travel far for entertainment.

The Marin County Fair which opened yesterday at the Civic Center continues throughout the weekend from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

It offers the usual displays of vegetables and flowers, plus such other things as a film festival. The carnival rides and other entertainment bid to keep young and old alike entertained.

A few miles to the north, the Renaissance Pleasure Faire, built around an Elizabethan England theme, offers entertainment, refreshment and wares in the Black Point area of Novato from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow, Sunday and Monday.

Scots from Northern California will gather Saturday and Sunday at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Santa Rosa as the 109th annual Scottish Gathering and Games are held starting at 9 a.m. each day.

Those more artistically inclined will be drawn to the 23rd

$2,000 Reward Set For Leads On Slayer

A $2,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the slayer of Lucy Ann Gilbride was offered today through the Independent-Journal's "Secret Witness" program.

In offering the reward, publisher Wishard A. Brown cited success of the program in solving a hit-run death in San Anselmo earlier this year, and expressed hope it will prove equally successful in leading to the slayer of Mrs. Gilbride, wife of Robert J. Gilbride, head counselor at Terra Linda High School.

San Rafael Police Chief Lawrence R. Kelly, endorsing the offer, said: "We're requesting anyone who has information on the slaying to contact either Inspector Bart Stinson of our department or the 'Secret Witness' program."

The body of Mrs. Gilbride, her throat cut and her skull fractured, was found late Tuesday in the family home at 36 Golden Hinde Boulevard.

The "Secret Witness" program makes it possible for anyone having information that may lead to solution of a crime to offer it without identifying himself or herself.

Here is how it works:

The possessor of information writes the information on a sheet of paper, and places the same five-digit number in both lower corners of the sheet. He then tears off and keeps one corner containing the number, and mails the rest of the sheet to Secret Witness, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael 94902.

The information is turned over to police, but the communication itself is held until the crime is solved. If the information provided leads to solution of the crime, that fact is publicized and the person who gave the information may collect the reward by presenting the torn-off bit of paper containing the number to someone designated by mutual agreement with police and/or the Independent-Journal publisher. His identity need never become known.

A $2,000 reward was paid to the "Secret Witness" who provided information that led to the conviction in May of Woodrow Wilson Fitzsimmons of Fairfax in the hit-run traffic death last Nov. 23 of Harmen Evers, San Anselmo bank official.

Another 2,000 reward offer is still outstanding in the murder of Nina Fischer last Nov. 15 in her Point San Pedro home on the edge of San Rafael.

TAKE ME DOWN TO THE FAIR

For those who don't have time to spend tramping around the highways and byways of the Marin County Fair, it's always possible to see the entire show at one time and save hours of walking. Photographer Alfred Arn took a plane ride to capture this panoramic "fair view" yesterday, a kaleidoscope of people, places and activities. (For other fair pictures and stories, see Page 25.)

Firms Set Closings For Labor Day

Banks, post offices, libraries, school offices and most stores in Marin and Southern Sonoma will be closed Monday in observance of Labor Day.

City, county, state and federal offices and facilities in the two counties also will be closed because of the national holiday.

Parking meter regulations will not be enforced in cities in Marin and Southern Sonoma, except in Sausalito where meters will be wanted.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual.

Many public bodies which normally would meet Monday have changed their meeting dates. The new meeting times are:

San Rafael City Council, 8 p.m. Tuesday, city hall.

San Anselmo Planning Committee, which meets on Sept. 13.

Fare Hikes Proposed For Sausalito Ferry

A one-third hike in midday and weekend fares aboard the Sausalito ferry was proposed today by the president of the Golden Gate Bridge District.

Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco made the proposal for the $1 fare in the wake of a suggestion of Legislative Analyst Alan A. Post that the fares be increased for all riders except commuters. Post, however, suggested tourists pay up to double the present fare of 75 cents.

Leonoudakis's proposal would retain the 75-cent fare for commuters using books of tickets. His proposal was referred to the finance and auditing committee, which meets on Sept. 13.

Leonoudakis estimated that the increase would bring in an additional $250,000 a year.

A No-Fault Conference Is Favored

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy said today he favored sending the legislature's major no-fault car insurance bill to a two-house conference committee.

The measure by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, was scheduled for an Assembly floor vote today—one day before the legislature was slated to end its two-year session.

"I want to see a no-fault bill this year," McCarthy told newsmen but added he has talked to his Assembly colleagues and detected a "certain fluidity" in their thinking about what should go into the measure.

The San Francisco Democrat said the measure should be rejected by the Assembly and

INFLATION OUTLOOK

Saving Seen As Key For Economy's Ills

By MARY LEYDECKER

(First of two articles)

"We're all going to have to pay the piper."

"I think the American public is willing to help solve the problem if they know what the problem is."

"The American consumer is his own best safety valve."

Although three San Rafael men, all leaders in the financial world, agreed that inflation is the "number one danger facing our country," each expressed strong confidence that America will weather the present economic crisis.

They also were pretty much in agreement about the causes, results and ways to cure the predicament.

The three interviewed by the Independent-Journal are Richard M. Davis, chairman of the San Francisco stock brokerage firm, Davis, Skaggs and Co.; Kenneth V. Larkin, the Bank of America vice president in charge of consumer loans and BankAmericard, and Dale E. Walter, president of Redwood Bank.

Although the picture they painted was a pretty gloomy one, with Americans facing a "different kind of a country," in Davis's words, the financial leaders indicated a solid faith in the American public's ability to cope.

He and the other men agreed that slumping productivity, a floundering stock market, unbalanced governmental budgets and the energy crisis all have played their part in the present crisis.

Davis traced the history of the country's economic predicament, blaming it on a number of factors starting with years of an unbalanced federal budget.

"The ultimate obscenity," he said, was the Vietnam War, "with life as usual at home," and billions spent abroad.

"Too many dollars went abroad; there was too much debt at home, and the pressure built up on the production system" in the United States, Davis continued.

Walter agreed. The Vietnam war taught the lesson, he said, "that we can't have butter and

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

India Seeks A Hold On Sikkim

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is attempting to strengthen her nation's hold on the tiny kingdom of Sikkim, the strategic mountaintop buffer between India and China.

Gandhi

At a cabinet meeting chaired by Mrs. Gandhi yesterday, an amendment to the Indian constitution was drafted granting representation in both houses of the New Delhi parliament to the Sikkimese.

The tiny kingdom of 200,000 persons is crucial to India because it lies on the border with Chinese Tibet and commands strategic passes through the Himalayan Mountains.

Government sources said the draft amendment will be presented to parliament for discussion next Tuesday.

According to government sources, several opposition leaders expressed concern over international reaction to the move. Legal experts argue the amendment would effectively bind Sikkim to India.

Crisis Cooled

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Iceland's new conservative government has cooled a crisis with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but has threatened to touch off a new dispute with Europe's major fishing nations.

Prime Minister Geir Hallgrimson told the nation yesterday Iceland would stay in the NATO military alliance and allow 3,700 U.S. servicemen based in Iceland to remain on the island.

The announcement cooled a dispute that had been touched off when Iceland's former left-wing government threatened to pull out of NATO and close the sprawling U.S. air base at Keflavik.

Hallgrimson, however, also announced that his government intended to extend Iceland's 50-mile fishing limit to 200 miles by next year, raising the possibility of a new dispute with major maritime powers such as Britain.

Tennessee Blast

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — A witness to the mysterious blast that shattered a downtown block of taverns, apartments and businesses says more than 100 persons would have been killed had it happened on a weekend night.

As it was, the early morning blast yesterday killed one man and injured 13 others.

Police have been unable to pinpoint a cause for the blast, which inflicted damage estimated at $10 million, but Police and Fire Commissioner Gene Roberts said "preliminary indications are that it was something other than a bomb."

The explosion shot flames 200 feet in the air and shattered windows three blocks away.

Dangerous Spill

INWOOD, W.Va. (UPI) — A Union Carbide tanker laden with 3,500 gallons of hexanal ran off Interstate 81 and rolled over on its side late yesterday, spilling some of the highly flammable liquid across the highway, State Police said.

"If you dropped a cigarette butt in it, you'd lose half of south Berkeley County," Trooper W. F. Sankbeil said.

The tanker was headed north from Union Carbide's plant in South Charleston when the accident occurred about three miles north of here.

The driver, Kenneth Henson, 45, Chesapeake, Ohio, was admitted to Kings Daughters Hospital in Martinsburg in fair condition with facial and scalp lacerations. A co-driver in the truck did not require hospital treatment.

Space Problem

HOUSTON (UPI) — The director of life sciences at NASA said yesterday that more needs to be known about weightlessness before the United States can think of going ahead with a manned mission to Mars.

Dr. David L. Winters said even the 84 days of data from Skylab 3 is not enough to predict man's response to the 18-month to three-year flight to the red planet.

"In order to commit man to very long flights such as Mars, some intermediate duration flights of at least a year are needed," Winter said.

Viet Offensive

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces attacked government positions in all four of South Vietnam's military regions, apparently beginning an expected nationwide offensive, the Saigon command said today.

North Vietnam's official newspaper said "a new situation" was developing on the battlefield and promised "constant attacks and new victories."

Heavy Viet Cong and North Vietnamese assaults were reported yesterday near Da Nang and Saigon as well as in the Central Highlands and the Mekong Delta, the command said.

Communist gunners fired more than 1,300 artillery, rocket and mortar shells Thursday into government positions guarding Duc Duc, a district capital 25 miles southwest of Da Nang.

Pledge To Arabia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign Minister Umar al-Saqqaf of Saudi Arabia met with President Ford yesterday then was honored at a stag dinner hosted by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger said the current two-day discussions on the Middle East would "lead to a new chapter of relations between all Arab peoples and the Americans.

A White House spokesman said Ford reaffirmed a U.S. commitment during a 40-minute meeting with Saqqaf "to remain actively involved in maintaining momentum toward the achievement of a just and last peace."

Ford invited Saudi Arabian King Faisal to visit the United States.

Kissinger and Saqqaf discussed various technological, economic and social matters during the minister's visit.

Sulphur Blaze

OLRA, Tex. (UPI) — Thirty-eight cars carrying liquid sulphur to New Mexico derailed yesterday causing a "volcano" of fire that spread a half mile long and 100 yards wide.

The cars were part of a 73-car train carrying the sulphur from the Duval Sulphur plant 10 miles southwest of Orla to Carlsbad, N.M. The train derailed eight miles from the plant in a sparsely populated area of West Texas.

Wreckage was strewn along a half mile section of the tracks.

One firefighter was bitten by a rattlesnake, but was not seriously hurt. No one else was injured, though some firemen became ill from the sulphur fumes.

Relations Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and East Germany will establish diplomatic relations next week, a major step in winding down 29 years of cold war signaling further improvement in East-West relations.

State Department sources also said President Ford is expected to name John Sherman Cooper, former Reupblican senator from Kentucky and a veteran diplomat, as the first U.S. ambassador to the communist German Democratic Republic.

Establishment of full and formal relations will come next Wednesday when representatives of both countries will sign an agreement here. Each country now has found a suitable embassy building in the capital of the other.

Storm Hits Korea

SEOUL (UPI) — A sudden tropical storm accompanied by 56-mile-an-hour winds pounded South Korea's southern coast yesterday, causing heavy casualties and property damage, the Central Anti-Disaster Command said.

Adviser To Makarios Is Ambushed

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Vassos Lyssarides, a leftist politician and adviser-physician to exiled President Makarios, was shot and slightly wounded today in Nicosia by gunmen who killed his bodyguard-driver and wounded the driver's American wife and two bystanders.

Lyssarides blamed the shooting on EOKA guerrillas fighting to unite Cyprus with Greece and on the American Central Intelligence Agency.

Twenty-six bullets riddled his blue Japanese-made sedan in downtown Nicosia, killing Doros Loizou, the driver, and wounding the driver's wife, who acted as Lyssarides' secretary.

A police spokesman said Lyssarides dropped to the floor of the car when the gunmen opened up with submachine guns. He was was cut on the head by glass splinters.

Lyssarides told newsmen after he left the hospital where he was treated that Loizou, the dead driver, had studied at Boston University and his wife is an American now living in Cyprus. Lyssarides's own wife is American journalist Barbara Cornwall.

Lyssarides is the head of the Cyprus Social Democratic party and an outspoken opponent of EOKA.

"EOKA is responsible for the attempt on my life," he told newsmen. "Those led by the CIA had something to do with it. The whole conspiracy against Cyprus has been hatched by the CIA, and by this I mean the coup against Makarios and the Turkish invasion that followed."

Lyssarides said four gunmen in a French-built car were waiting for him at an intersection as he was driving to his clinic. He said he thought only one of them fired.

"I heard a burst of automatic gunfire," he said. "The windows were smashed. I felt I had been hit. After the second burst, which apparently killed my friend (the driver) the automobile came to a stop."

Cyprus president Glafkos Clerides visited Lyssarides at Nicosia General Hospital before he was released and Makarios telephoned him from London.

As Lyssarides walked out of the hospital a crowd shouted "Down with the fascists. The (Greek military) junta will pay for this." In Nicosia rumors spread that Turkish forces that invaded the island July 20 were taking up positions for a new thrust.

The assassination attempt marked the second political shooting in Cyprus in less than two weeks.

Gunmen firing into the covered windows of the U.S. Embassy killed Ambassador Rodger B. Davies during an anti-American demonstration Aug. 19.

At the United Nations, the Security Council planned to appeal to Greece and Turkey today for help in easing the plight of tens of thousands of refugees forced from their homes on Cyprus.

Haig Denies Ford-Nixon Staff Rift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig has denied reports of friction between President Ford's top staff and the Nixon administration holdovers in the White House.

"I don't sense any mood to throw the Nixon gang out," Haig said yesterday in an interview with UPI. "I've been somewhat appalled at the ripple of dope stories to the effect that there has been friction and a lack of cooperation during the transition period. It is precisely the opposite."

Haig said there has always been a "cooperative spirit" between Nixon staffers and Ford staffers. He expressed his "highest regard...for the group of men Ford has around him."

There has been talk in Washington that some of Ford's top aides are afraid that Haig's close association with Nixon during the Watergate crisis might damage Ford's image.

Firefighters Battle To Contain Arson-Caused Blaze In Forest

HEMET (UPI) — Anarmy of 2,200 men and 20 planes today fought a $10 million, arson-caused blaze that has consumed 17,500 acres of brush and timber in the San Bernardino National Forest.

The U.S. Forest Service predicted the fire would be contained by 6 p.m. tonight and would be brought under control tomorrow.

Gov. Ronald Reagan offered a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the arsonist who set the blaze, the worst in California so far this year, Tuesday on the Soboba Indian Reservation.

The fire in the San Jacinto Mountains about 75 miles east of Los Angeles drove out more than a thousand campers, vacationers and residents of the mountain hamlet of Pine Cove, which was evacuated but saved by helicopter-borne firefighters who halted the blaze three miles away.

Residents were allowed to return yesterday.

Heavy smoke clouds rolled over the posh desert resort of Palm Springs, 20 miles to the east, earlier during the blaze, and a powdering of light grey ash floated down on homes and the city's many swimming pools.

A wind shift cleared the skies over the resort Thursday but "this is going to be a real boom to swimming pool cleaners," said a resident, Tim Nugent.

The city has thousands of pools, believed to be the greatest concentration per capita in the nation.

Fourteen tanker planes and five helicopters dropped liquid fire retardant on the blaze yesterday.

An experimental helicopter equipped with night-vision devices developed for combat use in Vietnam made 60 bombing runs during the night.

It was one of the first uses of the specially equipped chopper against a forest fire, a Forest service spokesman said, "and it was a real success, it made a real difference holding back the flames during the night."

The fire burned around a 34-mile perimeter, 70 per cent of which had been surrounded with fire lines by this morning.

The Forest Service said the cost would be "close to $10 million," including $3.5 million worth of timber destroyed and $1.5 million in firefighting expenses.

A NEW BICYCLE — Jimmy Connor, 10, of Collinsville, Ill. wanted a new bike with the money he found in a paper bag near his home. But in the end, he decided he was glad the money had been returned to its rightful owners, a young couple who needed it for medical expenses.

COUPLE'S SAVINGS

Boy Is Happy He Gave Money Back

COLLINSVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Ten-year-old Jimmy Conner would have liked to use the $13,000 he found to buy a new bicycle, but he's glad he gave the money back to its rightful owners.

"I would have liked to have bought a new bike 'cause the brakes locked up on mine, but they needed the money more 'cause their baby couldn't talk," Jimmy said.

Jimmy, a blond-haired fifth grader, is used to finding things along the road.

"He's always finding things," his mother, Mrs. Jeanine Conner, said. "He keeps his eyes down. He likes to collect things."

Tuesday, Jimmy found a brown paper bag and and a box of disposable diapers. The bag contained $13,000 in cash.

"I looked in the bag and saw a whole bunch of money. thought it was play money," he recalled. "I brought it home and dumped it on the floor to look at it."

But when he looked at it, he ran to his mother

"We're rich, mom, we're rich," he shouted.

"I was absolutely stunned," she said. "The money was $10s and $20s wrapped in plastic with masking tape around it with thousands marked on it."

She immediately telephoned police.

"I figured it had to be stolen. It couldn't be honest money," she said.

State police were questioning persons at a motel across from the Conners' home, near where Jimmy had found the money, when a young couple drove up and began searching frantically through trash containers.

Police then questioned the man, Jose Gandaria of Mathis, Tex.

He told police he and his wife had sold their two trucks and, with the $13,000 that was their life savings in a brown bag, headed for a Chicago children's hospital for neurological treatments for their 17-month old son.

The Gandarias, who spent the night at the motel, placed the diapers and the bag containing the money on top of their car while packing to leave. The diapers and money dropped onto the highway as they pulled away.

After restoring the money to the Gandarias, police took them to a bank where they exchanged the cash for a certified check.

Man Is Injured In Cycle Wreck

A 29-year-old Seattle man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken ankle suffered yesterday in a motorcycle accident on Shoreline Highway near Point Reyes Station.

The Highway Patrol said Thomas Wilson was southbound on the highway about 4:30 p.m. when the cycle went out of control on a curve and ran off the road.

Pair Beat Sea, But Lose Money

HONOLULU (UPI) — Two Navy reservists who conquered the Pacific Ocean in a rubber raft are now stranded in Hawaii without enough money to return home.

Charles Gore and George Sigler, both from Alameda, Calif., completed their voyage from San Francisco Wednesday. It took them 56 days, but on the second day a wave cartwheeled their 16-foot craft and dumped them into the water. They lost clothes, equipment, most of their supplies and money.

"We got here the cheapest way anybody ever made the trip," Sigler, 29, said, "but all our money and clothes are at the bottom of the Pacific along with $2,300 worth of survival equipment we were testing to prove the voyage could be made."

The pair who took no food or water for their voyage, dreamed nightly of food, particularly mountains of pancakes oozing syrup. Their first breakfast at Tripler Army Hospital was the dream come true—stacks of pancakes.

A Tripler spokesman said the two men would remain at the hospital for "a day or two" to complete the tests and examination to determine what effect, if any, their 40 pound weight loss had on them. The tests are part of the survival program being tested by the two who commercially produce survival kits.

The point of the journey was to test the 15-pound survival kit made by Sigler Enterprises. The Navy later decided to conduct follow-up examinations to determine the physical effects of such a daring voyage.

Sigler's wife and Gore's girlfriend flew into Hawaii Thursday, and Hawaiian Holidays gave the penniless tourists free accommodations.

For the first 40 days of their voyage, the two men existed on 456 calories a day, taken in the form of three small candies and one vitamin C pill. Each contained 114 calories.

From the 40th to the 54th day they existed only on water produced by their solar still. On the 55th day, a few hours before they were spotted by a Coast Guard plane, they caught their first fish—five mahi mahi (dolphin). The Coast Guard picked them up about 125 miles from Hawaii.

"We were going to go on," Sigler said, "as we wanted to make a landfall. Since we had caught the fish we felt ecstatic and were fully prepared to continue, but we understood why the Navy wanted us to come immediately to Tripler, and we wanted to come too, as we were interested in knowing what had happened to our bodies on the trip. But with that additional food supply we were prepared to continue on to Kauai."

A hospital attendant who witnessed their breakfast said he was certain of one thing— "The trip certainly didn't hurt their appetites."

Immunity Given In Civil Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California's Supreme Court has ruled that witnesses in civil law suits may be granted immunity from criminal prosecution.

The ruling, made Tuesday, concerned a Los Angeles consumer fraud case where a man charged with misleading advertising refused questions on the grounds that the answers might incriminate him.

The trial judge had refused the attorney general's request that the man be granted immunity.

Sinatra Misses Lawyer Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Frank Sinatra was to give a deposition today for a $2.5 million lawsuit filed against him by a businessman who said the entertainer beat him up in a Palm Springs, Calif., bar.

Sinatra had been scheduled to appear at the office of Marvin Lewis, the lawyer for Frank J. Weinstock, Salt Lake City, yesterday, but he failed to keep the appointment so it was delayed a day.

Sinatra said his private jet had landing gear problems in Southern California.

Novato Flood Control Ultimatum Planned

The Army Corps of Engineers is to be told to decide by Jan. 1 what it is going to do about flood control on Novato Creek or face cancellation of the project.

Lewis R. Fredericksson, assistant flood control engineer for the Novato Flood Control Zone Advisory Board, said the board, angered by a letter from the corps district engineer, Col. James L. Lammie, accused the corps of dragging its feet and issued the ultimatum.

The vote was 3-0, with William Wright, Thomas Nolan and J. Dietrich Stroeh present.

"Lammie said it would take another seven months to make their report and get an environmental impact report to see if the project is feasible," Frederickson reported. That would prevent the project going to Congress for approval before 1976, assuming a favorable report by the corps, he said.

Frederickson said the board complained that the corps has studied the project since 1942 and "still they drag their feet and do not come up with any definite answers."

Voters in Novato approved a $4.5 million flood control bond issue in November, 1973, for a flood control project on Novato Creek. One stipulation on the bond issue was that it be used in connection with the Corps of Engineers, Lewis said.

"If there is no project approved by the Corps, then the bonds cannot be sold," he said.

"I am very pessimistic today. It looks like any flood control work done in Novato will have to be done with just local funds," Frederickson said.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Legal Services Can Help You

"Charley, p isn't working. Why don't we just get a decent civilized divorce?"

Make-shift, or do-it-yourself remedies can make the problem a lot worse than it is already. But, you say, to have a lawyer do it costs a lot of money. Right. And also wrong!

Conventional private attorneys, like physicians, have only so many working hours a day, and whopping big overheads to meet. So if your funds are very low, you may find the cost of a marriage dissolution, a bankruptcy, or a landlord beef beyond your means.

But there are other good, professional legal services open, or soon to be open, to you:

LEGAL AID... Available throughout California to people with very low incomes. Legal Aid (sometimes called Legal Services) attorneys will help with consumer cases, bankruptcy, divorce, landlord-tenant, and other civil cases.

GROUP LEGAL SERVICES... There are now more than 450 services set up in California by unions, associations, cooperatives, and trade groups. These groups have arrangements with certain lawyers to handle cases for members at a reduced cost. For information about these lawyers, contact the officers or staff of your union or other group.

PREPAID LEGAL SERVICES... If you belong to a group that has signed up for this kind of law service, you may see your lawyer by flashing your card. Just as you do for your physician, hospital, or dentist. One private insurance company has already set up just such a plan, and the State Bar's California Lawyers Service will open for business soon.

LAWYER REFERENCE SERVICE... A very practical solution for many people with legal problems, these services are well established throughout the State. If your case is a marriage dissolution, say, contact the Lawyer Reference Service in your area, which will refer you to a lawyer who handles such cases. Your fee is usually not more than $10 for a half hour consultation. If it's a simple, uncomplicated matter, chances are he can tell you how to handle it yourself. He'll answer your questions, point out some problems you may not have realized, and suggest the best way of solving them. He'll give you an estimate of what any further work will cost. Then you can have him do it — or, if you prefer — some other attorney. Or even go ahead by yourself, as some people do.

FORD

are factories if they are shut down? What good is business and industry without those who solve their problems, perform their jobs and spend their pay checks?"

Ford, who accepted the speaking invitation while he was still the vice president, flew to Columbus from Washington early Friday morning and returned directly to the White House for some afternoon meetings after conferring at the airport with Ohio Republican leaders.

At the school, he was warmly received —drawing standing ovations at the start and end of his 20-minute speech and laughter as he stood, in black gown, joking about his football playing days at the University of Michigan, arch rival of Ohio State.

Red Tide Found Off Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A "red tide" has discolored areas of the ocean off the Golden Gate, fishermen reported yesterday.

The "tide," formed by millions of tiny marine organisms called "dinoflagellates," can absorb so much oxygen that other sea creatures, including fish, suffocate.

Fishing industry spokesmen said fishermen have noticed streaking in the water for the past several days, but high winds last night seemed to dissipate it and improve fishing close to shore.

Ships Safely Pass Ice Pack

BARROW, Alaska (UPI) — The last two vessels in a flotilla of 26 Arctic marine freighter tugs and barges carrying cargo for the trans-Alaska pipeline have safely passed the ice fields off Point Barrow.

Officials said the two vessels were headed for Seattle, Wash., after unloading more than 60,000 tons of equipment and supplies for crews at Prudhoe Bay. The pipeline will extend from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska.

The timing for departure from the ice fields is critical because, if the weather takes an unexpected dip, the ice closes, trapping any ships there until the next summer's thaw.

Nuclear Device Fired In Nevada

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI) — An underground nuclear device was triggered today at the bottom of a 2,195-foot shaft drilled in the desert floor of the Nevada test site.

The 8 a.m. blast was felt as a slight tremor in high-rise gambling casinos in Las Vegas some 80 miles to the south.

The Atomic Energy Commission had cleared personnel from much of the sprawling test site that occupies hundreds of square miles of Nevada.

The test was code named "Portmanteau" and was the sixth announced test this year and the 263rd since the ban on atmospheric testing in 1963.

search, Jerome M. Kuykendall, said the estimate had been very rough, while the new figure results from detailed calculations.

The service to Bolinas, he said, would mean an additional deficit of $21,000 for the two semesters.

Officials of both the high school and county transit districts said they could not afford to pay for the bus service, while bridge district officials said both federal and state law blocked them from providing it unless one of the other two districts paid for it.

The bridge district's transportation committee, which debated the matter for almost two hours, scheduled another look at it at 10 a.m. next Thursday, again in toll plaza offices. This is the same morning classes start at Redwood High School. Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake high schools start Sept. 10.

The county's transit district board also will take up the issue at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in the supervisors chambers in the Marin Civic Center.

The dispute was triggered last March when the county transit board voted unanimously to protest the bridge district's $40,000 bill for the bus service. The protest, however, was made only to the bridge district, and no attempt was made to notify the high school district.

The assistant general manager of the county transit district, Robert Harrison, said the protest had "no official connection with the Tam district." He conceded to the Independent-Journal, however, that it would have been "helpful" if his office had at least sent the high school district a carbon of his board's protest to the bridge district.

As a result of the failure to do so, the high school district learned of the problem only last week.

Bette Wallace, chairman of the high school district board of trustees, said the Bolinas-Stinson School District had offered a bus to carry the students back to West Marin at 3 p.m., but no way has been found to get them to school. Synanon will be asked to help, she said.

An audience of about 30 persons, many of them West Marin parents, attended the session. Their spokesman, Max Crosley of Bolinas, said they had no other way to get the students to school.

Mrs. Wallace suggested the bridge district directors "may be indifferent to the transportation needs and concerns of Marin citizens, unless they can move them to San Francisco with our tax dollars." Pointing to increasingly tight state controls on school spending, she said that "if we help pay for one $26,000 bus driver we may have to fire two $15,000 high school teachers." (District drivers average about $23,000 a year with overtime and fringe benefits.)

The cost of transporting the West Marin students, she said, was consuming 20 per cent of the money available for their education. Mrs. Wallace predicted that all school districts in the county will be "in the same sinking boat" within five years.

Six Wives Get Him Two Years

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Wendell Wayne Houchens, 42, of Sacramento, yesterday was sentenced to two years in prison on a bigamy charge after marrying six women.

Houchen had pleaded guilty to marrying five women between May 1972 and February 1974 in addition to a 1953 marriage.

Court officials said Houchen explained his absences to his wives by saying he had to leave town on business.

He married a cocktail waitress in Elko, a Reno woman in Carson City, a Texas woman in Winnemucca, a Sacramento woman in Reno and a San Francisco woman in Reno. He was also engaged to a woman from Washington, D.C.

State To Return Oil Price Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state will return $1.3 million to oil companies pending disposition of a U.S. Supreme Court case challenging California's right to increase crude oil prices.

The state Lands Commissin yesterday announced the companies would be refunded about half the money they had paid under protest since the state laste last year raised the price of oil derived from state leased lands.

But if the state wins its case in the high court, the companies will return the money plus about 9 per cent interest, said Allen Willard, the commission's top mineral resource engineer.

Antismog Showdown Is Looming

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill rolling back a program requiring 3.8 million California motorists to install $35 antismog devices on 1966-70 cars was set for a showdown vote today on the Assembly floor.

The bill (SB2471) by Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Oakland, would require installation of the devices in the South Coast Air Basin for all cars during the next year. Motorists in other portions of the state would have to buy the devices only on change of ownership.

The measure was designed to roll back statewide requirements imposed by the State Air Resources Board that all eligible 1966-70 model cars be equipped with the devices during the next year. Motorists would be required to install the devices on a month-by-month basis, depending on the last digit of the car's license plate.

Passage of the bill was stymied last night when a dispute erupted over how much the program should be cut back.

On a 32-40 vote, the Assembly rejected amendments proposed by Assemblyman Bill Bond, R-Long Beach, requiring installation of the nitrogen oxide devices only upon change of ownership in all areas of California.

Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, last night urged defeat of the bill so that the devices could help cut air pollution in California.

He noted the legislature overwhelmingly approved the program to reduce nitrogen oxides in 1971, adding "now that the heat is on a little bit and some people are complaining, the legislature wants to turn tail and run."

Percy Returning Campaign Gifts

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Charles Percy says he will give the money back to those who contributed to his campaign for the 1976 GOP presidential nomination.

An aide said Percy sent a letter to 200 fundraisers saying, "If you feel any of the contributors to the exploratory committee should have a refund, I will be happy to reimburse them personally."

Percy said in the letter he has suspended his campaign for now because it appears that President Ford will seek the GOP nomination in 1976 "and there is every reason for him to expect approval and the nomination if he wants it."

Bradley Girl Is Guilty Of Charge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In her second court appearance in three days, Mayor Tom Bradley's daughter, Phyllis, 29, pleaded no contest yesterday to a charge of resisting arrest in a brawl with police in June.

Miss Bradley was fined $140 and put on two years probation. Police said she kicked and punched officers who chased her through the city when she sped away from a motorcycle patrolman trying to stop her for a traffic violation.

Tuesday, she was ordered to stand trial for possession of marijuana and conspiracy to deal in cocaine. She has been convicted in the past on marijuana and theft charges.

Wartime French Newspaper Dies

PARIS (UPI) — Combat, a newspaper born in the French Resistance to Nazi occupation which once carried bylines of writers like Albert Camus and Jean-Paul Sartre, will cease publishing after today's edition.

"You get the impression that most of the best writers and journalists have done work at one time or another for Combat," Jacques Sallebert, director of the French Radio-Television state monopoly, said in a radio newscast.

Sallebert worked as a war correspondent in Indochina for Combat after World War II.

Increase Asked By Dairy Group

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Northern California Dairy Association is asking a 1.7 cents a quart increase in the price of milk sold wholesale.

The request was made yesterday at a public hearing held by the state Bureau of Milk Stabilization.

If granted, it would affect Alameda, San Francisco, Contra Costa, Monterey, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties.

NO-FAULT

sent to the Senate-Assembly Conference committee to resolve differences over its provisions.

McCarthy's chief lieutenant is Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, author of a rival no-fault measure which was defeated by the Senate Wednesday on a 16-19 vote. But supporters were given permission for another try for approval later.

The California Trial Lawyers Association bitterly opposes the Fenton bill, which won Senate passage Wednesday, and supports the Fenton measure (AB801).

The Fenton bill, backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and the insurance industry, was designed to reduce insurance prices and bring about quick settlement of claims. It contained these provisions:

Immediate payment of up to $55,000 per person in the cost of related benefits from a motorist's own insurance company regardless of who is at fault in an accident.

A mandatory reduction of at least 15 per cent in the cost of personal injury insurance policies for a minimum of one year.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM M. CANN

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — Police Chief William M. Cann of Union City died yesterday at a Hayward hospital from wounds suffered in June when shot by a sniper while at a police and community relations meeting. He was 32.

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., Cann was a patrolman on the San Anselmo police force from June, 1963, to November, 1964, when he became a sergeant with the Novato police department. He left the Novato force in 1969 for San Bruno, to become second in command, and took the Union City chief's position 15 months ago.

He was a member of several police associations, drug abuse and crime prevention committees in Alameda County, St. Anne's Catholic Church in Union City and Union City Lions Club.

Cann is survived by his wife, Elizabeth J. Cann, three children, Christopher, Timothy and Veronica Cann; and his mother, Marie C. Cann, all of Union City.

Mass of Christian Burial will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Anne's Catholic Church in Union City. Burial will be at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Hayward. Recitation of the Rosary will be held at 7 p.m. Monday at the church.

JUNE LINSCOTT

Funeral for June A. Linscott, longtime Marin resident, was held today in San Rafael.

Mrs. Linscott, 87, died Tuesday at her Corte Madera home after a long illness.

She was born in San Diego but reared in San Francisco where she attended and graduated from Polytechnic High School. She had lived in Marin 40 years, most of that time in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Linscott is survived only by her daughter, Betty J. Holloway of Corte Madera, one of two children by her first husband, the late R. E. Holloway. He was one of the first automobile dealers in San Francisco, having opened an agency there in the early 1900s.

Tahoe Agency Votes Delay On Tax Position

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (UPI) — The Tahoe Regional Planning Agency has delayed until after the November election any discussion of a report on how local governments in the Tahoe basin might raise more tax money.

The consulting firm of McDonald and Smart of San Francisco presented its study yesterday which suggested several methods to get added money for local governments to put the general zoning plan into effect.

One suggestion would be to sell a use permit to tourists similar to ones purchased for entry to national parks.

The TRPA held off discussion until November saying it was a hot political issue and should come after the election.

Sentence Passed On Copter Pilot

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI) — A 20-year-old private who landed a stolen army helicopter on the White House lawn last February faces six months at hard labor and forfeiture of $2,400 in pay over the next year.

A jury of four officers and four enlisted men deliberated for nearly eight hours Wednesday and yesterday before ordering Pfc. Robert K. Preston, Panama City, Fla., to spend one year at hard labor and forfeit $200 a month, more than half his monthly salary, estimated at $375.

In a move unprecedented in military justice, Judge Kenneth Howard, Chief judge for the U.S. Army Judiciary, dropped six months from the sentence for time Preston spent in maximum security in the stockade at Ft. Meade, Md.

Ex-Ambassador Girffis Is Dead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former ambassador Stanton Griffis, 87, burned in a hotel fire earlier this month, died in a hospital late last night.

Griffis' career as a diplomat, investment banker, author and business executive spanned nearly half a century.

He had been hospitalized Aug. 13 suffering from smoke inhalation and burns from an early morning fire in his room at New York's Hotel Pierre.

From 1947 to 1952 Griffis served as U.S. ambassador to Poland, Egypt, Argentina and Spain.

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Richard H. Moran, 31, and Adrienne L. Fritz, 26, both of Sausalito.

LOVE AFFAIR — A pair of battered sneakers, paint-splotched and dirty, can still be the best friend a fellow's feet ever had. And the worse they get the stronger the owner's attachment becomes. (Ty Barbour Photo)

IN POETRY CONTEST

Young Writers Sing Praise Of Sneakers

NEW YORK (UPI) — To a youngster, a pair of sneakers is a most prized possession — magical footwear, old friends worth perserving for posterity which can turn the slowest child into a winged Mercury.

The "Jive to My Sneakers" Poetry contest Wednesday bestowed laurels and U.S. savings bonds, totaling $2,200, to 36 young writers from the New York metropolitan area who paid poetic tributes and complaints to their sneakers.

The contest, sponsored by the city's Department of Recreation in conjunction with a sneaker manufacturer, brought the young poets together for an informal breakfast and reading of the winning poems at the Central Park Zoo cafeteria.

First place winner Thomas Rommell, 14, a student at Brooklyn Technical High School, received $250 in U.S. Savings Bonds for his verse titled, "Poem to My 'Dogs',"

Rommell described his sneakers as "a pair of dejected rejects," who "wherever one goes, the other follows, one step behind."

Alex Hyatt, 13, a Bronx High School of Science student, wrote: "Why do I love thee? Let me count the ways. I love thee for protecting my feet against the harsh and menacing ground."

For this love verse, Hyatt received second place prize of $150 savings bond.

Third place winner Jessica Wolin, of the Long Island suburb of Roslyn received a $100 savings bond for her poem, "The Soft and Gentle Sneaker," which tells why she'd "rather wear a sneaker than a shoe."

Park officials said a panel of professional poets and writers selected the winners — who range in age from 8 to 18 and represent the five boroughs, parts of Nassau County and New Jersey.

Youngsters were told their poems could be funny or serious, long or short and they could enter "Jive to My Sneakers" contest as an individual or in teams.

Cousins Deidre and Bette Sullivan, both 10 and students at P.S. 98 Queens, won first prize in the combined entry category and received $125 each in a savings bond.

The cousins wrote: "I sometimes wonder how sneakers came to be. Did Washington wear them? Did General Lee?"

Ronald Lenefsky, 8, of Long Island's New Hyde Park, received honorable mention and a $50 savings bond for his letter to his sneakers which read:

"Dear Sneakers,
I'm very sorry to say,
Mom told me to throw you away.
But I will hide you in my closet today.
I cannot wear you because you're torn.
Your tips are shabby and old and worn.
I guess I'll have to buy another pair.
But I won't forget the fun we did share.
Your pal, Ronnie."

A Hard Look At Health Services

By JEFF GREER

Charges that Marin County may have lost up to $560,000 in state and federal funds because the county is leaving mental health staff slots unfilled and because state and federal agencies think badly of Marin's mental health administration and financial policies, have been made by a Marin fiscal specialist.

Frank E. Bigley of Corte Madera — acting as a private citizen rather than as that town's finance officer — had written the board of supervisors about his findings on the woes of mental health.

Bigley told the Independent-Journal yesterday that he cleared his letter with the Marin County Mental Health Association and with Dr. Robert L. Taylor, community mental health program chief before sending it to the board.

The letter was a follow-up of claims Bigley first made July 30 at a supervisors' hearing. The crowded, lengthy hearing was only the latest of many debates by the board over reorganizing the county's mental health administration.

The supervisors vetoed reorganization by a 3-to-2 vote, but county administrator John F. Barrows asked Bigley to substantiate his claims.

Bigley's reply stresses three points:

1. That during fiscal 1973-74, nine full-time and three part-time mental health jobs went unfilled for periods of two months to a full year. Salary and benefit pay budgeted for the jobs totaled $103,780, Bigley reported. Marin would have been eligible for state and federal reimbursement of 90 per cent on the outlay and citizens would have received more mental health service, Bigley said.

2. That the state Department of Health refused to approve Short-Doyle/Medi-Cal grants for the Psychiatric Day Center and Marin Lodge, two private mental health facilities, because Marin supposedly cannot administer the programs properly. Bigley said the state did allocate $56,000 to Marin for other programs, mainly children's mental health services, during the year, but the county never claimed $43,000 of the grants because the programs couldn't be set in motion through administrative difficulties.

3. That the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare on Aug. 2 turned down a requested grant of $420,260 for new or expanded mental health services in Marin because federal officials reported "the review committee expressed concern over unsettled issues relative to organizational and administrative structures" of both the community mental health center "and the overall place of mental health services in the county health and human services agency."

Bigley backed up his report with copies of several state and federal letters criticizing Marin.

One letter written May 29 by James Allen, assistant coordinator of the state medical assistance division, noted that Short-Doyle/Medi-Cal approval was denied to the county's application for Marin Lodge because the state believed it would only add to the problems the state already had with Marin until the county "stabilizes" and "is willing and able in a timely manner" to pay mental health contractors for their services.

Barrows told the I-J that he has instructed his staff to confer with Donald M. Sanford, acting chief of Marin's health and human services department, to verify or disprove the charges Bigley sent to the supervisors.

Mental health staff vacancies are difficult to fill, Barrows said, because the agencies want very specialized qualifications that the county personnel department has trouble obtaining in recruits. As a result, Barrows said, many of the agency officials fill the seemingly vacant spots with qualified professionals who are willing to work for the county on a part-time, hourly pay basis rather than as full-time employees.

Coloradan Named Teen-Age Miss

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Debbie Maly, 17-year-old brunette from Denver, Colo., yesterday won the 15th annual Miss Teen-Age America Pageant.

Miss Arizona, Tony Abranovic, 16, Scottsdale, Ariz., was first runnerup.

Unconditional Amnesty Is Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the Ford administration nearing a decision on what to do about war resisters, an antiwar group presented a petition to the White House today asking "universal and unconditional amnesty" for deserters and draft evaders.

It appeared, however, that the plan to be presented to President Ford tomorrow by Attorney General William B. Saxbe and Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger would fall short of blanket forgiveness.

"We have a pretty definite plan," Saxbe said after meeting for more than an hour yesterday with Schlesinger. "We narrowed it down somewhat today."

A White House spokesman said today both Saxbe and Schlesinger will meet with Ford tomorrow morning.

The petition today was presented to Dr. Theodore Marrs, a special assistant to Ford, outside a White House gate by Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, former president of the World Council of Churches. Ford was in Columbus, Ohio, at the time, but a White House official said the petition would be brought to the President's attention.

Don Luce, executive director of Clergy and Laity Concerned, a national interfaith religious organization based in New York, said the petition contained about 52,000 signatures.

It asked for blanket amnesty for war resisters plus leniency for ex-servicemen with dishonorable discharges so they could become eligible for veterans benefits.

The petition marked the second major lobbying effort in two days for blanket amnesty. Yesterday a group of parents of war resisters were in Washington to ask that no conditions be applied.

Ten of them met with Martin Hoffman, the Pentagon's general counsel. He was quoted by a lawyer for the relatives as saying: "You cannot realistically expect the United States to admit, as a nation, it was wrong in Vietnam".

Earlier in the day, Saxbe said any draft evader willing to make an "act of contrition" would be welcomed, but he said many of them "don't want to have to come back and say 'We were wrong.'

"As a result, I don't think we are going to see a great many of them coming back under any amnesty programs even though the President is determined to ... open the door to them. They are not going to be welcomed back as heroes and this is very disappointing to them."

"The nation will continue to be divided for years to come" unless the fugitives are granted blanket amnesty, said Wilbur Bowles, a World War II veteran.

"I think the boys have had a lot more suffering than Richard Nixon did," said Mrs. Virginia Jones of Wilkesboro, N.C.

Cotati Council Candidates Explain All Their Viewpoints

By ERNEST MURPHY

More than 100 Cotati residents turned out last night to learn the viewpoints of applicants for two city council seats.

On hand were 11 applicants — William A. Payne, Donna L. Piotrkowski, Joseph E. Turner, Beverly Carrillo, John Darragh, Robert E. Davis, Robert J. (Karl) Davis, Carole Glass, August Konrad, Jon Lyon and David A. Oliva.

Three others, Anthony Tusler and former councilmen Frank J. Dolinsek and Alfred Falletti, were absent, and applicant Michael W. Clemmons withdrew his candidacy before the meeting.

At stake are council seats vacated Aug. 7 by Stephen Laughlin and Annette Lombardi after they were arrested on suspicion of taking marijuana plants from the city police department.

Laughlin and Miss Lombardi, along with mayor Geoffrey Dunham, had joined the council with the support of the city's younger population, consisting mainly of Sonoma State College students and hip nonstudents. The young residents had been unhappy with the middle-aged viewpoint of the city's leaders.

The entrenched leadership attempted to recall the young councilmen last year but without success, and the two remaining older Cotatians on the council, Dolinsek and Herbert Winter, resigned in protest shortly thereafter.

The most recent resignations left the council with a bare quorum consisting of Dunham and Allen Standbury and Harry Fassio, two moderates elected to replace Dolinsek and Winter.

These three, at next Tuesday's council meeting, will choose two councilmen from the 14 applicants.

The 11 who spoke last night universally expressed the desire of maintaining Cotati's rural village atmosphere, and to a man they talked of healing the rift between the young and the old. They also all favored permitting more musical events in the city plaza.

But beyond that, their ideas were generally diverse.

Payne, a Sonoma State College anthropology professor, said he wanted to sit on the governing body so Cotati could continue to be a place "where it is possible to do things not in the old way," where citizens can "find new ways of relating to each other and to their institutions."

Miss Piotrkowski, 27, a former College of Marin student body president, and McGovern delegate to the 1972 Democratic national convention, described herself as a "Mexican-Irish-Jew" and promised to work for "architectural free zones," areas where citizens could experiment with building inexpensive but innovational homes. She pledged to seek the restoration of what she called a "dying dream," the often fragile sense of community among the city's different inhabitants.

Turner, vice chairman of the city's parks and recreation commission and a management student at Sonoma State College, said he wanted to keep Cotati different from his hometown, Richmond — "controlled by big business and big industry." The best way residents can control their community, he said, is to learn to participate in its affairs.

Beverly Carrillo, a young woman in a long dress, said she is a six-year resident and property owner and is deeply committed to the city. She believes, she said, she could do "a very good job representing a large portion of the people who live here."

Darragh, 28, who works as a leather salesman in San Francisco and was active in the recall campaign, vowed to represent residents of the Holiday Park subdivision, where he lives, Cotati's only tract housing project. He charged that although a third of the city's voters live there, the neighborhood is not represented in city affairs.

He accused the city of foot-dragging on Kotate Park, an open space parcel in his area which is subject of a long-standing dispute between the city and a real estate company. The park is an eyesore and is dangerous to children because of its rubbish, he said, and should be cleaned up immediately. Darragh said he favors controlled growth.

Robert E. Davis, 39, a snack bar and swimming pool operator and retired Naval officer, commented that his age, veteran's status and beard made it impossible for him to fit neatly into Cotati's factionalized politics. He said that, through his involvement with the yearly Cotati Days Festival, he has found that young and old residents can work together for the city's betterment. Cooperation is the key, he said, to preservation of Cotati's uniqueness.

Robert J. (Karl) Davis, a former parks and recreation commissioner, said he is also known as "Crazy Robert" because "I'm not a radical — I want to make that clear — I'm a freak." He explained that he is a descendant of 18th Century Italian stonecutters who came to Washington, D.C., to build monuments.

He serves now as an idea man for the city, he revealed, by hypothesizing locations for stop signs and children's swings.

If appointed, Davis said, he would investigate what he termed instances of brutality by city policemen. He also said there are too many policemen on whom too much money — $100,000 in this year's budget — is spent.

Davis wound up his oration by pledging to work for a return of rock concerts to the city plaza (they are now restricted by an ordinance and have become rare) and by announcing plans to keep dogs from soiling city parks.

Carole Glass, 31, a Sonoma State senior and Peace and Freedom Party State Assembly candidate, supported implementation of the city general plan with provisions for rerouting traffic around instead of through the plaza, upgrading commercial areas and building more recreational facilities.

Konrad, a parks and recreation commissioner, said Cotati's town-gown, young-old friction is symbolic of similar disputes in many places.

The problem, he said, stems from "basic misunderstandings — if we can trust each other more — after all, we all want to see this town make it —there can be a blending, a communication, and it can happen here in Cotati."

Lyon a 21-year-old political science student at Sonoma State College, said he was seeking the council post to "realize some personal dreams I have" and to encourage "a new type of attitude" among residents. He called for upgrading the entire city's appearance, expansion of proposed bicycle paths onto both sides of roads rather than only along one, less use of computers to handle city affairs and a new city hall to replace the one-time schoolhouse now used.

Oliva, a San Anselmo Police Sergeant, said he is a fiscal conservative and a growth control proponent because "having lived in Marin most of my life, I've seen what uncontrolled growth can do to an area which was once a fine place to live." He commended the records of the recently resigned councilmen and said he would represent both Holiday Park and the whole city in a "positive" way.

Officer Indicted In Payoff Probe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A veteran police sergeant with five captain's commendations has been indicted in the continuing federal inquiry into possible payoffs to officers.

Sgt. William Sisack, 47, on the force since 1949, was charged with five counts of perjury. The U.S. District Court Grand Jury handed up the indictment as a result of an investigation by the Justice Department's Organized Crime Strike Force.

Deputy Police Chief William Keays said Sisack has been suspended pending the outcome of the case.

County To Get Idea Of Emergency Phone

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will be asked Tuesday to give the go-ahead for planning a single public center for answering all "911" emergency calls throughout the county when the special telephone service eventually goes into operation.

Thomas Moyer, county communications director, will report to the supervisors that spokesmen for all police, fire and other public safety agencies in Marin approved the single-center idea at a meeting Wednesday.

The single center, to be reached by dialing 911, would be able to send emergency help anywhere in the county from the nearest source and should be located in the county communications facility at the Marin County Civic Center, the group agreed.

Moyer's report, on the supervisors' agenda for action, points out that formal joint powers agreements will be needed with all cities and public safety-providing districts. Under state law, each such public safety agency must plan for a "911" answering service and submit its tentative plans to Sacramento by Jan. 31, 1975. The deadline for actual operation of the system is in the 1980s. Planning for a single answering center in Marin could relieve the 11 cities, fire districts and other agencies of having to submit separate plans.

Under the single-center scheme, a so-called "public service answering point" would be manned by specially trained staff able to find out what kind of emergency is occurring, and send help from the closest point regardless of political jurisdiction.

Moyer earlier reported that the system is working in other areas, and has been very effective.

The supervisors will meet only in the morning Tuesday, with a light agenda. A scheduled 3 p.m. hearing on an appeal on the tentative subdivision map for Marin Cove Condominium in the Santa Venetia area, will be continued to Sept. 10.

The Marin County Transit District board will meet at 8:30 a.m. in the supervisors' chambers, followed by the board meeting at 9:30 a.m.

IT's Geneen Will Retain His Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harold S. Geneen, chairman and chief executive of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., will retain both posts, the company said yesterday.

The action by the board of directors dispelled rumors that the 64-year-old Geneen would not be rehired.

BOUNTY FOR WEAPONS

Baltimore police information officer Bryn Joyce holds a submachine gun which is one of some 2,000 weapons turned in since the city started offering a $50 bounty for each usable firearm. The program went into effect last Friday and so far $100,000 has been paid out for the weapons which will be destroyed. (UPI Telephoto)

Ford Reminded Of Grid Debacle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — President Ford's visit to Ohio State University today reminded him of one of his most humiliating defeats in college football, suffered here 40 years ago when his team, Michigan University, lost to Ohio State by the lopsided score of 34 to 0.

"What really hurt was when they voted me their most valuable player," he said ruefully. "I didn't know whether to smile or sue."

Ford addressed the summer commencement exercises at the school which is the Wolverines' traditional arch rival. He made the most of the football jokes, as the friendly crowd laughed and cheered.

He paid tribute to Ohio State's almost legendary football coach, Woody Hayes, who was among those in the greeting party when Ford arrived for his speech in St. John Arena, adjacent to Ohio Stadium.

"It's a great honor to be here at Ohio State University today —sometimes known as the Land of the Free and the Home of Woody Hayes," Ford joked.

"Woody Hayes is so popular here in Ohio, it's unbelievable. We just had our picture taken together and when that picture appears in today's Dispatch (the Columbus afternoon newspaper), I'm pretty sure what the caption will say: Woody Hayes—and friend," Ford said.

At the end of his appearance, Ford was presented with two tickets to this year's Ohio State-Michigan football game, which will be played Nov. 23.

He told the audience he found out about the gift tickets yesterday while winding up a foreign policy discussion with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Ford said when he suggested that Kissinger might like to come along he saw "the light in his eye." Since then, he said, Ohio State President Harold L. Enarson has promised "he would try to scrounge up a couple of extra tickets for Kissinger."

Having Kissinger attend the game might bring "an extra dividend," Ford joked, because "if Henry Kissinger can negotiate the long standing hostility between Israel and the Arab nations, he might have a chance to do it between Woody Hayes and (Michigan coach) Bo Schembechier."

Bill Signed To Withhold Sexual Facts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan signed into law today legislation sparing rape victims from embarrassing questions about their prior sexual encounters.

Designed to encourage more women to report rapes, the bill (SB1678) by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-Van Nuys, was signed in a morning ceremony in Reagan's Capitol office.

Calling it "a piece of landmark legislation long needed," Reagan said, "I'm very happy with it."

The law, which takes effect Jan. 1, limits court questioning of victims' sexual history only after a hearing away from the jury.

Supporters of the legislation said court questioning about the rape victim's sex life usually is irrelevant and causes her mental anguish. They contended most rapes go unreported to authorities because of embarrassment victims must endure in police and court questioning.

But critics contended that past sexual behavior often is relevant and to deny its admission in court would deprive defendants of the right to a fair trial.

Mill Valley Groups Asks Music Ban

The Save Mill Valley Association wants the city to outlaw all nighttime live music near residential areas except for that produced by unamplified voices and guitars.

Chairman Marilyn Raack said that the association voted to advocate that policy Wednesday and will present its stand to the city council Tuesday.

The council then will discuss whether or not to grant a live music permit to the Old Mill bar. Mrs. Raack said the group also will ask the council not to grant the permit.

Other resolutions passed by the newly formed group Wednesday specified that:

The city should allow use of obstacles such as bumper strips to slow traffic on some streets.

An interim noise ordinance should be adopted while the city awaits completion of the noise element of its general plan. That ordinance should be modeled after ones already adopted in Fountain Valley, Orange County, and Palo Alto, said the association.

When a use permit is applied for, the planning department should notify residents living within 250 yards of the location of the use change instead of just those within 250 feet as is now the case.

Newsmen Get Coverage Spots

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Land Board agreed yesterday to allow a limited number of newsmen access to state land adjacent to where Evel Knievel is to touch down in his Sept. 8 Snake River Canyon skycicle jump.

The board said the area on the north rim of the canyon would be open to 35 members of the press accredited by the Idaho Press Club which had requested access.

The board further said those allowed in the area would have to waive all liability against the state and would have to enter as a group. Idaho newsmen will be given first preference.

Reduction In Donated Kidneys

CHICAGO (UPI) — Reduced highway fatalities in 1974 have brought about a reduction in donated kidneys available for transplants, according to Dr. J. Laurence Hill, a University of Chicago transplant surgeon.

Hill said that while there were 22 per cent fewer traffic deaths in the first seven months of this year compared to the same period a year ago, there were only 38 kidney donors in Illinois compared to 43 in the same period last year.

Hill ascribed the reduced availability of kidneys for transplant to reduced traffic deaths, noting that a substabtial number of donated kidneys have come from auto accident victims.

Agnew Claims Press Has Harassed Him

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew wrote the Washington Post today to complain that he has been "harassed by the news media" since leaving office.

His comments, appearing in today's editions, contested an Aug. 23 article in the Post headlined: "Agnew Case 'Leniency' Effect Eyed."

"Leniency in my case?," wrote Agnew. "That is to laugh.

"The whole story will be told later; meanwhile, please bear in mind that the bribery and extortion charges against me are unproved, that I denied them on national television and that I continue to deny them.

"For my decision not to contest a single tax charge, I have lost the right to practice my profession, lost a substantial pension, temporarily lost my right to vote, and have won the right to be harassed by the news media and be constantly referred to as a convicted felon who has admitted to all the facts I have specifically denied."

In an editor's note, the newspaper said it had not suggested Agnew had admitted to any criminal acts other than the tax charge.

Bill Would Raise Pay For Hollis

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill now on the governor's desk will increase the salary of Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, by $2,438.31 per year.

The measure, SB 2027 by Sen. Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, passed the Assembly this week without a dissenting vote. It earlier had cleared the Senate with only one vote in opposition.

It raises salaries of all county superintendents in California by recognizing an increase in the average teacher salary on which they are based. Counties are divided into eight classes, with Marin falling in Class 4.

The measure will increase Hollis's pay from $27,536.47 to $29,974.78 per year. This is 2.483 times the statewide average teacher salary, computed at $12,072. The previous pay for superintendents was based on an average teacher salary of $11,090.

King Slayer Wanted To Be Whites' Hero

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — James Earl Ray thought the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. would make him the "champion of the white race" according to the confessed assassin's former attorney.

Percy Foreman, of Houston, Tex., who negotiated Ray's guilty plea into a 99-year prison sentence, made the statement in a deposition printed in a copyrighted story yesterday in the Memphis Press-Scimitar.

The deposition was given to an assistant state attorney general, Henry Haile, earlier this year and will be presented as evidence in a federal court hearing Oct. 22 to determine if Ray is entitled to a new trial.

Foreman said Ray was convinced he would not be convicted by a local jury.

"He thought everybody was like him. That isn't unusual for people. He thought everybody thought like he thought and he thought the killing of Martin Luther King would make him the champion of the white race, that he would be the most popular man in America," Foreman said.

"He was a racist —he is a racist and had been one all of his life. He could not think of anybody not being a racist if they were white."

"Did he ever protest his innocence to you?" Haile asked.

"He never even intimated that he expected anybody to believe he was innocent," the attorney replied.

Seven Killed In Japanese Bomb Blast

TOKYO (UPI) — A massive explosion following a telephoned bomb threat ripped through a downtown alley crowded with lunchtime strollers at the headquarters of the giant Mitsubishi company Friday, killing seven persons and injuring nearly 300.

The thunderous blast shortly after noon near the main entrance of the 10-story Mitsubishi Industrial Group building shattered windows for blocks around. Most of the victims were slashed by deadly slivers of flying glass.

Police said a telephone operator in the building, Yoshie Koshimi, received a call from a man four minutes before the blast warning: "I want you to take shelter immediately because we have planted two time bombs in front of Mitsubishi Heavy Industries. This is no joke."

Kuniko Yamaoika, a 22-year-old student passing by the office, said, "Suddenly a terrific explosion occurred. When I looked back, pieces of broken glass fell like rain."

A cloud of smoke towered over the building and glass covered the sidewalks like snow. Firemen pushed back the crowds and screamed, "Kyukyusha, kyukyusha!" (ambulance) over and over.

Police said that after the explosion a caller who identified himself as "Suzuki," one of the most common surnames in Japan, telephoned the office and said, "We shall stage a class struggle in Osaka tomorrow as we did in Tokyo today."

Police increased security around the Mitsubishi office in Osaka, Japan's second largest city, 300 miles west of Tokyo.

Investigators said they found pieces of a clock and a dry cell battery at the scene of the blast, apparently remnants of a time bomb trigger mechanism. They said the explosive might have been dynamite.

Police said they have not determined whether the explosion was the work of a maniac or a group of extremists. Leftists have accused Mitsubishi of producing and exporting lethal weapons.

Mitsubishi Heavy Industries is one of 45 companies that make up the Mitsubishi Group, one of the most powerful conglomerates in Japan.

One of its many activities is shipbuilding and it specializes in supertankers. Its best known product in America and Europe is the Colt automobile, manufactured in collaboration with America's Chrysler Corp.

Police quoted an unidentified vistor at the building as saying he saw two brown paper packages about 12 by 16 inches near the main entrance. They said they were hunting a young man who fled the scene in a car soon after the blast, ignoring a police order to halt.

New Position On Bon Air Road

By MARY LEYDECKER

Marin Hospital District officials today indicated they would withdraw a lawsuit against the county of Marin if county supervisors will agree to go ahead with the realignment of Bon Air Road next year.

The offer came during a meeting at Marin General Hospital of two supervisors and two representatives of the hospital board.

The hospital board has sued the county for failing to honor a 1968 agreement to move Bon Air Road west of its present location, thus making the hospital parking lot contiguous to the main hospital grounds.

In June, supervisors deleted $340,000 from the county budget for the project, saying the realignment had low priority for limited budget funds until hospital district voters approve funds for expansion of Marin General Hospital.

Michael Wornu, chairman of the board of supervisors, today said he still didn't think spending $340,000 for realigning the road was justified if the expansion does not take place.

"There are other roads with bigger problems," agreed supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere.

Hospital district board members Thomas K. Procter and George H. Folsom argued, however, that the realignment is needed so that pedestrians need not cross Bon Air Road to get to the hospital from the parking lot and to cut down noise from traffic for hospital patients.

Lawrence Loder, assistant director of the county public works department, said that safety hazards on Bon Air Road were not considered serious enough by his department to put the realignment "at the top of the priority list" for funds.

"We have culverts in the county with bottoms out," he said.

Loder also said he did not think traffic lights for the pedestrian crossing to the hospital were necessary, but the hospital officials said they will install them themselves if the county doesn't provide the safety measures.

Loder agreed with the hospital officials, however, that flooding on Bon Air Road needs to be remedied.

At the end of the session, Roumiguiere and Wornum agreed to try to work out some sort of a compromise so that the law suit can be dropped.

Wornum said, however, that he wanted "a good argument" from the hospital that other considerations than expansion merit the expense of realigning the road.

The hospital's attorney, Richard Riede, said his board would accept a "stipulated nonappealable judgment" that the board be built next year with bids being let in July and construction started in August.

The matter is to be discussed again by the board of supervisors on Sept. 10 and by representatives of the two boards on Sept. 11.

AC Transit Drivers Voting On Contract

OAKLAND (UPI) — Union members cast their final ballots on a new contract today while AC Transit supervisors prepared for a hoped-for resumption of service Sunday.

Ed Cordeiro, president of the Amalgamated Transit Union Division 192, predicted the union rank and file would approve the contract to end the 61-day strike.

AC Transit negotiators have already tentatively approved the agreement, with formal ratification expected at 7 o'clock tonight.

Mechanics and maintenance employees are due to return to work Saturday to prepare the 800-bus fleet for service. The first driver will wheel his bus on a run to downtown Oakland Sunday, leaving the Seminary Division yard at 12:08 a.m., according to AC Transit officials.

The system serviced 200,000 passengers in the East Bay and across the Bay Bridge to San Francisco before the strike.

Union members had rejected the company's initial contract proposal twice. The second proposal boosted the hourly wage by 12 cents. By the end of the three-year contract period, employes will be earning $7.27 per hour, 65 cents more than they earn now.

AC Transit was operating in the red before the strike and it is uncertain how much the new wage and cost-of-living adjustments will add to the deficit and cost the taxpayers.

One of the transit district's seven directors, William E. Berk, had proposed that resumption of service be delayed until Tuesday. The savings in Labor Day overtime pay would have amounted to $200,000, he said.

Kaiser Drops Smelter Plans

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Co. has decided not to participate in the building of an aluminum smelter on Northern Sumatra in Indonesia.

A company spokesman said the firm had for about a year studied a proposal put forward by five Japanese firms to build the smelter.

However, he said Kaiser would reconsider if "more favorable conditions develop in the future."

The Japanese companies include Sumitomo Chemical and Nippon Light Metal.

FBI Chief Feels Wire Tap Need

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — FBI chief Clarence Kelley says the case of Patricia Hearst and the Symbionese Liberation Army is an example of why the FBI should be allowed wire taps in domestic security cases.

His agency has been authorized to make wire taps in some criminal cases, he said, "and they have been very useful."

He said he would like to see legislation extending wire tapping authority to revolutionaries.

"For example, in the SLA, we cannot put a wire tap on them because they are a domestic security matter," he said.

OVERPASS — Construction workers park their cars in the shade of the already completed Rowland Boulevard overpass of the Novato freeway bypass. Work on the overpass has been completed and the off-ramps and onramps have already been paved waiting for the Oct. 1 date for opening the northbound lanes. This will be the first Novato exit in the bypass for northbound traffic.

NORTHBOUND LANES NEARING COMPLETION

Graders and earth moving equipment prepare the roadbed for the new northbound lanes of the Novato freeway bypass between Highway 37 (top) and Rowland Boulevard. Existing freeway (right) shared by north and southbound traffic will be exclusively for the southbound when the bypass is finished. Northbound lanes are due for completion about Oct. 1. Southbound lanes, which must be brought up to freeway standards, will not be completed until about Nov. 1. In the intervening month southbound traffic will continue to have the use of only two lanes at a time. (Photos by Ty Barbour)

EROSION PREVENTION — Construction workers smooth out concrete to prevent erosion on the DeLong Avenue overpass of the Novato freeway bypass. This type of concrete apron under the overpasses prevents erosion on the cuts and fills of the bypass. When completed, this overpass is to be the main entrance to downtown Novato.

Tax Rate Effects To Be Varied

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The $3.02 county tax rate set by Sonoma supervisors this week will have varying effects on homeowners in Southern Sonoma County, according to figures compiled by the county assessor's office.

The tax rate, though down 33 cents from last year's $3.35, won't mean smaller tax payments for most homeowners because their property has increased in value during the last year.

Property values in Cotati and Rohnert Park went up an average of 55 per cent in the last year, county officials calculated, while Petaluma's went up 10 per cent on the average.

For the Southern Sonoman whose home was assigned a $25,000 market value last year for tax purposes, the county portion of his tax bill will go from last year's average of $150.75 to $238.58 if he lives in Cotati or Rohnert Park. If he lives in Petaluma he'll pay a county tax of about $154.

These figures are based on the assumption that each homeowner will claim the $1,750 homeowner's tax exemption allowed under state law.

This year's Sonoma County budget of $71.5 million, also adopted this week, represents an increase of about $750,000 over last year's.

Reception Is Set For GOP Hopefuls

A free champagne and punch reception for seven Republican candidates on the November ballot will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Sunday at party headquarters, 915 Lootens Place, San Rafael.

Reservations are being handled by the headquarters staff. A spokesman said attendance is supposed to be limited to registered Republicans.

Candidates to appear are A. Alan Hill in the Ninth Assembly District, Sen. Peter H. Behr in the Second Senatorial District, Tally Mastrangelo in the Board of Equalization's Third District, Thomas O. Caylor in the Fifth Congressional District, John T. Kehoe for state treasurer, Brian Van Camp for secretary of state, and Evelle J. Younger for attorney general.

BOXER — Attorney Stewart N. Boxer of Greenbrae has been elected Marin chairman of the new Fifth Congressional District Caucus Steering Committee. His wife, Barbara, is an aide to the Democratic nominee in the district, Rep. John L. Burton of San Francisco.

CROSBY — William M. Crosby of Larkspur, an attorney, has been named Marin campaign chairman for Sen. John L. Harmer of Glendale, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor.

SMALLEST FRONT YARD IN NOVATO

This house at 857 DeLong Avenue in Novato boasts the smallest front yard in the city. The City of Novato purchased the right-of-way from Louise L. Malfanti in 1969 for $7,500 when plans were made for widening DeLong Avenue. Now with the state completing its off-ramp in the distance, the city has taken all but three feet of the front yard of the house. Although the house is zoned single-family residential which requires a 25-foot front yard setback, planning director Brian W. Mattson said that the city did not need a variance, as would any resident, to create the nonconforming setback.

A $26 Million Tab For Marin Transit

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — More than $26 million in transit improvements in Marin County over the next decade have been incorporated into the Metropolitan Transportation Commission's master plan for the Bay Area.

New taxes probably will be needed to finance the vasstly expanded facilities, according to the revisions to the commission's 1973 regional transportation plan adopted Wednesday.

The plan, however, is silent on how to impose such taxes pending completion in November of a study of legislation to finance transit facilities.

The proposed improvements would be in addition to almost $21 million to be spent on new buses and ferries by the Golden Gate Bridge District. The revisions call for spending $2.5 million a year for the next three fiscal years, and then $7.5 million through 1984, all on improved transit service within the county.

The revisions also propose that $10 million be spent between 1978 and 1984 to expand express bus service across the Golden Gate to San Francisco, and $400,000 this year for bus service across the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge. (A private company started such a service in July.)

The commission has called for an additional sales tax to finance transit, and suggested consideration of increased gasoline, property and income taxes, and higher tolls and transit fares.

Sailing Voyage Turns Out Badly

LONDON (UPI) — Patrick Halliday's plan to sail around the world with his family hit a few snags, his wife told a London court.

A trial voyage in their second-hand catamaran covered 160 miles in three weeks. The boat was such a mess at the end of the trial that Halliday docked it on England's south coast and took off for Spain, alone.

His wife sued him for divorce.

Wednesday she went to court to prevent him selling the catamaran.

Mrs. Halliday, 30, said her husband planned to sail the family to New Zealand and settle there.

"I'm not against that, but I just had no confidence we would ever get there," she said. "I'm no sailor, and my husband knows nothing about navigation."

One Meeting Per Month Scheduled

The Tiburon Fire District board has decided to hold only one meeting per month from now on, the second Wednesday of the month at 8 p.m. at district station No. 1, 1679 Tiburon Boulevard.

Chief Franklin J. Buscher said that the change was agreed to Wednesday. Previously, the board had two monthly meetings.

New College Of California Bids For Parcel Of Waterfront Land

New College of California has joined the City of Sausalito and the Golden Gate Bridge District in the scramble for a parcel of surplus federal land on the Sausalito waterfront.

All three have applied to the federal government to acquire the property, which includes a pier, three acres of land and nine underwater acres at the Army Corps of Engineers headquarters.

The federal General Services Administration, which ultimately will decide who will get the property, has suggested that the three groups work out a plan for sharing it.

The College currently operates out of rented quarters in the Schoonmaker building and in a small L structure on Marinship Way, both in Sausalito.

In meetings with city officials this week, New College president John Leary asked for two of the three dry land acres on which to build the three-year-old school's first permanent building. "They were asking for too much," according to Sausalito planning director Herb Case, who suggested that college officials scale down their plans and come back later to discuss the matter again.

According to Case, the city and the bridge district feel they can share use of the property. The city wants it for recreation, a public fishing pier, which would require some of the dry land for parking. The bridge district needs space for auto parking and a portion of the pier to dock ferries when not in service. But there isn't much left for a college campus.

"I'd rather not make it a battle," Leary said. "I have discussed this with our architect and I think we can cut down our plans to less than two acres."

Case believes it may be possible to accomodate the school if its planned 14,000-square-foot building is constructed on two stories and won't require much parking. "But it's up to them (the college) to show us how we can fit them in," Case said.

Women Hold Up Man In Miami

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Michael Mellitt, 29, told police yesterday that he was held up by two women muggers at the Tangier Motel as he returned from an early morning dip in the pool.

He said one hit him with a club and the other grabbed his trousers, which held his wallet.

INFLATION — Graphs released this week by the U.S. Department of Commerce tell the story of the inflation crisis as money and accompanying demand outpace supply. While personal income (left) rises with inflation, the country's industrial production is slumping (second graph) because of a lack of money for investment. High interest rates for the money available for lending has brought the housing industry to a sharp decline (third graph), while consumers, forced to spend more and more money on necessities, are postponing buying new cars, causing a slump in the auto industry (right).

Saving Seen As The Cure For Nation's Economic Ills

guns," without paying the price of inflation.

Since the Vietnam War, the government has continued spending millions for social programs, which Walter called "better than killing people," but of no benefit to the economy.

On top of "too much debt and an unbalanced budget," came the Arabs, "who really cut the head off the whole thing," Davis said. "When the Arabs raised the price of oil, that capped the situation."

Meanwhile, Davis said, "Nixon wasn't paying much attention (to the economic situation) and Congress was paying very little."

Piled onto an already quivering economy were new programs to cure pollution, build transit sytems and cure other social ills.

"I'm not saying these programs are not good," Walter said, "but the American people must realize the price. And the price is 10 to 12 per cent inflation."

With production going down, the stock market a shambles and a competition increasing for the available loan money, prices continue to rise.

With corporations unable to raise money through stock issue for capital investment, they began competing with everyone else for the available loan money. "We've (banks) tried to ration loans by price," Walter said, "and that hasn't worked very well."

He also said that "in retrospect, wage and price controls didn't work very well."

He cited whole industries, like the housing, where high interest rates and stringent down payment requirements have brought business virtually to a halt.

Walter, whose young bank specializes in serving small and middle-sized businesses, said his customers are "beginning to pull in their horns." Like large enterprises, they are stopped from making improvements that would mean more productivity because of the high interest rate.

Walter also said he does not expect long-term interest rates to drop soon "because there is too much backed-up demand" for long-term money, but he thinks short-term interest rates should start to go down.

"It hasn't hit the consumer yet; it hit the corporate level and the real estate field first," Larkin said.

Bank of America, he said, is still keeping consumer lending at a high level because of the "great liquidity and turnover" in that type of loan, which gets paid off in as little as a year's time.

Adding to the lack of money available in this country for much needed investment in industry, is the amount of American money going overseas, particularly to Arab countries.

The Arabs do not want to invest those dollars in this country, Davis said, "because they don't want to fall into the same trap as the little old ladies who bought government bonds," only to have them paid back in deflated dollars.

A balanced federal budget would cure this problem, Davis said.

Furthermore, a balanced budget would be an example of "belt tightening" for the American people, Larkin said. "You can't ask the people to cut back if the government won't."

He and the other two men were in agreement as to what Americans will have to do to help reduce inflation.

"Stop spending. Start saving," Larkin expressed it.

(Tomorrow: The "belt tightening" American must practice to recover.)

Echeverria Refuses Any Bargain With Father-In-Law's Kidnapers

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — President Luis Echeverria stuck to his refusal to deal with the kidnapers of his aged and ailing father-in-law today and police searched for three suspects believed to have entered the country secretly from Cuba.

Police sources said all three suspects had been released from Mexican prisons last year as ranson for kidnaped U.S. Consul General Terence Leonardy and had been sent to Cuba.

Though the three suspects, described as the "brains" of the kidnaping, remained at large, up to 20 persons were reported taken into custody for questioning, including three known terrorists. One of them was described as a former chauffeur and household employee of the victim's family.

The self-styled Revolutionary Armed Front of the People claimed responsibility for kidnaping Jose Guadalupe Zuno Hernandez, 83, and a kingmaker in Mexican politics for the past half century, in Guadalajara on Wednesday.

A Mexico City radio station said the Front was demanding a $1.6 million ransom and release of 100 political prisoners.

Police sources said two of the three men suspected of taking part in the Zuno abduction held up a Guadalajara bank three months ago for $40,000.

TURN LEFT AT THE LIGHTHOUSE

The 126-foot Silverado, billed as the largest fiberglass boat ever built, halted traffic on the Coast Highway temporarily Wednesday as it crossed the Arches Bridge nearing the end of a five-mile journey from Costa Mesa to Newport Beach. The $1.7 million vessel was commissioned by candy magnate Harry See, and is supposed to be docked somewhere in the Bay Area.

Accused Prelate Faces Indictment

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israel's prosecutor announced today he would order an indictment handed up against Archbishop Hilarion Capucci, a Christian prelate arrested on charges of smuggling weapons to Arab guerrillas.

Prosecutor Gabriel Bach said he received Capucci's file Wednesday and would hand up the indictment to Jerusalem District Court. He declined to comment on what charges would be brought against Capucci.

In Nablus, on the Israeli occupied banks of the Jordan river, an Arab hurled a grenade at a passing police car. There was no damage or major injuries reported.

In Damascus, President Hafez Assad has ordered premier Mahmoud Ayyoubi to reshuffle his cabinet. The move comes two weeks after a similar reshuffle of the Syrian Army high command.

Police arrested the Syrian-born Capucci, 52, on Aug. 18, several days after a weapons cache was found in his limousine at the Israeli-Lebanese frontier. Capucci is an archbishop of the Melkite church.

They said the weapons were brought from Beirut and intended for guerrillas operating in Israeli-occupied territories.

The court ordered Capucci to serve 15 days in jail to permit an investigation. The 15 days expires Sunday but can be renewed by law for another 15 days.

"It's a question of a few days," Bach said of the forthcoming indictment. "We are studying his file, and it's very likely this will happen."

Bach's statement apparently ruled out the possibility that Israel would release Capucci to church authorities or immediately deport him. Capucci has been in East Jerusalem, captured from Jordan in 1967, since 1965.

Police Minister Shlomo Hillel said Capucci "acted against the church and, therefore, he will be judged in an Israeli court and punished accordingly if he is found guilty.

Bach said the cabinet would not intervene in the case. "It's a question for the legal authorities," he said. "Nothing has been discussed about deportation."

A suspected Arab guerrilla hurled a grenade at a passing police vehicle, causing neither casualties nor damage, police said. They said they detained several suspects for questioning.

Editor's Abductor Gets 40-Year Term

ATLANTA (UPI) — William A. H. Williams was sentenced to 40 years in federal prison today for extorting $700,000 ransom in the kidnaping of Atlanta Constitution editor Reg Murphy.

U.S. District Judge William C. O'Kelley imposed the maximum of 20 years for extortion and added two additional terms of 10 years each for using the mails to transmit a ransom demand and for using a gun in commission of a felony.

Williams, a subcontractor from nearby Lilburn, Ga., confessed kidnaping Murphy last Feb. 23. The newspaper editor was released unharmed after a 49-hour ordeal which ended with payment of the ransom.

Often sobbing before sentence was imposed, Williams said in a 30-minute statement that he considered himself a political prisoner whose martyrdom would draw attention to political corruption.

Williams told Murphy at the time of the abduction that he was kidnaping him to focus attention on what he felt were liberal leanings of the news media.

"I go out the door with my head high with the realization that what I've done in my opinion —bizarre as it may have been —was the only thing I could do," he said today.

"I've given no quarter and I've asked no quarter. I bid farewell to my wife and children but I ask no mercy."

Murphy and his wife were in the courtroom as the sentence was imposed.

O'Kelley recommended but did not order that the U.S. Bureau of Prisons give Williams a psychiatric examination.

Williams' wife Betty Ruth, who was charged with knowing about her husband's crime and not reporting it, was expected to enter a plea in the case later today.

Canada Seeks Return Of Deserter Held By U.S.

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada has formally requested the United States to return a U.S. Army deserter living in British Columbia allegedly arrested on Canadian soil and taken into the United States by force.

A Canadian government spokesman said last night U.S. Customs officials had admitted they arrested Ronald Anderson, 31, last Saturday "a few yards" into Canada at a border crossing.

They said Anderson was crossing into the United States to visit his family when a customs check disclosed he was a deserter. He broke away and sprinted back to the Canadian side of the line, but customs officials pursued him and arrested him.

"We have requested his return and the ball is now in their court," the Canadian spokesman said.

The State Department had no immediate response.

Anderson, who has the status of a landed immigrant in Canada, was being held in the stockade at Fort Lewis, Wash. He has been listed as absent without leave since Nov. 18, 1968 when he left the Army because of his opposition to the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Anderson, his wife, Marion, and their 10-month-old son were on their way into Washington State when a customs officer made a license check on their car.

A check by a National Crime Information Center computer identified Anderson as a deserter.

Anderson's mother, Mrs. Betty Peterson, Poulsbo, Wash., said she believes her telephone may have been tapped when her son called her last week to say he was coming down for a visit.

"He had made at least a half dozen trips down here since he left the Army unit at Ft. Lewis," she said. "He was never hassled at the border any of those times although I always feared something like this might happen."

Meany Issues A Gloomy Note For Labor Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said today American working men and women have abandoned the dream of improving their lot and are now merely struggling to survive.

"While we have hope, we have no assurance that the end to the economic mess is in Americans."

"One of the articles of faith of the 'trickle-down' theorists is reduced government spending," Meany said. "And, so, they propose to cut school lunch programs, reduce veterans disability pensions, increase the amounts that senior citizens must pay for their medical care. All of these are wrong."

The AFL-CIO, in a separate Labor Day weekend statement issued by Lane Kirkland, secretary-treasurer, said organized labor wants legislation that will provide "quality health care as a matter of right for all Americans."

JACK KIRKWOOD

Disc Jockey Digs Trivia

By KAREN PETERSON

"It'll never last," groaned parents. "It's here to stay," sang the chorus of teen-agers.

The debate was centered on a new sound, music that shook the Top Ten from head to foot — rock and roll.

Way back in the 50's a group called Bill Haley and the Comets released a tune called "Rock Around the Clock." To the 50's generation, that was a call to arms.

TODAY, television shows, motion pictures and musicians are all reaching back to snatch a little something from the oldies but goodies. And with this revival, nostalgia fans are joining the ranks of trivia freaks; trying to outdo one another when it comes to answering such questions as "How many freckles were on Howdy Doody's face?"

The 50's ushered in an era of cruising in souped-up Nomad wagons and sipping cherry sodas at the corner drive-in. Teenagers were going to sock hops in their rolled up jeans and pedal pushers, exchanging ID bracelets and swooning to the strains of "our song."

THERE WAS, and is, Jerry Lee Lewis, who in his early years wore his hair bleached white and thrilled his screaming audience by playing the piano with his feet.

Along came Elvis and parents were shaking their heads as he shook and shimmied to the cacophony of female squeals.

Amidst a repertoire of such greats as "Teen-Age Prayer," "Chantilly Lace," and "Primrose Lane," KTIM disc jockey Jack Kirkwood smiles and says, those were really "good times."

KIRKWOOD is both a 50-s music buff and a trivia freak, and to the delight of his radio audience, donates much of his airtime to those relics of the past. (Kirkwood is on the air weekdays from 1 to 6 p.m. and Saturdays from noon to 4 p.m.)

Bill Haley and the Comets "kicked off rock and roll" when Kirkwood was an "early teenager" in Colorado. "I enjoyed the music; loved it."

The music of the 50's had a "good solid beat," said Kirkwood, and the "lyrics made sense. They told a story. . .(there was) a tremendous amount of love songs."

THE MOOD of the 50's was "uptempo," people were getting "fun out of life and enjoying it," he said, breaking into laughter at the mention of such songs as "Little Nash Rambler."

He also laughs at the gimmicks of the 50's, when disc jockeys were "broadcasting from beneath the pool at Marineland or seeing who could stay on the air the longest." And there were fan clubs for uprising young stars such as Fabian.

But there were also tragedies in the rock world, notably the deaths of Buddy Holly and Richie Valens. That had a great "impact on the music business," said Kirkwood. "They were very, very popular."

"THE WHOLE music thing does a complete turn-around every 10 years," he related. Next it may be the "40's, possibly the 30's." It "revives itself," he added, pointing to the success of singers Bette Midler and the Pointer Sisters who are trademarked by their use of yesteryear song and dress.

When Kirkwood talks about the "fond memories" of the 50's, it's a cue to start a round of trivia. Trivia, described by Kirkwood as "a remembrance of things past," is an upcoming indoor sport, gaining heavily in popularity just this year.

Books are published and contests are held for trivia people. In February, Kirkwood started playing trivia on his show, drawing an "unbelievable response" from adults and children of all ages.

HE STARTED gradually, but now as the five phone lines light up as soon as he throws out a question, Kirkwood wonders if he "created a monster."

His trivia questions are taken from radio and television shows and motion pictures as well as sports, music and a sampling of politics.

He also plays a trivia game called "Wahoo Hangman," a takeoff of the old hangman game where people guess a number of letters and win if they can guess the whole word.

"That's the heaviest part of the day," said Kirkwood of the 3 p.m. game.

"I can rmember (a) trivia (answer), but I can't tell you what I had for lunch yesterday," he laughed as he picked up his volumes of nostalgia books and left to open another show.

(Next Friday — Tamalpais High School; how it was in the '40s).

TRIVIA TEST

Can you top Kirkwood at his own game? Here are a few trivia questions he volunteered. (Answers on next page.)

Who was the announcer on the long-running television program, the "Art Linkletter Show?"

Who played Mike Barnett in the television series, "Man Against Crime?"

Who was the singing master of ceremonies on the television show, "Stop the Music?"

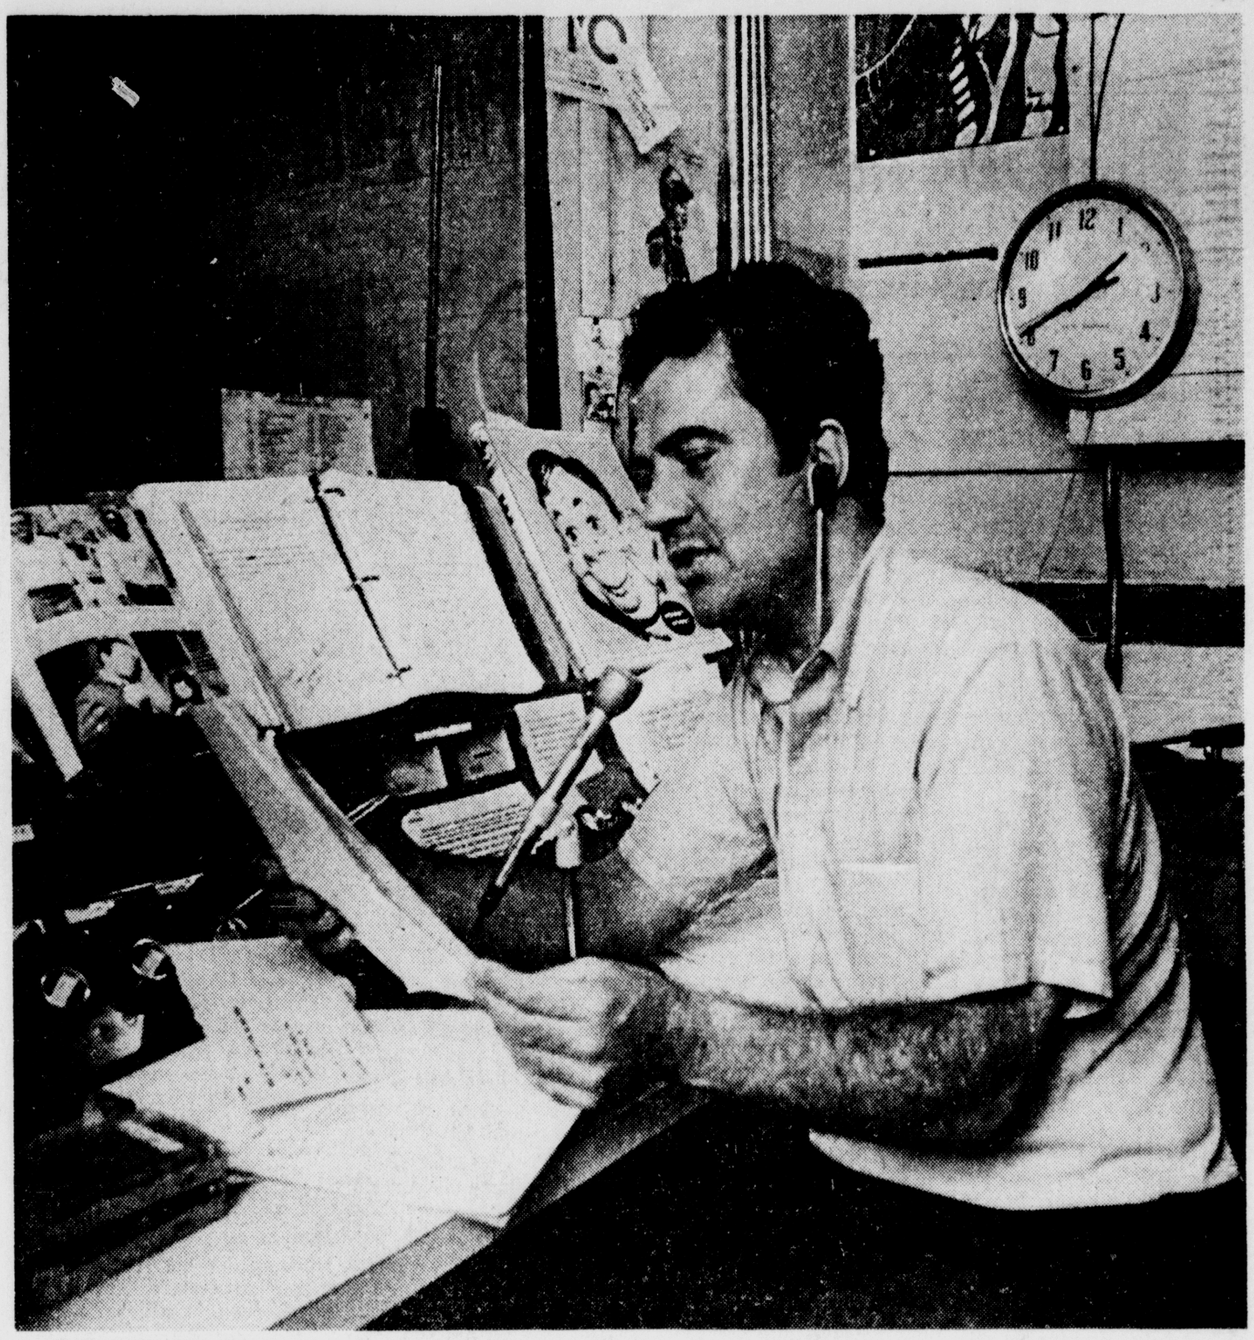
What was Edmund Gwen's crime in the 1950's motion picture, "Mr. 880?"

Name five motion picture stars of the '50s, whose first and last names begin with the letter D.

In the 50's motion picture, "Blackboard Jungle," what was the opening hit song?

In the 50's motion picture, "High School Confidential," starring Mamie Van Doren and Paul Anka, singer Jerry Lee Lewis is seen playing what song in the opening scene?

"Ah, yes," joked Kirkwood, "where are they today?"



FIFTIES TRIVIA — "In the 1950 movie . . .," begins KTIM-AM disc jockey Jack Kirkwood as he introduces a trivia question on his afternoon show which features music of the 50s.

WORKSHOPS

Onetime only workshops in crewel embroidery, picture framing and silk-screening will be offered this fall by the YWCA of Marin.

Students are asked to bring a piece of material, hoop, thimble, needle and crewel thread to the embroidery workshop at 10 a.m. Monday Sept. 9 at the YWCA office, 1618 Mission Street, San Rafael. Six basic crewel stitches, a history of crewel embroidery, an equipment list and list of local suppliers will be covered. The workshop is free.

Ginny Schweiger will teach picture framing at a three-hour clinic at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 2 at the Fairfax Lumber Company in Fairfax. The fee is $5, materials will be supplied to frame whatever art work the student brings.

Joyce Gregg is the instructor for the silk-screen workshop scheduled Saturday, Sept. 14 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the YWCA office. Seven dollars pays for the fee, with an additional $1 for materials.

Parents-To-Be Instruction Set

Expectant parents are invited to enroll in the Education for Childbirth Program, a series of eight weekly meetings of exercises, relaxing and breathing techniques, posture training and exercises for post-natal recovery.

The classes will begin Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the physical therapy office of Gunhild Brown in Greenbrae. Betty Cahill, a registered nurse, will be the instructor.

Information may be obtained from the Education for Childbirth office, 1300 S. Eliseo Drive, Suite 102, Greenbrae.

A Second Chance For Women GIs

Many women veterans who did not use their GI Bill after the Korean conflict now have a second chance under a new law.

Eligibility for veteran's benefits was recently extended two years for veterans discharged after Jan. Deadline for completion of training is now May 31, 1976, or 10 years from the veteran's date of discharge, whichever is later.

Of the some 160,000 women veterans eligible for current G.I. Bill school benefits, about 54,000 have trained under this program.

This spring nearly 21,000 were in training, mostly in college. Only 209 were on-the-job trainees.

Below college level training is available in a wide range of occupations such as hotel or motel manager, specialty shop or store manager and hairdresser, plus other programs also open to men.

Women veterans of the Air Force lead in GI Bill training, with 15,672 having been trained. The Army is second with 15,361.

Benefit Will Aid Marin Animals

A country fair to raise funds for charity medical care for Marin animals is scheduled for the weekend of Sept. 21 and 22 at the Horsemen's Grounds of the San Geronimo Valley Horsemen's Association. The event will be called The Animal Fair.

Sponsor of the fair, which will offer arts and crafts exhibits, homemade goods and bazaar items, children's games and continuous entertainment, is the Animal Medical Care Foundation of Marin.

This all-volunteer organization was founded two years ago to offer low-cost spay-neutering service to animals in Marin, to give medical services to injured wildlife and to help persons in financial need pay for medical treatment for their pets.

A maximum of 200 booths will be leased to artists who wish to exhibit, or to churches and community groups for sale of home-made foods, homewares, toys, clothing plants or flea market items, according to fair chairman Anne Rogers.

The foundation will reap its profits from the rental of space, allowing the lessee to profit from the sale of goods. Proceeds from the nominal admission charge will also go to the foundation, as will profits from sale of cotton candy, soft drinks, hot dogs and other pick-up foods.

Among entertainments to be offered are a western horse show and an English horse show, performance by Jack Nunn of Woodacre and his trained horse, belly dancer Stassa of San Anselmo, several bands, strolling musicians and horse rides for children.

Serving on the fair committee are Carole Steele and Mrs. Rogers of San Rafael in charge of arts and crafts booths; Gina Westcott of Novato, beverages; Bette Roberts of Ross and Jackie Chandler of Novato, children's games; Rebecca Paschal of Novato, entertainment; Judy Jones of Ignacio, face painting; Herminia Kleiber of San Rafael, flea market; Jan Johnston and Dottie Westcott of Novato, food; Michael Steele of San Rafael, finances, Jean Paschal of Novato, sweets; Harry Rogers of San Rafael, security.

Other workers include Kathy Ford of Greenbrae; Margaret Glassmaker, Reggie Weiner Marge Rediske, Margareta Akesson and Fran Putnam of Novato; Chic de Cazessus and Toby Atterbury of Mill Valley; Nancy Linebarger of Larkspur; Helen Curry of San Anselmo; Bernice May, Thelma Peetz, Jean Hardcastle, Jane Ellis, Rose Upper, Judi Anson, and Karen Cosgrove of San Rafael; Jane Davison, Sue Dreitzler and Kristin Clifton of Marinwood and Jan Cherrstrom of Terra Linda.

Michael Steele, president of the Animal Medical Care Foundation, said Marin veterinarians had contributed more than $50,000 in services and monies since the group was funded two years ago.

Persons interested in leasing far space should telephone chairman Rogers at her home, 184 Bret Harte Road.

Word 'Aged' Is Strongly Opposed

CHICAGO (UPI) — The term "aged" ought to be abolished, says Dr. William Gellman, research director of the Easter Seals Society.

Age 60 to 70 should be referred to as "late middle age," he said, and beyond 70 as "maturity."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Sexual Counseling Is Much More Than Dirty Pictures And Orgies

DEAR HELEN:

My wife and I fight about almost everything. We don't get along in bed or out of it. But — When I'm away from her I'm not happy, and she feels the same. We still love each other, but we need lessons in how to get with it.

Would sex therapy help? Please convince my wife it isn't just a bunch of sex orgies with dirty pictures. — STEVE AND VIRGINIA

DEAR STEVE:

No, Virginia, sex therapy — the legitimate kind — is not a bunch of orgies with dirty pictures. But because anyone can become a "sex doctor" (the profession is so new there are no licensing procedures, as yet), watch out for the zanies, the kinkies and the price-gougers. Ask your local family service agency or Mental Health Association for a referral, and be sure the counselor you choose has qualified professional background.

Would sex therapy help? Probably, but your letter indicates you also need a total marriage appraisal. Constant fighting produces poor sex, no matter how great the techniques, for you're bound to carry resentments with you into the bedroom.

These days, many marriage counselors offer a sex course as part of the package. Others refer their clients to trained local therapists, and still others recommend sex education classes at nearby colleges, or books, such as "The Joy of Sex" by Alex Comfort, or the several discussions of the Masters and Johnson treatment for sexual dysfunction.

What does a sex therapy course offer? A lot of talk and a lot of private homework. Couples learn to communicate their feelings and desires to one another; to view sex as good, happy sharing, which needn't always end with intercourse; to correct faults or failures and increase enjoyment — and that the only four-letter word in sex relationships is "fast."

Sex therapy usually lasts 10 or 12 sessions, although intensive weekend encounters are becoming popular. Costs vary in different areas, but average around $25 or $30 per hour.

My advice, Steve and Virginia: find a well-recommended marriage-and-sex counselor. Good luck! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 62 and have never been married. Several months ago, I met a wonderful man three years my senior. We love each other very much. He, too, has never been married.

He thinks we should have a "white wedding," because "every woman deserves the thrill of her beautiful bridal gown." But, Helen, I am not a virgin and I'm afraid he thinks I am. Years ago, I had a brief affair I don't regret.

Should I confess I'm not pure, or just go ahead with the white dress and be a liar? I'm afraid to risk our love with the truth.

— LATE IN LOVE

DEAR LATE:

(Now I've heard everything!)

I doubt that a 65-year-old man would be very shocked to learn his 62-year-old bride isn't a virgin, but if he's not curious, why mention the subject?

For your information, white does not signify virginity. I'd say you were 99.44 per cent purer than most other women your age, so stop worrying. — H.

Hospital Sets Course In Sanitation

A course in sanitation to help nursing home cooks or kitchen employees meet requirements of a new federal law will be offered in Marin beginning Sept. 12 at Novato General Hospital.

The law now requires licensed nursing homes to have a certified food service supervisor on their dietary staffs. A prerequisite for the required dietetic supervisor course is the class in sanitation, safety and equipment.

The class, offering three college credits, is being offered in Marin by Santa Rosa Junior College. It will be given from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursdays; registration will be held at the opening class Sept. 12. Fee is $3.50.

Further information may be obtained from the Marin County Department of Health Services, office of the nutritionist.

VANCOUVER (AP) — Virginia Goldney of Vancouver had a perfect 4.0 grade point average in her second year of a two-year course to win this year's governor-general's medal as the outstanding student at Vancouver Community College.

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN F. CUTLER III
Ceremony in the redwoods

Old Mill Park Is Scene Of Cutler, Gale Rites

Old Mill Park in Mill Valley was the setting for the wedding Aug. 17 of Kirsten Gale of Berkeley and Edwin F. Cutler III of Novato.

A reception was held in San Rafael, after which the young couple departed for a trip to Mexico City.

Laura Goodman of Cranston, R.I. was maid of honor, with the bride's sister Kathy Gale and the bridegroom's sister Suzanne Cutler as flower girls.

The groom's father, Edwin F. Cutler Jr. of San Rafael, served as best man.

The bride's other sister, Karen Gale, and two of her friends, Annette Hoystrup and Mary Mansfield, played a Vivaldi composition for bassoon, flute and violin, and Dave Zoellner played solo music on the guitar.

Kirsten is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Gale of Berkeley.

She was graduated from Anna Head School in Berkeley, attended International People's College in Denmark, and received a B.A. degree in anthropology and Scandinavian literature from University of California at Berkeley. She will attend California State University, San Jose, this fall, working toward a librarian's credential.

She is the granddaughter of Dagmar Gale in Fredensborg, Denmark and Else Skeby of Roskilde, also Denmark.

Edwin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cutler of San Rafael. He is the brother of Suzanne of San Rafael and Greg Cutler of Nome, Alaska. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cutler Sr. of Sonoma and Bernice Walters of Kansas.

He was graduated from Terra Linda High School and attended University of California at San Diego. He will be a student at University of California at Berkeley in the fall. He is employed at PG&E in San Rafael.

The couple will live in Berkeley.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Novato

Linda Higashi and Terry Miller of Novato were married at All Saints Lutheran Church in Novato on Saturday, Aug. 24.

Linda is the daughter of Mrs. Fumiko Higashi of Novato and Haruo Higashi of Highlands. Terry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Miller of Novato.

NINA MARIE WARD
Planning to marry

Linda chose as her maid of honor Faye Malone of Novato, Maureen Heyman of Chico, Jill Miller of Novato, the bridegroom's sister, and Sandy Nakamine of South Lake Tahoe.

Kerry Atkinson of Cotati was best man for the bridegroom and ushers were Bill Roscoe of Rohnert Park, Mark Brown of Novato, Scott Lemon of San Rafael, and Lester Higashi, of Novato, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the Non-Commissioned Officer's Club at Hamilton Air Force Base. The couple will live in Rohnert Park.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and California State University, Fresno, with a bachelor of science in therapeutic recreation. She is employed at the Novato Parks and Recreation Department. She is also the sister of Mrs. Miyoko Gibson of Novato and the granddaughter of Mrs. Harumi Higashi of Los Angeles.

The bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is a carpenter in Marin County. He is also the brother of Kent, Randy and Scott Miller of Novato and the grandson of Mrs. Iola Blouin of Stanton, Clifford Blouin of Albuquerque and Mrs. Harry Miller of Minneapolis.

Nina Ward Engagement Announced

The engagement of Nina Marie Ward to James Terryl Rutledge has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Ward of Mill Valley.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Rutledge of Mill Valley, the grandson of Mrs. W. E. Rutledge of Laguna Beach, and the brother of Mrs. James Powers and Deena Rutledge of Mill Valley.

Nina is the sister of Neil Ward of Mill Valley, Mrs. Gail Walker of Pocasset, Mass., Lee Ward of Cotati, and Kevin Ward of Corte Madera.

Both Nina and James are graduates of Tamalpais High School. She attended the College of Marin for one year, and is now studying at California State University, Chico. The future bridegroom is in his senior year at the University of California at Davis.

Plans are being made for a wedding in June, 1975.

FREE * EAR PIERCING
WHAT DOES FREE EAR PIERCING MEAN?
Beadazzled charges only for the gold earrings, $9.95. If you were to purchase the earrings without having your ears pierced, the price would be the same. Therefore, the piercing is free.
HOW ARE EARS PIERCED AT BEADAZZLED?
Ear lobes and earrings are cleaned with alcohol and the piercing spot on the ear lobe marked with a surgical pencil. The earring is inserted into a piercing instrument which injects it into the lobe quickly and painlessly with pin-point accuracy. Each piercing is done with brand new earrings which were received in sealed containers.
WHAT ARE THE PIERCING EARRINGS?
The piercing earrings are ball post earrings but are unique because they are 24 carat gold applied to surgical steel. This is usually safe even for people with metal sensitivities.
The piercing earrings make good-sized, straight holes so it is possible to wear all types of earrings. (Home piercing methods often produce crooked holes that are too small for posts.)

Final Erhlichman Delay Try

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John D. Ehrlichman has lined up a star defense witness —former President Nixon —but is still battling to stall the Watergate cover-up trial until next year while publicity over Nixon's resignation dies down.

Apparently undaunted by earlier rebuffs from two federal courts and from the chief justice himself, Ehrlichman's lawyers yesterday filed a last-ditch emergency appeal seeking to keep the case from going to trial Sept. 30 as scheduled.

The petition, directed to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, was filed within hours after federal marshals served an Ehrlichman subpoena on Nixon at San Clemente, Calif., commanding him to testify.

The only way Nixon could now avoid appearing at the trial of Ehrlichman and five other former aides would be to persuade Judge John J. Sirica to quash the subpoena. Some sources close to the case believe he could do so only if he states that he would claim Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination if called to the stand.

Nixon has been named an unindicted co-conspirator in the cover-up plot, and Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski is weighing whether to seek his indictment now that Nixon is a private citizen.

Ehrlichman, once Nixon's No. 2 aide, is seeking to stall the cover-up trial at least until January, contending the massive publicity surrounding Nixon's admission of complicity and subsequent resignation makes a fair trial impossible at this time.

The trial was originally scheduled to start Sept. 9. Sirica rejected pleas from Ehrlichman and three other defendants to stall it until next year, and the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia likewise refused to order a lengthy delay.

But the appeals court did "suggest" a brief postponement and Sirica consented. Ehrlichman then appealed to Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, but Burger Wednesday refused to tamper with the new trial date.

Ehrlichman turned finally to Douglas, who has supervisory control over federal courts in Ehrlichman's home state of Washington. The appeal apparently was an attempt to have Douglas refer the issue to the entire nine-man court, now in recess until Oct. 1. Should Douglas do so, it would have the effect of stalling the trial at least until late October.

Douglas was vacationing at his retreat in Goose Prairie, Wash. A decision was expected in a few days.

There were these other developments:

Nixon also was served with a subpoena to make a sworn statement next month in a civil suit by persons who claim they were barred illegally from Nixon's appearance at a 1971 Billy Graham rally in Charlotte, N.C.

Sirica finished listening to 55 Watergate tapes Nixon was forced to surrender by a July 24 Supreme Court order and forwarded the last of them on to Jaworski after screening out material protected by executive privilege. He also sent the prosecutors a batch of notes taken by Ehrlichman, H.R. Haldeman and Charles W. Colson during taped meetings with Nixon.

The White House said it has asked Attorney General William B. Saxbe for a ruling on who has legal custody of Nixon's remaining tapes still locked in a White House vault, a ruling made necessary because subpoenas are still arriving and it is unclear to whom the tapes belong.

Population Guidelines Laid Down

BUCHAREST (UPI) — The World Population Conference today approved a plan of action laying down the first international guidelines for limiting the earth's population.

The plan called for a reduction in world birth rates by 1985. It also asked countries to provide family planning information and services to all who want them and promised greater assistance to poorer countries.

The plan, adopted at the final session of the U.N.-sponsored conference, also guaranteed the equality and status of women.

Delegates to the 149-nation talks said approval of the plan was a formality because no block of countries could command the two thirds majority needed to change the text of the statement drawn up by a working group in the past eight days.

Parker Mauldin, an American population expert, said the document reflected a Third World backlash against Western predictions of overpopulation doom.

He said, however, the talks would likely increase requests from developing nations interested in keeping their population growth under control.

Politicians at the conference hailed the document as an important first step, but population experts said the plan was too limited and short-sighted.

"It will be said that this conference met on the eve of the greatest famine in the world and this conference did not recognize this," French agronomist Rene Dumont said.

The head of the U.S. delegation, Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of healh, education and welfare, said the plan was strengthened by an American move to incorporate a section on the status of women.

Anthropologist Margaret Mead said, however, the document was full of "compromises, euphemisms and circumlocutory arrangements" and "women are hardly in there at all."

U.N. population specialist Leon Tabah complained that all concrete targets in the original text had been replaced by vague statements about a "new international economic order."

Delegates described the final version as a victory for Third World nations in favor of raising living standards through economic development rather than population control.

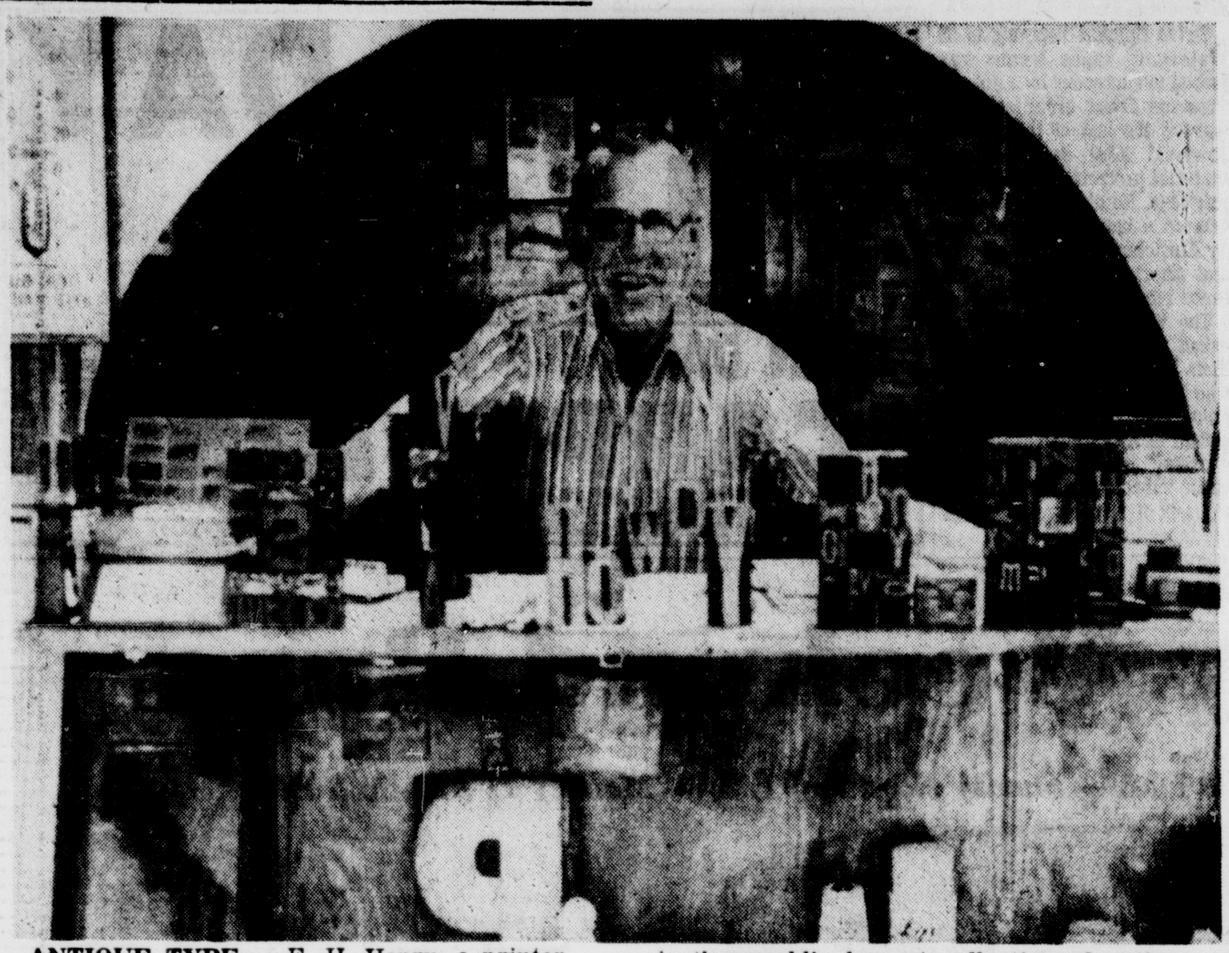
What He Wouldn't Do For Wood



ANTIQUE TYPE — E. H. Henry, a printer from McKinney, Tex., who gave up his trade two years ago, has amassed what he believes is the world's largest collection of antique wood newspaper type in the United States.

(UPI Telephoto)

McKINNEY, Tex. (UPI) — In a week's time E.H. Henry, a printer who gave up his trade two years ago, is as likely to do business with customers from West Germany or Northern Ireland as he is with one of his Collin County neighbors or a shopper from Dallas.

The slim man from Missouri and his wife of 35 years labor in a dusty building a block off the town square. A sign over the front door gives only Henry's name. There is no flashing neon nor any need for it.

But despite the obscure surroundings Henry's antique wood type collection is the largest and among the most valuable in the United States.

"If what I have stored here burned, then all the money of Howard Hughes couldn't replace it because it just isn't there to replace anymore," Henry said as he surveyed stacks of century-old type trays and one-of-a-kind handcarved pieces of wooden type.

A week earlier Henry, 63, drove to Colorado in search of the type. The week before that he traveled to Kansas and he plans to search in Pennsylvania. He has bought old type in 42 states but more and more there is less and less available for purchase.

"For a while I used to get 10 replies a week to the advertisement I run in trade publications," he said. "Now I'm lucky to average one every two weeks.

"I traveled 50,000 miles a year but it is going to be a lot less now because it (antique wood type) is just not there."

When the wood type is gone —to antique collectors, museums or housewives who just want to make an attractive collage —there won't be any replacements.

"From about 1828 to 1900 it was used extensively," Henry said. "But offset (cold type) replaced it in 95 per cent of the weekly newspapers across the country. There won't be anymore. It can't be reproduced, it's too expensive. It was handrouted (carved)."

Henry finds his wooden type in small town print shops and rural newspapers primarily. Many have closed through the years and unloaded the type inexpensively before it became a popular decorating trend.

He can get a better price from dealers or print shop owners who think of the merchandise in terms of its old use rather than as an "antique" commodity.

"I have approximately 1,200 to 1,500 drawers of wood type and about 9,000 copper coated cuts and 3,000 type trays."

In his travels Henry has acquired priceless cuts he has no plans to sell including an American flag with 33 stars and a political advertisement cut for William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

For the nation's bicentennial celebration Henry has put together three collages, each of which sold immediately. An advertising salesman once bought up several large wooden pieces of type and put together a collage of mostly block letters which a paper manufacturer used to photograph and reproduce on decorative Kleenex boxes.

Henry said his claim of largest stock in the United States was challenged only once by a fellow dealer from Ohio. But when Henry suggested they match stock with the loser giving his collection to the winner, the challenger backed down.

One Motorist Learns Lesson

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A woman hitchhiker put the double cross twice on William J. Nocetti, 34, a federal bank examiner.

Nocetti was driving her home yesterday when she said an earring dropped out the window. He stopped the car, got out and began to look for the bauble.

The woman sped off, leaving him in exhaust fumes.

Nocetti grabbed for his wallet to obtain cab fare only to find that she had taken that, too.

Nocetti thumbed a ride home in a police car.

Soldiers Leaving

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Another 2,000 American troops left Thailand during August, reducing the United States forces to about 28,000 men, military spokesmen said today. Another thousand are to leave by the end of the year.

Hillcrest Hospital Raising Room Rates

Room rates at Petaluma's Hillcrest Hospital will increase on Oct. 1 because of a decision by directors Wednesday to make them comparable to those in other area facilities.

Charles E. Cowen, administrator, said the new rates will be $95 a day for a private room, $90 for a two-patient room, $85 for a ward bed, $175 for the intensive care unit and $180 for the coronary care unit.

Ten area hospitals, including Marin General, were surveyed by Hillcrest directors, Cowen said, and the new rates reflect the average of the rates charted at the other facilities. Old rates ranged from $84.50 for a private room to $141.50 for the coronary care unit.

Cowen said the rate increase is necessitated by inflation, which has increased the costs of goods and services used by hospitals.

The higher rates, he said, will also help pay the 6 per cent salary increases given to most employees by the directors during their special meeting this week.

Cowen said the new pay schedule was also formulated after a survey of area hospitals, and he said Hillcrest's salaries will now be comparable to the average of salaries paid elsewhere in the Northern Bay Area.

No Soyuz Trouble

MOSCOW (AP) — The head of Soviet Cosmonaut training indicated today that the night landing made by the Soyuz 15 spacecraft was part of the advance flight plan and not an emergency measure because something went wrong in the flight, as some Western experts believe.

ART REVIEW

Exhibit At County Fair Reflects Many Thoughts

By ADA GARFINKEL

Art relates to life and reflects its many vagaries. Nowhere is this more evident than in the paintings, drawings and prints in the Marin County Fair Art Show in the Veterans Memorial Building. The exhibit will continue through Monday.

Works that are garish, violent and crude hang alongside others which are poetic, whimsical, primitive, nostalgic and surreal.

But how can we account for those best described as "my 6-year-old-kid can do better." We can only note that the jurors "liked them," considered them "honest" and "cute."

Contrasted with the simplistic naivete of these and their casual, anti-art manner of execution and framing, are many marvels of meticulously-detailed precision. One example is Elise Leptich's "The Exulting," an oil painting with the look of needlepoint. Another is William Campbell's huge horizontal ink drawing "Welcome to Wildaltercaland," with its explosive "comic book" imagery.

Precision is also evident in Felice Shatz' "The Guardian," a watercolor and acrylic work which reproduces the fur of a mother leopard and her cub with startling realism.

Nostalgic realism is evident in Wally Hedrick's large oil titled "Heidelberg Electric Belt" in which he reproduces word-for-word, the text and illustrations from a page of an old mail-order catalog.

Another kind of reality is inherent in James Dowlen's "Breadline," an enlarged facsimile of a dollar bill framed as a memento, and in C.M. Gurfisen's painting of five bound prisoners.

Other realities are seen in the strange vision of Birgitta Svenson's painting "From Dust to Dust;" in Gregg Cassel's untitled ink drawing of mythological figures in a primal setting; layers of chalk over watercolor, and John Shaughnessy's drawing, "Lathe of Heaven" — an occupational and architectural melange.

Other notable works are Brent Bushnell's "The Labyrinth," a five-part conceptual sculpture of an environmental event, recorded photographically, and Sharon Schwartzmann's all black painting with evenly-spaced white chalk chevrons creating a rhythmic in-and-out movement.

Viewing hours are from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

MIAMI (UPI) — A squall picking up strength and nearing tropical storm intensity threatened Caribbean islands with flooding and landslides today.

Woman Denies Murder Charge

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Carol Campbell, 27, pleaded innocent yesterday to the murders of Hillsborough socialite Louis Jean McNamara and a discharged sailor.

Her boyfriend, Barry Brown, also appeared on the same murder charges before San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Gerald Ragan, but his plea was delayed until September 18.

The couple were accused of killing Mrs. McNamara and dumping her body near Half Moon Bay. They were also accused of killing discharged sailor Stephen Russell, 22, who disappeared while hitchhiking in the same area.

They are also under indictment for the Santa Cruz murder of Richard Pipes, 29, a grocery clerk.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

New Joe's Has Good Food With Fair Prices And Wide Appeal

A restaurant cannot be all things to all people, and I believe it is a mistake for one to even try.

But this is not to say it shouldn't make an attempt to appeal to a wide range of diners-out, for there are profits in extra numbers. And people still do come in assorted styles and personalities and with many varying tastes and food preferences.

Generally they tend to meld together in a place that is "comfortable," and quite possibly this is the best word to describe a restaurant like New Joe's in Corte Madera. It makes no pretense to be anything than what it is. But even then it has a lot going for it — a dining room with a pretty view of the Edgewater Inn gardens and pool, for relaxation; a coffee shop for more informal eating or fast service; a bar and lounge for more relaxation; and banquet areas big enough to throw a good sized party or small enough for a more cozy group.

It is centrally located, there's good parking and the menu is varied enough to satisfy big eaters, small eaters, groups, couples and families.

That last can be very important, for it doesn't always work out to leave the kids with a baby sitter. In this case if there is a place to go where it doesn't cost too much to feed them it's better to take them along. And if it also doesn't cost too much to feed papa and mama, there's an extra incentive.

New Joe's dinners are from $3.95 up to about twice that, with plenty of selections in the $4.25 - $5.95 range. The policy here on youngsters under 12 has been to charge two-thirds of the entree price, though consideration is being given to making up a special child's menu.

Very popular now as a rider on the dinner menu is the $3.95 full course dinner, with minnestrone, salad, choice of Italian baked chicken or pot roast, a choice of French fries, spaghetti, ravioli or vegetable, along with ice cream or sherbet and beverage. It's available every night of the week, I'm told. There are also other daily features rotated through the week at $3.95 and an osso buco special (with risotto) at $4.95 on Tuesday nights.

From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sundays there's an excellent champagne brunch along with some $1.45 specials for the youngsters.

The management team here works like a well oiled unit. It should — Jim Pius and his assistant Mario Brenta have been associated in other restaurant ventures and are long time friends. You'll usually find Jim on duty during the day and Mario at night, except when they may be spelling each other on times off.

Mondays through Thursdays the lounge has a "Golly Whopper Hour (actually two and a half hours long from 4 to 6:30, when tall-size glasses go for the price of singles. And Wednesday through Saturday nights there is piano entertainment in the lounge by Frank Elliott.

MRS. YVONNE DUQUESNE, who as hostess at Le Camembert in Tamalpais Valley, is as much a part of this restaurant's operation as her son Gilbert and his partner Guy Francoz, has done it again.

She has taken another second national prize in her native Normand's La Tripiere d'Or Confrerie Gastronome annual food competition. This is her fourth award. She took a second place prize in 1966 and again in 1967 and a first in 1968. Needless to say you'll see this one on prominent display at Le Camembert.

THERE WILL BE a new chef and co-owner coming in next Tuesday at Le Chateau at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road, San Rafael. He is none other than Roger Braun, who has been head chef for several years at the Seven Seas in Sausalito. He was also several years at the Red Knight in San Francisco and has an excellent reputation.

Roger, who is replacing Florian Begg as partner to Joseph Lauper, undoubtedly will go over the menu carefully and probably come up with some changes. Incidentally, his wife Marian is also working there as waitress.

No doubt Paul De Moss down at the Seven Seas will regret losing Roger, but he has had a fine second chef in Carl Scheurman, who will now be moved up to the top spot.

STARTING NEXT TUESDAY, Sept. 3, The Normandie on the San Rafael Miracle Mile will close briefly - vacation time. That is, partners Michel Braud and Roger Minhondo are planning on getting away for a few days, but this is also their annual refurbishing period, so they'll be working at least part time.

Look for some new touches in the decor when they reopen — that will be on Friday, Sept. 20.

WATERSIDE VIEWS seem to go well with lunches and brunches, and a nice place to enjoy both is on the deck at Dominic's in San Rafael overlooking the canal.

If you don't take off for the hills this Labor Day weekend, why not make it to Dominic's for brunch tomorrow, Sunday or Monday. It's not far to drive and there's plenty of parking space when you get there.

IT'S ALWAYS ENCOURAGING to find a new restaurant making good — and apparently the new Velvet Turtle at 4020 Civic Center Drive, San Rafael is doing just that. In fact you may have to be patient in waiting for a table. If you are planning on going there for dinner it might be wise to phone ahead and check out the traffic situation and make a reservation if you can. This applies both to the middle of the week and on weekends.

It is open for lunches now on Saturdays from 11 a.m. as well as during the rest of the week.

MOST OF US living in Marin have visited at least a few of the wineries to the north of us in Sonoma and Napa counties. But now there's a chance to make a regular travel tour of it.

Wine Tours International, 1035 Bell Lane, Napa, is offering a trip of three days and two nights, taking in six different wineries in the Napa Valley — Berringer, Sterling, Charles Krug, Inglenook, Robert Mondavi and Christian Brothers, doing some wine tasting and learning the various techniques.

The tour includes two nights at the Silverado Resort and Country Club, guide service, transportation to the wineries, private tours around the grounds, tastings, gourmet dinner at Silverado, two picnic lunches, a funicular ride from the Robert Mondavi Winery in the valley floor over lake and treetops to the Sterling Winery perched on a high knoll — and several other benefits.

Write direct to Wine Tours International for information and rates.

Women Protest GM Seniority

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A group of women has filed a federal court suit protesting the seniority system used by General Motors Corp. in laying off employees at its Fremont plant.

The eight said they were among the 495 women laid off at the plant because they lacked seniority.

They held that the seniority provisions in GM's labor contract with the United Auto Workers means de facto discrimination against women.

Their suit asked that the firm hire more women. It also asks that those laid off be reinstated with back pay.

All the women belong to the Coalition of Labor Union Women.

GOOD PLACE TO TAKE CHILDREN — A typical family group at New Joe's in Corte Madera is given special attention by longtime waitress Ina Balushin and night manager Mario Brenta. Mrs. Baiushin has been at the restaurant since the days it was operated as Bob's of Marin.

There's a smile on the way.

We have a very special restaurant. It's very beautiful, without sideshows. And very delicious, without bills that give you the feeling you also bought dinner for the people at the next table. Your drink is made the way you'd make it yourself. Your waitress is unusually courteous. And your steak tastes as if the chef overheard the exact way you said "medium rare." Enjoy superb steaks and beef recipes. Or fine seafoods like Medallions of Lobster en Brochette (tiny "slipper" lobster tails skewered and lightly breaded) served with mushroom buttons and drawn butter, or tender Abalone delicately sauteed in butter and crowned with toasted almonds.

Drink and dine on couches and chairs so relaxing you'll think you're dining in a comfortable living room. In fact, the only thing that may remind you that you're not in a fine home is the bill. But it's a very gentle reminder.

Make tonight an evening worth smiling about, at The Velvet Turtle.

HOLD IT, GODIVA! — A London policeman yesterday put a stop to actress Fiona Richmond's Lady Godiva-style ride through Picadilly by placing her under arrest. The stunt was designed to publicize an erotic play in which Miss Richmond appears. She was charged with "insulting behavior" and fined $48. (UPI Telephoto)

A Nude's Cheeky Bit Of Show-Biz

LONDON (UPI) — Lady Godiva did it in the crowded streets of Coventry 900 years ago to protest oppressive taxes imposed by her husband. Actress Fiona Richmond did it in the busy streets of Soho in a cheeky bit of show-biz promotion.

Legend says only "Peeping Tom" sneaked a look at Lady Godiva in her bareback ride which resulted in her husband, Leoforic of Mercia, lifting taxes.

Throngs of shoppers and photographers carefully positioned in advance—and a policeman—caught Miss Richmond's act, which ended with a $48 fine.

Miss Richmond, who stars in a theater production opening Monday, managed to ride one block on a docile brown nag before the policeman tossed his cape around her bare shoulders.

She wore knee-length, red, sequinned boots, a matching wide-brimmed hat, a quite inadequate two-gun belt and a long blonde wig which wasn't long enough.

"So her hair, although long, wasn't as long as Lady Godiva's?" asked Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Sir Frank Milton when Miss Richmond appeared in Bow Street court.

"No, my lord," said Inspector Tony Gooding.

"I'd rather you did your publicity a little more discreetly," the magistrate told Miss Richmond.

Then he fined her for "using insulting behavior likely to cause a breach of the peace."

"I thought the magistrate was rather sweet about it all," Miss Richmond said after leaving the court.

Miss Richmond previously starred in an all-nude revue, "Pyjama Tops," and writes explicit first person accounts of romantic liaisons for "Men Only" magazine.

The magazine is published by Paul Raymond who also owns the Windmill theater, which will show Miss Richmond's new play.

Budget Vote Set

The Fairfax Town Council will approve a budget for 1974-75 and adopt a tax rate when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Fairfax Women's Club.

No New Sea Law From Conference

CARACAS (UPI) — Delegates to the Third United Nations Sea Law conference headed home today, disappointed at the slow pace of treaty negotiations governing the world's oceans.

Conference president Hamilton S. Amerasinghe, optimistic during the early stages of the 148-nation gathering, said it appeared doubtful if the 17th Century sea code would be replaced before 1976.

After a seven-month recess, the conference will reconvene in Geneva March 17 for six weeks. Then, according to a program approved earlier this week, the conference will shift back to Venezuela for a three week meeting.

"I am convinced, given the best will in the world, it will be physically impossible for us to finish the drafting of the treaty by the end of the spring session in 1975," the Ceylon delegate told a press conference after yesterday's closing.

Peru's Alfonso Arias Schreiber said the final treaty might be two years away.

Arias said he thought more progress would have been made if the major powers had reacted more favorably on the developing countries requests for a 200-mile sea.

The session ended in a deadlock between the industrialized nations and the poorer, developing ones on four key issues: territorial sea limits, deep sea mining, pollution control and passage of ships through the world's straits.

"We certainly didn't come to Caracas expecting to go back with a signed treaty," said Tanzania's J.S. Warioba.

Mine Leader Hopeful Of End To 'Death Traps'

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The head of the United Mine Workers Union sees an agreement to end a bitter 13-month Kentucky coal mining dispute as an end to "death-trap mines, starvation wages and meager benefits in return for their labor."

Elsewhere, a union boss of striking United Parcel Service employees in New York charged police used "violence and brutality" against strikers; and in Los Angeles, the Rapid Transit District took out seven-column newspaper ads to explain their position in an 18-day-old dispute which has sent 650,000 persons looking for other means of travel.

The Labor Department said strikes caused more man-days of idleness during the first seven months of 1974 than during all of 1972 or 1973.

United Mine Workers and the Eastover Mining Co. reached agreement early yesterday to end a violence-ridden, 13-month strike in Harlan County, Kentucky, during which one miner died of gunshot wounds.

The agreement gave the UMW the right to represent striking miners at the Brookside mine.

"This contract is a message to every non-union coal operator in the land that coal mining families have had their fill of death-trap mines, starvation wages and meager benefits in return for their labor," said UMW president Arnold Miller.

In New York, some 4,000 striking United Parcel employes marched against a UPS office on West 43rd Street.

"They were really quick on the stick," said Ronald Carey, president of Teamsters Local 804.

He said police moved in when the company started to move out trucks and strikers objected.

"They used violence and brutality. They hurt those guys. One had to be taken to a hospital. It was sickening," he said.

Police denied the charge and said there were no reports of injuries and no arests.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers prepared to hold ratification votes on a tentative contract for some 60,000 employes at strike-bound Western Electric, the manufacturing arm of the national Bell Telephone system.

Bulgaria Finds A Gold Statue

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — The forequarters of a solid gold statue of Pegasus, the flying horse of mythology, was dug up recently in Bulgaria, "Sofia News" reported here.

The report said the statue weighted 417 grams 15 ounces and "was a unique find for Bulgaria."

Some Gems Among Fair's Films

By GEORGE NEVIN

Take courage, film fans — American cinema is in good hands, judging from the entries in this year's Marin County Fair film competition.

Sure, there is the usual assortment of meaningless trash among the 29 movies selected for showing. But there are gems, too, that for their sheer inventiveness and impact put most Hollywood efforts to shame.

If the film industry gets lucky and manages to hold on to some of the better artists represented at the fair, and others of their creative ability, moviegoers will have a lot of sensory delights ahead of them.

For consistent excellence, student-made films seem to tower above independent offerings this year, though there are winners in both categories.

Three student entries in particular, all made by Southern California artists, demonstrate the power that short films can display.

The best is "Tomorrow is Only Tuesday," produced by Elodie Keene of Santa Monica and an all-woman production crew.

This black-and-white offering presents a day in the life of a young woman who works at the archetype of an impersonal American corporation, something called Systems Development Corp.

The protagonist no sooner gets to work on Monday morning than she is called on the carpet by the accountant for neglecting to punch her time card.

Her boss complains about her messy desk, and tells her, "Do you think you might wage your battle against the establishment some other place?"

Naturally, nothing can go right on a day that begins like that, and Miss Worker has to spend much of the rest of the 17-minute film trying to locate a lost file.

She barely evades the clutches of the office lecher, who tells her, "I'm not as good as I once was but I'm as good once as I ever was."

Then it's advice time from an older woman, who tells her, "Don't ever do anything to discredit a superior, because he's going to fire you someday."

The film contains all the gritty reality of the day-in, day-out struggle for a living. Any wage earner can see himself in her.

The film won a second prize and $200 for Miss Keene.

Also excellent is "Writer's Cramp," an honorable mention winner by Howard Brock of North Hollywood.

The movie, written in autobiographical style, follows the struggles of a young man determined to be a writer.

He is discouraged by his parents, who give him a sporty car a la "The Graduate" ("It was a plot — they were setting me up for a comfortable lifestyle"), dropped by his girlfriend and frustrated in his writing attempts.

But after a series of false starts (he gets nowhere in writing "The Origin of the Feces"), he finally comes up with a winner, and the camera pans in on him as he types it out — "Writer's Cramp."

Success at last.

Another honorable mention winner, Barbara Nobles' "Disorder," chronicles a young girl who drifts through her early 20s looking for herself.

In only 24 minutes, "Disorder" gives a down-to-earth portrayal of alienation. It's 10 times more effective than just about anything on that theme produced in Hollywood in the last decade.

The first prize winners — "The Story of a Craftsman," by S. M. Tapper and Karl Dempwolf of Woodland Hills, and "Room and Board," by Randy Cartwright of Fullerton — are well done, but somehow lack the impact of the other three.

"Room and Board" is an animated cartoon that won $300 for its maker. Its ironic ending got a laugh from just about everybody in the sparse audience at yesterday's opening.

And "The Story of a Craftsman" is a solid and satisfying film, but hardly a trailblazer.

It shows how a marvelous old Italian man, Domenick Cacallechio of Hollywood, still makes trumpets by hand. He's the last craftsman of his kind in this country, and the film won $500 for Tapper and Dempwolf.

For a competition that attracted entries from all over America, the Bay Area is well represented in the winning entries, culled from 147 films.

But only one Marin man, Paul Giovannoni of Larkspur, was tapped, though his "Moods of a City" won no prize. Also selected was "Wings" by Phillip Schuman of Petaluma, a seven-minute exploration of the sport of hang gliding.

Disappointing were "Moving, Still," a confusing tale of a confused woman who spends most of the film running; "Mandalas," which makes the point that India isn't like America, and "The Shape of Change," which may appeal to sculptors, for that is what it is about, but has little to say to the layman.

Film programs, groupings of between three and six, are scheduled at the Veterans Memorial Building at 11 a.m., noon, 1:30, 3, 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. tomorrow and Sunday, and at 11 a.m., noon, 1:30 and 3 p.m. Monday.

A special showing of the six award winners is set for 6 p.m. Monday.

WORLD OF LIGHT — Shimmering in the distance, the Marin County Fair's buildings, booths and rides hover over the Civic Center lagoon like an enchanted city. The fair was awash with lights — blue, green, red and gold — last night when photographer Alfred Arn captured its magic look. (For another photo see Page 1.)

VAROOM — When one is very young, like 18-month-old Shelley Hall of Novato, a merry-go-round motorcycle ride has all the challenge of the real thing. Her face is a study in concentration and anxiety as she hangs tightly to the bars, probably very grateful to be accompanied by an "older person," Gail Burden, 9, also of Novato.

Third Panelist For Pay Policy To Be Considered

Appointment of a third member to a "fact finding" panel on teachers' salary requests will be considered by Marin Community College District trustees when they meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 101 of the College of Marin Science Center.

Both trustees and teachers have named their representative to the panel but the two men have been unable to agree on a third person. College policy requires that the selection of the third member be turned over to county Supt. Virgil S. Hollis if the two sides can't agree.

Teachers last month declared an impasse in salary negotiations. Trustees had offered an 8.1 per cent raise and teachers were asking 12 per cent when negotiations broke off.

Other fringe benefits and issues which remain unresolved are teachers requests for medical benefits for retired faculty members, salary increases for teachers who complete additional college courses and raises in the pay scale for parttime and summer school teachers.

Sausalito School Schedule Is Set

The Sausalito School District Administration has announced the following class schedule for the first two weeks of school beginning Sept. 10:

Bayside School: kindergarten, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.; first, second and third grades, 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Martin Luther King School: fourth, fifth grades, 8:30 a.m. to 2:40 p.m.; sixth, seventh and eighth grades, 9:10 a.m. to 3:20 p.m.

Staggered sessions for kindergarten through third grade students and other changes will be begun after Sept. 23, according to Supt. Donald W. Johnson. The district will notify parents of the changes prior to that date.

Wonder Woman To The Rescue

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wonder Woman saved an innocent female passerby from the wolf-whistles of an amorous construction worker yesterday, but it was only show biz.

The rescue was a skit staged by the National Organization of Women to kick off a campaign against verbal harassment of women in the streets.

As the "innocent passerby," played by Anita Murray, vice president of the New York City chapter of NOW, passed by the construction site on Fifth Avenue, the "construction worker," played by Stew Sutherland, whistled, grabbed at her and finally latched on to her hair.

Enter "Wonder Woman," alias Viv Sutherland, who whisked Sutherland off to a police station.

The point of the skit, according to a spokeswoman, was to show that harassment in the streets is actually against New York state law.

School Tax Rates Are Not As Shown

The property tax rate for the Fairfax School District, published in Wednesday's Independent-Journal, actually is that of the Kentfield School District. The Fairfax rate, inadvertently omitted, totals $3.525 this year compared to $4.208 last year, a decrease of 68.3 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The Kentfield rate is $3.311 this year compared to $2.974, and increase of 33.7 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District rate is down one cent from last year, not higher as listed in the county table.

Ross General Hospital Planning A New Home

A new facility to replace Ross General Hospital is being planned, a spokesman for the hospital said today.

Raymond C. Webb Jr., hospital administrator, said Hospital Corp. of America which owns it has approved plans to replace the 193-bed hospital elsewhere in Marin.

Webb said the age of the hospital, first built in 1907, and design problems which cause inefficiencies have necessitated the change.

"The age of the facility is one thing. And this hospital was put together in a piecemeal fashion," he said.

"We kind of go up and down the mountain side," Webb said in describing how the present hospital evolved as more space was added over the years.

"Sir Francis Drake is bad in terms of traffic," he said of the present location at 1150 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. "Although it is easy to get into the hospital, it is difficult to get out on Sir Francis Drake at times. And we lack ample parking."

Several representatives from the hospital corporation's Nashville headquarters will be in Marin next month to begin a feasibility study on the relocation and to study possible sites, Webb said. Following the feasibility study, the relocation plans will go before the Marin Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

Webb noted that the new facility will have a bed capacity no larger than the present 193.

Following all the necessary state and local approvals, final construction will take between 18 months and two years, he said.

Center Plans To Be Council Topic

The San Rafael City Council will consider preliminary plans for the city's community recreation center when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday in city hall.

The council will also consider appointments to two vacancies on the parks and recreation commission, and boosting fees for dog licenses.

The council is expected to postpone for two months consideration of the proposed Santa Margarita Open Space Assessment District, in light of a request by local homeowners that the matter be put over pending adoption of the city general plan.

Marin Fair Opens, Crowds Are Smaller

As summer clouds breezed across the sky and children shrieked with excitement, the Marin County Fair hummed with life yesterday.

A total of 4,523 persons visited the fair on its first day, wandering through the exhibits, enjoying the carnival and its rides and pausing to watch the various entertainments.

Attendance was down almost 1,000 from last year when 5,537 fairgoers passed through the gates on the first day.

The fair will continue through Monday at the Civic Center Fairgrounds.

The daily schedule of entertainment is:

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources.

FORECASTS

San Francisco Bay Area: Low overcast and fog along the coast spreading inland nights and mornings but mostly sunny inland areas tomorrow afternoon; little temperature change; highs in low 60s along the coast and the 70s inland; lows tonight in the 50s; westerly wind 10 to 20 mph afternoons; small craft advisory Suisun Bay and west Delta for southwesterly winds to 30 mph.

Sierra Nevada: Mostly fair through tomorrow but some cloudiness with chance of isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers; little temperature change.

Napa and Sonoma valleys and Santa Rosa Plain: Night and morning low clouds and fog but fair otherwise through tomorrow; little temperature change; low tonight and high tomorrow at Santa Rosa 52-83; southerly winds 5 to 15 mph afternoons.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Assembly Votes Expansion Of Law Giving Newsmen Protection

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has voted to expand California's "shield law" for newsmen to prevent them from being forced to divulge their notes, recordings or film.

The bill (SB1858) by Sen. Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, was passed yesterday on a 51-16 vote and returned to the Senate for concurrence in Assembly amendments.

The current shield law protects reporters from being subject to contempt penalties for refusing to disclose sources of information before courts or administrative and legislative bodies.

Song's bill would extend the protection to include notes and other information not actually published or broadcast.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, floor manager of the bill, said the measure would remove the "chilling effect" that the threat of contempt sentences has on newsmen trying to gather stories based on confidential sources.

ALIMONY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Divorcees who live together with new partners as if married would be cut off from alimony under a controversial bill which has narrowly cleared the Assembly.

Opponents charged the bill was "antifemale" and would result in "bedroom checks" to determine who was sleeping with whom.

The bill (SB2392) by Sen. James E. Whetmore, R-Buena Park, was passed and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan on a 44-22 vote last night.

Whetmore said in an interview the measure was aimed at preventing divorcees "from getting the benefits of marriage and requiring their ex-spouse to support them."

The bill provides that alimony must be halted by a judge if the support-paying spouse can prove his ex-partner was living with a new mate and "holding himself or herself out as the spouse of the person for a total of 30 days or more."

PRIMARY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill eliminating California's winner-take-all presidential primary election for the Democratic party has been unanimously passed by the Assembly.

The measure (SB116) by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, was approved yesterday on a 68-0 vote and returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

The bill would create a new system for selecting delegates to the Democratic National Convention on a proportional basis, based on the number of votes won by each candidate. The delegates would be chosen on a local district basis.

GAME FEES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill increasing hunting and fishing license fees to bail out the financially troubled state Fish and Game Department has won Assembly approval.

The bill (SB1650) by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, was passed yesterday on a 54-6 vote, the minimum two-thirds margin required from $6 to $10. But the current $2 pheasant stamp would be eliminated.

California anglers would still pay $4 for a license but the inland water fishing stamp would be increased $2 from $1 and the trout stamp would go to $3 from $2.

MARIJUANA

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill abolishing the mandatory 90-day jail sentence for persons arrested and convicted of being under the influence of marijuana passed the Senate yesterday on a 23-7 vote.

The bill (AB725) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, would give judges the discretion of whether to allow marijuana users to go free on probation or impose varying sentences up to one year in jail.

Currently, marijuana is lumped with other controlled drugs, which bring the mandatory 90-day sentence for illegal use. Sieroty's bill separates marijuana from the other category.

The bill was returned to the Assembly for acceptance of amendments. There was no debate.

RIGHT OF PRIVACY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation designed to regulate the inspection of personal financial records by police and other government officials has been passed by the Senate.

The bill (SB1609) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, was returned to the Assembly yesterday on a 23-6 vote for consideration of Senate amendments.

It would require government officials and agencies to go through legal channels before investigating a citizen's bank, insurance or other financial records. It provides that citizens be alerted when their records are probed.

ANTISMOG BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An antismog bill designed to ban the internal combustion engine in California by 1977 was defeated yesterday by the Assembly.

The measure would have required that all new cars sold in California by 1977 be "virtually 100 per cent pollution free" and burn fuel three times as efficiently as now. It would have the effect of banning the internal combustion engine, sponsors have said.

The bill (SB1938) by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, was rejected on a 18-44 vote.

PROTECTION

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation providing additional state protection for gorillas, ocelots and other exotic creatures passed the Assembly last night on a 49-12 vote.

The measure (SB1766) by Sen. Peter Behr, R-San Rafael, was returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments. There was no debate.

It adds numerous new animals to the list regulated by the state for commercial ownership, transportation and importation. It also assures that the "welfare" of the animal is to be considered before pet fanciers can be granted ownership permits from the Department of Fish and Game.

Public and private zoos are exempt from the measure.

Saxbe Will Put Belief To A Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe plans to spend $3 million to test his belief that "the best place for a criminal is in jail," a Justice Department spokesman said today.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration will use the money for grants to help 10 major cities to ferret out and speedily prosecute known crime "repeaters." The cities will be announced later.

When the intensive investigations have turned up sufficient evidence, prosecutors will focus on giving the defendants speedy trials by "leapfrogging" their cases over others backed up in court calendars, the spokesman said.

As a preliminary step, he said, Justice Department attorneys looked into the question of whether such special treatment might violate the civil rights of the defendants and concluded that it would not.

Saxbe spelled out his belief in using speedy detection and speedy trials instead of "gimmicks" to deter crime in a televised interview yesterday on the NBC-TV Today Show.

"I think we have to go back to the old concept that society doesn't cause crime, criminals cause crime," Saxbe said in that interview.

"The repeat offender is the one who terrorizes the city," Saxbe added.

"The best thing we can do for him is to catch him, prosecute him, and put him in jail. Quit this bunk of trying to divert him for every little reason you can and put him back on the street where he commits another crime."

In addressing police chiefs of major U.S. cities at a crime conference in Chicago last Tuesday Saxbe said one thing is certain —the war on crime has been "a failure of substantial dimension —harsh, bitter and dismaying."

Victim Of Holdup Is A Fighter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two bandits stole $440 in cash from three employees at public relations office yesterday but fled in a hurry when one of the victims, a 62-year-old man, stole one of the robbers' guns and started blasting away.

Police said the armed bandits entered public relations specialst Saul Richman's seventh-floor offices and ordered three employees to empty their pockets and lie on a bathroom floor.

Two complied but one, Richard Falk, 62, went down on one knee. When one of the gunmen put his revolver on the toilet tank and knelt down to tie the hands of one of the workers, Falk snatched his pistol and fired three times.

The first shot misfired, but the next two crashed through the bathroom.

The now unarmed bandit ran out of the bathroom with Falk in hot pursuit.

The second gunman stuck his head out of the door to see what was happening, and Falk fired two shots at him.

The two bandits then fled, both apparently uninjured.

Corte Madera Will Examine Town Plan

The Corte Madera Town Council will hold a public hearing on the introduction and housing elements of the town's proposed general plan on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in town hall.

The council will also consider a request from Survival Inc. for $500 to establish a recycling depot in Corte Madera.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Euthanasia Can Occur In Many Different Death Situations

Jim was a wonderful and kind man who committed suicide recently for a most unusual reason. He had suspected that he had cancer, but by the time he consulted his physician, it was too late. His doctor gave him six months to live. He was very close to his two sisters, and they did everything possible to keep him cheerful.

One week before he took his life, he gave both sisters instructions concerning his affairs. Although the meeting was quite emotional, they had no idea that he planned to commit suicide. The next morning, his body was found on the bathroom floor. His note said: "I killed the cancer, not myself because I could not bear to have you both go through the agony of watching me die . . ."

Legally this is suicide, but it is also a form of euthanasia. It is distantly related to passive euthanasia, a situation in which the physician leaves a bottle of potent and fatal pills within reach of his patient.

IN SWITZERLAND, the law allows physicians to give their patients lethal medication so they may commit suicide. My colleagues tell me that few patients take the medication, even though they are in severe pain. They may welcome death when it comes, but will not die at their own hands.

Mercy killing is an illegal type of euthanasia, in which the doctor presumably has permission to inject a fatal substance or withhold a necessary medication that, at best, will only keep the sufferer comfortable. A more common form of euthanasia is disconnecting a life-saving device such as the artificial respirator. Often, the only thing these extraordinary devices do is prolong death.

HIGHWAY HYPERTENSIVE

F.O. writes: If a man has hypertension, can he drive his car? He takes medication for the high blood pressure.

REPLY

Yes, provided he has not developed complications such as stroke, uremia or heart attack. If the medication he is taking causes blurred vision or dizziness, he should not drive.

SKIN REACTION

I.W. writes: Do drugs that lower the cholesterol level in the blood cause baldness:

REPLY

Some users of Atromid-S and Choloxin have noted slight hair loss, but not enough to cause concern.

DROOLS A LOT

A reader writes: My 73-year-old sister, who just spent a month with us, seems to drool a lot. Is this serious?

REPLY

Not necessarily since the drooling may be due to relaxation of the muscles of the mouth or ill-fitting dentures.

LVOING PINCH

H.J.B. writes: When I give my wife a loving pinch, she gets very upset. Someone told her that pinching causes cancer. Does it?

REPLY

The cause of cancer is not known, but ther is some evidence that repeated injury may be followed by a tumor. Why not give her a loving pat? After all, no one likes to be pinched.

BLOCKED ARTERY

A reader writes: According to my wife's death certificate, she died of an occlusive coronary. Is this the same as coronary thrombosis?

REPLY

Yes. The coronary artery to the heart was occluded, or blocked by a thrombus (clot).

CHICKEN BONES

B. N. writes: My husband thinks it is perfectly safe to eat small chicken bones. Is it?

REPLY

No. Chicken bones are sharp and if they perforate the gastrointestinal tract, infection, abscess or peritonitis may develop.

KIDNEY STONE DISSOLVER

N. E. writes: Is there a prescription medicine I can buy to dissolve a kidney stone?

REPLY

Medical textbooks on ophthalmology devote entire chapters to this subject. The individual may need glasses, the eyes straightened or the circulation improved. Toxins (such as alcohol) and increased tension within the eyeball (glaucoma) also interfere with sight.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

Alimony — Cuts off alimony for divorcees who live together with new partners as if married. (SB2392-Whetmore, R-Buena Park. 44-22. To Governor.)

Price Increases On Pasta Halted

ROME (UPI) — The Italian government stepped in today to block price increases planned by major pasta producers and approved by local price authorities.

The increases would have raised pasta prices from 58 cents to 84 cents for 2.2 pounds.

Pasta manufacturers contended that increased costs of production, transport and grain warranted the price increases.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Marin County Planning Commission will hold a public hearing to consider a proposed amendment to Title 22 (Zoning) of the Marin County Code. Said amendments would recind the existing S-1 and S-2 Zones in the unincorporated areas surrounding Hamilton Air Force Base and replace them with designated Clear Zone, Accident Potential Zone I and II which will place restrictions upon permitted land use, person density and structure height within these designated overlay zones. The purpose of these designated zones is to provide more sophisticated safety areas at the ends of Hamilton Air Force Base runways. A map is available at the Marin County Planning Department showing these designated areas.
NOTICE IS HEREBY FURTHER GIVEN that said hearing will be held during the regular meeting of the Marin County Planning Commission on Monday, September 16, 1974, in the Planning Commission Hearing Room, Civic Center, San Rafael, California, which meeting commences at 9:00 a.m. Those wishing to attend said hearing may call the Planning Department at 479-1100, Extension 2526, on Friday, September 13, 1974, in order to be informed of the place on the agenda and the approximate time of the hearing.

Fonda Is Darrow In TV Play

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How do you spend 90 minutes playing to an empty chair?

Henry Fonda does it splendidly in the television version of his one-man stage play, "Clarence Darrow," airing next Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

Unlike Hal Holbrook's Mark Twain and James Whitmore's Will Rogers, both played directly to the audience, Fonda carries on imaginary conversations and courtroom interrogations as famed lawyer Clarance Darrow.

"I had some trepidation about directing it," said John Rich, who until recently produced and directed "All in the Family."

"How do you put one man on for 90 minutes in a play? Holbrook and Whitmore talked directly to the audience. This is truly a play. Hank plays it internally. He really plays to an empty chair, but magically that person in the chair appears."

Rich said the first question everyone asked, including Fonda, was what to do about the empty chair in the courtroom.

"They wanted to know if I would put someone in that chair," he said. "I said it works in the theater and it will play on television with an empty chair."

The play, cut down 22 minutes from the stage version, is a tour de force for Fonda. It was written from Irving Stone's biography.

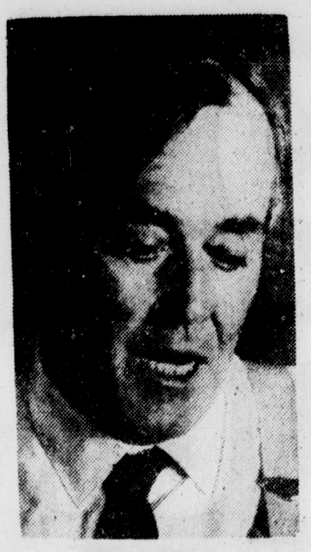
As television fare, it takes on a life of its own through close-ups and dramatic lighting.

Fonda did not play to the various cameras, as in a normal television play. Instead, the cameras were placed unobtrusively off stage and were cued by Rich on the basis of Fonda's known movements about the stage during the course of the play.

Fonda, who performed the role on Broadway and across the country, said the role is difficult — and not just for the task of memorizing 95 pages of script.

"You can't let up your concentration for a spli second," Fonda said. "You're not cued by another actor. You have to rely on memory. You're cued by your position on stage."

The preseason special is a pilot for a possible mini-series of famous Darrow trials. Such as his defense of Socialist Eugene Debs in 1894, Loeb and Leopold in the 1924 Bobby Franks murder and John T Scopes in the 1925 'monkey trial."



HENRY FONDA
One-man play

If the negotiations go through, Fonda said he expects to make one Darrow movie a month.

Fonda, 69, spoke in the Spanish-style house in Bel Air he shares with his fifth wife, Shirlee Adams. Several of his paintings hung on a stair landing, executed in the same precise, exacting manner he brings to his acting.

Fonda said he did not go through extensive makeup to make himself look like Darrow, "although I did convince myself I looked like him."

His gray hair was combed down over one eye, padding was added to his waist and he wore a loose-fitting suit.

The idea of the Darrow movies appeals to Fonda, but he said he is not anxious to return in another series after two unpleasant encounters with "The Deputy" and "The Smith Family."

"I don't mind the work," he said. "But I sure hate fighting the producers."

His most recent series, "The Smith Family," left Fonda with a bitter taste in his mouth.

"The idea was to show a cop as a real human being. I thought it was a good idea.

"What I didn't realize was this was being done by the men who had done 'Family Affair' and 'My Three Sons.' When I saw the first script I went into a state of shock.

"I left a movie location in Oregon to fly down to talk to the producers. I thought they got the message, but they never did."

What Fonda had believed was to be a realistic series turned into a maudlin mess.

Next May, he hopes to work in a film for the first time with his daughter Jane and son Peter.

Jane has been working with a historian for the past year on a story of the American Revolution.

"It'll be a saga and it'll be expensive," he said. "but Jane is smart enough to know if she can persuade Henry and Peter she can raise the money."

Young Suicides Called Epidemic

BERKELEY (UPI) — Suicide among young Americans is increasing by almost epidemic proportions and the illegal use of drugs is mostly to blame, a University of California behavioral scientist has reported.

And, Richard Seiden of the UC School of Public Health, said "factors such as excessive violence in films and television should not be casually dismissed."

Seiden said that from 1945 to 1969 an average of 4.8 out of every 100,000 young persons took their lives. But, he said, from 1970 to 1972 the rate jumped 92 per cent — to 9.2 out of every 100,000 persons.

He said the current trend was part of "a tragic and unchecked epidemic of violent deaths."

And The 'Corpse' Answered Back

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP — Four homicide detectives and six patrolmen were sent to investigate a train dispatcher's report of a body lying on a flatcar.

"A lieutenant who climbed aboard the flatcar turned white as a ghost when the man's head rose and the 'corpse' asked, 'Where am I?'" a detective said.

The man, very much alive, had been drinking in Erie, Pa., and had jumped on the flatcar to sleep it off, police said.

ABC Executive Giving Awards Show Some Class

NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC News is making a concerted effort to take show business hoopla out of next week's Emmy awards for news and documentaries.

There won't be any sequined starlets or acceptance speeches buttered with ham. And if the network is lucky, the 90-minute show will have all the decorum of the "ABC Evening News."

"The Emmys for entertainment have a gaudy, low-cut gown and powerful show business atmosphere about them," said Howard Enders, the man in charge of taking the tinsel out of the next Wednesday's show. "Ours tends to reflect a sober side of televison for the most part. We want to show broadcast journalism in the best possible light."

Enders' duties will not be easy. The upcoming awards will deal with many tragic events during the past 15 months: the Middle East war, the oil crisis and Watergate to name only a few.

In all, there are 40 nominations for awards for news and documentary and news broadcaster. There are 64 nominations for craft, religious and children's programing for the period March 19, 1973 to June 30, 1974.

Among those nominated are ABC anchorman Harry Reasoner, CBS' "60 Minutes" and NBC's "Nightly News."

Enders has a problem. He must present a dignified show that is also entertaining. So he must walk a sort of tightrope. On one side is show business, the other news. If he leans in one direction, he risks being thought of as "M. Box Office." If he leans the other way, the show could become too pompous.

Therefore he will set the stage with a few laughs, namely with Dick Cavett, perhaps the classiest comic in the business. He went to Yale. Oddly enough Cavett was an Emmy winner during the last round of awards, but refused to accept it because his name was not announced on the air.

"Cavett's bright and charming," said Enders, "and he understands news and news people. I think he has the intelligence to deal with the world of entertainment with dignity.

"He's not a comic in the Hollywood tradition. He's not Johnny Carson!"

Cavett will do several monologues to keep the show from becoming too ponderous. But the highlight of the show will be a series of fast-paced mini documentaries that will capsulize each category of the awards.

"This isn't just a news show," said Enders, who also is the producer-director of "Americans All." "It's all the parts of television. We are going to be entertaining for 90 minutes.

"But there will be no acceptance speeches."

Mexicali Valley Suffers Under Hot Sun, Colorado River Salt

MEXICALI, Mexico (AP) — The Mexicali Valley is a hot, dusty place where only snakes and other desert creatures can survive without water brought in by canal from the Colorado River.

It takes a hardy person to withstand the frequent 130-degree temperatures, swirling dust and winds coming off the Sonora Desert that kick up stinging sand and leave lips dry and cracked.

Juan Virreal, 44, is one of perhaps 200,000 peasants living in the triangular-shaped valley whose base hugs the California border and whose apex to the south touches the Gulf of California.

Virreal leaned against a tree, closed his eyes against the dazzling brightness of the sun and wondered if he could wait three or four more years for the wonderful fruit of diplomacy to blossom.

The United States has agreed to build a $67-million desalting plant in Arizona to prevent U.S. salt contamination of the Colorado river from further injuring Mexicali Valley fields and pastures.

The plant will not be finished at least until 1980. The United States, in the meantime, is sending low salinity water to the Mexicali Valley from U.S. water storage areas.

But Mexican authorities say it will be at least three or four years before good water will be able to cleanse the valley of the salt, which is visible up to six inches deep in the earth.

"Three or four years is a long time to wait when your belly is rumbling from hunger and you're having to borrow money from the bank just to buy the family some beans," Virreal said.

"What can we do but wait. Sometimes the families here eat only one meal a day. We were not poor before the salt came. We ate three good meals a day. Now the children sometimes cry because there is not enough to eat.

"If it were not for the government banks we would be finished. They at least loan us money for seeds and to buy beans and tortillas to keep us alive."

Virreal, like most of the other farmers in the Mexicali Valley, lives on a government-awarded collective farm, called an ejido, on which each family uses up to 44 acres.

Government officials and businessmen say the Mexicali Valley's farmers once did well by Mexican standards.

"It wasn't unusual for a family to make more than $8,000 a year and to buy a new car every four or five years," said one official. "Many of them would have refrigerators and television, but now they owe a lot of money to the banks and can't even get money to put a new roof on the house."

Government officials say that insects and poor prices for crops have also meant economic hardship to the valley's farmers.

The salt problem began in 1961 when crops started failing, officials say. The neat rows of cotton were interrupted by grayish areas where nothing would grow. The barren spots grew larger the next year, and the cotton did not grow as tall as before.

Government chemists were called in to test the soil. They found a high concentration of salt.

Tests of the water in the canals coming from the Colorado River showed salinity had increased from the normal 850 parts per million to about 3,000 parts per million. Sea water is about 35,000 parts per million.

The United States was drawing water from the Colorado River to wash salt from the Wellton-Mohawk Valley in southern Arizona. The highly saline drainoff was being returned to the Colorado just before it crossed into Mexico.

The salt was swept into the Mexicali Valley's canals and spread over the valley's fields.

The United States responded to initial complaints by the Mexicans by saying that there was no real proof that salinity had increased.

The United States also claimed that poor farming practices by the Mexicans — slash and burn tactics, overuse of the land — were hurting the farmer's incomes more than anything.

Tiny Tot Instructor Wanted In Novato

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department is seeking an instructor for its tiny tot program, according to recreation supervisor Bonnie Kehoe.

The part-time job, 24 to 30 hours a week, pays $2.60 an hour and the department is seeking someone more than 18 years of age who has experience working with pre-school children, she said. Those interested must apply at the department office, 917 Sherman Avenue by next Friday.

TONIGHT'S TELEVISION

Unusual on television tonight:

KPIX (5), 10 p.m. — "The Frightening Feeling You're Going to Die," a documentary drama based on the lives of three heart disease victims who are unsuspecting of their disease problems — a socially active woman, a business executive and a transportation superintendent.

KTVU (2), 11 p.m. — "The Miss Peace International Pageant 1974," will be the first of three outstanding special events to be televised during the three day Labor Day holiday. The pageant will feature 60 international contestants who will be introduced by Lee Majors and Elke Sommer.

Press Code Of Conduct Under Study

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A proposed code of conduct to prevent the type of "carnival" that occurred last month when police thought they had missing heiress Patricia Hearst surrounded will be released Sept. 15 instead of today, it has been reported.

President John Babcock of the Radio and Television News Association, which has been studying the voluntary code for television and radio journalists, said the RTNA's board of directors is still studying a number of proposals.

He said a ratification meeting will be held the second week in September.

"We are moving slowly but deliberately on the issues because the guidelines have aroused interest from organizations such as the National Press Council, the Overseas Press Club and the Department of Justice in Washington," Babcock said.

"Since there is evidence that our voluntary guidelines may wind up as a litmus test to be studied and adopted by others across the nation, we want to be sure that we deliberate and distill these guidelines into workable and meaningful form before presenting them publicly."

He said the guidelines will encompass such areas as news embargoes, news coverage of police stakeouts and how reporters and camera crews should conduct themselves at the scenes of breaking news stories.

The move for a set of guidelines followed a police stakeout in North Hollywood on July 24 when police believed for a time they had cornered Miss Hearst who was kidnaped nearly seven months ago by the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army and later joined its ranks.

The stakeout was described by a police spokesman as a "carnival" scene in which newsmen and camera crews became involved in the coverage.

EXPLAINS HAZARD — Richard Simpson, chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, demonstrates the soft, flexible plastic cover of an electric light socket assembly which the commission says is potentially dangerous and could cause fatal electrical shock. A federal judge in Washington, D.C., yesterday called in the news media for publicity to warn the public about the troubled light.

(UPI Telephoto)

A Joint Effort To Tell Light Hazard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge, a government commission, a manufacturer and a number of distributors joined today in a novel effort to warn the public against a household light that can give potentially fatal electric shocks.

The warning was being made in a news conference —with a visual demonstration for television — ordered yesterday by Chief Judge George L. Hart Jr. of the U.S. District Court.

Hart authorized a statement in his name pointing out the "extraordinary hazard" involved and personally called the news vice presidents of the three networks as well as news directors in Washington bureaus to request publicity for the problem.

In so doing he deferred action on a request from the Consumer Product Safety Commission that the distributors be forced to buy time on network television and in most of the nation's newspapers to run ads outlining the hazard.

Hart told a court hearing yesterday that that approach might take too much time. He recessed the case until next Tuesday to determine if today's publicity effort will be sufficient.

The commission's lawyers told Hart that previous tries at publicity by the defendants — A.K. Electronics of Brooklyn, the manufacturer, and scores of retailers —resulted in only spotty coverage.

The public relations firm hired by those involved claimed there had been virtual saturation coverage.

At one point during the hearing Hart held one of the lights up and called it a "death trap."

An estimated 186,000 of the lights are on the market or already sold, and anyone who has one should return it to the store where it was bought.

The light retailed for about $1.50 and was sold nationwide by such stores as E.J. Korvette, Woolco, Zayre and J.J. Newberry before a previous court order from Hart halted all sales.

It has a soft plastic handle which when grasped firmly allows the user's fingers to come into contact with live wires. One fatality has been associated with it.

Resort Developers Beat Coastal Permit Procedure

UKIAH (UPI) — The developers of a motel-restaurant in Mendocino have challenged successfully the state coastal commission's permit procedure in a landmark case on the regional level.

Superior Court Judge Tim O'Brien ruled that the commission's denial of a building permit in the case was "without due process of law, invalid and unconstitutional."

In responding to Wednesday's court decision, Commission Chairman Melvin Lane said yesterday that the ruling was significant on the regional level, if not statewide.

Lane said builders have challenged the commission's "quasi-legislative" handling of permit matters, arguing that they warrant more substantial hearings.

In Wednesday's decision, O'Brien noted that the developers of the Coach House, Monte and Barbara Reed, were allowed only 10 minutes to present their case.

The Reeds acquired a nine-acre parcel on a coastal strip in 1972. The Northcoast Regional Commission granted a building permit after an extended hearing.

Moses Malone Can't Be Blamed For Turning Pro

Academia Abandoned By Youth

NEW YORK (UPI) — Moses Malone, a 6-foot-11 youth noted for his quickness, took the money and ran.

He hardly could have been expected to do otherwise.

So yesterday afternoon Malone abandoned academia for the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association and an unspecified amount of money. Although the specific sum was a tightly-guarded secret, the guessing starts at $1 million and works its way up.

For a 19-year-old whose mother has struggled to eke out a meager living for the two of them in Petersburg, Va., there was no way to turn down that kind of money.

Mrs. Mary Malone, Moses' petite (approximately 5-foot-2) mother, for years had earned an annual income estimated around $3,500 working as a night attendant at an old folks home.

The family income had increased to slightly more than $5,000, though, when she began working at the check-out counter of a local supermarket.

It is not easy to feed and clothe a growing boy on that kind of salary, especially when he keeps growing ... and growing ... and growing.

But the Stars will foot those bills from now on and they started with Malone's arrival here for the signing at a news conference.

Malone arrived in his customary basketball sneakers and the Stars took him out to buy a pair of dress black shoes.

It was an amusing anecdote but Mrs. Malone resented insinuations Moses' sneakers were his only pair of shoes.

"I always kept shoes on his feet and clothes on his back," Mrs. Malone said proudly.

Malone had been scheduled to begin classes at the University of Maryland last Wednesday. But the Stars made their big offer last week and Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell futilely attempted to dissuade Malone from turning pro.

Driesell did prevail upon Malone to seek a lawyer's counsel on the Stars' offer and the Washington, D.C., law firm of Dell, Craighill and Fentress advised him without charge.

Lee Fentress said his initial advise was to go to Maryland for a year, experiencing college life and basketball for a year before becoming eligible for the NBA hardship draft.

But after a couple of days negotiations, Fentress said, "The contract came to the point where it was a very difficult decision." It was a decision Malone made on his own.

He was strongly influenced by a five-year desire to become the first modern day player to go straight from high school to the pros. The only other player to make the jump was Joe Graboski of the old National Basketball Association Indianapolis Olympians in the early Fifties.

Malone's contract includes a house or apartment for his mother.

As for his own plans, Malone said he had no definite plans for his new-found wealth.

"I just want to be happy," Malone said. Asked what makes him happy, Malone replied, "Doin' things."

Now he can afford to do a lot of things, just about anything.

Walsh Vs. King Today In Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Sharon Walsh of San Rafael coasted to victory in the opening round of the U.S. Open tennis championships, but today's match promised to be more challenging for her.

After defeating Robin Tenney of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-3, Miss Walsh was to meet three-time Forest Hills champion and pro star Billie Jean King.

Mrs. King, the driving force behind World Team Tennis in its first year and a rare visitor to the tournament circuit this season, beat Isabel Fernandez of Columbia, 6-2, 6-2.

Two other Marin County players, Bob Lutz of Tiburon and Rosemary Casals of Sausalito, won first round matches. Lutz beat Ray Ruffels of Australia, 6-7, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 and Miss Casals dropped Barbara Downs of Alama, Ca., 6-2, 6-2.

Bjorn Borg, the nerveless Swedish child prodigy of world tennis whose good looks and shot-making have melted many a female heart, defeated Victor Amaya in four erratic sets in the first round.

A record second day crowd of 13,128 fans came out, hoping to see the first act of the "Chris and Jimmy show," but rain upset the script and kept Jimmy Connors in the locker room, so he should be well recovered from his stomach trouble when he takes the court Friday against Jeff Borowiak.

Borg, at 18 the youngest winner of the U.S. pro title, beat Amaya of Holland, Mich., 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 in a match interrupted 50 minutes by rain. Bjorn's form was erratic as he attempted to adjust to the fast grass.

Chris Evert, who forgot her tennis dress, and Evonne Goolagong, who was just happy to be out in the open air again, both scored comfortable matches.

Chris, winner at Wimbledon, France and Italy this year, had little trouble in defeating Gail Chanfreau of France 6-1, 6-1, for her 52nd straight victory, while Evonne, her main rival among the new generation of players, beat Jeannie Evert 6-3, 6-0.

PUTTING OUT THE FIRE

Mark Kellar of the Chicago Fire (31), went down in the arms of Birmingham's Dick Trower after taking a handoff in the second quarter last night in Chicago. The Americans won their eighth straight World Football League game, 22-8.

Kingman Willing To Let Bygones Be Bygones Now

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dave Kingman is willing to let bygones be bygones and think instead of the present and the future.

Kingman has had his hitting difficulties since coming up to the major leagues with the San Francisco Giants three seasons ago. He's been able to hit home runs but hardly anything else. That has stopped his progress, plus a strong case of stubbornness.

Dave showed the "new" Kingman to the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday when he drove in two of his team's three runs, one on a long homer and the other on a solid single, in a 3-2 victory in 11 innings.

The three hits gave him eight in his last 13 at-bats and brought a smile to Manager Wes Westrum's face.

"If he just makes contact with the ball," Westrum said, "he is going to hit his share of homers. Up until now, though, we've had a hard time trying to convince him to cut back on his swing. Now, though, he seems to have come around and if he keeps on going the way he is, I think I've found myself a first baseman for next year."

Kingman agreed with Westrum about his changed swing.

"I'm not pulling the trigger as fast," he said, "and maybe this way I'll get a few more hits. I know now I'll still hit my share of homers. As for my past problems, I don't want to talk about them. I'm only interested in what's left of this season and the one ahead."

Ron Bryant pitched seven-plus strong innings yesterday before being replaced by Elias Sosa, who gave up the tying run in the ninth on Willie Stargell's 21st homer.

The Giants then won it in the 11th on a single by Gary Matthews, a sacrifice, an intentional walk and Kingman's line drive single to left.

Randy Moffitt, who retired one batter in the top of the 11th, was the winner and Dave Giusti lost for Pittsburgh.

The Pirates are in Los Angeles tonight for the start of a weekend series while the Giants host St. Louis.

Setback Is Seen For America's Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Gale warnings on the seas off Newport were expected to cancel today's trials between Intrepid and Courageous as the two yachts fight for the nomination to defend the U.S.'s America's Cup title.

Intrepid, successful defender of the cup in 1967 and 1970, won her third consecutive race over Courageous yesterday knotting the series between the two at four wins each.

The closeness of the series has made the selection of a U.S. representative a difficult decision, according to New York Yacht Club officials, who must chose a U.S. representative by Tuesday.

In yesterday's race, Courageous crossed the starting line 24 seconds ahead of Intrepid, but ran into soft wind 10 tacks into the opening leg and fell behind.

Intrepid rounded the first marker 1:01 ahead of the aluminum-hulled challenger aand maintained the lead about two-thirds of the way through the second leg. The wind then shifted about 15 degrees to the north, and Courageous switched to another spinnaker and managed to pick up two seconds.

Intrepid increased its lead to 2:02 on the second leg and maintained it until the fourth leg, the second windward run, when Courageous picked up 26 seconds, to trail by 1:26.

The two boats then sailed straight down the wind, with Intrepid increasing its lead again, this time to 1:48.

Courageous used another 20-degree wind shift to the north to cut 56 seconds from Intrepid's lead on the final leg.

J.C. Snead Ties Atlanta Golf Record Despite 'Stupid Shot'

ATLANTA (UPI) — J.C. Snead now shares the course record at the Atlanta County Club, but if he hadn't missed a "stupid" putt, he would hold the record outright.

In a round twice interrupted by rain, Snead shot an eight-under-par 64 yesterday for the first day lead in the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Championship (TPC).

After bogeying the first hole he played, Snead ran off five consecutive birdies, parred his seventh hole, and then birdied the next two for a score of 30 on the first nine. He picked up three birdies and a bogey coming back, playing the first nine holes of the course.

Action ended for the day because of a thunderstorm just after Snead's finish, and approximately 45 players start at 8 a.m. today, to finish their first round. The only player who appeared to have a chance to catch Snead was Charles Coody, who was five under par with four holes remaining in his first round.

Playing with intermittent showers and thunder rolling in the distance, Snead tried to rush an 18-inch putt as play was halting on his next-to-last hole.

"It cost me a shot," he said. "There is no excuse to ever miss a foot-and-a-half putt, especially when it's up a slope without a break."

Tom Evans, the Louisiana State student who will be 26 Monday, was a surprise starter but shot a 65 for second place.

GETTING EVEN — After sinking a long chip shot from a bunker, Lee Trevino stuck out his tongue at a spectator who had teased him before the shot during yesterday's first round of the Tournament Players Championship in Atlanta.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

A Plan In Works To Benefit Otter

The Department of Fish and Game has announced details of a proposed sea otter research and management plan that would restrict the otters' range in California and provide for live-trapping and translocating animals found outside the prescribed limits.

Other elements of the plan submitted for approval to the Department of the Interior include consideration of the reintroduction of otters into areas outside of the recommended range, their placement in scientific institutions for research, studies of the impact of human activity on otter and strict enforcement of federal law protecting the animals.

DETAILS OF the plan are contained in a formal proposal submitted to federal authorities requesting apermit for the work and 50 percent funding of project costs that would run to more than $100,000 for the first year.

The Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 placed sea otters under the jurisdiction of the U.S. government — thus the need for the federal permit.

The suggested area to which the otters would be restricted is about 150 miles of coastline between Seaside, Monterey County, and Cayucos, San Luis Obispo County, where virtually all of the state's estimated 1,600 to 1,800 otter now range.

ABOUT 150 otters that are known to be outside of the suggested range now would be trapped and translocated. There would be follow-up trapping of the estimated 50 animals that stray from the area each year.

Department of Fish and Game Director Ray Arnett said that the management proposal recognizes the importance of the sea otter to California. Otters were nearly extinct along the coast at the turn of the century when they came under state protection.

The proposal emphasizes the department's intention to "continue to maintain and protect a viable population" of sea otters in central California coastal waters.

"IT IS ALSO our intention to protect the sport and commercial shellfisheries that will be lost by the foraging of an uncontrolled sea otter population," the proposal states.

Already the otter range beyond the recommended limits, and the range is expanding each year.

The porposal to restrict the range originated in a recently released Department of Fish and Game report on a five-year study that was aimed at providing some relief to the commercial abalone fishery in the Cambria-Point Estero area north of Morro Bay, San Luis Obispo County.

THIS FISHERY subsequently collapsed along with other commercial and sport abalone and sport crab fisheries throughout the range of the otter because of continued otter foraging.

The recommended range was selected because it prime sea otter habitat — broad, shallow bottom areas with extensive kelp beds and a rugged shoreline with coves, points and projecting rocks and reefs. The water quality is good, and there are areas of protection for the ottter during storms. This area also has little boat traffic, a major cause of otter deaths in the northern part of the range.

As part of the management plan, the Fish and Game will evaluate areas outside of the recommended range as relocation sites.

HIGHEST priority will be given to the reintroduction of sea otter onto their original range, second priority to their placement with educational and scientific institutions for study and last priority to placement for public display.

The proposed first year budget for implementing the recommendations lists elements of law enforcement, containment and research, and public information. Marine wardens would spend an estimated 100 hours monthly on the project, and the equivalent of three persons would be assigned to research and containment work.

Salaries and benefits would cost an estimated $70,397, operational expenses would come to $22,644 and equipment would cost $4,000. An overhead item of $12,130 is included in the $109,171 projected total cost of the program for the first year.

THINGS ARE looking up for the local bass trollers. Sam Knoles, along with Rex and Chick Morgan and John Fracchia landed eight stripers, six to 14 pounds, trolling the incoming tide off California City on Tuesday.

After a slow three or four weeks, fishing has erupted on San Pablo Bay. Both drifters and trollers have been having success landing five to 15-pounders. Drifting at buoys near the Brothers has been especially good.

Strike Issues Unresolved

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Football League strike, or non-strike, is nearly two months old, the start of the regular season is just over two weeks away, and some very key issues are far from settled.

Foremost is the Rozelle Rule: when a player plays out his option to become a free agent and signs with another club, if the two teams cannot agree on compensation, the decision is up to Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, reiterated the owners' opposition to elimination of the Rozelle Rule at a press conference yesterday.

"The Rozelle Rule is very closely tied to our system," said Thompson, "and we are asking the players to accept our system. We will modify it, but we will not eliminate it."

The players, however, say this inhibits their freedom to negotiate and that clubs are wary of signing free agents because they do not know what Rozelle will make them give up as compensation.

Thompson, meanwhile, called the offer which the NFLMC submitted to the players Tuesday, and which was rejected by the NFL Players Association, "very close to a bottom-line offer."

That offer included modification — but not elimination — of the Rozelle Rule.

Besides that disagreement, Thompson indicated that the length of the contract has become another major stumbling block.

"We need a four-year contract," said Thompson, "but the players want one or two years."

More than a few veterans have expressed disappointment at the way their union has handled the dispute, particularly the "cooling-off period" originally called Aug. 14 and extended earlier this week.

Meanwhile, there was no indication when union and management might return to the bargaining table. Chief federal mediator W. J. Usery Jr. presently is involved in a mining dispute and unavailable for an indefinite period.

In the games tonight, Green Bay is at Miami, Detroit is at Buffalo, and Pittsburgh meets Washington.

Tomorrow, Philadelphia will face the New York Giants at Princeton, N.J.; Denver will meet New England at Spokane, Wash.; Baltimore will be at Atlanta; Minnesota at St. Louis; Kansas City at Dallas; the New York Jets at New Orleans; Los Angeles at San Diego, and Chicago at Houston.

Cincinnati and Cleveland will play at Columbus, Ohio, on Sunday and Oakland will be at San Francisco in a nationally televised game Monday night.

Spirits Of St. Louis Gain ABA Rights To Robertson

Combined AP & UPI

ST. LOUIS — The Spirits of St. Louis of the American Basketball Association have obtained the negotiating rights to Oscar Robertson.

Robertson, a 36-year-old veteran of 14 seasons in the National Basketball Association, became a free agent Aug. 1 when the Milwaukee Bucks failed to offer him a contract for the coming season. If signed by the Spirits, he could play this season.

The Bucks are still negotiating with Robertson but reportedly don't want to give him a no-cut, no-trade contract and the salary he is demanding. His last contract called for $250,000 a season.

More Basketball

INDIANAPOLIS — The Indiana Pacers and George McGinnis yesterday came to an agreement on a new two-year contract, ending speculation that the American Basketball Association superstar would sit out his option year and sign with a National Basketball Association team.

BUFFALO, N.Y. — The Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association yesterday acquired center Dale Schlueter from the Atlanta Hawks in a straight cash deal.

Football

CHICAGO — Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, the onetime Chicago Bear center who made it to the football Hall of Fame, was in serious condition yesterday following what doctors said was a possible stroke. Turner, 55, collapsed Wednesday night in the lobby of the Landers Hyatt Chalet Hotel in suburban Elk Grove Village. He was taken by ambulance to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, Ill., where he was placed in intensive care.

CARLISLE, Pa. — Washington Redskins' coach George Allen met with running back Duane Thomas for several hours yesterday in the aftermath of Thomas' release from the club Monday night.

Hockey

NEW YORK — The New York Rangers yesterday acquired veteran left winger Greg Polis from the St. Louis Blues for defenseman Larry Sacharuk and a first-round selection in the 1976 or 1977 National Hockey League draft.

Track-Field

ROME — The International Amateur Athletics Federation today voted to continue its ban on South African track and field athletes competing in major competition.

Auto Racing

PARIS — The International Automobile Racing Commission said today the Formula Two Race at Estoril, Portugal, will be run Oct. 27. The race, counting toward the European formula two championship, was due to be held March 10, but it was put off because of the energy crisis.

A'S WANT ANOTHER LOOK AT EAST TEAM

DETROIT (UPI) — The schedule says that Oakland's three-game series opening tonight at Detroit is their last look at Eastern Division opponents. But the A's hope the schedule is wrong.

That's because the A's, who lead Kansas City by 5½, would like to face the East's best in the American League playoffs.

But their regular schedule matches them with Western Division foes over their final 28 games, including five with the Royals.

Ken Holtzman, who has won three straight, will be looking for win No. 16 tonight against Lerrin LaGrow (8-14). The A's have Vida Blue and Catfish Hunter ready to go for the Weekend matchups with the Tigers. The A's have won four of their last five. They were idle yesterday.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Winning Is Priority For Curtis

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

For John Curtis it's a question of priorities; for the St. Louis Cardinals it's a question of survival.

Curtis, six outs away from a perfect game, settled for a one-hitter last night and pinch-hitter Jim Dwyer's two out single in the ninth inning broke a 1-1 tie as the Cardinals beat the San Diego Padres 3-1.

The victory moved the Cards to within a half game of the Pittsburgh Pirates who dropped a 3-2, 11-inning decision to the San Francisco Giants.

Curtis, 8-12, set down the first 21 batters without the semblance of a hit before he walked Dave Winfield leading off the eighth. After Clarence Gaston sacrificed Winfield to second, Derrel Thomas walked. Dave Hilton flied deep to right, Winfield going to third after the catch, and he scored on Fred Kendall's single to tie the game at 1-1.

Curtis, who came to St. Louis from Boston in an off-season deal, was not overly concerned that he had lost his no-hit bid.

"I had a ball game to win, not a no-hitter to pitch," said Curtis. "I wasn't too let down."

Actually, this season has been a big disappointment for Curtis, who was demoted to the bullpen in mid-season. "When you're 8-12 you can't be too selective of your victories," Curtis added.

Curtis tried to pitch around Winfield in the eighth and it cost him. But the walk, which broke up his bid for a perfect game, didn't seem to matter to Curtis either.

"Maybe I was a bit too careful," he said. "It didn't bother me too much." Winfield had beaten Curtis with a homer in San Diego's 1-0 victory on June 7.

In the ninth, Larry Hardy, who had taken over at the start of the inning for Randy Jones, retired the first two batters. He then gave up successive singles to Bake McBride, Ken Reitz, Dwyer and Mike Tyson to account for the final St. Louis runs.

In other National League games Los Angeles trimmed Chicago 3-1, New York blanked Houston 7-0, San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 3-2 in 11 innings and Atlanta tripped Montreal 7-2. In the American League Boston edged Chicago 3-2 and Baltimore whipped Texas 6-2.

Dodgers 3, Cubs 1

Andy Messersmith and Mike Marshall combined for a three-hit victory and Los Angeles became the first club in the major league's this season to pass the two million mark in attendance as the Dodgers topped Chicago for their fifth victory in a row.

The Dodgers pulled 3 ½ games ahead of idle Cincinnati. Ground outs by Steve Garvey and Steve Yeager brought the first two runs home and then Bill Buckner scored in the third on a single by Garvey and an error by second baseman Rob Sperring on a cutoff play.

Mets 7, Astros 0

The Mets gave Tom Seaver a run in the first when Bud Harrelson led off with a double, went to third on Felix Millan's perfect bunt single and scored as Ted Martinez bounced into a force play.

The Mets added three more runs in the third inning off loser Dave Roberts, 9-11, when Harrelson walked and Millan and Martinez followed with consecutive triples. Rusty Staub drove in the final run of the inning with a sacrifice fly.

Braves 7, Expos 2

Ralph Garr's three-run homer in the third helped power the Braves over Montreal.

Red Sox 3, White Sox 2

Relief specialist Diego Segui choked off Chicago rallies in the seventh and eighth innings as the Red Sox beat White Sox ace Wilbur Wood.

Orioles 6, Rangers 2

Tommy Davis drove in three runs and scored another to help the Orioles break a four-game losing streak with a win over Texas.

EXPLANATION — Empire Hank Morgenweck voiced his side of the story in an argument with Red Sox manager Darrell Johnson in the seventh inning last night in Chicago. Morgenweck ruled Boston outfielder Dwight Evans dropped Pat Kelly's fly ball for a two base error. The decision held, but Boston won, 3-2.

Status For Cunningham Is Unclear

GOLETA, Calif. (UPI) — San Francisco 49er running back Doug Cunningham won't know until next week just how serious a back injury he sustained in a collision with Willie Lanier of Kansas City last Saturday night.

One doctor told him he had a compressed vertebrae and should wear a brace, the veteran from Mississippi said, but team physician Lloyd Milburn wants to study the X-rays next week.

"I saw Lanier coming," Cunningham recalled. "I thought I'd hit him, I'd run right over him. Anyway, I hit him. My rear end ended up over my head and I folded up like an accordian."

He said he knew the injury was serious when he was unable to move faster than a walk in practice the next day. Now he admits that the injury could force him out for the season, which might mean an end to his career.

Coach Dick Nolan said that rookie Delvin Williams from Kansas will replace Cunningham next Monday against Oakland. Larry Schreiber will open at fullback and Steve Spurrier at quarterback with Gene Washington and Danny Abramowitz at wide receivers.

Matuszak Case Gets Court Date

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Texans, giving up legal efforts to allow former National Football League defensive tackle John Matuszak to play against Hawaii this weekend, are concentrating on a courtroom showdown one day before Houston plays Memphis next Saturday.

Attorneys for Matuszak, the second-year Houston Oiler until he jumped his five-year contract to sign with the World Football League Texans, will go to start district court Friday, Sept. 5, to argue their right to the 6-foot-8, 282-pound star.

"Our argument is based on an interpretation of his Oiler contract," Texans' owner Steve Arnold said yesterday. "Should the court decide that our interpretation is invalid, meaning his contract is binding, we certainly intend for him to honor it."

Judge George Miller will preside at the hearing called to decide whether to make permanent a temporary restraining order handed Matuszak on the Texans' bench earlier this week.

Matuszak, the No. 1 draft choice out of Tampa University in 1973, flew with the Texan team to Hawaii yesterday. Before departing he sounded pessimistic about his future.

"I hope this thing isn't settled in court," he said. "I don't know if I'll go back to the Oilers, even if that's the only team I'm told I can play for."

The temporary court order filed by Houston Oilers Inc. was in effect until Sept. 5. Presumably until then Matuszak will continue to practice with the Texans.

Oiler Coach Sid Gillman, whose strict training camp was apparently one reason Matuszak left, said every day Matuszak was away from the Huntsville, Tex., camp it was costing him.

"All I intend to do is punch the cash register and add $500 to Matuszak's fines each time he misses a meeting or a practice," Gillman said. The total was $3,000 through yesterday.

Oiler owner K.S. "Bud" Adams said when Matuszak returned to Huntsville—and Adams had no doubt he would—Matuszak might not be the only one to pay.

"I'm glad he wasn't injured, Adams said of the Wednesday night game where Matuszak played five snaps. "Besides being a good player, our organization has a lot of money invested in John. I'd hate to ask for damages if he got hurt."

Although reaction from some Oiler players was approving, Matuszak's move for a bigger salary—the Texans gave him $1 million over six years—drew some head shaking.

"I don't think he'll get away with it," Oiler standout defensive end Elvin Bethea said.

Equally as puzzled was Matuszak's attorney, Bob Woolf, who was not informed of the jump. It was "agent" Gary Kaposta who represented Matuszak when the announcement came Wednesday.

Adams answered charges yesterday the contract was faulty.

"I understand John said the Oilers hadn't lived up to the contract," Adams said. "Mr. Woolf is John's attorney and he disagrees with that. He told me the Oilers had fully honored John's contract."

Swim Fans To Find Out How Much East Germans Improved

CONCORD, Calif. (UPI) — As recently as a year ago, when an American team showed up for an international swimming meet, there was no doubt who would wind up with the most gold medals.

But this is 1974 and no longer is the United States head and shoulders above the pack. In fact, it is barely better, and some think it isn't at all, than East Germany, a country on the rise in the pool sport.

Everyone finds out for sure this weekend at the Concord Community Park Pool, a facility that helped produce eight world records in the U.S. Nationals last weekend, when the United States hosts East Germany in a return dual meet.

The Germans come to the meet off a very strong showing in the 1973 World Championships at Belgrade and a sweeping, record-busting triumph in the 1974 European Championships at Vienna last week.

Whether by design or simply because they take a more realistic view, the East Germans say they will not beat the Americans this weekend, but they promise a fine show anyway.

"We are not yet ready to beat the United States in a dual meet," says East German Coach Kark Schramme. "We will give them a close fight but they will wind up beating us."

U.S. coach Flip Darr, who showed his concern and respect for the East Germans during last weekend's Nationals, isn't making any predictions.

"It should be a fine competitive show," says Darr. "I don't know who will win and neither do I care to make any predictions. It's up to our kids whether we win or not. There is little I can do to make it come out either way."

Since there are only 12 men and 12 women on each side for the 29 events (exclusive of diving), how each coach lines up his talent will play a major part in the eventual outcome. There will be four swimmers in each of the individual events, two from each side.

The coaches have until two events before each actual race to name their entries. That means there will be a lot of juggling and maneuvering to keep the other side from guessing who the No. 2 swimmer will be.

The two countries held their first dual meet in 1971 at Leipzig, and in that one the United States won 25 of 29 events for a 221-123 victory.

There are only two returnees from that team on the U.S. side this year—world 200 and 400 meter freestyle record holder Shirley Babashoff of Mission Viejo, Calif., and American 100 meter freestyle record holder Kim Peyton of Portland, Ore.

The East Germans have five returnees — Rosemarie Kother, the world record holder in the 100 meter butterfly, Renate Vogel, who held the world record in the 100 meter breaststroke for a couple of days last week, Gudrun Wegner, Wolfram Sperling and diver Falk Hoffmann.

The U.S., led by Tim Shaw and Steve Furniss of Long Beach, Calif., John Hencken of Santa Clara, Calif., and John Naber of Menlo Park, Calif., is expected to dominate the men's competition, while the East Germans should win the majority of titles in the women's events, or so it would appear at the moment.

Mill Valley Cricket Star In Lineup

Richard Webb of Mill Valley, a former Cambridge cricket player, will be in the lineup over the weekend when the United States meets Canada in this year's renewal of their 130-year-old series.

The three-day match (game) will be played at Stanford University in Palo Alto tomorrow at 1 p.m. and Sunday and Monday at 11 a.m. Each day's play will last until 7 p.m.

Webb is considered an outstanding bowler and a quick fielder in the "slips" position, near the batsman.

In connection with the U.S.-Canada match, the Marin Cricket Club will meet Hollywood of Los Angeles in an abbreviated, one-day contest Sunday at 11 a.m. on another field at Stanford.

The Marinites also will play tomorrow at 12:30 p.m. against Corinthians of Los Angeles at White Hill School in Fairfax.

2 Amarillo Giants Wounded In Texas Nightclub Incident

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Outfielder Richard Guerra and pitcher David Heaverlo of the Amarillo Giants were wounded and Guerra's older brother shot and killed today in a nightclub incident. Their assailant was sought by police.

John Louis Guerra, 26, died of gunshot wounds to the chest and stomach. He was a local accountant and former all-state baseball player who also coached a women's softball team composed of employees of the nightclub where the shooting occurred.

Richard Guerra, 23, was shot in the left shoulder and doctors said they were having difficulty removing the bullet which jeopardized his baseball career.

Heaverlo, 24, of Moses Lake, Wash., was treated and released for a gunshot wound to the left hand. He is a righthanded pitcher.

Authorities said the shooting occurred a few minutes after the elder Guerra and another man had been involved in an argument and fight inside the club. After the fight ended the other man allegedly went outside the club and began firing through its open front door at the Guerras and Heaverlo.

The Amarillo team was in San Antonio for a Texas League game against the San Antonio Brewers but the game was rained out last night.

Ford Picks Wage-Price Panel Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has named businessman-diplomat Kenneth Rush to head his new antiinflation team and, to no one's surprise, has ruled out a tax increase this year.

Having asked for and received from Congress, authority to set up a relatively powerless Council on Wage and Price Stabiity to monitor inflation, Ford yesterday installed Rush as chairman and filled the remaining seven seats with Cabinet secretaries and top Whie House aides.

The new council has authority to seek out and publicize inflationary wage and price increases, but it can only urge voluntary restraint on the part of business and labor. It cannot order rollbacks as its now-defunct predecessor the Cost of Living Council

Rush, former chairman of Union Carbide Corp., U.S. ambassador to West Germany, and a top State and Defense department official, joined the White House staff in the final months of the Nixon administration as coordinator of economic policy. He continues to hold that assignment for Ford.

On another economic topic, Ford's press secretary J. F. terHorst told reporters yesterday that talk of a tax increase this year was "very unrealistic." With less than six weeks left in the current congressional term, with Chairman Wilbur Mills of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee opposed to the idea and with administration already following a tight fiscal policy, there are "pragmatic reasons" why Ford would not move in this direction now, terHorst said.

While adding that it was "premature" to look to the future, terHorst did not rule out the tax increase option for 1975. "Its the kind of issue a President always has to have before him," he said.

The press aide noted that the State of the Union speech next January would be a logical platform from which Ford could put forward his tax ideas.

United Autoworkers president Leonard Woodcock, after meeting with Ford for 30-minutes yesterday, told reporters he favored a tax boost for wealthy Americans coupled with tax cuts for poor folks and elimination of some business tax benefits. He said Ford listened to his ideas without comment.

Today is Friday, Aug. 30, the 242nd day of 1974 with 123 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury and Mars.

American actors Fred MacMurray and Raymond Massey were born on August 30, the former in 1908 and the latter in 1896.

On this day in history:

In 30 B.C., Cleopatra committed suicide by permitting an asp to bite her.

In 1780, Revolutionary Army Gen. Benedict Arnold betrayed his young country when he promised secretly to surrender the American fort at West Point to the British army. A British spy subsequently was hanged but Arnold escaped.

In 1862, the Union Army commanded by Maj. Gen. John Pope was defeated by Confederate troops in the second Battle of Bull Run.

A thought for the day: American poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said, "Music is the universal language of mankind... poetry their universal pastime and delight."

Shrewd Play Brings About Difficult Slam In Hearts

How would you play today's hand at six spades? "Under an assumed name," you may wish to reply. It's a risky slam, to be sure, but the chances are that we've all been in worse contracts. This sort of hand is often made — if played shrewdly.

Opening lead — ♠ 8

West opened the eight of spades, and South won with the king. South would have traded dummy's red picture cards for the kings of clubs, but something told him that the opponents wouldn't agree to the trade.

How was he to proceed?

Most players would draw the rest of the trumps. This would allow East to signal with a high diamond to show his strength in that suit. The opponents would eventually take the king of clubs and the ace of diamonds.

The actual declarer saw that he had no chance for the slam unless the clubs broke evenly. The only real hope was that the player who took the club trick wouldn't know which red suit to lead.

South therefore led the ace of clubs at the second trick and led a low club at the third trick. This gave the opponents no chance to signal.

West took the king of clubs and had to guess. Which should he lead, a diamond or a heart?

West had left his crystal ball at home, so he had no way of knowing which suit to lead. As it happened, he led a heart, and South made the slam. Declarer won the ace of hearts, drew the rest of the trumps and ran the clubs to discard his losing diamond.

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 8 7 5 2
♥ - J 9 4 2
♦ - K 6 5
♣ - K 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

The hand is strong enough for a response, and it would be awkward to bid one no-trump since it would be difficult to find a fit in hearts or spades. If partner raises to two hearts with weak three-card support, you will have a difficult hand to play but you won't be very high. If partner jumps in hearts he will have good four-card support.

Beefed-Up Keogh Plan More Palatable

By ROGER E. SPEAR AND DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. Are the annual retirement installments under a Keogh Plan tax deductible? Are the income and capital gains also tax-free? G.A.

A. The annual contributions for self-employed people —as well as the dividends and capital gains received on the investments — are accumulated free of tax until they are distributed at retirement. You enter your Keogh contributions as a business deduction from gross income. Assume a $2,500 contribution, if you are in a 39 per cent tax bracket the actual cost to you is only $1,525. One of the biggest attractions of Keogh is dollar averaging, with a compounding of dividends and capital gains tax-free.

A new pension reform bill has been under active consideration in Congress and latest reports are that it is nearing enactment, probably this month. Keogh-type contributions would be increased from 10 per cent to 15 per cent of net earnings, with the maximum contribution being raised from $2,500 to $7,500 per year. Moreover, it would allow a tax free set-aside of 15 per cent of earnings up to $1,500 for anybody who is not now covered by a formal pension plan — not just the self-employed.

Q. I have some shares of McCulloch Oil (ASE). Would you recommend holding? E.M.

A. Although some of the negatives that pushed the share price to this low ebb are behind, others remain, keeping potential investors on the sidelines. A huge debt burden (75 per cent of capitalization), an earnings credibility gap, the slump in housing, and proposed changes in tax laws affecting the oil industry are some of the depressive factors restricting McCulloch.

On the positive side, six-month sales were up 6 per cent, despite an 8.5 per cent decline in the first quarter. Earnings of 26 cents a share (versus two cents in the 1973 first half) included a 14 cents a share gain from prepayment of land contracts and five cents a share from a debenture exchange, leaving seven cents in operating profits. This meets company projections of doubling or tripling 1973 operating income. Shares may be held for speculation.

SWAN, New Woman's Dress Shop, To Open Sept. 9 In San Anselmo

A new women's clothing store called SWAN, featuring sports and evening wear including originals created by the owners themselves, will open at The Hub in San Anselmo on Sept. 9.

It will be located at 2 Greenfield Avenue, around the corner from Tamalpais Theater, in space vacated by Old Time Antiques.

The Swan dress shop will be operated by Carol Rucker and Caroline Ciancutti, both of San Anselmo, who will design their own originals. They will also buy from manufacturers in San Francisco, Southern California and New York. The Swan will carry sports and evening apparel, primarily sizes 8 through 14. It will be open Tuesday through Saturday, and closed on Sunday and Monday. "We plan to use Mondays for sewing and buying," said Mrs. Rucker.

Mrs. Rucker is a former educator who taught at Redwood High School for the past two and one-half years, at San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow for a year, and worked at Bullock's in Los Angeles for two years. She studied design at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Tex., and has design experience.

Mrs. Ciancutti was a research assistant in history at Stanford University for the past two years.

BERNITA BUCKWALTER of Novato has been appointed assistant vice president in Wells Fargo Bank's Trust Division, San Francisco.

Mrs. Buckwalter, formerly operations officer, joined Wells Fargo in 1956 in the data processing division and was assigned to the trust division in 1973.

Stitt

JAMES STITT & Company, advertising designers, has moved to new offices atop the Thomas Lile Building at 145 Natoma Street, San Francisco. The company is headed by James Stitt of Tiburon.

The company's work includes packaging, label design and corporate graphics. Stitt is presently working on advertising and graphic assignments for Sun Resorts Co. of Sun Valley, Idaho, and is working with Steam Beer Brewing Company in San Francisco and with Sonoma Vineyards.

NOVATO ART CENTER, which has been operating at 808 Grant Avenue in Oldtown Novato for seven years, will move next week to its new location in Del Prado Square at 500 Alameda del Prado, Ignacio.

Opening in conjunction with the new Novato Art Center is the Old California Gallery and custom frame shop.

Owners of the Novato Art Center and the Old California Gallery, Shannon and Barbara Murphy, announced that the new location doubles their floor space and allows for increased art inventory and a separate teaching room.

Featured works for September include ceramics by Robert Richards, photography by Ron Munden, etching by Cynthia Klein, and watercolors by Barbara Murphy.

An open house is planned for Sept. 15 from 5 to 9 p.m., with an 8 p.m. program to include discussions by Don Pierce on the "Restoration of Painting" and by Shannon Murphy on "Purchasing Original Art."

Sonoma State Extension offers three evening classes at the new art center on watercolor, etching and oil painting. A full schedule of daytime classes are offered in oil, sketching, watercolor, print making, figure painting sculpture, and several afternoon children's art classes.

ALVINA BURKHARDT of San Rafael, who has been a secretary in the San Francisco offices of Eastman Kodak sinee 1930, retires today after 44 years of continuous service.

She served as secretary to a succession of Kodak executives who have gone on to bigger assignments, including Gerald B. Zornow, now board chairman at the company's headquarters in Rochester, N.Y. She also served as secretary to Wylie B. Robson, executive vice president and general manager of the International Photographic Division of Eastman Kodak; and Frederick S. Welsh, vice president and director of corporate relations.

Miss Burkhardt is a past president of the Executive Secretaries of San Francisco.

BELLA BOUTIQUE, women's dress shop at 3320 Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, will close by the end of September.

The store, operated by Sarah Firpo of Peacock Gap for almost six years, is in the midst of a close-out sale, which started yesterday. "Everything must go, including the fixtures," said Mrs. Firpo. The inventory includes dresses, slacks and other apparel, plus jewelry and handbags.

Mrs. Firpo said she is closing the store because "a beautiful opportunity opened up for me, and it coincides with the expiration of the lease on Oct. 1." She said she cannot disclose her future plans as yet except that she and her husband will continue to live in Peacock Gap.

CONTINENTAL PACIFIC Hotels, a San Francisco-based company headed by president Thomas C. Marshall of Kent Woodlands, has acquired Rossmore House Hotel in Los Angeles.

The acquisition marks the entry by Continental into the luxury retirement hotel field. Continental operates the Continental, Lombard and Victorian hotels in San Francisco.

SNAZELLE FILMS in San Francisco, headed by E. E. Gregg Snazelle of Sausalito, won two medals at the Atlanta International Film Festival this month.

It won a gold medal for "Hospital," a comedy spot produced for the San Francisco Chronicle, and a bronze for "What's Up," an animated commercial for Connie Shoe division of Wohl Shoe Co., St. Louis.

Both commercials were directed and produced by Gregg Snazelle.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

46 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 30, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

What Lies Behind Increase In Crime?

San Rafael residents are taking greater care to lock their doors because of the brutal slaying of Lucy Ann Gilbride, wife of the head counselor of Terra Linda High School, in her home on Tuesday.

Such a crime inevitably produces an atmosphere of fear, most markedly in the neighborhood where it occurs and to lessening degree throughout the city and its surroundings.

It serves to remind us, far more forcefully than the home burglaries which have become so common, that we live in an unsafe society — unsafe even in our own homes, unless the doors and windows are firmly secured.

THERE HAVE always been such crimes. But, until recently, their occurrence was so rare that in communities such as San Rafael, little thought was given to them.

It is only a few years since most of us left our doors unlocked — as Mrs. Gilbride, a friendly, unsuspicious person, reportedly still did. But our society has deteriorated. Home burglaries have become common. And crimes of violence by intruders into homes are much more frequent than a few years ago.

The killing of Mrs. Gilbride recalled that of Nina Fischer at the opposite end of San Rafael last November — a crime that remains unsolved.

It was the third murder in Marin County since July 1. On July 5, James Michael Torry was stabbed to death beside the swimming pool of his Forest Knolls home. On Aug. 25, the body of Gary A. Kirstine, his head crushed, was found beside Fairfax-Bolinas Road above the Meadow Club.

The number appears small compared with the toll of homicides in nearby cities. There were 79 murders in San Francisco in the first seven months of this year. There were 54 in Oakland from Jan. 1 through Aug. 23.

But suburban and rural communities no longer are the havens from crime that they were long considered. And they are becoming less so. The U.S. Department of Justice reports that crime in suburbs and rural areas increased 29 per cent in the second quarter of this year, compared to a 15 per cent increase in large cities.

Such rapid increases are shocking.

THE EXPLANATION is not easy to find. Undoubtedly, the increase in crime stems at least in part from a general breakdown of moral values, from lack of teaching our young to differentiate between right and wrong.

In California, at least, there may be an additional explanation — one offered by a police officer with whom we discussed the Gilbride killing.

He suggested that two state policies contribute to the rise in crime: Placing the mentally unbalanced in outpatient care of community mental health centers instead of in state mental hospitals, and subsidizing counties for placing felons on probation rather than sending them to prison. These policies turn more criminals and unbalanced potential criminals loose on the community.

These policies deserve reexamination.

To Make A Pound Of Honey

We all know honey is a simple product. Beekeepers take it from the hives and it's sold in most Marin and Sonoma markets.

But did you know it takes 80,000 bees to collect the nectar for one pound of honey? And that the total distance these bees would travel to collect the nectar for this pound equals three trips around the world?

Not so simple, after all.

State Seeks To Protect Buyers Of Condominiums

By EARL G. WATERS

What risks are Californians running when they buy a condominium? Recent stories across the nation indicate that many seeking the carefree living promised by the condominium concept have been rudely awakened from their dreams by unexpected and excessive costs.

The idea of buying an apartment or town house in a complex, which provides for all exterior maintenance and recreational facilities at a minimum assessment cost, has intrigued many into giving up their homes to escape the burden of upkeep of yards and swimming pools.

But many have underestimated maintenance fees that they must pay in addition to their initial purchase costs. In some instances they find they have agreed to lease a $25,000 swimming pool for 50 years at a rate which will bring the developer a cool million dollars from the tenants over the period of the lease.

THE EXCESSIVE maintenance charges and slick lease-back deals for recreational facilities which have been reported are the results of unwarranted developer control over projects.

Despite the intent in the condominium concept that the project will be controlled through an association formed by the resident owners, the developer gains long-term control by leasing the recreational facilities and through "locked-in" management contracts.

Other abuses have been underestimating by the developer of the assessments to be paid by the residents; structural deficiencies and shoddy construction; unfilled promises to provide recreational or other facilities, and misuse of purchaser's payments.

But these are things which mostly have occurred outside of California, according to State Real Estate Commissioner Robert W. Karpe.

CONCEDING THAT California is not trouble-free of condominium problems, Karpe says that regulations of his department protect against most of the major complaints which are plaguing the market across the country.

He said regulations require that buyers of such units receive a common interest in the overall development and that long-term management or service agreements are prohibited.

Estimated assessments for maintenance and other operating costs must be approved by the state before sales can be made. And, by bond or otherwise, a developer must show financial arrangements to assure completion of a development. Also purchasers' funds must be impounded until title is conveyed free of encumbrances.

BUT DESPITE THESE protections, there are still risks. Shoddy construction is one, but that is present in any home purchase. More to the point in connection with condominiums is that the owners are governed by an association. If the majority decides to build tennis courts and you don't play tennis, you are still going to get stuck for the construction and maintenance costs. The majority can also vote to incure other costs which would raise substantially the original estimates of what an owner must pay for maintenance.

And, if the majority decides to ban pets from the project, you can either kiss Fido goodbye or start making plans to move out.

Although the state regulations ban the obvious excesses used by some developers in other states, it is still a wise course to have a good attorney review the entire transaction before you leap.

Another View

"It's not much, Mr. President, and we hope it's only temporary."

"And, of course, we're eager for your contributions in the economic area — like paying off this year's deficit, for instance."

Fire Department Prompt In Emergency

Recently, the San Rafael Fire Department was called to give me aid when I lost consciousness. Their prompt response made us realize that we have a prompt, efficient service in our city for an emergency such as this. They certainly have my thanks and my family's too.

No High Opinion Of Consultant Reports

I am very interested in the board of supervisors' analysis of the Peat Marwick Mitchell consultants' report because in another case I dealt closely with Peat Marwick Mitchell people in the process of their preparation of a report for another government agency. My opinion of their work on that report is much more eloquently stated by the board of supervisors when they question the consultants' expertise. It is unfortunate that there is no way for government agencies who have been "burned" this way to pass the word so that others can beware of hiring the same firm.

In general, and despite popular (and apparently, grand jury) opinion, government employees have considerable ability, and given the time the consultants are allowed, can produce a superior product.

Wall Street Journal, People's World Agree

Is it perchance newsworthy when both a Wall Street Journal editorial writer and the perennial presidential candidate of the Communist Party of the United States see eye to eye about our need for a special national presidential election?

On page one of the Communist Party's People's World (Aug. 10) with New York dateline:

"Communist Party General Secretary Gus Hall called on Aug. 6 for the setting of new elections to replace the sinking Republican administration.

" 'It is now clear,' said Hall in a telephone interview, 'that the 1972 election will go down in history as the greatest electoral fraud of all time. Anything less than calling for new, immediate elections is a cover-up for this fraud.' "

On the editorial page of the Wall Street Journal (Aug. 27) contributing editor Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Albert Schweitzer professor of humanities and winner of Pulitizer prizes in history and biography, wrote:

"If we had followed the original idea of the Constitution, we would not have as president and vice president today two men whose names had never been submitted to the national electorate. Indeed, we would not have a vice president at all. Instead, we would, like the French, have a new presidential election. This would only be an election to fill out a term and would not require the electorate foreplay of the quadrennial orgy. The national committees, which have become increasingly representative bodies under the new party rules, could canvass opinion and make the nominations. Candidates can be established with astonishing speed in the electronic age. Short campaigns, federally financed, would be a blessing infinitely appreciated by the electorate. Perhaps their brevity and their economy might have a salutary impact on the quadrennial campaigns, which in recent years have stretched out to intolerable length and swelled to intolerable expense. . .It is surely time to take a critical look at Section 2 of the 25th Amendment so that the republic will never again have as its top officials persons who received office and power through appointment rather than election."

County Open Space District Opens Way For Abuses

I would like to talk to you about several things tonight, but first the matter of acquiring open space with money from the County-wide Open Space District fund.

There is great danger in what has happened in respect to this $100,000 purchase of property on top of Kent Woodlands. I'm speaking now primarily of the county-wide open space purchases, not of those individual districts that ought to have certain open space remain in their particular district and bond themselves for it. That's their business.

However, cases have come to my attention where people have formed special assessment districts without requiring a vote of the people but by simply going to the board of supervisors to have it OK'd for them and many people did not have the opportunity to speak for or against it, etc., and may not benefit in any way, shape or form with the acquisition which is to be purchased as open space. They probably can't see it and in every aspect it appears to be in constitutional violation. The whole transaction then becomes an assessment on their property and a lien on their property. When it is based on an ad valorem tax, people with $30,000 to $40,000 homes who may not benefit at all by the open space purchase, it is a gross miscarriage of justice. There is no question about that.

GETTING BACK to those areas that are being purchased by the County-wide Open Space District: This sort of thing of paying $100,000 on property the assessor shows worth $55,000 is bad. No matter how you look at it, the public is entitled to a complete and full explanation of why and how that was done. But the point I want to make is it could happen again and again and again because it is done without the decision of the people directly involved. It is done entirely by the five-man board of supervisors, acting as directors of the Open-Space District. There is no check on 'em. I repeat that: There is no check on them and all sorts of things could enter into that are unsavory. I don't say that there have been, but there could be, no matter what board.

It is certainly up to the public in general to change that or they are going to be taxed with no opportunity to know about it or be heard.

When this Open Space District was voted in there was an overall misrepresentation. The picture was never clearly presented. You don't see the people or hear the people who were behind it and pushing it. It seemed more of a game and a contest whether they could put it over, rather than a presentation of real need.

SOME WEEKS ago, I told you that a group of concerned citizens were researching the methods of bringing about an initiative on a county ordinance. Here are a few excerpts of their findings:

. . ."If the initiative petition is signed by 20 per cent or more of the entire vote cast within a county for all candidates for governor at the last gubernatorial election, and contains a request that the ordinance be submitted immediately to a vote of the people at a special election, the board of supervisors must either (1) pass the ordinance without alteration at the regular meeting at which it is presented and within 10 days after it is presented, or (2) immediately call a special election, at which ordinance without alteration is to be submitted to a vote of the voters of the county. . .

"If a petition protesting the adoption of a new ordinance is presented to the board of supervisors prior to the effective date of the ordinance, the ordinance must be suspended, and the supervisors must reconsider the ordinance. The petition must be signed by voters of the county equal in number to at least 10 per cent of the entire vote cast within the county for all candidates for governor at the last gubernatorial election."

Sound Reasons Why Congress And Ford Should Cooperate

WASHINGTON — Most commentators are offering the opinion that President Ford and Congress won't be able to achieve any bipartisan consensus on crucial legislation.

Their view seems to be:

1 — That the political honeymoon will be so short-lived as to be meaningless.

2 — That under the best of circumstances a liberal Democratic Congress and a conservative Republican president cannot work together productively and that any hope to the contrary is just wishful.

The skeptics naturally want to guard against overoptimism. That's fine, but it doesn't mean they are necessarily right in this instance.

WHY SHOULDN'T it work? It worked under Presidents Dwight Eisenhower and Lyndon Johnson because they both tried. It didn't work under President Nixon because he didn't try very much to make it work. Conciliation and compromise can be made to work under President Ford and the congressional Democratic leaders, Sen. Mike Mansfield and Speaker of the House Carl Albert, because there is good reason to believe they want to make it work.

There are a number of solid reasons to expect some useful actions from the climate of good will which prevails today.

Further drift and stalemate are a visible peril to the country.

Congress knows it. The president knows it. The voters know it.

WHICHEVER BRANCH of government — Congress or the president — causes further stalemate at this time will risk the wrath of the American people.

Voters at this point want and expect government to begin to govern again. "Don't wallow in Watergate" was once empty, partisan rhetoric. Today it is the public's plain warning that now is the time to end inertia, put past controversies behind us, and get on with the public business.

I suggest that the fate of incumbent congressmen will be considerably determined by how reasonable co-operative they are with President Ford during the next two and a half months. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

THE SENATE is showing a willingness to compromise with President Ford in ways it was not willing to compromise with former President Nixon. One example is the vitally important foreign trade bill. The Jackson amendment has blocked this measure for months because of controversy over the treatment of Russian Jews. Now that issue is being resolved, and President Ford is being given discretion to determine when the conditions of the Jackson amendment have been met.

The White House and Congress are also much nearer together on a workable national health care bill than at any time during the past year. It is moving toward enactment this year or early next.

The toughest piece of conciliation is still ahead — a coherent, bipartisan anti-inflation program. Even the big spenders in Congress are becoming more economy-minded because they are hearing from the voters back home.

The message is: the war on inflation comes ahead of everything else.

It will be bad politics to stand in the way of major budget-cutting which is the essential first thrust in the anti-inflation battle. It will be good politics to support it.

While National Leaders Row, Doers Attack Food Crisis

WOODS HOLE, Mass. — There are worriers, and then there are doers.

Public officials assembled in Bucharest this month for history's largest official worrying session about world population. They knew before they arrived that they were going to disagree about the long-range perils of the situation, what should be done about them, and who should do it. As they head home they remain in disagreement, only more so.

Delegates from the underdeveloped nations (the "third world") have been joined by Communist representatives in insisting that the United States and other western industrial countries consume too much. U.S. advice urging the third world to cut back its birthrate as we have done is received as racist propaganda. The two sides come together on only one thing: As things are proceeding, there is not going to be enough food to go around.

AT THE RATE world population is still increasing, food supplies in 1980 will have to be one-third greater than in 1965; by 2000 approximately double 1965. Because of their rapidly booming populations, merely to prevent a decline in existing nutrition levels in developing regions will demand more than 40 per cent more production in 1980 than in 1965; and by 2000 almost 120 per cent more than 1965.

The critical demand for more foostufff is driven not only by the growth in population as such. It curves upward even more sharply because of rising affluence, which means rising expectations for better food — specifically more proteins, more meat for nations that historically have existed on low-nutrition diets. The portent of this change is clear in the fact that it takes seven pounds of grain to produce one pound of beef; four of grain for one of pork; three of grain for one of poultry.

Optimistic experts maintain that traditional farming methods can meet these demands if pushed hard enough. But hard enough means plowing up so much of the land that all those extra people will be crowded even closer than otherwise. It means the damming of streams for irrigation to an extent dangerous to the health of whole national populations. It means the use of fertilizer so intensively as to become counterproductive when the runoff from these chemicals kills masses of the fish on which other national populations rely so heavily.

THAT BRINGS US to non-traditional food production, which switches us from the worriers to the doers, and thus we arrive here at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution. It is not the only research agency trying to maximize protein output by recycling what man already uses. Aquaculture, growing crops in water, is a commercial reality in some areas. But Dr. John Ryther is turning one thrust of population — pollution — back against another — the food shortage.

His scheme, growing in scale over four years, is to use treated sewage as a nutrient for an algae farm and the algae as food for shellfish. Its potential is illustrated by Japanese success at growing oysters artificially from rafts in the Inland Sea. A single raft produces about four tons of oyster meat a year, which is the highest rate of output of animal protein per unit anywhere on earth.

Beyond the experimental level Dr. Ryther's project would grow into a combined sewage treatment-aquaculture complex, concentrating two necessary functions of the coastal zone into one area and leaving nearby waters free for other uses. By his figures a community of 11,000 people would produce sewage nutrition for a 50-acre algae farm which in turn would feed a one-acre shellfish facility for an annual crop of a million pounds of protein-rich meat. The extension of these figures to larger cities and regions involves vast amounts of critically needed food, especially for countries with already high populations and long coastlines, and that includes some of the hungriest.

The direct line between what Dr. Ryther is doing at the Environmental Systems Laboratory and what the gentlemen from Ulan Bator and Foggy Bottom have been debating at Bucharest is clear to any fourth grader. But neither Dr. Ryther nor I suggest that his project is the single answer to the problem of world hunger. It is, however, one of many examples of innovative action which had better replace the purely nationalistic worrying at Bucharest if man is to prevent his own fertility from making him extinct.

Size Of Mill Valley Reserve Fund Raises Some Eyebrows

Before getting nervous over the fact that bids for building the new Mill Valley public safety complex were higher than expected, residents should note that by the end of fiscal 1975 the city will have reserves of about $1.5 million.

In this civic savings account, more than $800,000 will be in the general fund and could be used for almost anything the city council wants.

City Mgr. Ronald L. Usher noted that the reserves "are extremely healthy related to the total city budget" of $3 million.

Usher, who came to the city last January, said that most of the responsibility for the reserves' size belongs to his predecessor, William Cunningham, who apparently was skillful at salting away funds for the city.

Even some councilmen expressed surprise to find out how big the reserve was when Usher prepared the budget this spring.

IN VIEW of the size of the reserve, one might ask, why should the city worry about the extra $300,000 needed for the public safety building? Why can't the money come out of general fund reserves — still leaving $500,000 for emergencies?

At a meeting last week, the council noted that it probably will have to do just that. But the council also seems intent on putting the money used back in the reserve fund by making the tax rate a little higher than is needed for the rest of the budget. A tax rate of $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation was set — five cents higher than originally was estimated as needed.

The idea is, the council said at the time, to replace what's taken out of the reserve fund for the public safety building in small amounts over the next several years. The extra nickel will bring the city an added $31,000 this year.

GRANTED A CITY always needs reserves handy for emergencies. But why is $800,000 to $1 million in a general fund needed for in a city the size of Mill Valley? Has the council got some other space purchases in mind, for example?

Before voters approve any more bond issues in Mill Valley, they might insist on finding out how much the city actually needs in reserves. Can't special purchases sometimes be funded out of a city's nest egg instead of our of additional taxation?

Seoul's New Subway Eases Traffic Jams

SEOUL (UPI) — The tracks run less than six miles, but the new Seoul subway eased some traffic jams for the city's six million residents.

The South Korean capital opened the first portion of the subway network Aug. 15. The 5.9 miles of track connect the central railroad station with Chongryangri in the city's eastern suburbs.

The subway tracks are hooked up with electric train routes, enabling passengers to travel to Inchon, 21 miles west of Seoul, and Suwon, 25 miles to the south, without changing cars.

Subway construction began with a ground breaking ceremony on April 12, 1971. More than $80 million including $23.4 million in foreign loans have been spent on the project.

City authorities hope to expand the initial line into a network of at least three routes although detailed plans — including financing — have not yet been worked out.

Kim Myung-nyon, the 42-year-old director of subway construction, predicts traffic problems in Seoul will ease to a considerable extent.

"Shuttling 120 times a day between the terminals, the subway is expected to take care of some 560,000 persons daily, about 23 per cent of Seoul's traffic volume," he says.

The subways start running at 4:30 a.m. and stop at 11:30 p.m. During morning and afternoon rush hours, trains run at five-minute intervals. During the rest of the day they operate every 7.5 minutes.

Kim is proud that the subway system was planned and completed by an all-Korean technical staff without participation of foreign engineers.

"We were at a loss when we had the plan before us for the first time," he said. "Where there was a will there was a way. We threw in all our passion. We inspected subway systems in other countries and now feel that we are experts."

Each subway train has six cars with a total capacity of 2,000 passengers and runs at top speeds of 43.5 miles per hour.

The fare ranges from $0.07 to $0.20 in Seoul proper, but travelers on connecting electric train routes pay according to the distance.

Malfunction Cuts Short Plane Flight

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — The experimental X24B, a delta-shaped aircraft, made its 15th flight yesterday but an engine malfunction kept it from its planned maximum speed of 1,100 miles an hour.

With the regular pilot, John A. Manke, at the controls, the rocket-powered aircraft was launched from a B52 bomber at an elevation of 45,000 near Lancaster. With all four chambers of the rocket engine ignited, Manke took the X24B to a peak altitude of 73,500 feet and a speed of 760 m.p.h., or mach 1.15, before a malfunction shut the engine down prematurely.

Manke maneuvered the X24B to a glide landing on a dry lake bed at the Flight Research Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The flight lasted seven minutes and 48 seconds.

The X24B is the latest in a series of small rocket-powered experimental aircraft that is being flown to demonstrate man's ability to maneuver and safely land vehicles with shapes that have been designed solely for re-entry from space flights. It is a possible forerunner of future manned aircraft that would be able to cruise at hypersonic speeds.

Solar Energy To Heat Big Pool

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — County supervisors have authorized the experimental use of solar energy to heat the 180,000-gallon Salazar swimming pool in East Los Angeles.

Supervisor James Hayes, the county's energy chairman, said the plan was an extension of a test which involved the use of solar energy at a small pool at the county mechanical headquarters.

The test involved solar energy panels which are placed on the rooftop of the building, and the heat absorbed in them used to warm a small test pool.

Hayes voiced hope that all of the county's 35 pools could be heated by the sun some day, and eventually an entire building powered by solar energy.

Joyride Tests Tester's Nerves

SHELTON, Wash. (UPI) — State Motor Vehicle Licensing Examiner John Perry gave Homer Painter, 82, a driving test. It turned out to be a test of Perry's nerves.

Police said Painter narrowly missed a parked car at the start of the test. Then, officers said, the candidate ran over a sidewalk divider and hit another parked auto.

Perry suffered a couple of bruises. Painter came out without a scratch.

The state Department of Motor Vehicles declined to say whether Painter flunked the test.

Annual Yearbook Party Is Thursday

Novato High School will have its annual yearbook party in front of the school administration building at 7 p.m. Thursday followed by a "farewell dance" at 8 p.m. in the girls gymnasium.

The "Madness" group will play for dancing and admission will be $1 per person.

Land Board Approves Drill Lease

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Lands Commission agreed today to authorize a lease for natural gas drilling on some 3,000 acres on West Sherman Island in the Sacramento River.

The exact terms of the lease were not announced.

A staff recommendation said the lease would not "interfere with the developed riverbank or shoreline, residential or recreational areas." The land is near Rio Vista.

In other action, the commission delayed consideration of an application for a right-of-way for a replacement for the Dumbarton Bridge, connecting San Mateo and Alameda counties. The commission must give permission for the use of some 70 submerged acres for the proposed replacement span.

A three-year permit was granted to Gibson-Pierson Ship Salvors, Inc. to recover the cargo and hull of a sunken 400-year-old Spanish sailing ship near San Miguel Island in Santa Barbara County.

Nixon Asks $240,000 For Office

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon has asked for $244,000 to set up his office in San Clemente, Calif. and the government has okayed the request subject to a congressional appropriation, the White House said yesterday.

The $244,000 request was part of an $850,000 fund which President Ford asked Congress to appropriate for "presidential transition expenses and allowances for former Presidents."

The General Services Administration, which serves as the government's housekeeping agency, negotiated the $244,000 with Nixon and submitted it to Ford, White House press aide John Carlson said.

He said the figure was "roughly the same" as the amount provided former President Lyndon B. Johnson to set up an office in Texas after his term expired.

Johnson's is the only president since the law which authorized such expenditures not enacted until 1963.

Ford requested $450,000 to be available from Aug. 9, when Nixon left office, until the current fiscal year ends next June 30, for transition expenses.

Another $400,000 would be allocated under separate legislation to cover Nixon's pension, his office staff, travel and furnishings for his office, Carlson said.

He said that $400,000 breaks down this way: $96,000 to pay his staff, $60,000 for Nixon's pension, $40,000 for travel, $5,000 for office supplies, $65,000 for furnishings, $21,000 for communications, $10,000 for printing and $100,000 for miscellaneous expenses.

Carlson said Nixon would be within the law if he used some of $96,000 for staff to pay his lawyers but he may not pay additional legal fees out of the $100,000 miscellaneous fund.

As a practical matter, he said, there would not be much in the $96,000 for paying lawyers since his personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, receives $50,000 and he employs three secretaries to help with the mail.

The GSA must approve expenditures from the $100,000 miscellaneous account as provided by law, Carlson said.

Carlson said Nixon is entitled to the pension and the staff allowance under law but Congress could refuse to appropriate the additional $244,000 which the GSA proposed if it chose to do so.
